"WHEN DO WE EAT?" ASKS SLAYER OF GIRL HE KILLED TO WED ANOTHER

Second Girl Believed To Be Instigator of Murder Pact — Drove Car While Emil Zupke Choked Cora May Raber to Death.

PLANNED TO MARRY AFTER THE CRIME

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press). — Florence McKinney, pretty 19-year-old sweetheart of Emil Zupke, was charged yesterday by Sheriff George Bridgeman with being the instigator of a secret pact that resulted in the murder of Cora May Raber.

Bit by bit, according to the sheriff, the laughing country girl has admitted she knew her rival for Zupke's affections was "to be done away with."

"I knew it all the time," she is quoted as saying. "I knew when I went riding with Cora and Emil that she never would return alive."

Zupke and the girl were arrested Tuesday night after he had admitted that he had choked Miss Raber to death, and his sweetheart had voluntarily surrendered and confessed that she accompanied him. Zupke related how he choked Miss Raber, who was soon to have become a mother, after she had refused to release him from a promise to marry her so that he could wed Miss McKinney.

Face Murder Charges.

Zupke and his sweetheart face first degree murder charges. The girl, bob-haired and composed, talks freely, interrupting her story with demands for cigarettes. Zupke, a farmer youth of twenty-five years, who was turned off his father's farm because of his "wild ways," is composed. Dressed in overalls, he spends much of his time brushing back his oiled locks. Shown the shoes that the murdered woman purchased, intending to wear them to her wedding with Zupke, the night he killed her, he declared:

"They don't mean anything to me. When do we eat?"

Cora Raber was slain the night of August 6. Zupke had lured her into his machine on a promise of taking her to St. Joseph to marry her. Instead, he drove to the McKinney home in Royalton Township. There Florence took the wheel, Zupke sitting between the two girls.

Planned to Wed.

In her confession Florence told how she helped Zupke dispose of the body and stayed with him till an early hour the following morning.

After the girl had been locked in a cell, it was learned that she and Zupke had planned to wed last Sunday, the day Cora's body was found.

Florence confessed to Sheriff John Bridgeman almost immediately upon hearing that Zupke had admitted the crime.

Asked why she had kept silent so long, the girl declared that since the night of the crime she had come to feel a fear of Zupke and was afraid that he might kill her if she revealed her part in the slaying of her rival.

"I saw Emil move his hand toward Cora," she said, "and heard her gulp."

"What are you doing?" I asked.

"Never mind, Honey, I am not going to hurt her," he replied.

"We drove down the road about a mile. During that time I think he had her by the throat. I nudged him and asked, 'What are you doing with that woman?' He replied, 'I will not hurt her.'

"When we came to the railroad crossing he told me to stop there. I got out of the car first. Then he got out."

"I said, 'You have killed her.' He said, 'I could not help it, Honey, I had to.'"

Florence said Zupke placed the body in the woods and the two returned to the McKinney home, where they arranged alibis in case of their arrest.

Zupke Breaks Down.

Zupke is a factory hand. He was more shaken by the ordeal of confession than his sweetheart, Florence. Over and over he sobbed to Sheriff Bridgeman that he had never meant to kill Cora.

It was to hush her frantic assertions, "You must do something," that he pressed his forearm against Cora's windpipe, he told Bridgeman. Before he realized it, he asserted, she had ceased to breathe.

TWO EFFECT RESCUE

One Youth Goes to Aid of Other Swimming With Boy.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Ernest Shaw, son of Henry Shaw, and Edward O'Neill, son of Mrs. G. W. O'Neill, jumped into the harbor at Reeds Point Thursday morning and rescued Edwin Titus, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Titus, who had fallen overboard, while fishing from a trestle near the eastern steamship wharf.

While the youngster was sinking and in danger of being carried under the trestle by the strong current, Shaw, fully clothed, jumped into the water and secured hold of the lad. He started for the landing, some ten or twelve yards away, and was having difficulty with the boy, when O'Neill, seeing their danger, sprang into the water and helped both to safety.

TEACHERS DECIDE PER CAPITA FEES

Assessment and Economies Discussed at Thursday's Session.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 15. — Canadian Press. — Questions of per capita assessment, the problem of effecting economies by changing the annual meeting of the federation to a biennial session, and the nature of the representation of affiliated alliances and federation of teachers in the seven provinces which have recognized the authority of the central body, were subjects engaging the attention of the Canadian Teachers' Federation at the second day's session here.

A policy committee has recommended the fixing of a definite year for the collection of per capita allowances. It appears from the discussion that the affiliated bodies have a wide range of dates and after canvassing the whole situation the meeting resolved that the standard year should be July 1 to June 30.

Biennial Favored.

Lieut.-Col. Mitchell of Toronto, and Dean Sinclair Laird of Montreal, wanted the federation to go into committee for the purpose of discussing the views of the constituent bodies, declaring that the subscribing teachers demanded economy and favored a biennial instead of an annual meeting.

The session rejected the motion for a committee, but adopted a recommendation that the fees should be 50c per capita from the affiliated bodies to the first 1500 members and 25c for the next one thousand members, but in case the membership of a subscribing association exceeded 2500 the maximum subscription should be one thousand dollars.

Basis of Representation.

Then arose the question of amending the basis of representation which is by provinces, so that the Ontario provincial associations, three of which are affiliated, would not control the administration by their excess of representation.

Harry Charlesworth, general secretary, pointed out that the constitution prevented a sudden change, such as that of the policy of biennial conventions.

The gathering then discussed until luncheon adjournment a number of points raised in the discussion, and those undecided will be taken up at a subsequent meeting of the convention.

REDS KEEP HENDRICKS.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—The directors of the Cincinnati National League baseball club yesterday appointed Jack Hendricks, manager of the local team for 1925, under a one-year contract.

Hendricks succeeded Pat Moran upon the death of the former Red leader at the training camp last March. Despite the position of the team in the league standing, the owners felt that Hendricks' work entitled him to another year as a leader.

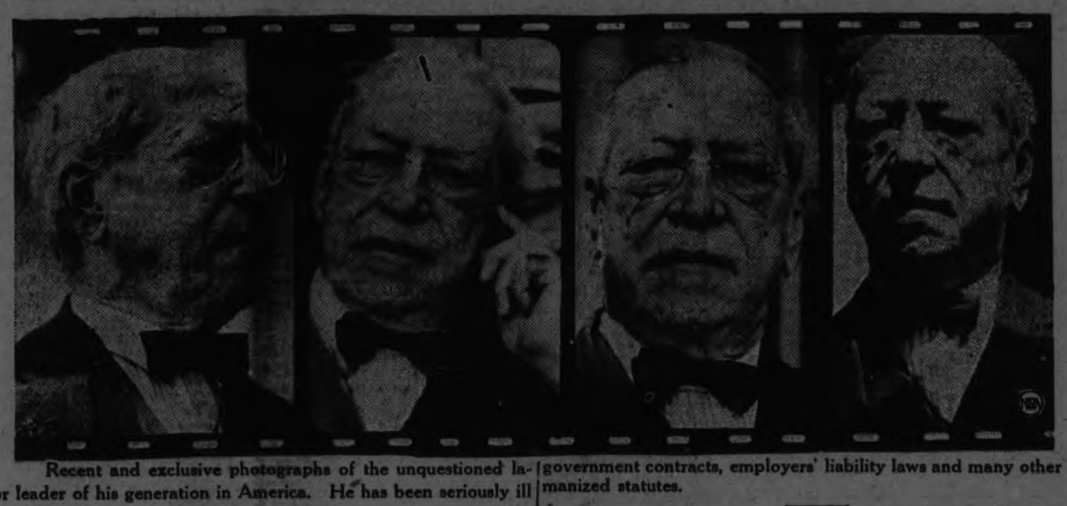
TRUCK WAS SEIZED.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug 15.—Sam. Salvatore, of Hamilton, driver of the beer-laden truck seized by police here, pleaded guilty to having liquor for sale and was fined $500 and costs and truck seized.

JEFFERSON'S WIDOW DEAD.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Sarah Antoinette Jefferson, widow of Joseph Jefferson, actor, died here Wednesday night at the home of her son. She was 74 years old.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN FEDER ATION OF LABOR



Recent and exclusive photographs of the unquestioned labor leader of his generation in America. He has been seriously ill for weeks but is now recovering.

Born in England 74 years ago, Mr. Gompers reached the United States when 13 years old, and these pictures were taken at his hotel, Coney Island, New York, on the 61st anniversary of his arrival from London.

Samuel Gompers was apprenticed to the trade of cigar making in his youth. In 1864, when only 14, he became the first registered member of the Cigar Makers' International Union of which he was secretary and president. It has become one of the most successful of American trades unions.

He was elected vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, which he helped organize in 1881, and from 1882 with the sole exception of the year 1894, when he was defeated by John McBride, he has been its president.

Under his direction the A.F. of L. grew and flourished. Its influence in politics has been mainly indirect, but has been felt strongly in such matters as the extension of the eight-hour day on government contracts, employers' liability laws and many other humanized statutes.

In 1908 Gompers sought, without much success though, to throw the strength of the Federation to the Democratic party on the ground that the Republican candidate was unfriendly to labor.

He consistently opposed socialistic tendencies in the labor movement. He was active in promoting industrial conciliation.

Gompers has been a ceaseless battler for organized labor and fought all movements to destroy its effectiveness.

Mr. Gompers presided last week over the sessions of the executive Council of the Labor Federation at which it was decided to launch a drive for the promotion of union made goods, this effort to be designated as "Union Label Month".

The Labor President a few days ago announced his personal indorsement of La Follette and Wheeler, the so-called Progressive candidates in the United States presidential elections, and his statement was supplemented by the affirmative action of the Federation's executive council, perhaps meaning the loss of three or four million votes to the Democratic candidate.

FEAR OF FROST TO WHEAT CROP AS MOON WAXES

Drop in Temperature Has Stirred Up Feelings of Alarm on the Prairies.

RIPENING DELAYED

Rust Damage Isolated to Few Places—First Rye at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Predictions of cooler weather last night and to-day throughout the West have renewed fears of frost, but temperatures Wednesday night were well above the danger mark and there is a considerable margin of safety. Farmers who are versed in weather lore from long experience claim that if last night, the date of the full moon, was passed in safety, the probabilities were that danger of frost damage to the ripening crops would be slight.

The fine, cool weather of recent days has retarded development of rust in Southern Manitoba, but at the same time it has held back the ripening processes of the grain crops. It is claimed that there has been actual damage from rust only in isolated fields, and it is expected now that rust damage will not be general in any way. A situation which threatened to be serious was relieved by favorable weather.

Odd fields of wheat are being cut at points in the southern districts of the three provinces, but it will be a couple of weeks at least before cutting is general. The first of the season's grain to be received here came in yesterday; three carloads of rye from south-eastern Manitoba. Rye harvesting is general in the Brandon district, and many farmers will start work on barley next week. In the district of Tilney, in Southern Saskatchewan, wheat is being cut and harvesting will be fairly general in a week. Southern Alberta reports considerable cutting.

Recent rains have caused great improvement in the hay crop everywhere, and in pasture.

NOTHING TO FEAR.

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—A harvest moon is set in the heavens to illuminate the labors of the harvest field not to act as a weather prophet, meteorologists say. The Western farmers who have been predicting that if a full moon passes without frost there will be none until the crop is harvested, are deluding themselves, state weather sharps, who do their prophesing by rule and reason and not by guessing.

The moon has absolutely nothing to do with weather conditions, according to Sir Frederic Stupart, of the Meteorological Office, when approached last evening for an opinion on the popular theory that if there is no frost before the full moon passes there will be none until the crop is harvested.

"We do not consider that the moon has anything to do with it," he stated. "It is just an old wives' tale."

MARITIMES FAVORED

Appeal to Scottish Visitors as Home for Emigrants.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—"The Maritime Provinces are full of possibilities for the settlers and should appeal to a large number of the Scottish people who wish to emigrate to the Dominion," declared Col. Edward W. Watt, of Aberdeen, Scotland, who in company with James Reid, of the Dumfries and Galloway Standard, has been making an inspection of the Maritime Provinces with a view to advising prospective settlers as to the best places in which to settle.

Those possibilities were not advertised properly, however, he added, and the people of Scotland seldom hear the Maritime Provinces mentioned. This was in marked contrast with the other parts of the Dominion, which were constantly telling of their advantages to prospective settlers.

N. Y. STATE CANDIDATE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—William Hayward, United States district attorney, yesterday formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor of New York.

WITH THE FLYERS.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, August 15. (United Press.) — The American round-the-world flyers were unable to take off early to-day for Greenland owing to th heavy rain falling here. The flyers will attempt to take off to-morrow morning, provided the weather has cleared up.

LABOR'S ENDORSEMENT

Conveyed to Lafollette and Wheeler, Independent Protagonists.

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Officially notifying Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin of the endorsement given his presidential candidacy and that of his running mate, Senator Wheeler of Montana, by the American Federation of Labor's Executive council, a committee, headed by Mr. Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation, declared yesterday that "every honorable effort" would be exerted to bring about the election of the independent candidates.

"We are instructed to say to you for President Gompers," Mr. Morrison told Senator LaFollette, "that we are for you and for Senator Wheeler, that we are for you without restriction, and that so far as the 1924 presidential tickets and platforms of the two old parties are concerned, we have burned our bridges. The fight is on."

MAURETANIA'S RECORD

Clipped Six Hours Off Cherbourg-New York Passage.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—All records for the Cherbourg-New York passage were shattered with the Mauretania's arrival at Quarantine late on Thursday afternoon. Her time for crossing was 5 days 3 hours and 20 minutes. Her best day's run was 642 miles and her average speed was 25.60 knots per hour.

The best previous time, made by the same steamship in August, 1922 was 5 days, 9 hours and 20 minutes.

WINNIPEG BAR RAIDS

Enforcement of New Law Decreases Number of Drunks.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The purchase of beer in the public bars of Winnipeg has become a risky and expensive experiment for many thirsty souls, since the local authorities launched upon a relentless campaign against offenders under the Manitoba Temperance Act.

Since the more rigid enforcement of the law, patrons of public bars have been taken into custody and upon conviction suffered fines ranging from $50 to $200. This stiff penalty, according to law enforcement officers, has had its effect. Recent raids have found the bars virtually deserted, and the number of drunks since the "campaign" has greatly decreased.

FAIR AT THREE RIVERS

Federal and Provincial Ministers at Opening Banquet.

THREE RIVERS, Aug. 15—(Canadian Press).—Word was received here Thursday that Hon. J. E. Caron, Provincial Minister of Agriculture; Hon. Jacques Bureau, Federal Minister of Customs; Hon. P. J. Cardin, Federal Minister of Marine, and Hon. A. Galipeault, Provincial Minister of Public Works, will be present at the banquet here next Wednesday that will mark the official opening of the Three Rivers Exhibition. Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, declined an invitation as he is going West, but his place will be taken by Hon. Dr. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

FRANKS FAMILY TO MOVE.

Parents of Slain Boy Have Been Annoyed by the Curious.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15—Mr. and Mrs Jaccob Franks, it was learned today intend moving in a few days from the house that was the home of the murdered Bobby to some place where they can get away from amateur photographers and tourists on sight-seeing busses.

Mrs. Franks has endureed having her home pointed out by bus conductors and snapped by kodaks, it was said, as long as she can, and Mr. Franks has arranged to take her away from reminders of their tragedy.

MANITOBA TAX CLAIM ON C.N.R.

Government Demands Early Settlement—May Transfer Lines to Crown.

C. P. R. FYLE EARNINGS

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—The Government of Manitoba is seeking an "early and definite settlement" with the Canadian National Railways of its claims for returns on which would be based the taxation of the railway lines within the province, and has instructed H. J. Symington K.C. "to take all steps that may be necessary to see that railroads live up to their responsibility as outlined in the statutes of Manitoba."

A statement issued Thursday by Hon. F. M. Black, Provmzial Treasurer declares that the Canadian Pacific Railway, while compounding its tax liabilities for some years past at $225,000 per annum, without prejudice to possible further liability, has filed statements of its gross earnings within the province. For some years says Mr. Black, the Canadian Northern railway has paid about $85,000 a year and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway about $6,000. The province has asked for statements of gross earnings, but officials of the Canadian National, operating both lines had "steadily evaded the responsibility of furnishing the returns." The provincial government said Mr. Black had "lost patience with the failure to comply with the law."

The provincial treasurer states that Gerald Ruel, chief counsel for the Canadian National, informed Mr. Symington that if the province took action as provided by the statutes "the Canadian National Railways will take steps to transfer all the lines of the railways to the Crown." Mr. Ruel's alternative proposition said Mr. Black, was "to hint at a consultation on taxation between the Provincial Treasurer and representatives of the Dominion Government, something which has no bearing on liabilities for the past two years."

SCIENTISTS GOING WEST.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press)—Four hundred members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, their sessions in Toronto concluded, will arrive in Winnipeg on the evening of August 20, and will be entertained here the following day. The party will go west as far as Jasper Park.

COUNT STOLE LIQUOR?

Russian Exile at Regina Held for Highway Robbery.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 15.— Count Victor De Kaft, who came to Saskatchewan after the Russian revolution and for a time out a social figure, has been committeed for trial at Kamsack on a charge of highway robbery. It is alleged that in company with another man he held up two men who were running a cargo of liquor from Manitoba and to have relieved them of car and cargo. At the preliminary hearing, S. S. L. Hirsch one of the owners of the car, claimed to have recognized the Count as one of the robbers.

MATTHEWS DEPORTED

Official Order By Washington—Returns to Canada at Once.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The Department of Labor officially announced yesterday afternoon that Charles A. Matthews had been ordered deported. The grounds for the order of deportation are illegal entry and that he is likely to become a public charge. Instructions were wired yesterday afternoon to the immigration commissioner at San Francisco to deport him immediately and send him to Canada.

SASKATCHEWAN WHEAT

Crop Will Not Average More Than 12 Bushels an Acre.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—Canadian Press).—The wheat crop of Saskatchewan will average not less than nine bushels to the acre and not more than twelve bushels, in the opinion of Hon. George Langley, who was interviewed here Thursday. Many thousands of acres of crop had been damaged by drought beyond possibility of recovery, he said, but where damage was only partial, recent rains had effected a considerable improvement in prospects. The crop as a whole however would be about half of last year's yield.

INJURIES FATAL.

OTTAWA, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press). — Ernest Lepine, 34, local hotel proprietor, died Thursday of injuries received when he was thrown from a buggy last Tuesday.

DUTCH WRITERS TO VISIT WEST

Touring Canada to Study Opportunities for Settlers From Holland.

GUESTS OF THE C. P. R.

MONTREAL, Aug. 15.—At the invitation of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, four prominent Dutch journalists and a representative of the Netherlands emigration league, arrived here today on the C.P.S. Montroyal to make a tour of western Canada, to investigate conditions and make particular study of opportunities for Dutch settlers.

The party consists of M. G. Van Brusse of the Niewe Rotterdamche Courant; Baron Van Lamsweerde, representing the Catholic organ, the "Tye"; F. Cnossen, of the leading conservative paper; H. J. Brusse, Provincial Press; and L. J. F. Van Riemsdyk, of the Netherlands emigration league.

It is expected that a month will be spent on the tour, the visitors stopping at Niagara Falls to view the power plants there; at Toronto and at Fort William, and Port Arthur, where they will inspect elevators and terminals. From there they will proceed to Nipigon River camp. At Winnipeg they will meet Winnipeg newspapermen and visit the grain exchange, the experimental farm and the government buildings. The University of Saskatchewan and the Experimental Farm will be visited by the journalists when they motor through the Saskatoon district, and after reaching Edmonton they will inspect the facilities offered by the University of Alberta and see the experimental farms at Olds and Lacombe. They will travel through the Okanagan Valley by the Kettle Valley route.

PETRIFIED LOBSTER.

TABER, Alta., Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—A petrified lobster of perfect shape was unearthed two days ago by the Bay Coal Company mine here by a local miner. In removing it one claw was broken. Some years back, it is recalled, bones of an ancient mammoth were found in the present Majestic mine.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

LOSE WEIGHT.

Breakfast—One cup berries, 1 dish ready cooked cereal with ½ cup whole milk, hot water.

Luncheon—One open cottage cheese sandwich, 1 glass iced tea, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Dinner—Two broiled lamb chops, 2 tablespoons new peas, 1 cup fruit salad, 1 thin slice gluten bread.

Bedtime—One cup skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1074. Protein, 198; fat, 288; carbohydrate, 588. Iron, .0163 gram.

One cup of berries averages about the same total calories. Red raspberries have no fat content and are higher in carbohydrate calories than blackberries, black raspberries, blueberries and strawberries.

One-half cup of whole milk uses as many calories as one whole cup of skimmed milk. The whole milk, of course, is rich in fat and comparatively low in proteins since the allowance is cut in half. The iron grams are diminished proportionally.

Open Cottage Cheese Sandwich.

Two thin slices whole wheat bread, 4 tablespoons cottage cheese, 2 tablespoons minced celery, 4 tablespoons chopped new carrots, 3 tablespoons chopped nuts, salt and pepper, paprika.

The cottage cheese should be quite dry. Season well with salt and pepper Mix lightly and spread on bread. Sprinkle with paprika and serve as an open sandwich.

Total calories, 379. Protein, 112; fat, 81; carbohydrate, 186. Iron,

GAIN WEIGHT.

Breakfast—One cup berries, 1 dish ready cooked cereal with ½ cup cream, 1 soft boiled egg, 2 pieces buttered toast, hot water.

Mid-morning lunch—One cup whole milk.

Luncheon—Two gaining sandwiches, 1 glass iced tea, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup fresh strawberry ice cream.

Afternoon tea—One glass iced chocolate, 2 brown bread tea sandwiches.

Dinner—One cup cream of tomato soup, 2 broiled lamb chops, 3 new potatoes in cream sauce, 4 tablespoons buttered peas, 1 cup fruit salad with 3 tablespoons whipped cream dressing, 2 cheese cups, 1 Parker House roll, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup mint ice.

Bedtime—One cup whole milk.

Total calories, 3893. Protein, 311; fat, 1686; carbohydrate, 1896. Iron, .0199 gram.

You may find that your appetite will be keener if you restrict the use of sugar during the hot weather. Too much sweet is cloying, and makes it impossible for you to feel any desire to eat. Above all, do not eat candy between meals. Eat your many meals regularly.

And if you find yourself at 10 in the morning dreading the thought of drinking your milk have a large glass of orange juice with a plain bread and butter sandwich. This will stimulate your appetite for luncheon as well as give you calories and vitamins.

Your gaining sandwich should be made of buttered bread with cream cheese dates and nuts all moistened with cream as a filling.

Second helpings will, of course, add calories if they are necessary for your day's "ration."

PRAY FOR JUSTICE.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd Interested In Leopold-Loeb Murder Case.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—(United Press).—The Sisters of the Good Shepherd, the Provincial Mother of which is a sister of Chief Justice John R. Caverly, of the Chicago Criminal Court, is praying in eleven cities that his decision in the Leopold-Loeb murder hearing will be a just one. The nuns in Chicago, St. Louis, Normandy, Kansas City, New Orlean, Memphis, Havana, Milwaukee, Sioux City, Los Angeles and Houston, sympathizing with the brother of "Sister Mary," are giving their prayers voluntarily to help him carry the tremendous responsibility of the fate of the young slayers. The purpose of the Good Shepherd Order is to "seek and save that which is lost," with particular reference to the "Magdalenes," those who wear the white wool habit of that order must for entrance, prove that for four generations on the mother's side, character has been above reproach.

THE GUMPS—THOMAS EDISON GUMP

STIRLING AND THE DISTRICT

Two Cars Collided On The Street. Death Of James Hawkins.

STIRLING, Aug. 15.—Those from Stirling Encampment who attended the sessions of the Grand Encampment I.O.O.F. in Belleville on Tuesday were P. C. Patriarchs W. Donald and E. S. Bennett as representatives and Past D. D. G. Patriarchs W. T. Sine and Mason Clarke, D. D.G. Patriarch J. B. Thompson and P. C. Patriarch M. W. Sine.

The Grand Encampment is to meet at the same time and place as the Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. meets which is not yet disclosed.

Held a Picnic

St. Andrew's Church Sunday School held their annual picnic Wednesday afternoon at Oak Lake but owing to the uncertain condition of the weather the attendance was not as great as in other years.

The cheese box factory is very busy running night and day to keep up with the orders that are coming in. A carload of material was shipped to Charlottetown, P.E., Island.

Cars Collided

Two cars collided at the corner near Buskitt's garage to-day and both cars were damaged slightly.

Resident Dead

Mr. Jas. Hawkins, a well known resident passed away at his residence Edward street on Tuesday morning after an illness of many years, which assumed a more acute form about ten days ago, and his death was not entirely unexpected. He was born in Huntingdon township and resided at West Huntingdon for 46 years where he was a successful farmer. About 11 years ago he moved to Stirling. He leaves a widow, four daughters and one son to mourn.

The funeral service was held at the family home Thursday morning conducted by Rev. Mr. McRoberts of Campbellford. Interment was made at West Huntingdon.

Miss A. V. Sinclair of Madoc accompanied by her cousin, Mrs. J. Hendry of Perth, visited her sister Mrs. M. W. Sine, recently.

Mr. Jas. O'Donnell of Toronto, visited his brother John O'Donnell last week.

Mrs. Weeks of Frankford is a visitor at the home of Mrs. Richard Clements, William street.

Miss Marshall returned home on Sunday after spending a few days with friends in Belleville.

Mr. Frank Linn, accountant of the Union Bank, Barrie ,is spending his holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Linn.

Miss Chrissie Simpson visited friends in Hrenton.

Grace and Muriel McKee are visiting an aunt near Roseneath.

Mrs. Donnan, Sr., is spending some time with friends in Oshawa and Whitby.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Montgomery, accompanied by Miss E. Donnan, motored to Brechin to spend a few days with Mrs. Frank MacDonnell at her summer home on Lake Simcoe.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Morton have gone to North Bay for a brief vacation.

The many friends of Mrs. James Lagrow will be glad to know that she is recovering from a severe attack of ivy poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. Dobson, former residents of Stirling, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bailey.

Col. A. E. Bywater, of Trenton, is retiring from the command of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and Major Darius Green, of Stirling, will be promoted to the position as head of the regiment.

The Stirling Company of this regiment returned recently from their annual camp at Picton, well bronzed after their ten days' outing.

Several of the friends of the boys visited them while there.

Mr. Sherwood Green, an old Rawdon boy now of New York, is renewing old friendships, making his headquarters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Sine or Sine.

Mr. Tanner, local constable, has his eye on the "dummy" at the drug store corner, and if you don't keep to the right, you may have to face the cash and pay a fine, which three parties had to do recently.

A SOCIETY THRILL.

Peggy Belmont Will Cater To Exclusive Clientele.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Newport and Long Island society was thrilled to learn that "Peggy" Belmont, wife of August Belmont's youngest son is to enter trade".

Of course Mrs. Belmont is not actually going to stand behind counter and sell ribbons or dress goods, but she has job in Fifth Avenue store.

It is understood that her services will be confined largely to selling women's apparel to her friends. She expects to have a very exclusive clientele.

SAYS ENGLAND IS IN DECLINE

Statement Made by Professor William McDougall At Toronto Meeting

BIRTH CONTROL.

noA. — —linellie 28 28 28 28111

TORONTO, August 15. — Whether or not there is deterioration among the people of the British Isles appears to be open to controversy, even in the realms of science, as was demonstrated here last night, when members of the British Scientiic Association addressed the British Eugenics Education Society, and presented opposing view points. The speaker who believed there was a threatening deterioration was Prof. William McDougall, Professor of Phychology, of Harvard University, and a contrary viewpoint was expressed by Sir William Beveridge, director of the London School of Economics and Political Science.

The former was so positive in his view point, that he declared two or three hundred years from now when some person made up a list of nations of the world which had gone into decline through a lack of attention to eugenics, the name of England would have to be added.

The whole trend of Prof. McDougall's address was to draw the attention of the nation to the importance of the application of the principles of eugenics.

Other nations which had gone down had failed to heed the principle that lower classes of citizens should not be permitted to reproduce more rapidly than the people of higher types, and now England (as he saw it) appeared to be the next in line.

In pointing out how Canada could forestall the possibility of decline, the speaker declared that it would do well to copy the example of the United States with regard to selective immigration.

Sir William Beveridge, unlike earlier speakers, claimed that there was no justification for the "exaggerated pessimism of home eugenic propagandists in Great Britain."

"If we want to check the present tendency in Britain, it seems likely that we shall in the near future have on one hand to reconsider official attitude toward birth control, and on the other hand to supplement the wage system by a scheme of family allowance," concluded Sir William.

FUNERAL VICTIMS.

Final Chapter In Tragedy That Resulted In Death of Two Children.

LINDSAY, Aug. 15.—The last act in the sad tragedy which opened in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fanning, South Ops, on Tuesday morning last, when little Lois and Bernice, aged six and seven years, were murdered by their mother, was staged at Riverside Cemetery yesterday afternoon, when their little forms were laid to rest.

Funeral services were held at the home of a relative of the Fanning family, where the remains of their only children lay in white caskets, which were banked with floral bloom sent by sorrowing relatives and friends. The expression on the faces of the two little ones was one of repose. There was no visible evidence that they had been the victims of a tragedy, the details of which has cast a gloom over the whole country.

Early in the afternoon friends had gathered from all points to be present at the funeral services conducted by Rev. Mr. Walker, of Janetville. Demonstrations of grief were visible on all sides. Strong men broke down as they gazed upon the faces of the little ones. Pent up emotions gave way in this house of sorrow, but none in that sad gathering suffered the grief that was the lot of the heart-broken father of the rosy-cheeked tots asleep in death. He is inconsolable, and his friends fear that the shock as well as the great sorrow which he suffers will be more than he is physicaly able to stand.

The funeral service was intensely impressive. Words of comfort for the stricken father and relatives of the mother fell from the clergyman's lips, and as he referred to the sad event which terminated in the lives of the little children — God's little children—who were now enjoying His presence the concourse was visibly affected.

The reverend gentleman based his brief discourse on the text Isaiah 40, verse 11.

The service at the cemetery was no less impressive, while the gathering of people was much larger than at the house.

The grief of the father and relatives was intensified. however. as the two coffins were lowered to the grave, following a short service by Mr. Walker.

Among the floral offerings on the grave were two large wreaths bearing the word "Father." This was the last offering to the little tots by a father who loved them with an undying love.

The remains of Lois were borne to the grave by four brothers of the bereaved mother, Wilfred Aldred, of Oshawa, Archie, Egbert and Wesley Aldred, of Little Britain.

The pall-bearers for little Bernice were Gordon Glenny, Little Britain. Ernest Hill, Nasmith Henry, and Walter Walker, of Janetville.

A pathetic incident occurred at the conclusion of the services at the cemetery. The father of the children, whose emotion and grief was pitiable, suddenly gave way to uncontrollable weeping, which could be heard some distance. "Oh, my little ones! My darlings!" the poor man sobbed aloud. Kind friends took him gently by the arm and led him away, but he refused to be comforted.

Little knots of friends of the family afterwards stood about and discussed the sad tragedy. Expressions of sympathy were heard on all sides for the heart-broken father and the unfortunate mother. Not one word of condemnation was registered against the author of the deed which had disrupted a happy home and snuffed out the lifes of two little ones.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Free Methodists hold Annual Meeting and Elect Officers.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 15—The yearly meeting of the Campbellford Society of the Free Methodist Church was held on Wednesday night in the church on George Street. After the usual business was over some appointments were made. Mrs. Ruth Abernethy was elected delegate to the annual conference held at Harrowsmith on September 27th and the following days. Mrs. Wrightmeyer will be the alternate delegate. Mrs. Ira Loucks was appointed class leader and also superintendents of the Sunday school. The stewards for the coming years are: Mrs. Ira Loucks, Mr. L. Kellogg, Mr. Harry Abernethy and Mr. John Mack. A very satisfactory report of the past year's work was given by Mr. Harry Abernethy, the treasurer of the church. As the term for the ministers is three years, the pastor, Rev. R. Bloye, will be leaving after Conference. He does not know where he will be stationed until after the Conference meets.

Field Crops.

The standing field crop competition in oats held by the Seymour Agricultural Society ended on Thursday, September 14, 1924.

There were seven prizes given for the seven highest scores. The judge was Mr. W. W. Virtue, of Hampton.

BIG CROWD AT COBOURG SHOW

Thirty Events on Yesterday's Programme. The Military Tatoo.

COBOURG, Aug. 15.—(Special). —There was a big crowd in attendance at Cobourg Horse Show yesterday to see the fine programme of some thirty events which was run off. The Royal Canadian Dragoons were wonderful in their musical side and spectacular performance, and were loudly cheered as they appeared upon the grounds. The Dragoons are always popular here, and never more so than this year. The 48th Highlanders Band gave a fine programme of music, and in their part of the many events that combine to make a good show were just as well appreciated.

Military Tattoo Last Night.

Last night there was a military tattoo and band concert, with the 48th Highlanders, the Cobourg Band and the Durham Regimental Band taking part. A large crowd from town and county were there for this interesting event of the Horse Show, and it was one of the most popular of any of the evening performances that have yet been held. The programme of fireworks tonight is bound to attract a big crowd, and it is expected to culminate the evening entertainments in a grand way. There is a programme of over forty pieces

The Social Side.

Nearly every home has its guests at the present time, including quite a number from Peterboro. There are many Toronto people down, not only to summer hotels, but other hotels are crowded. This has led to many social events being planned, luncheons, teas and dances following each other in quick succession. Capt. and Mrs. David Dick gave a dinner at their residence, which was followed by a dance for Horse Show and polo guests. Mrs. R. Duggan, Miss Mary Johnston and several others have entertained also.

The Polo Matches.

The polo grounds situated adjacent to the park are a scene around which centres much interest. There two Toronto teams and polo teams from Montreal, Buffalo and Cleveland are holding interesting matches.

Toronto Won Rowe Memorial Cup.

The Toronto Polo Club defeated the Montreal Polo Club in the finals for the Wallace H. Rowe memorial cup. Captain Perry, Toronto, acted as referee. The teams lined up as follows:

Toronto—Col. Marshall, Allen Case, R. A. Laidlaw, J. D. Woods, Malcolm Richardson, Bruce King, A. O. Beardmore.

Montreal—Thos. McDougall, Howard Gordon, William Ogilvie, Sidney Dobell.

Entries Biggest Ever.

It is gratifying that in this the 16th year of the history of the Cobourg Horse Show, that the entry list is larger than ever before. The boxes too are all taken this year, and are well filled each afternoon, which speaks well for the continued popularity of the Cobourg Horse Show.

The Judges.

The judges at the Cobourg Horse Show this year were: Hugh S. Wilson, of Oakville; E. B. Clancy, of Guelph; Wm. Doherty, of Toronto A. ;G. Bain, of Hamilton; J. T Brownridge, of Unionville.

The Officers.

The officers are: President, J. D. Hoyden, who has held the position with ability ever since its inception; Vice-President, J. B. McColl; Secretary, John H. Davidson; Treasurer H. J. Spragge.

MOTHER FINDS LOST SON AFTER 29 YEAR ABSENCE

MANILA, Aug. 15.—A letter from a mother in Danville, Ky., to the Manila police department has been the means of locating a long lost son Twenty-five years ago Frank Sapp enlisted in the army and came to the Philippines where he served during the insurrection. At the end of his enlistment he remained here, engaging in various occupations.

In her letter to the police department Mrs. Sapp wrote that her son had never written home since he enlisted in a volunteer regiment, but that she heard indirectly that he was in the Phillippines in the lumber business.

The coast guard steamer, Pathfinder, which recently returned from an inspection trip to the Babuyan Islands brought news that Frank Sapp, an American, operated a sawmill on the Island of Camiguin in the Babuyan group and that he had constructed a number of rafts on which he transported the 77 natives from Babuyan Island who were panic stricken by the active volcano there, to Camiguin Island for safety. Sapp gave employment to the natives in his sawmill.

On the next trip of the Pathfinder to the Babuyans mail from Sapp's mother will be sent to him. Meanwhile a letter from the police department is on its way to Mrs. Sapp, telling her that her son has been located.

NICKLE MAKES REPLY.

Denies That There Has Been Laxity In Enforcemtn of The O. T. A.

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press). — Vigorously denying that there has been any laxity in the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act. Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., Attorney-General, yesterday made brief but caustic comment upon another open letter by W. E. Raney, K.C., former Ontario Attorney-General. The open letter was addressed to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, but as the Premier is out of the city, the Attorney-General made reply.

Mr. Nickle said: "Mr. Raney knows quite as well as I do that a thorough and honest effort has been made since this Government took power to enforce the Ontario Temperance Act, with results that redound to the credit of those charged with this responsibility.

"He knows, because ineffectually for four years he tried to enforce the provisions absolutely, that it requires the best efforts of the Department's officials to meet the ingenuity of those who would evade the law.

"He knows further, manifold difficulties, greatly augmented in, that the Province has no control over the manufacture and exportation, and I am therefore surprised to read his open letter to the Prime Minister which is as misleading as it is incorrect.

ASTRONOMER TO COMPLETE SKY MAP OF DOUBLE STARS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 15.—Mapping the heavens that look down upon "the Land of the Southern Cross," to complete the list of double stars that swing out to the south of this continent, is a task Dr. W. J. Hussey of the University of Michigan, expects to begin within a year.

With other astronomers he has listed the double stars of the north. In the times he has been in the Southern hemisphere he has found a small number. His quarter century search for a location probably ended he expects to devote seven or eight years in completing the work.

He will take a 27-inch telescope. His probable location will be Naval Hill, looking down upon Bloomfontein, in the Orange Free State, although the top of some other kopje in that locality may be chosen. He found points near Bloemfontein had the advantage of great clarity of atmosphere, visibility to the horizon edge and almost 300 cloudless nights a year.

From his experience searching among the northern stars, Dr. Hussey believes that the third of the sky not mapped will add 1,800 double stars above the ninth magnitude to those already known.

Truss Expert Coming

Demonstrate the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel.

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you want to be free from the slavery of gouging, chafing trusses that make life a burden and misery, then HERE and NOW is the time to act.

Truss Expert trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., originator of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Rupture Method, will be at the

EMPRESS HOTEL
Peterboro, Ont.
MONDAY and TUESDAY
Aug. 18 and 19

to give free demonstration and trial of his safe and painless Method to every man, woman and child who is ruptured.

You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous Rice Rupture Method and the wonderful results which thousands have reported from it. Now, you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it personally applied to your own rupture and learn just what it can and will do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and this expert will give you his personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration entirely free.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable old truss? Would you like to be done with truss wearing forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and learn the wonderful opportunity for help it offers. Remember it is different from everything else and is accomplishing wonderful results where all other treatments have failed. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Rupture Method you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you right on your own rupture, without any charge whatever.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Your call on the Truss Expert is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. He will be there only two days, then your opportunity will be gone. Remember, you do not spend a penny unless, after having a complete demonstration, you decide this is the Method for you and you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a.m., 2 to 5 p.m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Simply ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Representative and he will do the rest.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS TO GIVE VACATION IN WINTER TIME

WINCHESTER, Ky., Aug. 15.—new plan whereby students in county schools are to be given a mid-winter vacation, with correspondingly shorter summer vacations, is to be inaugurated in Clark county schools this winter.

Prof. Paris Akin, superintendent of county schools, in announcing this departure from the usual period of instruction, declares that in his opinion it will materially increase attendance and insure the country student a good education.

"The greatest trouble in rural districts is that in winter, when snow and ice are upon the ground, the student often finds it impossible to get to school," Prof. Akin said. "Under the new plan, schools will be closed during the worst winter months."

Another feature pointed out was that the teachers, who ordinarily spend their vacations attending summer schools, may now take advantage of the mid-winter vacation and attend normal school then.

The Clark county schools under the new plan opened Aug. 4 and will continue in session five months, closing Dec. 19. On March 16 an other school term will start and will run until June 5.

SHARKS DETER MANILA DIVERS

MANILA, Aug. 15.—Sharks have become so numerous in Manila Bay that professional divers have refused to go into the water on several occasions recently. During the last two weeks two native fishermen have disappeared and the authorities believe they were devoured by sharks.

JELLYFISH STOP SWIMMER

HUSUM Germany Aug. 15.—Myriads of jellyfish stirred from depth by a heavy sea clung to and stung Otto Kemmerich so severely that he had to abandon an endurance swimming contest in the North Sea off this place. After enduring agony for three and a half hours he came ashore exhausted and with his body badly swollen.

BALKANS RUMBLING.

The world-revolution crusade of the Russian Bolshevists will die out in time; but, in the interim, the infected areas constitute a rather grave problem. This is especially the case in the Balkan tinder-box. Just at present the crusaders are concentrating their efforts in Bulgaria. There have resulted a number of border raids by Greek troops into that country, ostensibly to prevent the spread of Bolshevism, and all the Balkan nations are ready to jump at the chance to wade in. That, however, is the way of the Balkans, and Bulgarian Bolshevism is probably little more than an excuse. Nothing would suit these nations better than the opportunity to extend their borders a bit at the expense of their neighbor. The Bulgarian Government senses the reality of the situation. It does not defend its own towns, and even goes so far as to deny that there have been any raids. The peril of Balkan wars is ever present. The Bolshevist crusaders hope to further the cause of revolution by raising nation against nation. Bolshevism needs ruins to fatten on.

THE BOSS.

One of the funniest happenings in business is the great scurry about when there is a change of managers. We have noticed this in factories, stores and offices—even in politics. The new boss usually seems to bring with him an atmosphere of uncertainty. Nearly every one on the payroll is uneasy, wondering if he is due to get the axe.

As a matter of fact, the new boss as a rule is more interested in results than in the individual employee. So the uneasy employee is really afraid, not of the new boss, but of his own ability to handle his job satisfactorily. He is afraid of himself.

You have noticed how intently people work the first day they are on new jobs. They are hopeful of advancement. They work hard to prove that hiring them was no mistake.

As time goes on, they are apt to become overconfident of their ability and importance in the organization. A shake-up of managers brings them to their senses. Once more, they buckle down to work.

This is, by the way, as true of bosses as of employees. The manager is often apt to become overconfident, even careless. Then it's just a matter of time until bosses change.

Some men are able constantly to work as intently, faithfully and loyally at a job as the first day they started on the job. To them, every day is the "first day." At least, it's a new day, with the former record forgotten and a new record to be made. These are the men most apt to rise to the top rung of the ladder of success. The man who stops fighting and striving is the man who loses out.

EGYPT AND SUDAN.

Without presuming to pass judgment or fix the responsibility for the present disturbances in the Sudan, it must be said that the trouble has every appearance of having been fomented, if not deliberately provoked, by Egyptian pretensions in that country, says the Hamilton Spectator. The British press takes the view, indeed, that "interested persons in Egypt" are making a determined effort to "oust the British from the Sudan and establish Egyptian rule over it." From the fragmentary reports sent out from the seat of trouble it is not possible to say where the blame actually lies, though the despatches from Cairo to the effect that no Egyptian troops took part in the disorder and blaming it all on the Sudanese Arabs will hardly hold water. This version is, in fact, directly contradicted by the official Egyptian reports themselves, in which the Egyptian railway battalion is explicitly charged with insubordination and sabotage and named as the instigator of the whole affair.

The British Government is taking vigorous action in the crisis, and will receive the support of the whole Empire in so doing. Evidently, the mild and pacific policy pursued by Great Britain towards her late ward, whom she has so long protected and assisted and established on a footing of independence at great cost and with but little thanks, has ben misinterpreted as weakness. Egyptian nationalist demands having been granted with characteristic magnanimity, native avarice has been whetted rather than satisfied, and there seems to be no limit to the pretensions of the deluded people. The time has come for the long-suffering British Government to put its foot down. It has shown a commendably firm attitude in its refusal to abandon the Sudan to the tender mercies of Egypt. In no case will Britain renounce her responsibilities in that region. The Sudanese themselves are said to be alarmed at the prospect of such a withdrawal, fearing the consequences of passing under Egyptian dominance. The mission of Zaghlul Pasha to London, insofar as it aspires to secure consent to such a transference, is a waste of time and effort. There are not wanting signs that even the Egyptians themselves appear to have sensed the fact that this time they have gone too far.

"HE'S CHANGED ENTIRELY."

To get a man's "number," check up his associates—the people he selects as friends. Birds of a feather flock together. You never see a crow traveling with wild ducks.

In judging a man by his associates, though, remember that you are apt to be fooled by "the attraction of opposites."

For instance, a puny lad is apt to cling in the vicinity of robust, athletic boys. They represent what he yearns to be—strong. He admits consciousness of his weakness by his gravitation to the physically strong.

A boy or man of superior mentality always has a flock of satellites of inferior brain power. They cluster around him because he represents the intelligence they'd like to have.

And the superior brain gloats over this attraction. Its vanity is pleased by this admission of inferiority by others. So much so, that keen intelligence tolerates considerable boredom of stupidity, just to have followers.

But there is little "attraction of opposites" except in matters of strength and mentality. You rarely find such attraction where character is involved. The man who seeks the companionship of rakes, scoundrels or crooks is usually a rake, scoundrel or crook at heart.

Association changes all who are involved. The fine brain, associating with mediocrity to satisfy its vanity by contrast, goes to seed—deteriorates. Association with equal or superior mentality is less pleasing to vanity, but it brings improvement.

The inferior improves by association with the superior, the same as the superior is pulled down nearer the level of inferiority. The two forces tend to approach each other—strike a medium.

Many a neat, cleanly woman or man becomes careless or even slovenly by association with a careless or slovenly mate.

The stronger personality dominates. It pulls the weaker up or down toward its level. But in the pulling it inevitably slips more or less to the level of the inferior.

Selection of associates requires caution.

OLD BOYS' WEEK.

St. Thomas has just completed an old home week, and here is what is thought of it by the St. Thomas Times-Journal:

"Well, it's been a whale of a time! Officially, the Old Boys' Week is over, but in most cases that only implies the termination of the fixed program of entertainment, the cutting out of the garishness, the hilarity, the spirit of carnival, which, while thoroughly enjoyable, and serving a useful purpose in breaking the superficial crusts of reserve and convention, putting everybody in the right attitude towards a homecoming celebration, was not, after all, the real purpose of the reunion. As families scatter to different parts of the world, so also in a greater degree do communities, and in moments of introspection, longings are felt that the family could be brought together again and renew old times. That is exactly what an old boys' week aims to achieve on a community scale, and when organized as this splendid event at St. Thomas was, it implies the return of old boys and girls who, if the matter was left to their individual volition, would never stir from the newer soil in which they have taken root. Old Boys' Week in St. Thomas has been, as we predicted last week, a tremendous success, and the number of registrations came as a genuine surprise. The number of old boys and girls reached a high percentage of those invited; albeit many of them had to come hundreds, even thousands of miles, to be 'home.' It was incontrovertible evidence that they were all pining for a look at the old town once again, and to see old faces. The time was ripe for such an opportunity, and the eagerness with which they came home was only equalled by the genuine heartiness with which they were received. The tumult and the shouting dies, and perhaps all the outward manifestations of welcome vanish, but Old Boys' Week is not yet over. Many are remaining for a real stay, to strengthen the old ties and etch in deeper lines the memories that were fading, and therein, far more lasting than blare and brass, lies the true significance of Old Boys' Week.

"It has been a greater success than the promoters hoped for (but certainly deserved), or the mass of citizens anticipated. There has been fun galore, high spirits no doubt, but no spirits of the other kind, which one anxious citizen 'understood' was on the way, and no hooliganism. The people were given liberty and did not take license, and everybody is entitled to credit therefor. Looking at it from another angle, St. Thomas has received a thorough good shake-up. We in the smaller cities run risks of getting into grooves and ruts along which we pursue the even tenor of our ways, and, if some are to be believed, we have as little 'pep' and as much inertia as the tortoise. St. Thomas has been gloriously jingled from head to heels with the wine of friendship and its effect has been apparent upon every man, woman and child in the city. Old Boys' Week has given trade a fillip that it needed after the capriciousness of the seasons had disorganized selling. In that respect it had a material value which was welcome. But the lesson learned from it all is that home-coming weeks are wanted by everyone who calls St. Thomas 'home'; that they should not be so far apart as to leave the old town to stagnate in memory and in enterprise. Twenty years is too long for St. Thomas to wait for the next one. Twenty years is the period that Rip Van Winkle slept—and woke to find himself forgotten. Every five years might be too often, but ten years is not too long a space of time. Reunions may be spoiled by being too near, but on the other hand the hiatus should not be so great as to separate one generation from another, or to permit St. Thomas to slump into a state of torpor."

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, August 15 (Canadian Press). — Receipts of eggs declining, and fine quality eggs becoming scarce. Latest offers from Winnipeg quote car fresh firsts f.o.b. at 32 in new cases, seconds 26, storage packed firsts in new cases 32 1-2. Car to consist of 40 per cent. firsts.

Toronto market firm, jobbing specials 46 to 47, extras 41 to 42, firsts 35 to 36, seconds 27 to 28.

Montreal steady, jobbing specials 45, extras 40, firsts 33, seconds 27.

Ottawa demand good. Retailing extras 45, firsts 35 to 40, firsts 32 to 38, seconds 28 to 30.

Winnipeg firm, receipts light. The dealers quoting country shippers delivered extras 25, firsts 23, seconds 17.

Saskatchewan dealers quoting the country shippers delivered extras 24, firsts 22, seconds 17.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 15 (Canadian Press). — Local trade in cash oats is quiet. There is nothing new in the flour market . A moderate business is passing in millfeed. There was no further advance in rolled oats. A steady business is passing in baled hay. Egg prices were up 2 cents a dozen for extras and firsts and 1 cent for seconds. The tone of the butter market is about steady, but cheese prices were shaded 1-8c to 1-4c per pound lower. Demand for beans is strong at $3.00 per bushel for one-pound pickers.

STERLING PRICES.

MONTREAL, August 15 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quited here yesterday:
Demand 4.5438
Cables 4.5475

BROCKVILLE CHEESE.

BROCKVILLE, August 15 (Canadian Press). — 1,270 white, 2,270 coloured, a total of 3,540, were boarded. Sixty boxes were sold at 17 cents per pound.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 15 (Canadian Press). — The wheat market continued to be a draggy and featureless affair again yesterday, with a light volume of trade passing.

After the opening, which was 3-4c to 1 5-8c lower for October, 5-8c lower for December, and 3-4c lower for May.

Lower Liverpool cables and a weather map showing decidedly favourable conditions throughout the West imparted weakness at the start, and there was not sufficient constructive news coming through to off-set this, although there was no particular pressure in evidence, and any that came out was liquidation by 'longs,' but this was on a small scale.

Exporters were doing nothing early in the session, but around midsession there was fair buying of the May future on orders from the seaboard. Millers were also in the market for small lots on the dips.

There was some back spreading between Winnipeg and Chicago, which narrowed the difference slightly.

MIRAGE PICTURING WATER POOL DECEIVES THRONG IN COLORADO

LOVELAND, Colo., Aug. 15. — A remarkable mirage appeared here recently on Fourth street, one of the principal thoroughfares. It took the shape of a deep pool of water in the middle of the street. When the story gained circulation, a crowd gathered at the sceen. Motorists swerved to avoid the "pool," only to find on closer examination that the street was dry. Persons approaching the place from certain angles could see in the "water" the reflection of passing cars.

The actual pool photographed in the mirage has not been located.

AMERICAN HOSPITAL IN TOKIO AIDED BY THE JAPANESE RED CROSS

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—St. Luke's International Hospital in Tokio, conducted by the American Episcopal Mission Board and headed by Dr. R. B. Teusler, has received a donation of $75,000 from the Japan Red Cross through the Department of Home Affairs. The donation is in recognition of the hospital's work for Japanese charity patients after the great earthquake fire of last September.

Dr. Teusler is now in America raising funds for the reconstruction of the institution, which was burned in the September conflagration.

GALILEO'S PENDULUM HONORS CLAIMED FOR GERMAN INVENTOR

WETZLAR, Germany, Aug. 15.—History is all wrong when it credits Galileo with having invented the pendulum, according to Dr. Veltmann, keeper of the public archives of this city. In his opinion it was Jobst Bodeker of Warburg, Westphalia, who constructed the first centrifugal pendulum.

The instrument invented by Bodeker was made in 1578, while Galilei's pendulum is recorded as having been constructed in 1633. Bodeker's clock with pendulum was but short-lived, however. After being installed in the cathedral at Osnabruck it had to be nursed along from time to time by the inventor, and after his death it soon came to a full stop.

Dr. Veltmann bases his contention upon documents he has found in the archives under his care.

JUNIOR PATROL TO AID POLICE.

EXPLOSIVES IN CHEMIST'S HAND PURR IN PEACE

No Barking When Sir Robert Robertson Pets His New Explosives.

TELLS ABOUT IT.

Lecturer Fires Off Number of Chemicals as Object Lessons.

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (Canadian Press).—Dangerous explosives don't mean anything to at least one of the chemists who attended the meetings of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. He pets them, and they never bark; he teases them, and they don't even snap at him.

Modern explosives can be controlled yes, and celibrated; they "go off" only under certain predetermined conditions; the don't "go bad," or, at least, they can be made so as to keep at full strength indefinitely. These points on the behaviour of high explosives and propellants, for peace and wartime uses alike, were brought out in the public lecture on "Explosives," delivered by Sir Robert Robertson, K.B.E., D.Sc., LL.D., F.R.S., chemist of His Majesty's Government, who is chairman of the Chemical section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Sir Robert has devoted 30 years to the study and development of explosives, and to his efforts are due the introduction of new powders for blasting and shells and cheaper methods of manufacturing them, and during the war he headed research which devised new types of war machines operated by the detonation of charges, and developed the methods which enabled the new materials and his own improvements of the old ones, to be produced in the enormous quantities which were required by the allied forces in the later years of the struggle.

Spread out on the lecture table at the start of Sir Robert's address were drugs of various kinds, some ready to explode if touched, others powerful enough to drill holes in steel plates. The chemist fired them all off quite according to schedule, however, during the course of his lecture, and after his reassurance that they were all quite tame and held perfectly in check, the severest strain on the nerves of his audience was the occasional bang of a chemical reaction proceeding at high speed as he illustrated the points of his argument.

"Any mixture of chemicals which, on receiving a suitable stimulus, is capable of being converted in an extremely short space of time partially or completely into gases, so that a high pressure is generated, is an explosive," said Sir Robert. In the case of the majority of explosives, the decomposition involves the process of oxidation, and this process was illustrated by experiments in which different substances were burned in the air and in oxygen.

High temperature is not necessarily accompanied by the evolution of a gas, Sir Robert Robertson pointed out, showing how the welding mixture "thermite" produces a temperature hot enough to melt steel easily, without the attendant production of gas. The chemist next illustrated the burning of the mixture of drugs which form gunpowder. Air is not always necessary for the burning of an explosive, however, as was borne out by the demonstration of the smokless propellant cordite burning under water.

The stimulus necessary to set the explosives off may be imparted in a variety of ways, Sir Robert showed. An electric spark, friction, or a blow, may be sufficient to start the chemical reaction. Different types of explosives differ in the speed with which they burn. A sample of lead azide, when set off, drilled a hole in an aluminium plate, so rapidly did it break up. The result was the same independently of whether the material was placed underneath or on top of the sheet of metal.

"The violence of an explosion can be regulated by the pressure which is exerted on the reactants," Sir Robert said. Other methods of toning down the disrupting power of high explosives so that the full force of the explosion can be extended over a wider region, rather than confined to one spot, are by the gelatinization of the propellants, or by regulating the proximity of the ingredients.

In describing the properties of some of the commoner explosives, Sir Robert said: "Explosive mixtures vary in the amount of oxygen required for their combustion. An adjustment can be made by preparing a mixture in which the want of oxygen in one constituent is compensated for by a surplus of oxygen in another." Blasting gelatine and amatol are examples of this class.

The scientist detailed the peculiarities of the latter material, which was largely used during the war, and was developed under his direction. Amatol is a mixture of ammonium nitrate and trinitrotoluene, familiarly known as T.N.T., and took the place of a mixture of T.N.T. and picric acid, previously employed.

The audience learned how the characteristics of explosives are investigated in the laboratory. Much of the technique involved in this work was deveoped during the war, it seems. Among the factors which have to be determined before an explosive can be safely used are the heat generated by the explosion of a given weight of the substance; the volume of gas given off; the rate at which it decomposes when properly set off; the pressure which can be developed; and finally, the sensitiveness of the preparation to the various detonating stimuli. Special bombs have to be used in this work, inside which small samples of the explosives are ignited. Enormous pressure, often amounting to 300 tons per square inch, are generated during the tests.

VALUABLE DOG KILLED.

Driving east on Hunter Street, an unknown motorist, travelling at a fast rate, ran over a Boston terrier pup belonging to J. A. O'Brien, of Engleburn Avenue, in front of the grocery store of J. C. Sullivan.

The pup died shortly after a veterinary was called. It was a pedigreed and valuable dog, and Mr. O'Brien has consulted the police and action is likely to be taken as the motorist didn't stop and give his name and number as required by the Highway Traffic Act.

A Story Without Words

EARTH'S OLD ROCKS SUBJECT OF DEBATE

Resemblance of Pre-Cambrian Rocks in Different Continents Remarkable.

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (Canadian Press)—Much research on the part of geologists must precede a clear understanding of the relationships which prevail between the pre-Cambrian rocks of the world, which are the oldest of the different strata recognized by scientists, said Dr. W. G. Miller, provincial geologist, in opening the discussion on pre-Cambrian rocks of the world, which occupied the attention of geologists at the British Association.

"As years go on, the pre-Cambrian is of increasing interest, both from the scientific and economic point of view," said Dr. Miller. "The relationships of the various rocks are gradually being unravelled on various continents, and mineral production is becoming more widespread.

"While the oldest pre-Cambrian of most of the continents have certain striking characteristics in common, especially the occurrence of peculiar iron formations, the time has not yet arrived for attempting, with any degree of confidence, the correlation of these most ancient rocks of one continent, with those of others. All that can be said at present, is that the resemblance in succession, in certain cases, is remarkable."

The problem of matching up the broken layers of rocks, even in one area, has proved of greater complexity than was at first thought, Dr. Miller indicated. This is brought out by the change in the attitude of geologists towards the older rock regions on Ontario and Quebec. The speaker illustrated diagramatically the relationship which scientists believe to hold between the main pre-Cambrian areas of Canada, according to the results of the latest work in the field.

The attempt to relate certain of the pre-Cambrian rocks of India with deposits of the Dominion was made by Sir Thomas Holland, of the Imperial College of Science, another contributor to the discussion.

Owing to the fact that the whole pre-Cambrian period has been worked out to a greater degree of satisfaction in Ontario than in any other part of the world, the classification which has been developed here has been taken as a guide in the attempt to form analogies among the older formations in other countries, Sir Thomas Holland stated. That correspondence is to be found in the great "breaks", may serve as a preliminary working guide, was his opinion, although he pointed out that the identification in the case of pre-Cambrian rocks would never be as aure as with the newer formations, where fossils serve as more definite clues. Progress has been made along these lines in relating the rock substructures of India and Canada, however. The differentiation which exists between the Laurentian and Timiskamian formations in Ontario, is duplicated in the "basement" rocks of India, Sir Thomas inferred. This correlation has its bearing on the theories by which geologists account for the formation of the rocks of the earth, it is pointed out, and it is possible to check up dates on the psysiographical calendar.

How the pre-Cambrian rocks of Ontario and Quebec folded and buckled during the early mountain building, was reviewed by H. C. Cooke, of the Geological Survey, Canada, who gave date on the thicknesses of the Keewatin lavas, and showed how the lava beds were forced up in ridges.

Other contributors to the pre-Cambrian discussion were Prof. R. C. Wallace, of the University of Manitoba, who discussed the origin and distribution of metallic ores and compounds in the pre-Cambrian rocks; Dr. H. V. Ellsworth, of the Geological Survey of Canada, who dealt with radioactive minerals in pre-Cambrian strata; and Dr. J. S. Flett, of the Geological Survey of Great Britain. Dr. Flett reviewed the pre-Cambrian rocks of the British Isles.

DROP PROCEEDINGS.

Action of Government Questioned By The News-Papers.

LONDON, Aug. 15.— (Canadian Press). — Very pointed questions are being asked by newspapers about abondonment of legal proceedings against John Ross Campbell, editor of workers weekly, charged with attempting to seduce men in fighting forces from their duty and their allegiance. In an open letter to soldiers, sailors and airmen, Campbell urged them to organize for common attack on capitalists and to "turn your weapons on your oppressors."

Westminster Gazette referring to the statement that it had been "represented" that object of alleged seditious article was not what director of public prosecutions had at first thought it to be says if we are to credit statement issued by political bureau of communist party, the origin of these representations was certain group of members of Labor Party who are not ever burdened with prudence and we begin to appreciate the exact value of the bold promise of thegovernment to stamp out extreme communist propaganda.

LIBERALS ORGANIZE.

Premier King Slated to Speak at Woodstock Next Week.

STRATFORD, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—A meeting of the Liberals of the city was held last night to organize a party to go to Woodstock on August 20 to hear Premier Mackenzie King speak at the Liberal picnic there. It is expected that quite a large number from Stratford will make the trip.

As a large Woodstock delegation is coming here, headed by the Mayor, to the Conservative outing on the same day, at which Right Hon. Arthur Meighen will be the chief speaker, a suggestion was made to Mayor Brown this morning that instead of going to Woodstock to hear Premier King, that he stay here and welcome Mr. Meighen, and that Mayor Rea of Woodstock, instead of coming to Stratford, stay there and welcome Premier King.

His Worship said that he would consider it.

RYE FROM WEST.

Four Car Loads were Marketed in Winnipeg Yesterday.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Three carloads of Manitoba rye, the first of the 1924 crop, were marketed in Winnipeg yesterday. It graded No. 1 bulk of rye in ther Province has been cut and 50 per cent. of barley in some districts of Southern Manitoba is already in stock.

Several fields of wheat have been cut in the Morden district of Manitoba, and George Batho, of the Manitoba Agricultural Department, who returned from there yesterday, states that wheat cutting will be general next week. The Manitoba crop is still safe from frost, and rust damage to date has been negligible.

BERNARD SHAW CHIDES 'SLOVENLY' ARTICULATORS

Playwright Wishes People Would Be as Athletic in Speech As They Are in Tennis—Says English Utterance Is Getting Slipshod.

George Bernard Shaw has a new crow to pick with society at large. He cannot understand why young people who are proud of their vigor in lawn tennis and other violent sports are so unathletic in their articulation of the English language as to deserve the epithet of "slovenly." Mr. Shaw's pronouncement was made at a recent conference at Bedford College for Women, London.

The playwright told of a parrot. To visitors in the house where the parrot lived the bird seemed only to make noises, but to the family it seemed to say "Pretty Polly," "How are you?" and "Good day." Originally the parrot had indeed spoken those words distinctly, but its speech had now deteriorated. The speech of human beings deteriorates in the same way, according to Mr. Shaw.

He cited the conversations among porters and merchants in Covent Garden as a case in point. People knew what the porter meant to say, and therefore understood him. But a foreigner who had learned English carefully, and consequently spoke it better than a native of the British Isles, would fail to understand the slipshod Covent Garden lingo, because it was what was left of pure English after a dreadful process of decay. Mr. Shaw wished, not very hopefully, that people would speak so as to be intelligible to foreigners.

The distinctness of spoke language was of special concern to him as a playwright, he said; yet there also were times outside of the theatre when he wished that people would work a little harder to make their words comprehensible. He continued:

Out in Society.

"Somebody asks me to to a gathering. I do not often accept such invitations, but when I do I always find a number of people eager to meet the celebrated Bernard Shaw, the distinguished writer. Some come up boldly and pretend we have met before and been friends for years, whereas I know I never saw them before. Eventually my hostess says, 'Oh, Mr. Shaw, may I have the pleasure of introducing to you—mumble, mumble, mumble?' I sometimes feel like saying to my hostess, 'If you had only been articulate when you came to the name of Miss Smith or the Countess of So-and-So you would have been of some use to me, for I could assume the rest.' That is one of the things children should be taught in schools as part of good behavior—to look out for key words.

"Then again, a hostess who has asked me to luncheon has heard that I am a vegetarian. She will probably provide that unpleasant vegetable called asparagus. Whe she finds I will not eat it and do not like it she will say, 'Oh, Mr. Shaw, you are a pessimist.' That is an example of the way people hear a word and use it for a hundred different purposes. Words should have a special meaning in your mind. Take 'preposterous'—I never use it unless characterizing such a blunder as putting the cart before the horse. But the word is applied to all sorts of people, animals and weather.

"When I was young—which is a long time ago, for I am really a seventeenth century Irishman—you used to hear of 'Hymns Ancient and Modern.' Modern was then pronounced almost as a trisyllable, but is now a dissyllable, and in a short time every one will be making it 'modn.' You are getting a shorter word, though you may spoil some good poetry of the past. But you have to be careful, because that is slovenliness.

Strive a Little.

"You ought to cultivate a certain athleticism in your speech, just as you do in tennis or other games. There is athleticism in articulation, and I do not know why it is that so many young people who are quite properly proud of athleticism in lawn tennis and other sports should yet be intolerably slovenly when they come to speech. I think they ought to be made a little ashamed of it, and be taught to understand that the most intelligent and cultured people are rather particular about their articulation. I am, for example, but, generally speaking, in public one has to be."

It is not true according to Mr. Shaw that a fallacy clearly enunciated in public is easily upset. He proceeded to reiterate a sentence declaring that "black is white." His audience would, he insisted, in time come to believe it. If they did not agree with him, they had only to think of the number of times they had believed it when it was set forth by prominent statesmen. The maker of ironical phrases told how he instructed the late Lewis Calvert, in "John Bull's Other Island," to hurl the unnecessary words across the footlights as important and mumble the rest. "That," he said, "is the secret of political oratory in England."

"Do not make the mistake," Mr. Shaw concluded, "of getting a correct language. "There is no such thing. There is a genuine demand for something else. People know very well that certain sorts of speech cut off a person from ever earning more than £3 or £4 a week, and consequently they say: 'Will you teach me an English that will pass if I am King, Lord Chief Justice, or Prime Minister?' One solution would be to get a really good actor, or take a really great one like Sir William Forbes-Robertson, whose English is perfect, and make him the model."

LONDON WOMAN POLICE FORCE

Governmental Committee Will Employ One Hundred And Eleven Female Cops.

LONDON, Aug. 15.— (Canadian Press).—The governmental committee considering the employment of women police recommends the employment of the same number as two years ago when London's female force numbered 111. From motives of economy only twenty are now employed.

The London chief of police, describing the beginnings of the women's section, remarks: "The main point was to eliminate women with extreme views like the vinegary spinster or the middle-aged fanatic, and get broad-minded, kindly and sensible women who would bring common sense into play in dealing with a sister taken at the wrong turning. Above all things, amateur and unofficial organizations should be suppressed the same as bogus policemen are dealt with by law. These organizations in times past brought the regular force into disrepute."

CLOCK WITHOUT FACE OR HANDS TELLS TIME FOR FOUR CENTURIES

LULLINGTON, England, Aug. 15.—A clock in a church tower here has neither face nor hands, but has given the parishioners accurate time for nearly four centuries by striking the hours on the church bell.

Built in the sixteenth century by the village blacksmith, it comprises two heavy stones, a rope 30 feet long and a crude escapement. It is wound up daily by the sexton, the winding barrels being of oak, like the beams in which the iron bearings work.

CAPITAL

In four years 2 labor banks have been organized. Their combined resources total more than 60 million dollars.

And this is only the beginning.

If labor saved its money and organized solidly, it would not be many generations until it could buy all the giant industries now known as "capitalistic."

The "middle classes," comprising by far the vast majority of the population, are in greater need of organization. But selecting white-collar jobs and other easier tasks has weakened them, paralyzed the fighting instinct that results in organized, united effort.

NO ALBERTA COAL COMING EAST YET

Premier Greenfield Would Like to Know What Ottawa Will Do About It.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 15.—How about the 100,000 tons of Alberta coal that's to be moved to Ontario this summer?

Queried, Premier Greenfield said he would like to know himself. He is trying to find out, but he hasn't succeeded yet, and this is the beginning of August.

It seems that no arrangements have been made yet from the Ottawa end, so far as can be learned, for getting the quota of coal shipments on the move. The local government has been making inquiries and its trade commissioner's office has been trying to stir up some action, but the fact remains that not a pound of coal freight has been started yet. Worse than that, there is no information as to when or how it will be started, and furthermore, time is getting short, for there will be only the month of August to do it in before the grain movement commences.

Premier Greenfield said that the arrangements can be made only from Ottawa and by the Dominion authorities because it is a Dominion grant that is going to make the business possible, and they will, therefore, naturally enough, have the say as to how it shall be done.

The Alberta government has some idea on the subject and is prepared with a scheme that it will lay before the Federal Government if an opportunity offers, but since a Dominion guarantee to the railways against loss on the carriage of the coal is involved in this scheme, nothing can be done locally to give effect to it.

The Premier is endeavoring to see Hon. Charles Stewart, who is now on his farm at Killam, about the matter, and hopes to get within sight of a workable arrangement with in the next few days.

In the meantime, some hopes are also being built up on the forthcoming visit of Sir Henry Thornton, with whom the situation will be discussed. Sir Henry's general attitude toward the movement of Alberta coal to the east is known to be favorable, provided that some way can be found for his line to come out even in the business, but even his action in the matter will depend upon what Ottawa says and does.

Just as soon as the word comes that arrangements have been made and the coast is clear, the coal can be set going. There are enough mines in operation, it is said, to supply the quantity called for, even with the strike still under way, and no difficulty on that score is anticipated. But wheat moving time will soon be here, and it is rather urgent that the coal gets out of the way first.

LABOR PREMIER'S SON COMING HERE

Malcolm MacDonald To Go on World Debating Tour.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Malcolm MacDonald, the 22-year-old son of the British Labor Premier, and just graduated from Oxford University, is ambitious to become a reporter. "You see," he said in an interview here, "people like me come down from Oxford full of ideas, but they are other people's ideas. They are second-hand. I want some experience to confirm them or else to get a new set of my own.

"It will probably be some time before I go in for politics. In the meantime, I would like to study every phase of life, and I think that can best be done as a reporter. It is a job which takes you into the highways and byways of life, and the fact that you probably get plenty of kicks in the course of your experience is perhaps all the better. The aim would be so to work that one day I might be sent to a murder trail, the next, say, to a dock strike, and follow that up, possibly, with some interviewing.

However, the Prime Minister's son is not going to begin his reportorial career immediately. He is leaving soon with two other Oxford graduates for a world debating tour. "The Oxford Union is behind the scheme," he explained, "and the first team was sent out about three years ago. Since then members have been sent out every year to debate in American and Canadian universities. Two ex-Presidents of the Oxford Union are going with me. They are Liberals, so you see I am in a minority already. There is an organized scheme in advance for debates in foreign universities. We have sent out about ten suggestions for subjects, but it is open to the others to choose their own. While on dry land we will be debating two or three times a week. In America and Canada alone we visit thirty universities. We go right across Canada, and the places at which we call include Honolulu, New Zealand, Ceylon, and Southern India."

Cure For City's Ills Is Careful Planning

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (Canadian Press).—Surest relief for the congestion which invariably occurs in large urban centres, is the proper regulation of growth, according to T. Adams, past-president of the town-planning institutes of England and Canada, and H. L. Seymour, who discussed "Problems of Urban Growth in America" in the Geography section of the British Association. The difficulties which face the big cities in Europe and in the new countries of America are essentially the same, those investigators claim. "The concentration of population in the large cities of the American continent introduces difficulties essentially the same as those which exist in European cities," they said. "Congestion is the invariable result, as regards industry, business, housing and traffic.

"As modern cities grow larger, the economic advantages of centralization seem to diminish, and a certain amount of decentralization takes place.

"Measures taken to relieve congestion by removing effects in central districts do not diminish in intensity beyond a brief period.

"Decentralization does not relieve congestion unless accompanied by the disposal of industries and the spreading of transport facilities over wide areas.

"The causes of the congestion of business and traffic are inadequate space about buildings, combined with defective highway and street systems.

"A city is an artificial growth, and, as such, its expansion needs to be regulated.

"More regard should be paid to natural forces and to securing proper scale between the streets and buildings.

"There should be provision for more sunlight and air space in central areas of cities."

The logical solution for the problems is the laying of comprehensive plans for metropolitan regions, the scientists concluded. Before a plan of this kind can be drawn up, a full investigation of all features of the proposed site would have to be made, taking into consideration the restrictions and modifications imposed by differences in physical characteristics, history, social structure and economic conditions.

RUM RUNNERS USE GERMAN SUBMARINE

Craft Is Operating Off Cape Cod and Officials May Use Planes to Catch It.

BOSTON, Aug. 15—A big German submarine, of commercial type, is operating off Cape Cod and flooding the Massachusetts coast with German beer and French wines, it was officially confirmed here. United States Attorney Robert O. Harris has called this latest venture in rum running to the attention of the collector of the port, and has turned over what information he has to local customs officials for investigation.

Mr. Harris said that he had been informed that the Cape district was "being flooded" with beer, ale and wine from the submarine. The report coincides with recent reports from New York that mysterious submarines had been "spotted" lying in the Hudson by airplane pilots.

Federal officials here say the Government maintains a flying base at the tip of the Cape, and it is possible that planes will be used to search out the supposedly foreign submersible.

The proposition that a submarine can effectively cross the Atlantic to run foreign liquors through our blockade is substantiated by the successful trips from Germany to the United States of the freighter Deutschland and the war craft U-63 during the World War, officials say.

It also is pointed out that the financial resources of rum running combinations are equal to the equipment and maintenance of freight submarines. It is known that the combinations control transatlantic steamers at an expense possibly greater than that of an underwater freighter.

The reports have created excitement in official circles here, and awakened interest in the plans the Government may make to meet this new threat.

HUGHES IS HOPEFUL.

Returns from European Field Of Politics.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.— (Canadian Press).—Charles Evans Hughes secretary of State returned from Europe yesterday on United States Liner, President Harding, "hopeful and optimistic", regarding outcome of London conference of Nations, but unaware of French-German rift which has developed since he sailed and which now threatens the success of negotiations.

BRITISH SIX METER YACHTS READY FOR OYSTER BAY EVENT

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The quartette of yachts of the international six-meter class which will represent Great Britain in the contest for the British-America Cup in Oyster Bay next September has been completed by the selection of Lady Constance Baird's "Thistle." The other yachts previously chosen are Sir Thomas Glen Coats' "Echo," E. J. Lewis' "Zenith" and G. E. Haldinstein's and J. Colin Newman's "Betty."

The "Thistle," "Betty" and "Zenith" are Scottish designed craft, while the "Echo" was designed by her owner. The yachts will be shipped on the "Berengaria" after the Solent yachting fortnight about the middle of August.

Large Deposits of Good Gravel, Underlies Business Section of City.

A LUCKY FIND.

By F. H. DOBBIN.

During the last week or so the attention of men passing the corner of George and Murray streets has been drawn to the two heaps of material dug from the trenches being excavated by the employees of the Waterworks Department. A larger main is being put in Murray street is to be paved, and it is prudent to make provision for the future, especially as prohibition will likely continue and more folks will need more water.

Gravel, of quality, happens to be a commodity that is not evenly distributed among communities. Hundreds of places are without this useful adjunct to making passable streets and useful roads. In the foundation work of buildings and other structures, used with cement, gravel is now almost indispensable, providing it be a gravel of parts and suitable for the purpose. Gravel containing a mixture of soil and arable earth is of little or no use as a matter of stability.

Those who know gravel, and appreciate its properties, affirm that the sample of material as taken out at Murray street is of the very finest quality and exceptionally fit for all building purposes, as well as road building. So that the city may be said to have, right in the very centre of its business section, underneath its public parks and buildings, an unlimited store of ready-to-use gravel for work of the best kind. Barring the larger stones, it could be excavated and dumped into the mixing machines without reservation.

This deposit played an important part in the construction of the streets of the now city in the earlier years. Roughly, the deposit borders the river between the ridge of land and hillside, now covered by the properties known as the Barnardo Home, the Nicholls Hospital and north by the filtration plant and on nearly to Lakefield. After supplies nearer to town had been exhausted the area known as the Hilliard Farm was, by the wise thought and effort of Mayor Harry Rush, secured by the town at a cost of $10,000, and the town and city has been drawing on the reserves, adjacent to Water street north, for many years, and will continue to delve and excavate for at least forty years longer. All good gravel, but not the equal of that disclosed at the Murray street corner.

Curiously, the deposit seems as bounded by Aylmer and Water streets and extends under the top soil to the south, to end about below King street. Gravel is found out Charlotte street way, but not of a quality useful for foundation purposes. It follows that the centre of the town and city has never had to deal with problems of drainage—surface drainage—that have beset other places. The heaviest downfall makes no perceptable impression on the surface of the area north of McDonnel street an hour or two after the downfall. The gravel formation, hoisted up above the level of the river, accepts all contributions and disposes of the same with ease and facility.

In 1851, one year after incorporation of the town, the first public sewer was constructed, and that on George street, from a distance one chain north of Hunter street to King street where, or rather under and along, the flow escaped to the river. The sewer was built of brick, and when removed in after years to be replaced by more modern construction, was apparently in good and useful order. The question might be asked, why was the length of the sewer limited to north of Hunter street—about opposite the Examiner building. All on account of gravel and the responsibilities involved.

At the time mentioned, George street was little of a street, hardly a thoroughfare. Buildings along the street were built of wood and perched up on stilts, and timber foundations. At the corner of George and Hunter streets the apparent level was about six feet below what now appears. The whole area was swampy and rock underneath. A basin into which the storm water and melting snows of spring collected flowed out to find release in the creek. As the settlers found it, George street began to climb about where Lech's store is situated, went on and up, nearly eight feet higher than it now presents at the corner of George and Brock streets. Plainly there was little use of planting a public sewer under the hillock, for it would have called for at least twenty feet in depth of excavation. Operations were stopped until the hill could be disposed of. Buildings and dwellings on the east side of the street were perched upon the bank, and if the street were cut away damages threatened.

Tucked in behind Gainey's store and north of the wall of a part of the Examiner building is a small plot of ground, and the surface of this plot indicates in general something of the original level of the ground. Also the building known as the roller rink, now the scene of our hockey tournaments, stands on the ground level, while Hunter street to the south, and opposite, is nearly thirty feet below.

So the town fathers had a grade struck, from one chain north of Hunter street, to Murray street. Cutting down a hill calls for some place on or in which to dump the spoil. "Spoil" is a word that construction engineers use to define anything they wish to get rid of, and as easily as possible. So the cavity at the junction of George and Hunter streets was filled in a good and plenty, burying all the corduroy structures, tree trunks, general debris and big stones that had been pressed into service. Parts of these things came to light when the mains of the water company were laid in the early eighties. There was much to be disposed of and other streets received a liberal portion. A deep hole at the corner of Water and Brock streets was filled in, and enough material deposited at the end of Simcoe street — which was where the town post office was located—to enable the general public to reach the door without the trouble it had hitherto enjoyed. In after years George street was further lowered, north of Brock street, as witness the building of William Yelland, now a laundry, and which was put up at street level, and which now is reached by a staircase. Behind the billboard, north of Craig's furniture emporium, can be found the original ground level, once covered by E. C. Hill's carriage and wagon shop.

At the time mentioned, the early fifties, George street was not any great shakes of a street from below Sherbrooke street. Going to the south it was navagable for a part of the year, in the spring-time. From about the C. P. R. crossing the street was only a name, not having been graded for public use. The reason was that Spaulding's Bay intervened, being an area of marsh or swamp land, the mouth of the creek. To make a road this had to be filled in, and for several years the cutting down of the grade on George street was done and the material taken to the bay to build up the road. In process of time all the buildings on the east side of George street below Brock street were left stranded high and dry above the street level. Thomas Harper owned the building now known as the old Commercial Hotel, for many years used as stores and shops. In this building Harper made fanning mills and such farm appliances, but when the place was left perched on the bank he brought suit for damages, and there seemed every reason why he should succeed. So this building and one occupied by a man named Swayne, as a furniture shop and undertaker's business, were supported on posts while the exacavation was made underneath and a sub-story put in. The old hotel stands today, as we see it. The Swayne building was torn down when the owners of the property, the Birdsall estate, put up the block of brick stores now on the lot.

Having exhausted the source of supply for gravel as afforded by George street, the town took thought. People were building wooden structures along the north side of Hunter street west of Chambers street. On the corner was the Kingan building, for many years a local landmark in the business section, and afterwards replaced by the brick store, for many years the home of the Kingan Hardware Co. To make room for the Belleghem building a lot of material had to be removed, and this the town secured for street purposes. The site of the present Bell Telephone building and l

MAKING SCRAP IRON OF GREAT GERMAN FLEET

Stupendous Salvaging Task Undertaken by London Firm.

DANGEROUS WORK

Fifty-One Ships Remain on the Bottom at Scapa Flow.

By CLAIR PRICE.

Work has begun on the ambitious scheme for raising the German fleet, scuttled June 21, 1919, at Scapa Flow, the great anchorage ground in the Orkneys, north of Scotland, where the Grand Fleet was based during the war. If the scheme proves successful the raised vessels are to be broken up and sold as "scrap." Even the teak lining of their armor-plate will be saleable, for it can be used in the making of parquet flooring.

Operations are still in an experimental stage. The British Admiralty has sold two of the scuttled battle cruisers, the Hindenburg and the Seydlitz, each of 27,000 tons, and twenty-four destroyers, presumably of 1,000 tons each, to the London iron and steel firm of Cox and Danks. The vessels have been sold as they lie, on the bottom at Scapa, and the only proviso which the Admiralty has imposed upon the purchasing firm is that, if raised, they are to be broken up in the United Kingdom.

The purchasers expect to know before the year ends whether or not it is possible to raise the vessels they have bought. That they believe it is possible is shown by the fact that they have already spent the equivalent of $150,000 on preparations to raise them. If it does prove possible, the rest of the scuttled ships are to be raised. How long this will take is problematical. It may easily run to eight or nine years, though a dependable estimate will hardly be available until the position and condition of each ship has been ascertained.

Fifty One Ships to Salvage.

There is some doubt as to the precise number of German ships now lying on the bottom at Scapa Flow. After the Germans' surrenderee in the Firth of Forth, near Edinburgh, on Nov. 21, 1918, a total of seventy-four ships—eleven battleships, five battle cruisers, eight light cruisers and fifty destroyers—were interned at Scapa. When these were scuttled in the following June by the skeleton German crews left aboard them, Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle, commander of the First Battle Squadron at Scapa, reported to the Admiralty that fifty of the seventy-four ships had gone to the bottom at once and there was no hope of recovering them.

Of the remaining twenty-four, the battleship Baden, the light cruisers Emden, Frankfurt and Nurnberg, and eighteen destroyers were beached, while two destroyers failed to sink. Within the next month, the Baden and the three light cruisers were floated (the Baden has since been used as a target and sunk), and it was also reported that seventeen destroyers had been floated.

If these figures are correct, there are now fifty-one vessels lying in a dead end of the anchorage ground at Scapa, waiting to be floated or blown up. These vessels would include, besides thirty-one destroyers, the following larger vessels: The ten battleships, Friedrich der Grosse, Konig Albert, Kaiser, Kronprinz Wilhelm, Kaiserin, Bayern, Margraf, Prinz Regent Luitpold, Grosser Kurfurst and Konig; the five battle cruisers, Hindenburg, Seydlitz, Derfflinger, Von der Tann and Miltke; and the five light cruisers, Karlsruhe, Brummer, Koln, Bremse and Dresden.

The battle cruisers Hindenburg and Seydlitz have been chosen for raising and breaking up because of the positions in which they lie. The Hindenburg is expected to be the easiest of any of the bigger ships to be raised. If it proves impossible to raise the Hindenburg, the project of raising any of the big ships will have to be abandoned. The Hindenburg lies on an even keel in sixty-six feet of water, its turrets, guns and funnels above water, its main deck awash at low tide. The Seydlitz presents a more difficult salvage job. It lies on its side, about a third of it in sight above the water. Of the twenty-four destroyers that have been sold some show their masts above the, others are completely submerged. All the ships lie in from 60 to 160 feet of water.

Warships Sold for a Song.

Ever since they were scuttled, five years ago, these German ships have figured intermittently in the proceedings of the Reparation Commission and the Supreme Council. The Reparation Commission imposed a "fine" of 250,000 tons of additional harbor material and shipping on Germany for scuttling them, and the Supreme Council later agreed "in principle" that they should be raised and broken up, the proceeds to be divided among the Allies. The proportion which each Ally was to receive, however, has never been decided upon, and the Admiralty's present action has been taken upon its own initiative, the proceeds going to the Admiralty itself.

While the director of the contracts department at the Admiralty has not announced the terms of the successful bid, it has been reported that one English firm that bid unsuccessfully offered the equivalent of $7,500 for each of twenty-two specified destroyers, $3,750 for the battle cruiser Seydlitz, $5,000 for the destroyer Vermese, $2,500 for the battle cruiser Hindenburg, and $1,250 for all the rest lying in deep water.

The bid of Cox & Danks having been accepted, the Admiralty has no more interest in the sold ships further than to assure itself that, if raised, they shall be broken up without leaving the country. The work of raising them is purely a civilian operation and a speculation in scrap metal on the part of the purchasing firm. The admiralty's only anxiety is the hope of clearing the anchorage ground at Scapa.

The contract under which the purchasers have begun work involves the raising of more than 60,000 tons, one of the biggest salvage jobs ever undertaken and one of the most difficult, although all the scuttled ships are lying in comparatively shallow water. Lyness, the Grand Fleet's old base, which was dug out of a mountain side in Hoy Island, and is now abandoned by the British Navy, has been taken over as a base for the salvage operations.

Two divers began an examination of the Hindenburg in June. They found it still intact, even to the bunks in the officers' rooms and the champagne bottles in the wardroom. Five years of submersion, however, had made the big battle cruiser a jungle of seaweed, barnacles and mussels. Seaweed was found trailing to fifteen -foot lengths throughout the ship, and the divers came up festooned with the slimy stuff. Sand and mud had drifted through the portholes in huge heaps, which, when stirred up, made the divers grope though inky darkness. Although there were plenty of crabs and lobsters about, neither of the divers saw any fish.

No announcement has yet been made of the condition in which the Hindenburg's hull and bulkheads are, or of the depth to which it has sunk into the sand and shingle of the bottom. The ship was known to be in very bad shape when it was surrendered in 1918, and it was approaching the "scrap" stage at Scapa Flow before it was scuttled. It is to be presumed that its skeleton crew of Germans did all the damage to it they could with the limited tools which were left at their disposal before they opened its seacocks and sent it to the bottom. It has been stripped of all the brasswork that could be taken from it after it was scuttled.

The first operation in the process of its raising is to be the closing of all its sea inlets with wooden plugs and concrete and metal patches. This will not be an easy task, for the purchasing firm has no plans of the ship, and the divers will have to burrow down into the shingle under its engine room to locate its seacocks.

When its seacocks, its portholes and all other inlets have been plugged up, a steel tube six feet in diameter is to be sunk to the main deck and bolted down. A hole is then to be cut through the deck with electric torches, and similar holes are to be cut through the lower decks until the bottom of the big cruiser is reached. When each deck has thus been cut through, electric pumps capable of lifting 5,000 tons of water an hour are to be lowered into the vessel, and the work of pumping out will begin.

Whether the divers have succeeded in finding every sea inlet will then be ascertainable. If the pumps are found to make no impression on the water in the ship the hull will have to be searched again for inlets. The task has considerable danger, for barnacles and mussels are sharp, and loose wreckage when disturbed sometimes rises violently.

A Delicate Job.

Once the cruiser begins to lift of it own buoyancy its weight will be thrown upon its watertight bulkheads, and it remains to be seen whether the Germans succeeded in damaging these before they scuttled the ship. If the bulkheads hold the ship is to be carried toward shallower water on each tide until it is in convenient position to be floated normally. The chief difficulty in this process is that the heavy top weight of the guns and turrets may make it impossible to keep the ship on an even keel. As soon as it can be settled in shallow water all the heavy top hamper is to be taken off.

E. F. Cox, managing director of Cox & Danks, says the Hindenburg will then be "the biggest and finest pontoon I could want to raise the other big ships." In his opinion the Hindenburg s the crux of the problem. If it can be raised he believes the problem of raising the other big ships at Scapa Flow will virtually be solved.

The twenty-four destroyers the firm has bought are expected to prove a much simpler undertaking. Some time ago Cox & Danks bought from the Admiralty the big floating submarine dock which the Germans surrendered at Harwich. This was towed to the firm's yard at Queenborough, on the Isle of Thanet, and remodelled. Its central chamber, which looked very much as a section of the Hudson tubes might look, was removed and powerful winches were put in place thereof. The other wall was fitted up as a machine shop, and where its sentral chamber had stood heavy cranes were installed.

This 400-foot dock was then towed to Scapa Flow and cut into two pontoons, each of them 200 feet long and each equipped with its own machine shop. The plan was to range these two pontoons one on each side of a scuttled destroyer, to fasten steel cables beneath the destroyer's hull and heavy lifting hooks in its portholes, and to haul it bodily to the surface with the winch gear. With an even break in the luck, it was hoped that a couple of days would suffice to bring up a destroyer in this fashion, but thus far luck has broken badly.

Great Cables Broke.

The destroyer V-70, which lay about a mile east of Lyness pier with its masts projecting above the water, was chosen for a start. Its funnel and masts were taken out, its bow and stern were lifted alternately, and heavy tackle was pass around its hull. The winch gear had begun to lift it bodily from the bottom when a cable snapped under the tremendous dead weight. Three more cables parted immediately and later the last two cables gave way, their broken links raking the decks of the pontoons like shrapnel and sending the workmen rushing for cover.

Nobody was hurt, but the shafting that carried the pulleys through which the cables ran was bent throughout its length, rivets had popped out, and it was feared that many days would have to be used in repairs. Mr. Cox said afterward that he had succeeded in lifting the destroyer seven feet off the bottom before the cables parted, and he hoped to make another attempt in a fortnight's time.

Work is beginning also on another destroyer. Here the process will be different. Concrete barges have been placed on both sides of the sunken vessel, the two barges connected by heavy steel girders to which the lifting tackle is attached. It is planned to pass the tackle around the destroyer's hull and to haul it taut at low water, allowing the tide to lift barges, tackle and submerged destroyer so that the whole works can be towed toward shallow water. By thus moving the destroyer inshore with successive tides, it is believed that salvage can be effected more surely, though the work will be slower.

About seventy workmen are now engaged at Scapa Flow. Before winter interrupts work, it is planned to have 100 men on the job.

DOLLAR HAS LONG BEEN AN INTERNATIONAL COIN

Will Not Be a Stranger in Germany if Chosen as Basis of New Currency, For It Began There as the "Thaler" Four Centuries Ago.

The dollar an international coin? The proposal of the Federal Reserve Board that Germany adopt the dollar basis has stirred opposition in Europe. Bankers there argue against introducing am American coin.

But the dollar is, oddly enough, not an American coin; it is a German coin. That is, speaking historically. In the same sense, it is a Spanish coin, and, further, it has made the nearest approach to universal money that the world has known. The story of the dollar is a tale of many times and many lands.

Dollars were first minted before Columbus had raised the money to fit out his ships to cross the Atlantic. Quite possibly, when he did raise that money, dollars were included in the contents of the sack.

The Chinese trader in Canton knew and handled the big silver cartwheels before the Pilgrims had sighted Plymouth Rock. Dollars were 300 years old when Congress adopted them for the national currency of the young United States 138 years ago.

Germany might well readopt the dollar as being originally one of her own native products. Joachimsthal, the coin's birthplace, lay for many centuries within the German Empire. Today Joachimsthal is no longer German. It passed from Germany to Austria more than a century ago, and it became in 1918 a part of the new nation of Czechoslovakia. It is a little old Bohemian hill town a few miles northeast of Carlsbad and a short distance from the Saxon frontier.

The inhabitants of the place used, in the Middle Ages, to enrich their lords and masters by mining silver and nickel from the depths of Erzgebirge. The feudal lord of the valley about 1486 was a certain Count Schlicht. Being supplied with silver bullion from his own mines, he coined money on his own account. Having some distinctly modern ideas, he believed in what people today call a standardized product. When he minted a batch of coins, he did not vary the composition of the metal that went into them. Though there might be many broken pewter spoons in the castle scullery, he put an honest amount of silver into every coin.

The Count had the further happy idea of turning out a bigger silver coin than most of the other potentates then were striking. As a result of his keenness or of his fairness, harassed merchants who were tired of weighing and biting small and doubtful ducats, nobles and florins tried to get their customers to pay in Schlicht's guldengroschen, as the coins were then called.

The huge resulting demand must have found the Count wide awake and ready to do business, for in a few years his silver pieces, bearing a likeness of their maker charging in full armor on a comparisoned steed, began to pervade all the markets of Europe. They lost their name in their travels, however, and found a shorter one. People came to call them "joachimsthalers," and then simply "thalers." These became "dalers" in parts of the Low Countries, "doldres" in Antwerp, and in Spain "dollars." Thus our dollar derives its name from the German word "thal" meaning "valley," or "dale," or "dell," and having no monetary significance whatever.

There was no effective trademark law to protect the name. Before long other coiners of money began to pay tribute to the dollar's popularity by turning out dollars of their own. One of these competitors had a peculiar and unprecedented advantage. This was the Spanish monarch; he had acquired in Peru and Mexico the richest silver mines that the world had ever known. The Spanish colonial mints began early in the sixteenth century to coin silver pieces resembling the Joachimsthaler in weight and shape.

These were the pieces of eight, justly popular with the freebooters who later preyed on the Spanish silver fleet. They had about the same quantity of silver as that maintained in the United States silver dollar until after the last war. Their name indicated that they were worth eight Spanish reales. For short, they were usually called pesos in Spanish lands. But elsewhere the name of the dollar clung to them.

Spanish Dollars.

The Spanish peso or dollar went everywhere. It worked its way up into the English colonies of North America. These suffered from an insufficiency of currency so great that in Virginia, for example, tobacco by the pound was used in place of cash. Spain, meanwhile, was turning loose a seemingly endless supply of coined silver, and this reached the moneyless portions of the New World. The English colonies, on account of their connection with the mother country, reckoned their finances in pounds and shillings, yet a traveler in Connecticut remarked, as early as 1704, that Spanish dollars were commonly used for considerable payments in cash. When Congress issued its paper currency to meet the cost of the Revolutionary War, it issued notes in denominations of the Spanish dollar. Spain thus supplied the standard coin of our first national currency.

Our continental currency came to grief after the Revolution, but the habit of the dollar grew more firmly fixed. Even so, the pound and the shilling remained the lawful money of Connecticut until 1796, several years after the adoption of the Constitution and the institution of Federal dollar coinage. The rivalry between sterling and the dollar ran high, but in the end the dollar won. It owed its success partly to the anti-English sentiment that followed the War of Independence. Opinions eems, morcover, to have favored the currency that had an abundant supply of actual coin behind it and passed in all parts of the world.

Under various names in a number of countries the Spanish dollar or peso has survived the fall of the Spanish Empire. Many of these countries have, like the Unitde States, provided against the depreciation of silver by changing to the gold basis. The pesos of Argentina and Venezuela and the gourde of Haiti have a value of 96½ cents in our money. The Uruguayan peso is worth $1.03½. Canada's dollar has the same value as ours. So has that of Newfoundland, though until recently it was worth a cent and a half more. Perhaps the most curious dollar of the lot, on account of its remote home, is the talari of Abyssinia. It preserves a modified form of the name that originated in Joachimsthal, and is worth about 97 cents.

The dollar, in name if not in value, is still to be found in the current moneys of Europe. The silver riksdaler of Denmark and that of Sweden are dollar derivatives, in a verbal sense. Their value, however, approximates only 54 cents.

As a rival of the pound sterling and the gold franc, the dollar has the unique distinction of having subsisted for more than four centuries as a coin of fairly even metallic content, in regular use in many countries. It cannot be called an unseasoned coin or a newcomer to Europe.

U. S. RELATIONS WITH JAPANESE AS AT CAPITAL

American Official Does Not Take Serious View of the Situation.

By A. L. BRADFORD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (United Press).—All the benfit to our relations with Japan that came from the limitation of arms conference seem to have been wiped away by the new immigration law.

American officials do not take a serious view of the situation, at least openly. However, even officials of this Government partly admit in private conversation that relations between the United States and Japan today would be strained indeed, if it had not been for the good already accomplished by the Washington parley.

The net result of the immigration law is that the new statute is causing Japan, heretofore the apostle of the occidental world in the Far East, to turn her back upon the west and seek her future in the east, observers here believe. Heretofore, Japan always has regarded Washington and London her two most important diplomatic posts.

On its face, such a development might not seem to be of such serious consequence. But plumbing such a turn of events, some of the serious consequences likely to result become obvious. Should Japan cut her ties with the western world in favor of a definite alignment with her neighbors of the east, this would have a far-reaching effect on the so-called Pan-Asiatic movement to lunp up all Asia. Such an entente of the multitudinous Asiatic race would cause many misgivings in the chancellories of the occident.

Two Factors.

Two factors of great importance in the present eastern situation are under observation here:

1. Japan since the Washington Conference apparently has been pursuing a policy of friendship and agreement with China.

2. Recognition by Japan of Soviet Russia is fully expected in the near future by officials of this Government.

Out of these two factors loom the possibility, long discussed of an alliance between the great Powers of the east, Japan, Russia and China. Those who contest this theory point to traditional animosities between these countries. But it is pointed out on the other hand that the game of world politics usually is played with little or no regard to the fundamentals of race, etc.

Looks to China.

Japan's conciliatory policy toward China Since the Washington Conference would tend to forge one important link in a possible chain of alliance binding the nations of the Far East, some observers think. All the most important links of the chain would be complete with recognition by Japan of Soviet Russia, this argument continues, as relations already have been reestablished between Russia and China, and in a manner alarmingly friendly to some of the Powers refusing still to deal with Moscow.

Russia now has an Ambassador in Pekin, who thus automatically becomes dean of the foreign diplomatic corps there, since the corps otherwise is composed of ministers. Despite the fact that as a result of the policy of the United States in championing the interests of China in the Far East, China always has been very close to America, the celestial nation may not resist the lure of a Far Eastern entente in order to remain a sort of ward of this country some here believe.

Blunt Note.

Following the consummation of the recognition agreement, recently between China and Russia, China dispatched to Washington a rather blunt note replying to a communication from this Government to the effect that China was held responsible for the interests of the Powers in the Chinese Eastern Railway, which declared that questions concerning this railway were matters to be disposed of entirely by Russia and China. The hand of Soviet Russia was seen behind this move.

The possibility of the future moving along the lines indicated in this article would give at least as much concern to the United States as any other nation in the world, it is believed. For long the American Government has interested itself closely in the affairs of the Far East, largely in the interest of China.

The United States has expounded many important policies dealing with the Far East, and short of taking up arms the one way of accomplishing these policies has been through the cooperation of the nations of the east, principally, of course, Japan. But the mood of the island empire in the future will be more and more inclined to checkmate American policies in the East, as the result of the immigration law here barring her subjects, many students of the situation hold.

The years to come will surely bring a severe test to the Four-Pacific Treaty and the other agreements worked out at the Washington Conference to keep the peace of the Pacific.

METALS GET TIRED EXPERIMENTS SHOW

Some Scientists Seek Way to Lighten Man's Burden.

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (Canadian Press).—While psychologists at the British Association on the one hand are busying themselves with the question of reducing mental and muscular fatigue among workers in the various industries, engineers and physicists, on the other, are interesting themselves in the fatigue which they have shown is experienced in metals and machines.

A report presented to the Engineering section by Prof. B. P. Haigh, of the Royal College, Greenwich, describes tests which bring out the fact that dead, inert mechanisms are quite as susceptible to fatigue as humans are. Dr. Haigh showed how a piece of steel, which could resist a steady load of over 30 tons, gave way under a much smaller load which was applied intermittently about a million times, and that if the plate was pierced by a hole, the contrast between the steady and intermittent loads was much greater. Thus it seems that the constant adjustment of the metal to the load, and its recovery when it is removed, have a permanent, vitiating influence, which eventually results in the breakdown of the resisting power.

This observation has direct practical application in the case of an automobile, for example, it is pointed out, since some 72,000 "reversals in load" take place in an hour in the case of a motor operating at 1200 revolutions per second, and a similar hammering force has to be reckoned with in the case of printing presses operating at high speed.

The factor becomes of still greater significance in the case of areoplane engines, where the weight must be kept to a minimum, and the shocks cannot be absorbed by increased weight of the parts concerned, and, in addition to the mechanical factor, the possibility of endangering human life is much greater in this case.

"The exact nature of fatigue in materials, and the nature of determining it, have not yet been determined" Prof. Haigh admitted, but, in the course of his report, he describes various ingenious testing machines which have been designed by him for making the preliminary experiments. Prof. Haigh is given the credit for directing much of the experimental work in this pioneer field.

FABLES ON HEALTH

SUMMER TIPS.

Keep the tops of garbage cans tightly covered.

Provide yourself with fly traps or fly paper.

Keep windows screened, particularly those leading to the pantry.

These are a few of the "summer don'ts" observed by the hygeinic club of Anytown. For this is the season when the fly and the mosquito are abroad in the land with their ever-present threat of germs and disease.

The garbage can is one of the favorite camping grounds of the fly and altogether too much carelessness is tolerated by thousands of people who fail to keep the cans covered.

One good way of helping to get rid of flies in the house is to make a 1 per cent. formalin solution and leave it in a saucer. Flies usually seek something to drink in the morning and will meet their doom from this concoction.

Fly paper, traps and other mediums can also be employed to good effect if desired. The important thing is to rid the house of them whatever the method employed may be.

REGATTA HELD AT CROWE LAKE

J. McCullough Won the Men's Single Canoe Race.

RAIN INTERFERED

MARMORA, Aug. 14. — Crowe Lake was en fete on Wednesday for the annual Regatta under the auspices of St. Paul's church. Rain in the forenoon unfortunately mitigated against the attendance. Old Sol however, permitted the holding of the aquatic events under the able superintending of Mr. A. V. Yates. The following are the results:

Lawrence and C. Gladney.

Men's single skirf race — 1, S. Lawrence; 2, H. Doig.

Ladies' tandem canoe race — 1, Miss B. McCullough, Miss Ackerman

Men's single canoe race — Mr. J. McCullough.

Mixed canoe race—Mr. J. and Miss B. McCullough.

Men's Swimming race—1, Mr. F. Groves; 2, Mr. R. A. Kirkpatrick.

Ladies' Swimming race—1, Miss MacPherson, 2,, Miss F. Ackerman.

Swimming race—Boys under 15 —1, Leslie Emigh; 2, William Shannon.

Walking greasy pole—1, Clarence Campion.

A very attractive midway did great business whilst the sunshine lasted. With the return of rain some sections were taken into the interior of Marble Cliff pavilion. Here also to the strains of Myer's Orchestra, the younger folk gaily danced. Lunches and suppers were served at reasonable prices. A feature that is noteworthy was the attendance of so many of the elderly folk.

L. T. B. A. Degrees.

On the occasion of the official visit of Worshipful Bro. W. J. Cottrell, D. D. G. M., of North Hastings District, L.T.B.A., to Sulphide L.T.B. 127 also attended after opening ceremoniees, Bro. Russel Marsh, W. M., of Sulphide Lodge, called upon the visiting lodge to assume charge. Four candidates received the white degree with Bro. M. W. Emmorey.

The D.D.G.M. took charge as the Scarlet Degree was exemplified, 7 candidates being elevated at its conclusion, intermission was called for lunch, following which the D. D. G. M.'s charge was given. Speeches by members of both lodges brought to close a memorable night in the history of each lodge.

Fishing Luck Fails.

Mr. Sanford Lawrence of hunting and angling prowess, soberly admits that his angling feats have not been up to the usual standard this year. Thus far his best fish has been the average 8 lb. weight though he claims a tussle with an 18 lb. beauty which in the end eluded him.

Deloro Play Roseneath.

MARMORA, August 14.—Deloro are drawn to play Roseneath at the latter place on Saturday next, through Picton not being yet established in their league. Many ardent supporters are expected to make the journey.

BLUE NILE DAM BUILDERS WIN 6 MONTHS' RACE AGAINST FLOOD

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Aug. 15. —British engineers who are fast completing the world's biggest dam on the Blue Nile in the Sudan, have triumphed in a six months' race against the Nile floods.

The chief object of the dam is to raise the level of the water at this spot to a height at which it will flow through canals to irrigate a tract of more than 3,000 acres of land.

The annual floods, which reach their highest in mid-July, threatened to nullify the work of the engineers. Faced with this fact they have pushed the operations with an army of 19,000 workmen for the past six months before winning a victory which was in doubt to the last minute.

WILSON'S FLY PADS

Kill them all, and the germs too. 10c a packet at Druggists, Grocers and General Stores.

Ava Astor Weds

A romance which has been the gossip of England's society circles for sime time led Miss Ava Alice Astor, daughter of the late Colonel John Jacob Astor, to the altar as the bride of Prince Obelensky of Aussia. The prince's first wife, Princess Catherine Alexandrovna daughter of the former Russian czar, divorced him last January.

THE WEATHER.

Lowest temperature last night 42 degrees, and frost was not far away. This summer has been a remarkable one for for its coolness. We have yet to experience any excessive heat, and 90 degrees has not yet been reached. The day temperature seldom goes much above 80 degrees, and frequently even that figure is not attained. Usually at this season the whole countryside has a browned and parched appearance. Not so this year. Frequent copious showers, cool westerly winds, and Old Sol's tempered rays, have combined to give us a summer that is in a class by itself.—W.P.

OTHER NEWS

COBOURG, Aug. 15.—This is a big week in Cobourg's summer season in fact it is the week of the summer here. The town is full of visitors and there are the Horse Show events in the day time and social events, dinners, teas, luncheons and dances at night.

Trum—de Herr.

A marriage a little out of the ordinary was solemnized here Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage in that the bride had come all the way from Holland to marry the man to whom she was bethrothed. At 3.49 Miss Christiana de Herr arrived on the fast train from Montreal and at 4.30 was married to Mr. Gerardas J. Trum, who had preceded her to Canada and to Cobourg. The young couple were accompanied by Mr and Mrs. Roberts, Provincial Road, West, where the groom is engaged and where they will reside. Both come from Rotterdam, Holland.

The Late Mrs. A. R. Stephenson.

The death took place at Ogdensburg, N.Y., on August 5, of Mrs. Stephenson, wife of Dr. A. R. Stephenson and before her marriage, Sarah Helen Carruthers. The local friends of Dr. Stephenson, who was a son of the late Joseph Stephenson of Coboug will sympathize with him in his bereavement.

District I.O.D.E. Event.

At the last regular meeting of the Cobourg Primary Chapter of the I.O.D.E. it was decided to have a gathering of District Chapters here on September 18, which is expected to be a grand rally day. Out-of-town speakers, prominent in the west, will address the gathering.

Local and Personal.

Capt. and Mrs. James Peacock celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Port Hope on August 4. Mr. and Mrs. A. Matthews, Rochester, who were groomsman and bridesmaid at the first happy event, came over, and went up to Port Hope to join other friends in congratulations and good wishes.

Personals.

Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, Wellington, who preached in the Methodist Church here on Sunday has been spending a holiday at Omemee, where he formerly resided.

Mr. F. C. Merrill returned last week from a pleasant holiday spent at Rochester, Buffalo, Chatham and other points, but Mrs. Merrill, who accompanied him remained over with her mother and others of the family to spent "Old Home Week" at the latter place.

Senator and Mrs. Laird of Regina visited with old friends in Port Hope and Cobourg last week. Senator Laird is a former well-known Cobourg citizen.

Mrs. Geo. Ramsden has the honor of being the first Port Hope citizen to receive a letter by aerial mail. It was posted by her daughter, Mrs. D. Crittendene at San Francisco, Cal., Saturday night and reached its destination the following Monday. The letter bore a 24 cent aerial stamp.

Miss Dingman, Miss Eleanor Laird, Miss Fair and Miss M. McConnell, Toronto are in town for Miss May Pringle's marriage.

Mrs. Martin and Miss Martin, Chicago, are spending some weeks at Miss Payne's, College street.

Mrs. W. J. Parsons, Toronto, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. L. Cruso, Fort Francis, is coming down for the week-end to attend Miss Pringle's wedding and will then go to Rice Lake to open their summer home at Lee Island.

RICE LAKE IS BEST

Buffalo Sportsmen Considers Fishing Grounds Unequalled.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 15.—Mr. Chas. Renner of Buffalo, N.Y., with his party returned home on Tuesday after having spent a pleasant two weeks' vacation camping at Barnard's Landing, Rice Lake. This is the second time this season that Mr. Renner and party have been camping here, and they are in hopes of being able to return for a time during the duck shooting season. On both occasions that they have visited these parts they have had excellent success fishing, each time returning home with a good load of maskinonge and pickerel.

Mr. Renner stated that although he had visited many different fishing grounds, still Rice Lake has them all beat for both quantity and quality of fish.

Mrs. A. Pengelley, widow of the late Bishop Pengelley of Summerville, South Carolina, with her little son Arthur is visiting at her late husband's home at Rice Lake.

Ronald Isbister of Detroit is a guest of his parents.

Earle and Edgar Hughes of Toronto are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Isbister.

Rev. A. H. McConnachie of Centreville conducted services in one of the leading Presbyterian churches in Toronto on Sunday last. Mr. Jas. Dutton of Peterboro took the Sunday morning service at Centreville in the pastor's absence.

Miss Verna Fell of Peterborough spent the week-end the guest of friends at Bailieboro.

Mr. B. Blake of Campbellford was a guest of friends in this village on Sunday.

Mrs. John Jewison of Toronto is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hy Barnard.

REPORTS PRESENTED AT THE FIRE FIGHTERS' CONVENTION

N. F. P. A. PLATFORM

We have had before us the report of the Convention of the National Fire Protection Association, of which we are Associate Members, and we would like to take the privilege of bringing before your attention the platform of the Association that we have affiliation with, as we think that it will be of some benefit to all of us.

The National Fire Protection Association, assembled for its twenty-eighth annual meeting, advocates the following measures for reduction of the preventable fire waste of the United States and Canada:

1. The systematic inspection of all buildings by city fire marshals or local firemen to insure the enforcements of rules for cleanliness, good housekeeping, and the maintenance of safe and unobstructed exits, fire-fighting apparatus and other protective devices, and to enable firemen to become thoroughly familiar with the essential structural and other features of buildings which it is their duty to protect.

2. The enactment by each state and province of the fire marshal law advocated by the Fire Marshals' Association of North America to the end that official investigation may be made of the causes of all fires, preventable fires may be eliminated by public education, and the crime of arson stamped out through vigorous prosecution of incendiaries.

3. The adoption by all states and provinces of minimum building and fire protection requirements for the protection of public and private hospitals, schools, asylums and places of public assembly.

4. The education of children and the public generally in careful habits regarding the use of fire.

5. The exercise of the utmost care in the use of matches and smoking materials and the enforcement of legislation prohibiting smoking in all parts of industrial and mercantile buildings except in such fire-resistive rooms as may be especially provided for the purpose.

6. The adoption and enforcement by municipalities of the Standard Building Code of the National Board of Fire Underwriters to the end that fire-resistive building construction may be encouraged, the use of inflammable roof coverings prohibited, and building interiors so designed and fire-stopped as to prevent the development and spread of fire therein.

7. The wider general use of the automatic sprinkler as a life saver and fire extinguishing agent and the more general use of standard smoke-proof towers and of horizontal exits through properly protected openings in fire division walls as important life saving facilities.

8. A careful study of the technical surveys of cities published by the National Board of Fire Underwriters covering the items of water supplies, their adequacy and reliability, fire department efficiency, fire alarm systems and conflagration hazards, and of the possibility of co-operation among neighboring cities through mutual aid and the standardization of hose couplings.

9. The adoption of effective legislation regulating the purchase, sale, use and storage of nitro-cellulose motion picture films; the prohibition of the display of such film in any building not equipped with a standard enclosing booth, and the ultimate substitution in the manufacture and use of motion picture films of the slow-burning film in place of the nitro-cellulose film.

10. The general prohibition of the discharge or firing of fireworks, fire balloons, or other pyrotechnic display except as a public function conducted by properly authorized individuals under the supervision of officers of the fire departments.

11. A more general legal recognition of the common law principle of personal liability for damage resulting from fires due to carelessness or neglect, and the enactment of laws or ordinances fixing the cost of extinguishing preventable fires upon persons disregarding fire prevention orders.

12. The application of the above and other well recognized principles of fire protection to local conditions through the agency of fire prevention committees now existing or to be created in the municipalities of North America.

DEATH OF EX-LEADER OF LIBERAL PARTY

Since our last convention there has passed away to the great beyond one of the four leaders who were so favorable and anxious to see that the Firemen received humane working conditions. This was Mr. Hartley H. Dewart. We expressed our respects through a floral contribution at the time of the funeral as well as sending a resolution of condolence. Ever since our inception as an organization we have not played any one side of politics, and we have always been thankful of having friends in all corners of the Legislature, and it was with sorrow that we became aware of the death of one of our faithful supporters. In reply to our resolution the following communication was received:

D. H. Lamb, Secretary-Treasurer,
Ontario Fire Fighters.

Dear Mr. Lamb,—Will you express to the organization of the Ontario Fire Fighters my very grateful thanks for their deep sympathy and kind thought of me in my overwhelming loss. My husband always took a great interest in your organization, and I appreciate very much the beautiful wreath of roses and carnations you sent me.

Believe me, very sincerely yours,
(Signed) EMMA DEWART.

CONVENTION REPORTER

We are glad to report that we were fortunate enough to obtain the services of our original convention reporter, Mr. E. C. Young, for this convention.

CONVENTION AND ARRANGEMENTS

Full power was given to the Secretary to look after the 1924 Convention, and the Peterboro Branch expressed themselves to the effect that they would like to have a banquet somewhat similar to that of Hamilton to be run under the same arrangements. This we agreed to, and the results of same will prove its worth on Thursday evening.

FIRE PREVENTION

We note that under the report of the Convention of the National Fire Protection Association the committee dealing with Fire Prevention Week tell of how this week was observed last year in many cities. They cite the fact that in many of the municipalities the firemen went out and into the schools and had prepared an address on Fire Prevention that appealed to the younger folks. Fire Prevention Week has become a integral part of the civic life of all progressive communities [illegible] department taking an active part this year.

Mr. F. H. Wentworth, the Secretary of the N. F. P. A., offers his services and experienced ideas to all those wanting same. Just write to his office at 40 Central Street, Boston, U. S. A., and he will give you some helpful ideas on how to bring before the public that an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. If you feel that your Branch would like to do something this September, now is the time to start organizing your campaign.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS

To the Delegates, Peterboro 1924 Convention.

In submitting my report for the year 1923-24, I do not intend to take up too much of your valuable time, as I feel that the General Report will cover all activities.

During the year just brought to a close, I have endeavored to be as watchful and ready as in the past to aid and help the Federation and its membership, as it were possible for me to be.

It was my pleasant duty to visit in the past year Peterboro and Kingston Branches, and I cannot speak too highly in their praise.

In conclusion, I wish to thank my Brother Executive Officers and the General Membership for their kind help and interest shown.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) JAMES J. O'KELLY,
1st Vice-President.

To the Officers and Delegates Assembled in the 1924 Convention.

In submitting my second report as 2nd Vice-President and an officer of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, I first wish to thank the members for the confidence they have placed in me by electing me to their Executive Board.

I have tried in every way to further the interests and aims of the association. I have attended all the meetings of the executive and at all time, I have had the interests and welfare of all the members before me, and while I have nothing special to report of my own individual efforts, I have been in communication with several of the smaller towns in the north, and while they have not as yet joined they are giving the matter sincere consideration.

Thanking you for the confidence placed in me, and, hoping that what I have done meets with your approval, I am,

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) W. O'ROURKE,
2nd Vice-President

To the Officers and Members of the P.F.O.F.F.

I beg to submit to you my report as an Executive Officer for the year 1923-1924.

I have attended all meetings of your Executive Board, during the past year and taken an active interest in all matters pertaining to the membership at large, and have tried to perform every duty of my office in the best interests of this Association. I was instructed by your Executive to proceed to two or three places in the western part of the Province, with a view to organizing them, but owing to a re-organization taking place in our department at that time, I was unable to get away. Should you favor me with a renewal of your confidence, I can assure you I will visit these places as soon after the Convention as possible. I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the Officers and Members of this Association for the many courtesies and co-operation given me during my term of office.

Hoping this report will meet with your approval and wishing the P.F.O.F.F. every success and prosperity in the future, I am,

Yours fraternally,
(Signed) J. McGRATTEN,
Executive Officer.

To Officers and Memoers, Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters:

In submitting this report of my activities as an Executive Officer, to the delegates here assembled at our 1923-1924 Convention, I will do so as briefly as possible.

This has been my second term as an Executive Officer, and although perhaps the results were not as great as they should have been, I have at all times worked in the interest and for the betterment of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters. I have attended all meetings called by the President as well as attending to anything referred to me by our Secretary-Treasurer, and have given all matters brought to my attention, careful consideration and an honest and unbiased opinion, with the welfare of our organization at heart.

It also fell to my lot to have the distinguished honour of organizing a new branch in which act my efforts were rewarded with an 100 per cent. success and I am very pleased to say that the members of the St. Catharines Fire Force are now formed into a Branch of our organization. This, I think safe in saying, "Baby Branch" of the Federation will bear watching as they start away 100% strong and have members whose strength of thought will in short time bear fruits that many of us will profit from.

Before concluding my report, I wish to thank the members of the Executive and the members as a whole for the most generous support and confidence shown in the past year, and I sincerely hope that it will continue for the 1924-25 executive, and we can feel assured that only success can be the lot of our organization.

Trusting that my record for the past year meets with the approval of all concerned,

I wish to remain, yours fraternally,
(Signed) CHAS. F. McCARTHY,
Executive Officer.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Ontario Fire Fighters' Convention, assembled in Peterborough.

Brothers—I have been paid the honor of being elected to the Eecutive Board of the Ontario Federation at the Hamilton Convention and at the December meeting of the Executive was placed on the Legislative Committee, and in conjunction with the work of that committee I have given my every thought and effort to make the work placed with us a success. Although it may not look at a glance that our efforts have proved fruitful, yet in comparison to other associations, etc., who have made proposals for legislation to the Legislature at the last session, we have not suffered any in comparison. The last session was one that was far from following any precedent and there were many matters, our own wants included, that the Government were forced to lay over temporarily on account of the pressure of other work. The report of the Executive as a body covers our legislative work in the past year.

This is my first year on the Executive Board and I have attended all meetings and on any vote or discussion of business appertaining to the welfare of our organization, I have at all times considered thoroughly how it will effect us as a body.

Thanking you for the honour you have done me in the past and trusting that what I have done will meet with your approval, I remain,

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) R. LYONS,
Executive Officer.

Report of Secretary-Treasurer D. H. Lamb

For the Year 1923-1924

To the Officers and Delegates of the Fifth Annual Convention of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, Greetings:

Acting in accordance with Article IX., Section 3, of our Constitution and By-Laws, I take great pleasure in submitting to you herewith my report covering the period from August 1st, 1923, up to and including July 31st, 1924.

This is the fifth consecutive time that I have had the honour and esteemed privilege of preparing for your consideration a report covering the activities of the combined position of Secretary and Treasurer of the Ontario Fire Fighters, as well as showing our financial position. Our progress has been next to phenomenal, both in the work accomplished as well as the growth of the Federation financially.

Since our last Convention I have had the pleasure of attending the Sixth Annual Convention of the International Association of Fire Fighters, that was held in Montreal, Quebec, on September 10th to 15th, 1923. While in session there were two matters that will be of interest to the Ontario Fire Fighters, namely, that resolutions were passed, addressed to the Dominion Government of Canada, asking for Dominion-wide legislation covering the Two Platoon System and the One Day Off in Seven. Although personally I am of the opinion that legislation of this nature will not be passed by the Dominion Government, but they will refer the same over to the Government of each Province, still the nature of the resolutions and the bringing of the same to the attention of the Dominion Government will be good as an educational movement, as it will instill in the minds of our Dominion Legislators that the wants of the firemen must be attended to. Ontario is blessed by being the first Province in Canada to adopt these measures, and since then we are followed in similar legislation by British Columbia, and in Alberta the Two Platoon and Day Off Bill passed, but in the case of the latter Act this must receive a majority vote of the electors in the municipalities affected by the Act. In Saskatchewan the firemen were not so lucky, as they were on the losing end of getting such legislation.

At the close of the I. A. F. F. Convention, as Secretary-Treasurer of the Ontario Fire Fighters I was laid a most distinguished honour as I was called upon by President Fred. Baer to act as presiding officer over the nominations and elections. I am sure our members are all pleased to learn that our old friend Fred. Baer and Geo. Richardson were both returned to office. George, you know, comes from Western Canada.

In my report I have tried to be as brief as possible, and yet at the same time not neglect giving you a definite report on my actions both as an officer and trustee of your finances, and I trust that the same will meet with your favor.

MEMBERSHIP

We still have growing pains, and the Federation now numbers nineteen Branches. Since our 1923 Convention we have added two Branches, namely, Brockville (re-instated) and St. Catharines, which now makes our total membership who are paid-up members 1292. Our hopes are now that long before our next convention we can report that three other departments have taken out affiliation.

ARGENTINE AVIATORS OFF

Argentine airmen have hopped off in an effort to fly around the world. Major Zani, pilot., and his mechanic, Ecltrame, have taken to the air at Rotterdam, Holland, hoping to equal the sensational feat of American flyer—a feat which British and French airmen were unable to complete.

SPARKS CIRCUS WAS GOOD SHOW

Two Performances With Large Variety of Acts. Some Of The Many Features.

The Sparks Circus came to town yesterday and gave two big performances, vanishing last night in the usual way of circuses, and leaving behind it the reputation for being a very good circus indeed. There were large crowds present for both afternoon and evening performances the evening audience numbering about three thousand people, and there was plenty of entertainment of various sorts for everyone. The Sparks aggregation is an example of the new type of circus which offers a really high-class entertainment at a moderate price, and specializes in clean attractions, beautiful costuming and clever acts. It was wholesome and entertaining from beginning to end, offering nothing that could offend the acutest sensibilities, and giving a splendid programme, featuring some really brilliant events.

The long noon parade, with its three bands, two calliopes and clean, attractive appearance, gave an idea of the worth of the ensuing performances, which opened with an Egyptian Fantasy, featuring Bessie Harvey, a lady gowned in red velvet, with gorgeous red-plumed headdress, seated on her kneeling elephant, and singing in splendid voice. An interval in the song, with its general chorus from the massed performers on the hippodrome track, was a nautch dance by a rose-clad girl in the central ring. Noticeable in the Fantasy was the clean, neat appearance of every performer and animal and the variety offered, with horsemen and horsewomen in red and yellow, carrying bells that made a chiming chorus, African blacks with tom-toms and native cymbals, kimona'd Japs afoot and women perched on plodding elephants, camels and striped zebras and clowns.

The array of clowns was as varied and interesting as any feature of the performance, and the "lady" masher who strove to inveigle visiting males added much to the hilarity of the watchers.

In the three rings there was something doing every minute. Thrills, many and strong, held the audience, while Steve Batty put his five big African lions through a series of venturesome stunts, the big beasts snarling and threatening their trainer as he cracked his whip and fired blank cartridges over their heads. Franz Woske's tiger group, with the beautifully marked, tawny cats coughing hoarse defiance, was another tumultuous and exciting act, and there was plenty of applause also for the performance of the big white polar bears with their two great Dane companions.

Two of the cleverest acts of an excellent programme were those of Professor Kloske's sixteen 'rotation' horses and a seal act. The first was a wonderful exhibition by eight pairs of finely-matched roan, dapple grey and white horses, beautiful beasts that answered every command, delivered in German, by their trainer, and enchanted the audience with their execution of army drills and manoeuvres. Scattering at a word, they became mixed in a central groun, then returned each to its own place.

Capt. Tiebor's seals were almost human in their cleverness, balancing balls on their noses and ascending ladders, while Barney, a big, petted seal, played the National Anthem all by himself with an air of comical satisfaction.

Bessie Harvey, mounted on horseback, sang again, trained pigeons flying to her and her steed; Tom Burns' pure white collies and two dexterous elephant acts, by Frances Widener and Statia Carray; groups of elephants and ponies, a riding ostrich that careened madly about the track with its clown rider, and had to be blinded to get it to return to its cage; Carl Wolf's llamas and ponies, the former a distinct novelty added to the general bill of fare.

Sparks' ten dancing horses, featuring Baron de Bell, ridden by Florence Harris, who accomplished a full body layback while the horse did a hind leg rear up, were loudly applauded. The habits of the lady riders here, as in the other acts, were exceptionally smart and attractive. Lady Fashion, a beautiful light brown horse, with heavy cream mane and tail and silken body, was a universal favorite, the intelligent beast getting much applause for its execution of the Chicken Reel and Argentine Tango.

Scenic features included the performance of dainty Naida Miller, a high-wire dancer who did some thrilling stunts in a jaunty manner, the Flying Walters on the aerial bars, a ballerina troupe of Spanish dancing and bareback riders in a comedy act, the Boston Brothers' acrobatic and balancing act, the Mardo trio of comedy acrobats, the Koban troupe of Japanese acrobats and high perch artists, featuring Kaichi, who walked up a flight of steps on his head, and there were plenty of thrills in the Boston Brothers' hand-to-hand catch over the heads of seven men, and the Jap Sakata's rope slide from the top of the big tent to the ground.

Instead of the old-time chariot race, the circus closed with a genuine English fox-hunt, the men and women in hunting "pink," with hounds trailing behind. This event featured Extra Dry, ridden by Florence Harris, in a thirty-foot broad jump.

A Wild West show, featuring some clever lassoing stunts and a boxing match in which Wilf Jones of Peterboro outstayed a circus challenger through four rounds, winning fifteen dollars at each performance, closed one of the best and cleanest circuses seen here in some time.

DRUNK IN THE AIR.

Aviator Arrested Under Unusual Conditions.

GARDEN CITY, Kansas, Aug. 15. (United Press.) — The city lawyers are going through the statute books in order to find out if there is anything in them which says that a man can't get drunk in the air.

Yesterday Clyde Horchem, an aviator of Ransom, Kansas, landed on a vacant field near here. He reeled out of his plane and looked about.

The neighbors called the police.

"Who are you?" the police asked.

"I am an aviator. I am flying from either Wichita or Oklahoma. I don't know exactly which," the aviator replied.

He went to jail after the police had ofund a ¼ gallon of alcohol in the plane. He is charged with transporting liquor, pending possible charges of "intoxicated while flying."

The Surprisingly Low Price of Goodyear Balloons

YOU are probably using one of the following popular sizes of straight-side, high-pressure tires—31x4, 32x4, 33x4, 32x4½, 33x4½, 34x4½, 33x5.

A year ago to-day you were able to buy these sizes of Goodyear Tires at the lowest prices in the history of the automobile business.

To-day you can buy Goodyear Balloon Tires to fit the same wheels for even less money.

Just think—Balloon Tire comfort, Balloon Tire saving on you and your car, Goodyear quality—for less than you paid a year ago for high-pressure tires requiring lots of air.

Goodyear quality increased by the invention of SUPER-TWIST, the superior new Goodyear Cord Fabric.

See the Goodyear Selected Dealer regarding a pair or a set of Balloon Tires for your car. Goodyear makes Balloon Tires to fit six sizes of wheels—the wheels now on your car, or new smaller wheels if you prefer their appearance or if you need them for fender clearance.

Remarkable and Instructive Demonstration of

VARI-TONE FOR WALL DECORATING

(Replaces Wallpaper)

ALL ARE INVITED—especially Architects, Painters, and House Decorators—by COLEMAN BROS., to see Demonstrated in their Store, MONDAY, 18TH AUGUST, the wonderful potentialities of VARI-TONE for Interior Wall Decorating.

VARI-TONE is a newly patented Sponge Roller method for simply, practically, and economically applying colours to Walls in a clean and uniform maner, thus producing attractive and novel decorative effects.

This device makes possible the application of two or more colours on the same surface, producing an intermingling of shades, which effect is both pleasing and harmonious, and impossible of achievement with a brush or other form of application.

The possibilities of this device are limited only by the originality and taste of the operator, and does away with such makeshift, uncleanly methods of applying paint, as wadded paper, rolled newspapers, rags, rope, etc., as used in the past.

Visitors will be surprised at the ease with which this decoration can be put on Walls, and that with this tool they can get Actual Wall Paper Effects in the most beautiful designs.

FIREMEN CONFER HIGHEST HONOUR ON PETER HERD

First President of the Federation Is Appointed A Life Member.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Important Resolutions Deal With Couplings and Household Water Boilers.

Peter S. Herd of Toronto, the first president of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters on its organization, was yesterday, the recipient of the highest honour in the power of the Federation to confer when he was elected a life say of the good work of the past member of the association. All who spoke to the proposal had much to president, and Fire Marshall E. C. Heaton joined in the felicitations.

The Fifth Annual Convention of the Federation, yesterday evening, concluded its business sessions with the election of officers and choice of next convention city, and last night wound up the hard work of the conference with the annual dinner.

In the record of the resolutions committee, which reported yesterday, was some of the most constructive work of the convention. One of the recommendations made in the National Fire Prevention Associaton platform was the study of co-operation between municipalities, with special attention drawn to the stand ardization of hose couplings, and on this the report of the resolutions committee was adopted as follows:

We believe this to be a vital subject of interest of Fire Brigades and the people of Ontario, but recognizing the greatness of the task we recommend that a special committee consisting of Bros McGratton, chairman; Jones, and McCarthy, be appointed to deal specially with the subject and bring in a special report at the next convention. Further that this committee have power to confer with the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Committee with a view of securing joint action to secure a standard thread.

We further recommend that the Otario Fire Marshanll be requested to name an engineer from his staff to co-operate in the work of the special committee.

Safety Valves.

Another recommendation embodied in the annual reports, and one that is of universal interest, affecting as it does nearly every home in every city and town, arose out of an accident in Ottawa in which a domestic water boiler burst wrecking a house. There was no loss of life, probably due to the fact that the house was new and unoccupied

The recommendation was:

That whereas, in the City of Ottawa there was a domestic hot water boiler which blew up and caused the complete wreck of a private house, and,

Whereas, the water pressure at that time was approximately 45 pounds and that such boiler was one newly installed and that this same was due to white lead blocking the water circulation and that there was considerable amount of steam pressru placed on boiler, therefore,

Be it resolved: That we do approve of the recommendation that all municipal committees dealing with plumbing, steam fitting and Sanitary engineering should consider the advisability of having passed a bylaw to the effect that it be compulsory that a safety cock or valve be placed on all domestic hot water boilers.

J. J. O'Kelly, of Ottawa, father of the resolution, asked for Fire Marshal Heaton's opinion, and Mr. Heaton concurred in the suggestion and supported the proposal to draw the attention of the municipal authorities to the danger of domestic boilers blowing up. He said great credit was due to Mr. Kelly for his investigation which uncovered the facts in the Ottawa case. The proposal of the committee was concurred in by the delegates, and the recommendation will be communicated to the proper authorities in every city and town in Ontario of over 5,000 population.

These two items, the standardization of hose couplings and the provision of safetly valves on domestic boilers were made the progressive aims of the Federation for this year, being desigated by Fire Harshall Heaton, the most necessary and important problems confronting fire fighters at this time.

Benefit Fund.

Branch No. 3 of the Federation submitted a resolution as follows:

Whereas, some of the members of our Federation are not covered by life insurance to any great extent;

Be it resolved, That we, Branch No. 3, place ourselves on record of placing this motion before the Convention. "That in the event of the death of any member of our organisation, that is in good standing, that the sum of one dollar be collected from each member and paid over to his widow or next of kin."

After prolonged discussion, in which alternate plans were mooted, it was decided by the convention to submit the question to a referendum after explanation of the details has been made to the various branches.

Election of Officers.

P. S. Herd, Toronto, acted as the chairman during the election of the officers, and the following were nominated and declared elected without opposition:

J. J. O'Kelly, Ottawa, president.

W. O'Rourke, Sault Ste. Marie, 1st vice-president.

John McGrattan, Brantford, 2nd vice-president.

D. H. Lamb, Toronto, secretary-treasurer (re-elected).

C. F. McCarthy, Hamilton, R. Lyons, Toronto, and J. Connor, Galt, members of the Executive Board.

J. R. Coulbeck, Brantford, and A. Cross, Toronto, auditors.

There were also nominated for the Executive Board fut defeated on the ballots, R. Rollo, Peterborough, E. Grant, Sarnia, and J. R. Coulbeck, Brantford.

W. Jones, Peterborough, and J. Gordon, Hamilton, declined nomination for the board of auditors, and E. Grant, Sarnia, was defeated on the second ballot after tying J. R. Coulbeck on the first.

C. F. McCarthey, elected executive officer, is an old Peterborough boy, having lived on Park Street fifteen years ago. He is now residing in Hamilton.

The newly elected officers were installed according to the Federation ritual by Mr. Herd, and assumed their positions.

Next Convention.

Following a decision to hold the next convention and subsequent gatherings in June instead of August, the delegates chose Kitchener as the next convention city.

Fort William and Kitchener had entered written applications for the honour, and in the debate the former was sponsored by Lyons and Cross and the latter by Blackler and Gordon. Rollo and McAllister proposed and seconded respectively Belleville, but the Belleville delegates declared their city could not handle the convention.

On the ballot Kitchener obtained 18 votes, Fort William 4, and Belleville 2.

Votes of Thanks.

Votes of thanks to Branch 11 of the Federation (Peterborough), to Mayor J. J. Turner, the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council, Fire Chief George Gimblett, the Chamber of Commerce, the press, and the citizens of Peterborough, were moved by S. B. Blackler, and seconded by E. Grant.

Speaking to the motions, D. H. Lamb commented specially on the kindness of the Chamber of Commerce in placing the convention room at the disposal of the delegates and allowing them the use of the office and stenographic staff of the Chamber.

R. Lyons said the Peterborough Branch of the Federation and Chief Gimblett have given the delegates more attention than in any other place where a convention has been held.

Incorporated in the vote of thanks to the Peterborough firemen was a proposal to present them with an illuminated address and a gavel.

Don't Want Wives.

President O'Kelly failed to get through the first business he approached as new chief executive when he threw out hints that someone propose that delegates take their wives to Kitchener on the next convenion. He remarked that the Fire Fighters' Federation is unique in that respect, being almost the only convention where the delegates leave their wives at home. No one proposed the change, and no action was taken.

Fire Marshal Heaton, replying to a vote of thanks extended to him, said: "It has been a source of great delight and benefit to listen to the businesslike way in which the proceedings here have been conducted. It has been a model convention in two respects at least. The delegates were present at roll call, betokening a remarkable interest on the part of the members, and only one delegate was absent from the sessions on account of illness. We now have three or four organisations interested in the suppression and prevention of fire. You are doing good work."

The executive committee was instructed to prepare a suitable recognition for immediate past President Blackler.

Secretary R. Carr and Captain Jones of the Peterborough Branch said the local Fire Department will benefit through the exchange of ideas at the convention. They expressed the pleasure of the local branch in entertaining the convention, and hoped for a return at no distant date.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

WHAT MRS. FIELD MOUSE SAID

"Howdy, do!" she said when she saw Nancy and Nick.

"Did you find out anything?" asked Mister Zip. "Did you find out why so many people are getting into Happy Go Lucky Park for nothing?"

The Twins shook their heads. "Not yet," said Nick. "We went to see Mrs. Field Mouse in the basement of Maple Tree Flats, and she says she gives Flop money for taking home washings. She says he spends it all coming to your park, and she doesn't care, because she knows he's safe here."

"All right," said the fairyman. "Maybe you'd better go and see Mrs. Mole next."

"We were just going to," said Nancy.

So away went the Twins to Mrs. Mole's house under the hazel bush.

Mrs. Mole was at home and just doing up the lunch dishes.

Tap, tap, tap! went Nick on her front door.

Mrs Mole dried her hands and answered it. "I do declare," she remarked to herself, "I never put my hands into a batch of biscuit dough or dish water or something like that, that somebody doesn't come. Who do you s'pose it is?"

She put on her specks (for she was very near-sighted) and opened the door. "Howdy, do!" she said when she saw Nancy and Nick.

"How do you do," said the Twins. "Is Mikey at home?"

"No," said Mrs. Mole; "he isn't. He's at Happy Go Lucky Park. He's there nearly all the time since it opened."

"Has he any money?" asked Nick.

"Money!" exclaimed Mrs. Mole. "I should say so. Why, how could he get in without money, I'd like to know? The worst of it is, just because he's so big for his age, Mister Zip charges him full fare. And he's two weeks younger than his cousin, who always gets in for half."

"It's kind of you to let him go every day," said Nancy.

"Oh, I couldn't afford it," said Mrs. Mole, "only my brother always sends Mikey a dollar on his birthday. I keep it for him and give him 10 cents a day to spend. That's where he gets his money."

"Well, we will see him some time again," said Nick. "Goodby!"

So back to Happy Go Lucky Park went the Twins to tell Mister Zip that Mikey got 10 cents a day to spend.

"Hopping rain toads!" exclaimed Mister Zip. "That's funny! I sort of thought——"

Suddenly he stopped. "How much money did you say Flop Field Mouse got every day?"

"Ten cents for carrying washings," said Nancy.

"And how much money did you say Mikey Mole got?"

"Ten cents out of his birthday money."

The fairyman pointed to two little figures in front of the peanut stand, each buying a bag of peanuts. And each was carrying a brand new balloon.

"Then tell me how they have any money left to spend, will you?" said he.

"That's right," said Nick. "If each of them only has ten cents to get in, how can they come every day and still have 10 cents to spend?"

"There must be something wrong," declared the fairyman.

"We'll find out what it is," said Nancy.

"I wish you would," said Mister Zip with a worried look. "If things keep on like this, I never, never, never will make my fortune."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A BEAUTIFUL POLICY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: Under the various pretexts of liberty, hospitality, good fellowship, and (would you believe it?) even in the sacred name of religion, a determined effort is now being made to bring on the liquor traffic again, and and all its attendant miseries and to fasten it permanently upon this province.

It is proposed to put Ontario under a wet blanket, to turn back the hands of the clock, to put heavy brakes on the wheels of our chariot, and to step on the reverse instead of the accelerator; to increase drunkenness, crime and unemployment, to make living conditions for thousands of women and children simply intolerable, to greatly hinder the work of the churches, to make motoring, at present risky enough, much more dangerous; to cause a great falling off in the demand for children's shoes, and other necessaries; to force merchants to see large amounts of money, which they are at present receiving over their counters, suddenly sidetracked into the coffers of the liquor vendors, governmental or civilian; to add to the present anxiety of manufactures by forcing them to find some of their best workmen unavailable when their services are most urgently needed; to reduce the profits of our chartered banks by decreasing the amount of their deposits, and increasing the amount of their non-current loans and bad debts; to make it more difficult to pay off our public debt; and to adversely affect general business much more than any change in the tariff has the power to do.

The proposition is economically unsound, socially injurious, commercially disastrous, and ethically wrong, and it surely will not commend itself to any man who is either a reader or a thinker.

ELECTED OFFICERS

TORONTO, Aug. 15.— (Canadian Press).—Outstanding feature of Knights of Pythias Convention here to-day was elevation of John Ballantyne of Boston, and native of Galt, Ont., to position of Supreme Chancellor or Order.

His jurisdiction will extend over ten thousand lodges and approximately one million members scattered over continent.

Election to chair of Supreme Vice Chancellor, of Richard Witts of Milwaukee, Wis., was result of keen contest.

PREMIUM LIST FOR DOG SHOW

An Attractve List of Trophies And Cash Specials.

Rules and Regulations.

Peterboro is to have a dog show and a real one too. A special prize list has been printed by the board, just for the canine end of the exhibition. It includes fifty-five breeds, amongst which are all the varieities ever heard of by the average citizen and then some.

For instance, who ever heard of Doberman Pinchers, Retrievers and Dalmatians, varieties as familiar to dog fanciers as Sussex, Java, Polish and Black Spanish are to chicken fanciers.

The special prize list is most attractive. Trophies, cash specials and special prizes numbering 215. In the Russian Wolfhound class alone, the Russian Wolfhound Club of America offers to members, who exhibit, $150.00 in cash specials, two bronze and three silver medals. The sum of $72.00 in cash includes the balance of the specials in this class.

An entry fee of $1.00 for each entry of the same dog for all classes and $2.00 for each entry in the variety classes is charged.

Every intending exhibitor should obtain a prize list from either Mr. Herb Routley of C. B. Routley & Co., or at the Rolland Denne Flour and Feed Store. The show is being conducted under the Canadian Kennel Club rules and the prize list contains all the required information. Entries close on Monday Sept. 1.

Besides Trophies and Specials in the open classes a large number of specials are restricted to local classes, that is dogs owned in the county of Peterboro.

Arrangements have been made with the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, and the Western Fair, London ,for all dogs entered in these shows, to be released in plenty of time to make train connections for Peterboro.

GLAND EVIDENCE.

More Theories Presented To Court In Chicago Murder Trial.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Endocrinology new "chemistry of Character," relation of ductless glands to mentality was subject for further revelation in the hearing to-day before Judge John R. Caverly to determine whether Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard Leob shall be hanged or sentence to Penitentiary terms for kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks.

Theory of functional disorders of endocrine having affected adversely mentality of youths was advanced by defense alienist to bolster plea for mitigation of punishment.

Dr. Rollin T. Woodyatt of Chicago one of the few physicians who have studied endocrinology exhaustively, first witness to-day described various tests for determining the rate or degree of metabolism in patient.

MAY NOT NEED IMPORTED OIL FOR DOMINION

Development of Canadian Oil Shales May Eliminate Importation.

TO HELP BUSINESS

Only Requires Satisfactory Commercial Process—Chemists Working Hard.

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (Canadian Press).—Development of Canadian oil shales may do much to eliminate a annual adverse balance of trade of over 30 million dollars, according to Dr. G. S. Hume, of the Geological Survey of Canada, who addressed geologists at the British Association on the subject of Liquid Fuels in Canada.

"The production of oil in 1923 in Canada was obtained from wells in New Brunswick, Ontario and Alberta, but only 1.3 percent of the total consumption of crude and refined oils for the same time," Dr. Hume stated.

"This factor has given a stimulus to boring operations in the last few years, and tests of prospective fields have been made in many places. The most promising results have been obtained in Alberta.

"Canada possesses immense potential resources of oil in the tar sands of Alberta and the oil shales of the Maritime Provinces. The tar sands of Alberta occur over an area of 7,500 to 8,000 square miles, some portions of which give 20 percent bitumen, carrying an oil content as high as 69 percent. The oil shales of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia will, in places, produce as much as 30 to 36 imperial gallons of oil to the ton, with some by-products, and the amount of oil shales available is exceedingly large."

While a satisfactory commercial process of extraction has not yet been worked out for either of these types of fuel reserve, chemists and engineers are working on the question, Dr. Hume said, and the technical difficulties in the way of their utilization are being made the subject of extensive experimental work and laboratory investigation.

That a solution for the problem would shortly be discovered was the hope expressed by the geologist.

While admitting that an increase is possible in the production of wells, the speaker pointed out that at present the consumption is far in excess of the production, and it is not likely that the Dominion will be independent of foreign oil for some time. A further way out exists in the utilization of coal tar products, however, which is being extended.

"In Nova Scotia, in 1915, the Dominion Iron and Steel Company began the recovery of benzol and toluol with other products from the coking coal," Dr. Hume said. "They were used during the war for the manufacture of explosives, but subsequently they have been combined as a motor fuel, and the mixture was found so successful that production reached 292,000 gallons in 1921.

"It is claimed that this motor fuel possesses qualities which make it superior to the best gasoline, and with the establishment of coke ovens elsewhere in Canada, motor fuel from this source will become increasingly important."

FLAVELLE RETURNS.

Heard All About the Golf Episode and Calls It Mistake.

QUEBEC, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Sir Joseph Flavelle, who has recently been quoted as an opponent of golf on ground that it interfered with business, arrived home from London, England, on Montroyal this morning, and admitted that he had knocked rind off many a golf ball during his visit. As he walked down gangplank, in company with Lady Flavelle, he was met by a battery of newspapermen, who fired Salvo at his head; "Good morning, Sir Joseph; How's your golf.' 'Oh, yes,' he remarked gaily, 'I have heard all about the golfing hullabaloo, but it was all a mistake. Sir Joseph then explained that his alleged strictures upon universal pastime were taken far too seriously. He declined to express any opinion on the political outlook in Europe, or the MacDonald Labor Ministry, or unemployment.

BREATHING EXERCISES

"Say what did I tell you the other day about standing erect?" demanded Mr. Mann's physical instructor, when he again found that gentleman walking about with stooped shoulders.

"Well, what can I do about it? It's all right to stand there and tell me all the things that are the matter with me. But what can I do about it?" demanded Mr. Mann.

"A little exercise, continuously applied, will do it," the physical director answered.

"The first thing to do is to under take a series of breathing exercises. You can start to strengthen the abdominal muscles by lying on your back and raising first the legs and then the head.

"When you do your breathing exercises, remember to take slow, deep breaths and lie on your back when you do it. Later put a weight of two pounds or more on your abdomen.

"Once you have gained abdominal strength the matter of posture will be much easier. I'll tell you about how to get the best results out of these exercises the next time I see you."

BEAVERBROOK'S OPINION

MONTREAL, Aug. 15. —(Canadian Press).—"I am convinced that an election on Irish issue would be bad tactics for Conservative Party," said Lord Beaverbrook, in discussing prospects for an early change of government in England, here this morning.

AN ATOM GETS ITS PICTURE TAKEN!

Just a few scratches on the photographic film of Prof. W. D. Harkins, but they represent the first picturesever taken of atoms of matter in collision. It would take 100,000,000 of them laid end to end to make a line one inch long. And here they are, moving through space under the camera lens at the rate of from a few hundred to 1200 miles a second. To further complicate matters, Prof. Harkins (above) says the picture (at the lower left) merely shows only the nucleus of an atom in collision, it being only one-ten-thousandth of the size of the entire atom.

ANNUAL DINNER OF CONVENTION WAS BRILLANT

Firemen And Guests Joined In Festivities With Hearty Good Will.

BEST EVER HELD.

Mayor Turner Pointed To Possibilities In Profession Of Fire Fighting.

Used to giving warnig as the fire truck speeds through the streets of Peterborough, a big gong last night fiund itself in queer surroundings when Toastmaster D. H. Lamb stepped on it in the banquet hall of the Empress Hotel to call the Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters to order on the occasion of the annual dinner.

About two hundred men sat down at the dinner, which was, in the opinion of visitors and delegates alike, the best managed affair of its kind seen in Peterborough in a long time and the best banquet the association has had in its five years of existence.

Seldom do men get together so well or so quickly as did the firemen and their guests last night, and never is there a better spirit shown than the big gathering displayed.

Everyone from the toastmaster to the rawest fire fighting recruit donned the paper hats that lent a festive spirit to the occasion and made youths of all.

Crowds on Water Strete attracted by the singing gathered outside the windows and enjoyed through glass the excellent performances given by Messrs. Stevenson, Geo. Joe Williams, Ernie Bruce, and Frank Gowan, who played musical instruments ranging from bells to a carpenter's hand saw and amused the gathering with vaudeville acts that created wave after wave of laughter.

The big fire gong was frequently called into service to restore order when the exuberance of the diners carried them into enthusiastic improvisations based on the popular songs of the day.

Free and Easy.

Instead of place markers were bags containing children's toys, games, candy and samples, and every man wis given a carnation and a paper cap.

J. Wells Fraser, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor J. J. Turner, and Arthur Blade of the Imperial Oil Company, had purple head-dresses of waving plumes; Ald. Joseph Crowe and Walter Stocker wore hats of a brilliant red; Alderman Nagle Phelan had a becoming pink shade; Alderman M. J. Maher, J. J. Duffus, representing the Motor League, and Leon Frazer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, wore royal blue; Chief of Police Samuel Newhall had a head-dress of green and yellow feathers; Fire Chief George Gimblett donned a chic dressed doll hat of green; T. Tooms, ex-M.P.P., had an Indian bonnet of feathers coquettishly perched on the back of his head; Roland Denne, president of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board, had a green and white striped hat with a long tassel that fell intriguingly behind his ear; Dr. W. T. Holloway wore a pink hat with red trim; "Father" George W. Crouter, dean of the Peterborough Fire Department, was plumed with shining wings, and City Treasurer Frank Adams, who wore his hat on the table for a great part of the programme, at last donned war paint, and when the toast list was started he wore an Indian head-dress of becoming hue.

Toy balloons found in the gift bags were inflated and tossed from table to table ,staid aldermen and youthful enthusiasts in fire fighting vieing with each other in efforts to keep the balloons in the air. Even Chief of Police Newhall and Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton took pokes at the balloons that came near them.

The Toast List.

To Leon Frazer, introduced as the most versatile man in Peterborough, fell the honour of proposing the toast to the King. He was greeted with "See Him Smiling," sung with a heartiness that showed how the firemen appreciated his services to them in the preparations for and carrying out of the convention.

In introducing the speakers to the toast to "Peterborough and its Firemen," Toastmaster Lamb said of Alderman Stocker and Mayor Turner: "These fellows are going to give our Chief Gimblett a trimple combination pumper."

Alderman Stocker was greeted with "He's a jolly good fellow." He extolled the fire department and especially Chief Gimblett. In 1923, he said, 3,323 inspections were made of buildings in the city. Formerly these were made by the Chief alone, but last year the firemen became acquainted with the lay-out of many buildings, acquiring knowledge that may be of great service to them in fighting fires. Up to date this year there have been 1,380 inspections. Citizens are now becoming favourable to the visits of the firemen, realising the benefit in having all firemen acquainted with the interior of the buildings.

Fire-Fighting is Vocation

Mayor Turner, who was greeted with the singing of "There's a fine looking gang over there", and dismised with three cheers and a tiger, struck a high note in his response to the toast. There have been times, he said, when a distinction is made between a profession and a vocation, but there is none. The vocation of fire fighting calls for the same zeal and stamina and persistence as the medical profession or the educational profession. The aim of every young man starting as a fireman should be to rise to the top, thoroughly equipped with knowledge picked up by the way, as has Chief Gimblett. "The firemen of Peterborough," His Worship declared, "are one hundred per cent men. They are men who do not shirk their duty. Whether they are doing the chores around the building, driving through crowded streets in answer to a call for help or working in the blistering heat of a fire all is done with a will and no one shirks responsibility." Every man is zealous in discharge of his duty, and the executive officers do not assign duties and give orders that cannot be carried out and obeyed. "They have climbed from the bottom of the ladder," the Mayor said, "and know their business thoroughly. There is always room for leaders. Everyone of you firemen has in him the potentialities of a future chief. It will be the men who are conscientious in discharge of their duties and trained to lead and command who will take the places of those who fall by the wayside."

District Chief James Hotrum of Hamilton ,proposing the toast to "The Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters," said pulling together has made the organization what it is to-day, and urged the members to continue the good work so auspiciously started.

Heroism and Modesty

Provincial Fire Marshal Heaton, who was given an ovation, said there are two attributes in the category of every fireman he knows. They are a sub-conscious heroism and an excessive and undue modesty. "It is probably because I possess neither," he said, "that I am called upon to respond to a toast to an organization that is composed of men who are living examples of both." The organization, is necessary because in the past true recognition has not been given the fire fighters. It has been a pronounced success; an inspiration to the men and a builder of morale, preparing them for their great work. The Federation has inculcated in the firemen a new realization of their duties. Formerly it was merely a case of pouring water on the flames. Now it is being recognized that the fireman's duty is not so much to suppress fire as to prevent it, anod this is due in great measure to the work of the Federation.

Vergill S. Carr, president of the Peterborough Branch of the Federation, said the local had done all in its power to make the stay of the delegates pleasant and instructive. He was voted 'A Jolly Good Fellow' in the singing of the song.

The New President.

J. J. O'Kelly, of Ottawa, newly elected president, assured the Mayor and Council that everything had been done to make the delegates' stay pleasurable. In Peterborough the members of the Federation had been treated royally by the citizens, and pleasant memories would be carried away.

Another Invitation.

J. Wells Fraser complimented those who had carried out the plans for the banquet and expressed appreciation for the entertainment. In 1927, he said, Peterborough expects to celebrate its centennial, and the Fire Fighters' Federation should made it a point to return in that year to take part in the big affair.

Chief Gimblett.

Chief George Gimblett, introduced as a graduate of the Federation, and greeted with the singing of "He's a Daisy," expressed his pleasure in welcoming the fifth annual convention to Peterborough. "We've tried to give you as good a time as possible," he said, to which a general chorus of response was "You've done it." "I'm not a speechmaker," the Chief continued. "I'm a smoke eater," with which the delegates expressed vociferous agreement.

J. J. Duffus.

J. J. Duffus referred in apt terms to his conception of a fireman's profession being akin to that of a soldier, ready at all times to protect life and property. It is a dangerous life, whether in fighting fire or in rushing along the streets. The fire department is the lifeboat of the city on which citizens depend for the protection of life and property.

Mr. Duffus expressed the opinion that those in charge of expenditures might be more generous in appropriations for equipment for the men who take care of the nearest and dearest of all citizens.

Alderman Phelan.

Alderman Phelan voted the evening the most enjoyable he had ever spent. After seeing the enthusiasm displayed by the fire fighters and hearing the needs of the local force, he thought that in future years the Council would be inclined to look on the Fire Water and Light Committee's expenditures as an investment. "Our meeting with you will help us to understand your problems, and in future the Fire Committee will not be subject to the same pruning as the Board of Works nd other less important departments."

Dr. W. T. Holloway.

Dr. Holloway congratulated himself upon being in the City Council when Chief Gimblett was chosen as head of the Peterborough Department. "I believe we should have a more efficient Fire Brigade," he said, "before we acquire too many pavements which we can do without."

Alderman Crowe.

Alderman Crowe thought the object of such a convention good and the choice of Peterborough the best that could have been made. He recalled introducing Chief Gimblett to the force on his arrival, and referred to the success of the Department under Chief Gimblett's rule.

PROBLEMS OF TODAY

Professors Hayes and Moon of Columbia University, New York, have issued a review of the history, that is of the life, of modern times which every thinker should read. There can be no two opinions as to the learning, sincerity and sweep of this excellent work, and it is scientifically truthful and therefore fair. This was supposed to be the age of what Andrew Carnegie called "triumphant democracy," whereas it is showing up as the age of triumphant autocracy. Some will ask if it is not true that Russia, Germany, Austria, etc., have overthrown their autocratic systems? No, it is not true. They have substituted for the Czar, etc., the rule not of the people as a whole, but of a class, as in Russia, where the extreme radicals known as Bolshevists seized the power and are holding it without the consent by vote or otherwise of the people as a whole. The rule in Russia of this class is autocracy, not democracy. In Germany things have not yet reached this stage or indeed any stage. The Germans are waiting to see how the war really ends. In Britain and on this continent the gravest problem is that of unemployment. When labour-saving, or what should have been called labour-losing machines came on the scene with a rush about 130 years ago the conditions of the mass of the people was this: The farmer and the mechanic were practically one and the same. Each household manufactured as much as it could and raised its own food on its own soil at the same time. Inventions destroyed this system of home-manufacture in a night and sent vast numbers of people to the towns and the newly-built factories there, looking for work. The factory could not be run except by capital on a large scale. Hence a new state of affairs arose. Capital ruled the situation. Machinery gradually became so perfect and so labour-saving that it has pretty nearly enabled capital to do without labour altogether. To offset the effect of all this machinery labour where possible is inclined to slow down production. Otherwise labour sees increased unemployment. Labour finds inventions and labour-saving machinery wholly in the hands of capital and of no benefit to labour either as workers or consumers. In fact, the independence of the working man is gone, and what is worse, his employment is uncertain. What is he to do? This is the great problem of the day. It is pretty well agreed that the answer is that the self-dependence that is the independence of the worker must be restored to him in some way.

Feeding him with old age pensions, workmen's compensation acts, widows' and orphans' pensions, insurance against unemployment and sickness, are only after all keeping Labour's head above water, so that it will not go under altogether. It is making the patient more comfortable as to his misfortune, but will never cure him and put him on his feet again. What then must be done? Labour must be induced in some way to get out of the cities, where it is and always will be, at the mercy of Capital. The old order must be restored as nearly as possible so that workers will grow their own food, and have all they can do to supply the mechanical demands of the world beside. Of labour-saving machinery which requires little labour, and that mostly unskilled, drives flesh and blood into the wilderness of starvation and discontent, the result must be obvious.

In a world so capable of supplying all needs, half the population, if not more, faces unemployment and starvation. And yet along comes a scheme of public or government ownership, which gives to capital a new security, and a new opportunity of employment, while the people pay a new tribute to it in deficits and in taxes! Capital has another horse to ride, which the people are crazy enough to think belongs to them, and is being ridden by them. It belongs to them all right and is kept up by them, but who is making the money out of it? The money-lender or capitalist ,and a few favorite users. Look at it. Just look at it for a moment. People are paying enormous sums in interest and deficits in order to keep up national railways, canals and public works generally for the capitalists to loan money on. The capitalist is employed by the people, but not the people by the capitalist, but by themselves. What is the remedy Common sense. So long as people are carried off both feet and head by all the trash they are fed with in the newspapers, and out of them, they will continue to applaud things which they think are for their benefit, but which in reality are very largely only new opportunities for Capital to keep itself profitably employed, while Labour goes idle.

FREE

Only 85 American cities are known to have municipal golf courses, though this sport claims to million followers.

Membership and fees in most golf clubs are so high that it's still a rich man't game. The poor or even people of average means can not afford it. In Canada philanthropists are building golf courses and throwing them open to the public. Good tip for Americans who want to return some of the money the public created for them.

HOMES

The British government considers a plan to build two and a half million homes to end the housing shortage. The government would furnish the money and either rent the homes or sell them to families on long-time installments.

This is subsidy. If a similar program were suggested for America, a cry of "Socialism" would go up from certain quarters that shout approval when subsidy is advocated for capital—subsidized merchant marine, for instance.

GOLF

Ten million Americans now play golf, according to the Playground and Recreation Association. It's the second national sport, and gaining followers so rapidly that it may soon imperil the leadership of baseball. Remarkable for a sport hat only a few years ago was the laughing stock of the whole country.

One thing about golf, its devotees have to work at it. They get exercise. That's more than can be said of baseball fans—who, sitting watching other play, are all witnessing a form of theatricals rather than a "national sport." A real sport is something in which its followers participate.

MOUNT ST. JOSEPH.

Interesting Religous Ceremony This Morning.

This morning a ceremony of significant import to the participants, as well as of great interest to their relatives and friends, took place at Mount St. Joseph. The occasion was the ceremony of reception and profession. His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien officiated, assisted by Reverend Fathers Costello, Guiry and Collins of the Cathedral. Present in the sanctuary were Monsignor McColl, Reverend Fathers P. McGuire, J. J. O'Brien, P. Butler of this city; P. Galvin, Downeyville; J. V. McAuley, Ennismore, J. Garvey, Lakefield; J. McCarthy, Norwood. Reverend Father J. H. Barry, C.S.S.R., of London, who had conducted the Retreat, preached an instructive sermon, fraught with our Lord's mission in His human life —the salvation of immortal souls. He stressed the idea that the call to religious life, hearkened to by a young woman, bespoke her home life. Naturally her desire to carry out God's will more perfectly in the religious life pre-supposed her to be a good woman. Upon the parents rested the great responsibility of the development of the character of their children, as well as the realization that their children's love was divided between God and them.

Father Barry pointed out that the religious life was patterned after that of Christ. His, in all its human phases, was that of poverty, chastity and obedience. The religieuse assumed these same basic principles which are for her the binding chain which holds the anchor of salvation.

His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, congratulated the religieuses, emphasizing the fact that they had submitted themselves to a lengthy trial, and in the supreme test, when they were to consecrate themselves wholly to the religious state, they had not hesitated. He earnestly exhorted the parents to fulfill God's will in devoting their children to His service, if he exacted that sacrifice of them.

Miss Beatrice Lepack, of Almonte, in religion Sister M. St. Luke, received the Holy Habit, and the following Sisters pronounced their perpetual vows. Sisters Teresa Marie, M. Remigius, M. Seraphia and M. Ursuline.

INVESTORS HESITATE.

QUEBEC, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—That capitalists in England, and especially those who are looking to Canada to invest in industrial enterprises in the Dominion, would do so unhesitatingly if they were given certain assurances against loss, was the opinion expressed this morning by Col. A. F. Hatch, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who returned from England this morning on the Canadian Pacific steamship Montroyal. He left for his home in Hamilton, Ont., a few minutes after the liner had tied up.

He said that there was unlimited capital in England to-day for the investment in Canadian enterprises, but he remarked, English investors hesitate to take the step unless they are given certain guarantees by this country that these investments will not result in losses to themselves. He further stated that there were 611 American factories established in Canada during the past twenty years in comparison with only fifty British industries.

"The average British business man quite realizes that there are excellent opportunity for investment in Canada, but they hesitate any move until such time as the stabilized tariff will have gone into effect."

Pirates Beat Giants Again -- Swanston Heads Petes' Hitters -- Yanks and Tigers Lose

SWANSTON TOPS PETES' HITTERS WITH .333 MARK

Backstop's Six Hits in Oshawa Games Send Him Ahead.

FOUR OVER .300 POST

Legon Stole 15 Bases and Johnston Heads in Sacrifice Hits.

Max Swanston's feat of rolling out six hits in seven trips to the plate in the last two games with Oshawa has placed the Pete backstop at the top of the local Central Leaguers batting list. Swanston thereby boosted his mark from .288 to .333, a gain of 55 points. Heckman, Legon and Harrison are the other .300 hitters in the Peterboro squad. Legon and Swanston are tied for the honor of making the most safe hits. Legon leads in runs and stolen bases. Harrison has batted in the most runs, and Johnston the most sacrifice hits.

The averages follow:

Sacrifice Hits:
Johnston 14, Legon 7, Collins 6, Swanston 5, Holyman 5, Turner 3, Harrison 2, Serth 2, Hall 1, Shaughnessy 1, Batten 1.—Total 47.

DOUBLE CROSS M'COY'S STYLE

But Jim Corbett Outguessed Him and Beat Him at Own Game.

HIS STRATEGY "QUERR"

Bugs Baer discussing Kid McCoy's ring methods writes as follows in the New York American:

Kid McCoy was noted for his ring strategy. When you dissect that expression "ring strategy" you find it contains everything from brass knuckles to biting.

The Kid's most famous Queensberry hoax was pulled on Herr Plaacke, the dangerous Holland pushover. Feathers had not yet begun to grow on the first round when the Kid smiled sweetly, waved his hand at somebody to the rear of the big Holland sideshow exhibit.

The Herr grunted, "Vass iss "

"That's Hollandaise sauce for "What's the caper?"

The Kid said, "A lady is waving to you."

Plaacke looked around, and the Kid let him have grandpa's old muzzle-loader right on the chin.

When Plaacke woke up he had been back in Holland three weeks.

He defeated a la savatte ruffian in Paris by using the same methods. In fact, the Kid was champion of all fighters who would turn their heads.

The Kid was signed up to meet Tommy Ryan. At that time the Kid has just graduated as Ryan's sparring partner and had set up in business for himself. He wrote a letter to Ryan about two weeks before the fight. The letter contained a moan about the Kid having to cancel the fight because he was in the last stages of galloping fright. It asked Tommy to be easy on the Kid, as a great man like Ryan would gain little credit for beating up a poor, timid mummy like the Kid.

Ryan had a heart bigger than a ten-acre lot. He told the Kid he would let him stick. Thereupon Tommy ceased all training and chinned himself on the keg.

On the night of the fight in Coney Island a poor, round-shouldered invalid was carried into the ring. It was the Kid, whose seconds proceeded to carry him to his coroner and fan him with a coroner's certificate.

Tommy sat in his own corner patting his thirty extra pounds of fat and feeling sorry for the Kid. He wasn't going to hurt him, but it was ashame to see one of his old sparring partners starting in the real estate game by buying an old homestead in Potter's Field.

When the gong sounded, Ryan strutted out of his corner with a tear in his eye. The figure in the other corner suddenly doffed its hospital kimona and a tiger leaped on Tommy.

The tiger was Kid McCoy, the dying swan, and he proceeded to give Ryan the beating of his life, finally knocking him out. But first McCoy chopped Ryan to pieces, refusing to put over the K.O. until Ryan was a hamburgered wreck.

That's strategy. You can have that kind of stuff.

He tried the same thing on Jim Corbett. They had agreed on a benefit performance. Jim heard that the Kid's cable address was the old double X. So Jim put an extra letter on it and made it a triple X.

Corbett sank a putt into McCoy's stomach that soured his dinner.

It was the only time than anybody had outguessed the Kid's strategy.

The night that Jim Savage fought the Kid, a stranger came to Savage's room and told him the Kid was all in. He wished Jim all the good fortune in the world. Savage was only a youngster then and thought nothing of it when the guest left the room and came back with a bottle of spring water. Jim took a swig out of the bottle of water before going into the ring.

When the fight started Savage was starting to feel sick. He looked up and saw the stranger in McCoy's corner. Savage got an awful beating that night along with convulsions and ptomaine poisoning.

Some more strategy.

The Kid came back after a long lay off and was matched with Jim Stewart. When the referee called the men to the center of the canvas for the final instructions, the Kid smiled like a cherub and shook hands. He put one arm around Stewarts' shoulder and said:

"Now, Jim, no punching in the clinches. When we're clinched, we won't punch each other in the ribs like this."

The lecture was illustrated with a wallop that caught Stewart under the heart and dropped him to his knees. He was beaten before the gong rang.

That's strategy.

Last Appearance Of Trunks This Season Riverside Saturday

It will be Belleville and Peterboro tomorrow afternoon at Riverside Park and it should be the best game of the season. Although Belleville are out of the second half and the Petes are the winners the fans can look forward to a great game tomorrow. Belleville are confident they can trim the Petes and that they are the better team of the two. They say the Petes got the breaks in the game in Belleville a week ago Wednesday and Manager Solomon's crew were lucky to win. The old rivalry that has existed for years between these two teams is bound to flare up again tomorrow and the fans can be assured of a great battle if it does.

The Petes are all in good shape and Heckman is going good. The game Saturday will give them a chance to strut their stuff before the finals with Kingston. Belleville will be at full strengt and Peeny Mills is expected to receive them for the Belleville ace, Oulette.

Out-of-towns fans are coming in great numbers for this fixture and indications point to the largest crowd of the season. With no other game scheduled Saturday's clash will draw from every town on the circuit. The game is called for 3.00 o'clock sharp with Umpires Hallinan and Benson of Toronto in charge.

BLINDING SPEED AND CONTROL-VANCE'S SECRET

BY BILLY EVANS

Control, plus blinding speed. That's the secret of Dazzy Vance's great success in the National League.

Seven or eight years ago Vance came to the New York Yankees a raw recruit.

The late Wild Bill Donovan was managing the club. In his day Wild Bill had been a great pitcher himself. As his nickname implied, he was given to spectacular outbursts of wildness, although this feature of his work was greatly exaggerated.

Donovan liked Vance as a pitcher, but sent him on his way because he couldn't get the ball over the plate.

"The kid's got everything a great pitcher needs," admitted Donovan, "but it won't do him any good until he learns how to keep it close to the plate."

As the years rolled on the wisdom of Donovan's size-up became clear to all. Vance certainly had everything that makes for success on the mound and, as soon as he acquired control, he became a great pitcher.

Today Dazzy Vance is not only the star of the Brooklyn team but one of the outstanding pitchers in baseball.

Vance's chief stock in trade is his fast ball, backed up by almost perfect control. Umpires in the National League tell me his fast ball is just about as fast as Walter Johnson's was when the Big Swift was at zenith of his career. That's plenty fast enough for me.

Vance, however, doesn't rely wholly on his fast ball. His knuckle ball is no easy thing to hit, and his curve has a highly developed deceptive quality. Against Chicago recently he fanned seven batters in a row. During that spurt he mixed 'em up in a manner that stamped him as a smart pitcher as well as an unusually gifted one.

Vance is a product of the great open spaces of Iowa, is 31 years old, a six-footer and a right-hander. He has been pitching professionally for about 10 years. He got his start with the Hastings club of the Nebraska State League. Brooklyn got him in 1922.

THIS IS DAZZY VANCE, FIRE BALL KING OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE. THEY CALL HIM DAZZY BECAUSE OF HIS DAZZLING SPEED.

ATHLETICS HIT TYGER HURLERS

PETERBORO DRAWN IN ONTARIO CUP

Go to Ottawa in First Round And Home the Next.

The draw for the Ontario Cup, for which several soccer teams of the Province will compete, was made Wednesday night at a meeting at Hamilton of the Ontario Football Association. The teams will meet as follows:

First round—Guelph v. Brantford, Weston v. London, Ottawa v. Peterboro, Sudbury v. Northern Ontario; byes, Hamilton, Toronto, Oshawa and St. Catharines.

Second round—Guelph or Brantford v. Hamilton, Toronto v. Sudbury or Northern Ontario, Ottawa or Peterboro v. Oshawa, St. Catharines v. Western Football Association or London.

Semi-finals—Guelph, Brantford or Hamilton v. St. Catharines or Weston or London; Toronto or Sudbury or Northern Ontario v. Oshawa, Ottawa or Peterboro.

The first round will be played on or before Sept. 1 and the second round on or before Sept. 13. The semi-finals will be played on or before Sept. 20.

No Entry Yet.

Although Peterboro has been drawn in the Ontario Cup, which is emblematic as the Provincial championship, there has been no official entry from this district by P. and D. F. A., unless that the local G. W. V. A. contemplate carrying the local honors in soccer.

The first round shows that Peterboro will have to travel to Ottawa, and if they win will have the next round at home. This draw indicates a trip to Ottawa.

GIANTS' MARGIN FIVE GAMES NOW

Pittsburgh Take Second in Two Games From New York.

VANCE BRILLIANT

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Pittsburgh made it two straight from New York by winning to-day's game, 3 to 1, and reduced to five games the margin separating the Pirates and the League leaders. Cooper was steady throughout, holding the Giants to six hits, while McQuillan was hit timely with men on base. Score:

SOCCER NOTES.

A double-header is billed tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon for soccer fans at Nicholl's Oval, when the Quaker Oats and Canadian Woollens meet in a league game at 2 o'clock. And at 4 o'clock the Thistles and G.W.V.A. play the semi-final of the Phelan Charity Cup. Mr. Alex. Mitchell will referee the league game and Mr. Jack Clark the Charity Cup tie.

The first game will be an interesting tussel between two greatly improved elevens. During the last six encounters that the Quakers have played they have got six points, while the Woollens have trounced the leaders of the league—Vets—and drawn one.

The P. D. and F. A. meet on Monday evening in Chamber of Commerce rooms at 8 p.m. prompt.

KAY EXPECTING CURLERS TO WIN

According to Interview With Lindsay Post His Juveniles Are Good.

LEAFS NOT MENTIONED

(Lindsay Post)

Alex. Kay, for years one of the prime movers and official umpires in the Central League, and a gentleman who has of late been devoting his attention to training junior baseball players and curlers, was a business visitor in town today.

This year Alex is managing two teams, one in the Midget series and the other in the Juvenile series. His Juvenile team have all the apeparances of being a championship organization. They won the first half of the League and have the edge on the second half, the final game of which will be played tonight.

The Curlers, as they are called, won the Midget championship of the Ontario Baseball Association last year and look good to cop high honors this year.

However, there is one team that Manager Kay is just a wee bit afraid of and that is the Kiwanis team of Lindsay. He looks for a hard game with Doc. Laidley's nine. It is probable that the first game may be played in Peterboro next Wednesday, and the return game in Lindsay the following Friday night (twilight).

Kiwanis lads are urged to get in shape, to keep practicing so as to give the Curlers a real good battle.

BANKRUPTED BY WEMBLEY FIGHT

Major Arnold Wilson's Affairs Discussed at Meeting of Creditors.

OWES GIBBONS $36,000

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The affairs of Major Aruold Wilson, the promoter who staged the Gibbons-Bloomfield fight at Wembley last Saturday were discussed to-day at the bankruptcy building at the first meeting of creditors under a receeiving order made against his estate. Solicitor Stewart Moore who accepted the writ issued against Wilson by the U.S. boxer for the amount of about $36,000, which the latter claim is due him as the balance from the fight purse, stated that Wilson's financial difficulties were due to the Home Secretary's ban on the Siki-Beckett fight and continual postponements of the Beckett-Carpentier match.

Wilson is said to have lost £7000 in these ventures and to have been forced to resort to money-lenders. The receiving order against Wilson was made June 26 and the official receiver said in the perliminary examination at that time that Wilson had stated he had no assets and his liabilities were about £6,000. Since then the liabilities have increased in round figures to £11,,000 not including claims made against Wilson within the last few days.

Solicitor Moore disclosed the fact that the money paid into the bank at Wembley, representing the proceeds of last Saturday's fight gate, had already been attached. The official receiver appointed a trustee to make an adjudication.

LINDSAY VIEWS OF THE FINALS

Petes Have a Hard Row Says Our Neighbor—Praise for Jake.

OULETTE GOOD

Kingston and Peterboro' will meet in the play-off series for the championship of the C.O.B.L. and it looks from here as though the Petes have a hard row to hoe, says the Lindsay Post. Manager Solomon deserves barrels of credit for the way he has brought the Petes through. His players have not had the experience of the Ponies, but the Petes are working nice. It is almost safe to say that the Petes have the best outfield in the league with young Jimmy Hall, "Red" Legon and Jack Turner. They are fast and sure. The youngsters also do well at the bat. Peterboro's third sack is the weakest spot and the second position is also dangerous. However, the boys use their heads and that counts for a great deal. There will be a great battle when these two teams meet.

Alex Kay, manager and umpire of baseball teams, is of the opinion that the Petes will beat the Ponies in the finals. "Heckman is going strong," said Alex this a.m., "and he will have a rest for a game or two. The boys are playing well behind him."

Sorrow reigns in Belleville today. It was chiefly a case of working Oulette too hard. He cracked under the strain, as he has cracked before under a similar strain, and as Heckman cracked last season. Pitchers are human.

LEAFS DEFEAT CURLERS BY 4-1

Charlie Curtis' Juveniles Win Second Half—Play Off to Decide Group.

BRADLEY FANNED TEN

In a determined effort the Maple Leafs won the second half of the city Juvenile schedule when they defeated the Curlers by the good margin of 4 to 1 on the Exhibition Park diamond last evening. These two teams will now battle it out to decide which shall have the honor of representing their city in the O.B.A.A. race.

The game disclosed a more interesting brand of ball than that displayed in the game of Tuesday. However the pitchers did not seem to be up to their usual form. 'Chuck' Bradley walked four and hit one, and got himself into two tight situations in the early part of the game, but he managed to come off lucky with only one run being the result of his wildness, and he showed throughout coolness and good form in the pinches and struck out in all ten batters. 'Inky' Wood was going better, although he only had four strikeouts. Wood received poor support in spots, four errors being made behind him and a hit was allowed to go for a triple that should not have been good for more than a single at best.

On the whole the breaks went to the Leafs although they certainly deserved the victory and they showed superiority in coming through with a hit when needed. This was the big failing of the Curlers for twice golden chances slipped away for only the lack of a clean single. In the second and third innings they had a man on third and second with but one down.

Ab Delahaye turned in a faultless game behind the bat. Gillespie made a good catch of Barry's fly, hanging close to it in spite of a tumble.

WESTCLOX WON FROM QUAKERS

Game Was Featured By Heavy Hitting By Both Teams.

SCORE WAS 7 TO 3.

The Clock Makers were victorious last night over the Quaker crew by the score of 7 to 3, after five innings of both good and bad baseball. The game was featured by heavy hitting on the part of both teams. The Westclox getting 8 hits off Duggan and Turner, while the Porridge Makers touched Herbie Wolfe for 5 hits, which were kept fairly well scattered. The game was fairly fast but it was far from a pitchers' battle, neither pitcher having more than 3 strike-outs in the five innings.

The clock team took their lead in the second inning when they came through with a run. The Quakers were blanked in their half of the second, while the Westclox added one more in the third. The Quakers made it 2 to 1 in the third, but the Westclox put the game on ice in the fourth inning when they got to Duggan hard and collected five runs, making the score 7 to 1. The Quakers staged a great rally in the last inning, and at one time it looked as if they might pull the game out of the fire, but the side was retired after two runs had crossed the plate to make the score 7 to 3. Wolfe pitched very good ball for the Westclox, but in the last inning he was touched for a couple of nice hits.

Duggan started for the loosers but was yanked in the fifth inning and replaced by Lefty Turner, who wound up the game in nice style, blanking the East City crew in the last frame.

The teams lined up as follows:

Quakers—Butcher ss, Turner c, p, Macdonald 3b, Ash 1b, Duggan p, Kearnes cf, Graham rf, Meyette 2b, Ralph lf.

Westclox—Barry 2b, Lundy 3b, Hensley ss, Prosser c, Hardill 1b, Wolfe p, Batten lf, DeGraw cf, O'Brien rf.

FIRPO SIGNS UP

Final Arrangements for Fight With Wills Sept. 11.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Luis Angel Firpo forsook his training camp at Saratoga on Thursday to visit Tex Rickard and sign formal contracts with the promoter for his battle with Harry Wills at Boyle's Thirty Acres, September 11. At the same time the Argentine disposed of his share of the motion picture rights to Richard for an amount understood to have been $10,000.

Richard and Firpo previously had agreed on all essentials of their contract but final details were cleared up yesterday during a conference of several hours in Madison Square Garden, where the presence of the big South American attracted a crowd of several hundred persons. No details of the contract were disclosed by Richard but it was understood Firpo's end calls for thirty seven and a half per cent. of the "gate" while Wills is to receive twenty-seven and a half.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

HARRY GOWDY

Hankus Pankus Gowdy was the first ball player to sign a contract with your Uncle Samuel when the kaiser picked an all-star team of goose-steppers and started out to tour the Big Towns.

That's one record that will stand long after the pitching exploits of Cy Young, fielding didos of Everett Scott and home-run hysterics of Babe Ruth have been reduced to historic debris.

Hankus didn't demand a 10-day release clause, a stylish bonus or a gaudy split in the swag; all he asked for was a gun that spoke in clear, stentorian tones, and a pair of shoes that didn't object to large tenants.

Mr. H. Gowdy could have joined the great athletic army of barge builders but he wasn't that kind of a hombre. Mr. H. Gowdy always liked to take his cut at the ball and the pitcher who passed him purposely was no part of a gentleman.

Hankus fought in the trenches with the doughboys in mud up to his ruffled ears ....It wasn't an entirely new sensation, this being in the trenches, since Hankus had just left the lowly braves.

Gowdy never could figure out why the kaiser was so keen about eating Christmas dinner in Paris ..... "Holy cow, we gotta cook back in Ohio that can make any of them Paris chefs look like a biscuit juggler in a Childs' window."

Hankus insists he wasn't scared at all. "One day, though, things got pretty bad and for a few minutes I thought we were playing in St. Louis.

"The first time I saw one of them young second lieutenants doing his stuff I knew what General Sherman had in mind when he said war is awful."

The army, rather belatedly has named an athletic field in Georgia after Gowdy. To a pal of the baseball boys this would be a rich joke. To old Hankus Pankus it's a rare honor.

Baseball could use more Gowdys .....So could the world for that matter.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. Can a player, after he acted as pinch-hitter, be used as a substitute runner? In a game between Chicago and Philadelphia this summer I saw Amos Strunk fill both roles for the Athletics. —J. L. P.

2. Batter tops the ball and it strikes the ground in front of the plate, then rolls into foul territory down the third base line. Umpire calls foul ball and batsman remains in his box. The ball strikes something on the grounds and rolls fair. The umpire changes his original ruling to fair ball and batsman is thrown out at first. What should be done in such a situation?—

3. Runner on second base, one E. P. out. Runner starts to steal third on the pitch. It is wild and the ball escapes the catcher, going into the crowd back of the plate. The runner scores. Ground rule is one base on an overthrow going into crowd. Team at bat contends runner has base stolen and should be entitled to another base on the overthrow.—H. A. H.

ANSWERS

1. After runner has been used as pinch-hitter and not put into the lineup, he is out for the rest of the day. In all probability, permission was granted Strunk by the Chicago club to be used as a pinch runner.

2. Umpire should have stuck to his original ruling, foul ball, even though Such a thing happens occasionally, it was fair. The batsman should not be made to suffer for the mistake.

3. Runner merely goes to third base. No consideration can be given the fact that he probably would have reached third in safety. The play starts with the pitch and, since he was on second, he can only advance to third on thrown into the crowd.

CUYLER, PIRATES, FIRST PITCHED

Lure of Baseball Caused Him to Resign From West Point —Bought in 1920 From Bay City Club.

By BILLY EVANS.

For years it has been an accepted theory in baseball that pitchers cannot hit.

During the season of 1923, quite a few twirlers in both major leagues rather disproved such a belief.

The averages of the American and National Leagues show a number of leading twirlers with batting averages better than .300.

Incidentally, some of the game's greatest hitters began their baseball careers as pitchers, Babe Ruth, for instance. Jack Bentley of the Giants is also a shining example.

Just at present one of the outstanding stars of the National League is Hazen Cuyler, star outfielder of the Pittsburg Pirates.

Stars for Pirates.

Cuyler, aside from playing a fine game in the field, is one of the most dangerous batters in the National League. His stick work has featured the recent sensational spurt of the Pirates, which has carried the club into second place in the National League race.

Cuyler began his baseball career as a twirler. He early decided he didn't have enough stuff to succeed as a pitcher, and he was anxious to make the grade in the majors. A good batsman, he took to the outfield. He has realized his ambition.

Career Reads Like Fiction.

Cuyler's rise to fame in the baseball world has been meteoric, regular fiction stuff.

The Pirate star in 1918, at the age of 17, enlisted. He rose to the rank of sergeant. Later was selected as one of 50 enlisted men to take the West Point examination. He was one of two candidates to pass. Tiring of army life he later resigned.

Baseball had a greater appeal to Cuyler than the routine of the army. He joined the Bay City club of the Michigan-Ontario League in 1920. The following year he was bought by Pittsburg.

For two years the Pirates farmed him out, first to the Charleston (S. C.) club of the South Atlantic League and then to Nashville of the Southern Association.

Those two seasons in the minors gave Cuyler the polish needed; now he is a big league star. There is no more valuable player on the Pittsburg club.

Cuyler sure can hit. Yet he was once a pitcher.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

Cogs and Mackeys Play Final Game To-Night at Exhibition Park at 6 O'Clock

In an East Peterboro League game to-night at the Exhibition Grounds, the Mackeys and Cognawagas meet in a game that means the championship for the Mackey lads if they pull through with a win, while a win for the Cogs will tie up the round and another game will be necessary to decide the championship. The Mackey bread mixers won the first game in a very fast and thrilling battle, with both teams running neck and neck most of the way. Mackeys are out to win the championship to-night, while the Cogs will do everything in their power to tie up the league and get another crack at the bread punchers. The game is sure to be a good one, and if the weather keeps fine large crowds will turn out to cheer for the boys. The game is called for six o'clock sharp. Bob Ross and Jack McCarney will do the umpiring.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Frenzied finance appears to be one of the liberal advantages of a college education. This is particularly true of the college athlete.

Once upon a time a college baseball star of worth was delighted to get a chance to make good in the majors. It was considered quite an honor incidentally a chance to get together a bank roll.

How times have changed?

The big figures the major league magnates have been paying for ball players from the minors have changed the collegian's perspective entirely.

Long before he has finished his college education he has placed himself on the baseball market to the highest bidder. He plays one club against another.

Such a system appears to have destroyed the value of the college player to a certain extent. He seems to be placing mere money against the love of the game. It doesn't make for efficiency.

The very latest in college styles by the player athlete is a personal representative.

Recently I was discussing with a big league club owner the dearth of material. This particular owner has the task of rebuilding his ball club ahead of him.

"Frenzied finance is the big trouble with the present day players, particularly the young collegians," remarked the club owner.

"The opportunity to make good in the big league no longer has a distinct appeal. They don't want to gamble on their chances and leave it up to the generosity of the club owner should they deliver.

"Instead they insist on so much for signing a contract. They demand a fat one or two-year contract from the club owner that binds him hand and foot.

"Getting such a contract (most of them do) tends to kill ambition. They know they can't be fired and in many cases simply ride along."

Getting mack to the personal representative stuff by the college-player. Here is all the two eastern college infielders ask according to their business manager:

In the east at a certain college are two star infielders, who appear to be of big league caliber. They intend to make the most of their opportunity. They have a personal business representative dickering with prospective major league clubs.

A contract for $7500 for two years, a bonus of $5000 for signing, and a guarantee that they will remain in the big show.

The personal representative. Oh, yes! He is to receive $2500 for turning over the players.

That's frenzied finance for you.

'Tis Casey!

And He's a Mighty Man With the Tennis Racket, He Is.

RAY CASEY.

You think Howard Kinsey is good because he just beat Little Bill Johnston in the Seabright tennis singles?

Well, what about Ray Casey, who beat Kinsey out on the coast? Yes, what about him?

The mighty Casey holds the singles title of the State of Washington and British Columbia. He is a southpaw and is the master of a terrifice service.

PETERBORO BOY GETS SEND OFF

J. J. O'Brien, formerly of Peterboro Given Memento By Belleville Kiwanis.

BELLEVILE, Aug. 15.—Yesterday, Belleville Kiwanians bid formal farewell to one of their number,, Kiwanian Jack O'Brien, who leaves on Sunday for Regina where he will take a position of responsibility and trust. Kiwanian Jack has been very popular with the members of Kiwanis and his leaving Belleville is a matter of sincere regret, not only to the Kiwanians but to the large circle of friends Mr. O'Brien has made, since coming here in business and social circles. At to-day's Kiwanis meeting Chairman Wm. Lattimer called Mr. O'Brien to his feet,, expressing regret at his coming departure but satisfaction that it meant a decided advance in the business world. Charles Hanna then presented Kiwanian Jack with a silver match case bearing the Kiwanian emblem and expressed the feelings of all members of the club genuine regret that such a good Kiwanian and genial citizen should be leaving Belleville. Kiwanian O'Brien replied in fitting terms, and was extended all the best wishes for success and prosperity in his new home in the west.

Mr. O'Brien has been appointed manager and buyer for the ladies' ready-to-wear and several auxiliary departments in the large department store of R. H. Williams & Sons, Limited, Regina, and in addition to his resident duties will visit the great buying centres for his firm from time to time.

During his residence here as local manager for the J. A. McNabb Co. Limited, Mr. O'Brien has proved himself a shrewd and capable business man,, an excellent judge of the wants of the buying public and an adept in supplying the same. He had the respect and esteem of the entire business section and proved himself a worthy citizen in every way.

Mr. Jack O'Brien is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Brien of East City, Peterboro, and was employed by the Cressman Company of Peterboro, for three years, before moving to Belleville two years ago.

Breach Of Traffic Laws.

Resulted In Damaged Bicycle And Police Investigation.

Herbert Young and Harold McFarlane, while riding their bicycles east on Charlotte Street, reported to the police that a car number 197-398 stopped directly in front of them, in the centre of the road, without warning, with the result that McFarlane, unable to stop, ran into the car, badly damaging his bicycle.

The motorist got out, examined the wheel, and drove on.

SPORT

President Coolidge backs plan by which Uncle Sam would help make outdoor recreations available for the poor as well as the rich. This is a program about as big as the sun's orbit. But it is sound in principle.

Golf, for example, is becoming the second national sport, ranking in popularity below baseball. But golf is usually a rich man's game. The poor cannot afford membership in a club. And municipal golf courses are few and crowded. The public needs more playgrounds, for grown-ups as well as children, and they should be provided as a health investment by the government.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

The best photoplay treat of many months offered picture goers by the Capitol Theatre, opened last night. It is "Thundering Dawn", a Universal Super-Jewel, portraying the colorful existence at a remote Javanese port. J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Q. Nilsson popular screen favorites with a notable supporting cast, enact the story.

The play is replete with interesting dramatic situations, and entertaining throughout because of the realistic contrast it offers, showing life in the civilized world, and the strange half-mad state in the international tropical port.

Kerrigan plays the role of Jack Standish, an outcast American who falls a victim to the seduction of the tropics. Before he becomes aware of it, he takes to drink and succumbs to the wiles of an oriental beauty, spurred on by a wealthy planter.

Mary Rogers, played by Miss Nilsson, his fiancee, still devoted to him comes to the port where he lives in order to bring about his recovery and to take him back to civilization. She finds him almost a helpless drug addict, and a victim to the charms of the tropical queen, Lullaby Lou.

The feelings of the two women are quite apparent to each other, and to Standish, who is deeply in love with his fiancee. But he is so sadly enmeshed with Lou, he is unable to decide between them. His fiancee, with great womanly devotion, will not leave him in his helpless state, and continues to nurse him, though her heart is near to breaking.

Theo most impressive scene in the play occurs when the local resort is crowded with merry-makers. Yellow men and white, black men and brown and women from many lands, spinning to weird oriental music when a typhoon tears across the port, out of the sea. With it comes a stupendous tidal wave What the wind fails to level, the water washes away. Standish and Miss Rogers are the sole survivors

The vivid flashes of lightning, striking homes and these which splinter under the shock, and the vicious destruction of the tidal wave makes "Thundering Dawn" the picture treat of the season. The wind generated for the typhoon was so strenuous palm trees bent back to the ground, and the gilded palace where the merrymakers disported, came down on their heads.

Harry Garson produced it. Winifed Bryson is at her best as the half-caste tropical vampire. Tom Santschi does a heavy as Gordon Von Brock, the wealthy planter; and Richard Kean plays a new and interesting character as the resort keeper.

The first of the new series of comedy dramas, starring Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champ, is also on the program and reveal Dempsey as a good actor as well as a great fighter. The series is called "Fight and Win" and are along the lines of the "Leatherpusher" series shown at the Capitol about a year ago. The stories tell incidents in the rise to fame of Jack O'Day (Jack Dempsey) and as well as introducing some dramatic scenes and good deal of comedy, finish with a snappy fight that brought the audience right off their seats, Hayden Stevenson, who will be remembered for his work in "The Leatherpushers" is in the cast of the Dempsey series. Judging from the first of these pictures, shown last night, the "Fight and Win" series are going to be better than the "Leatherpushers" as they are more dramatic. "The Fight and Win" series with Jack Dempsey in each episode will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday of every second week, at the Capitol.

AT THE ROYAL.

"THE NEAR LADY" NOVEL ROLE FOR GLADYS WALTON.

Handled from a little different angle "The Near Lady," a Universal feature which opened last night at the Royal theatre, might have been a very serious drama and much of the action is very funny, but it has many dramatic possibilities and a serious underlying theme which reflects society life.

It is perhaps much better entertainment in its present vein than it would have been had it been filmed with a serious camera. Good comedies are none too plentiful and the exchanges are well stocked with "Drammar."

Gladys Walton is starred in the production and is introduced as a manicurist. She is manicuring as a fat man in a barber shop. The action soon shifts to more attractive locations, however, as her dad, Herr Hermann Schultz, butcher, invents a sausage machine which makes a highly improved breakfast dish,—and also a million dollars for the cosmopolitan household. Cosmopolitan because Mrs. Schultz's first name is Bridget.

Right away the Schultz's want to move up a notch in the social whirl. They meet the Van Bibbers, whose social connections are excellent, but whose stock has dropped in the era of finance and who are seeking to recuperate.

The old folks frame on Nora, the manicurist, and young Van Bibber a good looking chap with a well faked bored air, played by Jerry Gendron. Bluntly the idea is to get the young folks married so that the Van Bibbers can get the Schultzes into society and the Schultzes can buy groceries for the Van Bibbers until the old gent can hit his Wall street stride again.

The idea doesn't go over so well with the young folks, for young Van recalls that Nora manicured his nails once and Nora recalls that occasion. However, in deference to the parental desires they agree to "pretend" to be engaged.

A title puts the situation nicely, "each day they'd meet and go their separate ways." A crisis comes when Van feigns drunkenness to get Nora to break off the engagement. Instead of that, a few exciting and amusing incidents the young people discover that they are really in love with each other and get married.

The thing is funnier than it sounds in the telling, for the action is swift and the titles have good humour in them.

LARRY SEMONS FIRST 6-ACT COMEDY COMES TO ROYAL MONDAY NEXT.

A ready made audience is almost assured by the announcement of a Larry Semon comedy and his many admirers will be glad to know that the Royal has secured his first big feature "The Girl in the Limousine," from the Broadway stage success. It is announced for Monday next.

TRIBAL FIGHTING.

Village Raided And Destroyed By The Native Tribesmen.

LONDON, Aug. 15. — According to Central News despatches there has been severe tribal fighting in the trans-jordania region. The despatches say 3500 Wahabis raided and then burned the villages of Beni, Sakr, Tribe, and that there were heavy casualties. Afterwards the Wahabis were routed by native tribesmen who were aided by British airmen. The British airmen are reported to have dropped bombs on the raiding party.

SECURES A TITLE.

Mr. Lonn Clark Buchanan, son of Mr. J. C. Buchanan, of Elmview Farm, Belmont, has been granted by the Lord Lyon, under the Sovereign, the title to coat arms. The arms include the black lion of the Buchanan family with a maple leaf in one paw to show the Canadian connection; also two crescents which are the chief charges in the Clark arms. The Buchanan crest is differenced by two sprays of maple.

Mr. Lonn Buchanan is a great-grandson of the late Mr. John Buchanan, who was one of the pioneer settlers of Belmont.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Some of the error that has crept into Christendom, may have been caused by a wrong understanding of a few passages of Scripture. This misunderstanding may come from reading incorrect translations of the original text, failing to compare Scripture with Scripture, and putting wrong meanings to plain words, either wilfully or ignorantly. For instance in I Peter 4:6, we read, "the gospel preached to the dead." The gospel could not be preached to a dead person, but it could be preached to the dead, while living. Gal. 3:8. And again in I Peter 3:19, the following words are found, "Christ preached to spirits in prison." This has not reference to men who lived in Noah's day and are now dead, but it has reference to living spirits (angels.) See 6th verse of Jude, and Gen. 6:4. It does not even say he preached the gospel to these disobedient angels. The resurrected, victorious Christ preached to them, but we are not informed what He preached, or how He did it. There are more ways of preaching than one; for instance, a man may preach righteousness by living a righteous life. In Psalms 9:17, we read the following: "The wicked shall be turned into hell." This is a mis-translation, and should read, "the wicked shall be turned back or returned to Sheol," (which practically means a state of death.) They had already went down into death, and after being resurrected, they (under most favorable circumstances) who wilfully refuse to turn from sin to righteousness, will be turned back to death again, from which there will be no resurrection.—M. T. Butcher.

MORS IS WILLING TO SEND M'COY INTO ETERNITY

Asks Chance to Pull Rope to Hang Alleged Slayer of His Wife

DENIES SUICIDE TALE.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 15.—"I want Kid McCoy to hang—and I want to pull the rope."

Weeping without restraint, Albert Mors, divorced husband of the beautiful Theresa Mors, who was found dead in her apartment, bitterly demanded vengeance on the pugilist movie star who is held on suspicion of murder.

"I knew from the beginning that nothing good ever would come from my wife's association with McCoy," the husband shouted, "and his story that I drove Theresa to suicide is a lie."

Mors' pent-up anguish gave way in an interview as McCoy was trying to fight off the web of circumstantial evidence steadily weaving about him.

The pugilist was slowly weakening, however, in the opinion of detectives.

Confession Expected.

"I expect him to confess before another sundown," said Detective Captain George K. Home.

Mors, in his apartment, was awaiting a call from District Attorney Keyes to tell what he knows.

"I protested to Theresa many times that her association with McCoy would bring trouble," Mors said, "and my fears have come true. I think it was nothing short of an act of God that I, too, am not dead."

Then there was a pause as the husband reflected—"she and I were friendly when we last saw each other, so I could not have been the cause of her death. He lies when he says I drove her to it."

"Innocent," Says His Mother.

But while Mors was demanding the noose for McCoy, and the police were pursuing their relentless object of fixing guilt upon the expugilist, there was one in another part of the town who believes in the "Kid's" innocence. That is Mrs. Mary E. Selby, mother of McCoy.

"I can't seem to think very well," she said. "Surely he couldn't have done it. He loved her too dearly. She loved him too.

"He came to see me Wednesday morning, very early, it was ten minutes to two. I heard his voice outside under the window—I know his voice so well. He said, 'mother.' I had been expecting him all day. He came in and put his arms around me and said, 'How's my mother?' He didn't say anything about any trouble. He just wanted to know how I was and asked me what time it was. It was ten minutes to two.

"He loved her so much. He used to tell me about it."

Mrs. Selby said she would visit her son as soon as the authorities would let her.

START DEMONSTRATION.

Hammers And Sticks Used In a Street Fight.

LONDON, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press)—An Evening News despatch from Khartum states that a party of laborers, armed with hammers and sticks, started a demonstration there to-day, but it was dispersed upon the arrival of British troops. It was added that the British cruiser Weymouth is standing by at Port Sudan to assure the public of security.

The despatch stated that a fight occurred at Port Sudan upon the arrival of British troops from Khartum. It was said that the leaves of officials and British officers have been cancelled and certain responsible officials recalled.

This is a commitment to the improvement of the St. Lawrence outlet from the lakes.

OBITUARY.

JOHN JAYES.

Enjoying his usual good health yesterday, John Jayes went to his work. Later in the day, he was suddenly stricken and died this morning from heart failure. The late John Jayes was in his 66th year, was born and lived in Peterboro all his life, and was widely known throughout the city and county.

Of jovial nature and kindly disposition he made for himself a host of friends. In religion he was an Anglican.

One brother George, of Buffalo, and one niece, Mrs. Perry, of Erie, Pennsylvania, survive.

Funeral announcements will be made later.

BECK WILL STAY.

Hydro Knight Interested In Power Production By Steam.

LONDON, Aug. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Nova Scotia coal will make Canada independent of the United States in respect of the proposed establishment of three or four large steam plants for generating electricity in this province, Sir Adam Beck stated to the Canadian Press on his return to the city to-day from overseas.

Sir Adam denied reports that there had been any definite arrangements made regarding his entry into the British political field.

For the time being his attention is focused on the development of steam power in Canada, and particularly in Ontario, and he does not contemplate returning to England in the near future.

"We can get large quantities of soft coal from Nova Scotia for use in the auxiliary steam plants of the Province," stated Sir Adam. "This will make us practically independent of the United States for our fuel, because the Maritime Provinces can supply is as cheaply and satisfactorily."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

WHO IS CHRIST? WHO IS ANTI-CHRIST?

For centuries the warning has gone forth against the coming of Antichrist. People everywhere have been told to be on guard against the day when Antichrist should come and destroy the faith.

Antichrist has come, but in spite of the many warnings people have been deceived and their faith destroyed, until many to-day cannot discern who Christ is, and thus fall readily into the error of accepting Antichrist.

Is Antichrist a man, or a system of error? When did it come? How can it be recognized?

These and other interesting questions will be fully and scripturally answered in the FREE PUBLIC LECTURE to be given by

GIRLS DESERTED AS INFANTS NOW SEEK MOTHERS

Twin Sisters Left in Field Thirty Years Ago Are Now Prosperous.

BOTH ARE MARRIED

Other Girl a Governess — Fear Mothers May Be in Want.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Search for two mothers, each of whom had been forced to abandon two girls because of extreme poverty thirty years ago, has been started by the cast-off children.

In one case, in White Plains, the two daughters have become prosperous and in the other, in New York, the single surviving daughter is able to give her mother a home. The children, it appeared, were driven by filial love persisted through thirty years of separation and in each case were haunted by the fear that the mother might be homeless and in want.

The young women who started a search for their mother in White Plains were Edna and Grace Fields, twins. On August 26, 1894, according to John Snedeker, then County Overseer of the Poor, but now an insurance broker in White Plains, a wan-faced women in black left the twins on the front lawn on North Street of Gabriel Purdys, a farmer. She had been seen by several persons. She was a very young woman, wandering aimlessly and dejectedly about the streets with the babies, not two months old, under a shawl. In the fading twilight she was seen reading slogans warning sinners, posted on walls and buildings by the Salvation Army. But the twins were deserted.

Sisters Separated.

The next day there was a pilgrimage to the Purdy farm to see the plump twins with violet eyes. They were named Edna and Grace, and added "Fields," because they were found in the fields. They were taken to the county alms house by Mr. Snedeker. One was adopted by a family in Poundridge and the other by a family in White Plains. At the age of 10, Edna, at Poundridge, learned that she was an adopted child. Later she married. Only two years ago, when about to marry, Grace was told she had been adopted and had a twin sister. She resolved to find her sister and her mother. She searched for two years and in the county court records finally found information that united her with her twin sister.

Both Are Wealthy.

Both girls, according to Mr. Snedeker, who was appointed their representative, are wealthy, educated and happy in their homes. But their joy is not complete. They feel confident that their mother is still alive and in need, and they fear that there may be some doubt in the mind of the mother — and possibly that of their father—that the past will be forgotten; but such is not the case.

In their search for their parents the twins put an advertisement in a White Plains newspaper which read:

"Information wanted concerning, mother of twins left on local farm about twenty-eight years ago. Write Box E88."

The young women refuse to tell the names of the families that adopted them, or even their own married names. To protect themselves and their mother, whom they do not desire to have branded as a child deserter, they wish to be known only by the names that the pilgrims at the Purdy farm gave them thirty years ago.

The Other Case.

The woman for whom search was instituted in New York, was Mrs. Annie Kennedy Donnelly, who appeared at the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital, 161 West Sixty-First Street, with her two baby daughters, and begged shelter for them until she could find work. The girls were taken in, but the mother never came back. One, Caroline, died in the hospital two and a half months later

The other day the surviving daughter, Miss Josephine Donnelly, a governess in the Long Island Hospital, in Boston, asked the police here to search for her mother, who she believes is still alive.

Miss Donnelly said her mother was married at the age of 20, and both children, Josephine and Caroline, were born at 209 East 102nd Street, according to records in the Health Department. The father was stricken suddenly and died. The young couple had saved only a few hundred dollars which dwindled rapidly until the babies were without food. The mother then took them to the home, expressing the hope that she could come for them in a few weeks, as soon as she had found work. That was the last heard from her.

After the death of her sister,

TWO SUSPECTED OF $6,000 THEFT

Detroit Men Each Had $1,000 When Arrested at Windsor.

REVOLVER FOUND

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 16.—Carl Moor and Frank Case, both of Detroit, are in the hands of the local police, suspected of being implicated in the theft of $6000 from the safe of the International Bar Wednesday night.

The two men were arrested when detectives noticed them, with three companions, acting in a suspicious manner in the Michigan Central Railway yards on Thursday night. The three other men made their escape, and Moor and Cruise were captured after a scuffle.

When searched they were found to have $1,000 in their pockets, and a revolver was found on the ground near where the arrest was made.

Both claim they are structural steel workers employed in Detroit, and deny any knowledge of the robbery. They are unable however to account for the large sum of money they carried or for their actions on the night of the safe blowing police say.

They are held on a nominal charge of vagrancy, pending investigation.

NO U. S. OFFICIALS WHEN LEAGUE MEET

Not Proper for Non-Member Government To Send Representatives.

WASHINGTON, August 16 (Canadian Press). — No American official observers will be present when the Assembly of the League of Nations is called together at Geneva next month.

In making this announcement yesterday the Department emphasised the fact that there is nothing unusual in the absence of observers appointed by the United States Government, since it would hardly be proper for a non-member Government to send representatives to the Assembly.

The United States has co-operated with several committees of the League of Nations in an advisory capacity, it was added, and will continue to do so where the interests of our Government or the people are involved.

FANNING INQUEST

No New Evidence Brought Out—Mother "Queer" for Years.

LINDSAY, Aug. 16. — No new facts were disclosed at the inquest last night, at Murphy's school house in South Ops township, into the death of the two little sisters, Lois and Bernice Fanning. The Jury declared themselves of the opinion that children "met their deaths at the hands of their mother while she was in a demented state of mind". Dr. Logan of Lindsay, presided.

Mr. George Aldred, father of Mrs. Fanning, said she hadsacted queerly since the birth of her second baby, six years ago, and had other hallucinations at times.

ROME, Aug. 16.—Money circulation in Italy now amounts to about 520 lire per capita, as compared with 77 lire in 1914. In other words circulation has increased over 650 per cent, while the gold volue of the lire has depreciated a little over 400 per cent.

STATE EXPERTS HOTLY GRILLED BY ATTORNEYS

Darrow Sought to Discredit Alienists Introduced by Attorney Crowe.

ONE POINT GAINED

Alienists Admitted Examination of Slayers Had Not Been Thorough.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16. —With the necks of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb as the stake, attorneys for the defense fought like tigers to break down testimony of the State's alienists yesterday.

Dr. Hugh T. Patrick and Dr. Archibald Church had testified the defendants were sane when they examined them at the time of their arrest.

Clarence Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach, attorneys defending the slayers of little Robert Franks, cross-examined the alienists to-day. The defense wanted to show Judge John R. Caverly, who must decide the fate of the slayers, that the examinations of Doctors Patrick and Church were superficial.

The alienists readily admitted their examination of the alienists for the defense. But they made it clear that they had gone far enough to be quite convinced that neither Leopold nor Loeb was insane, nor was there anything in their mental make-up that would absolve them from responsibility for the crime to which they have confessed.

Wants to Speed Up Case

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe hopes to speed up the hearing and get the case before Judge Caverly for decision next week.

A woman who gave the name of Annie Laurie, who attempted to force her way to Judge Caverly with an "outline of the decision he should make," was sent to the psychopathic hospital to have her head examined.

After Judge Caverly had the report from the hospital he ordered the woman placed in the custody of her daughter to be returned to Houston, Texas.

Dr. Patrick stood the fire of cross-examination without flinching. He was academic, answers formal and severe. He went over the story of Leopold's description of the crime, retold Leopold's claim that Loeb struck the fatal blow with the chisel; that it was all Loeb's planning.

Then he turned and retold what Loeb had to say about it of his contention that it was Leopold who struck the fatal blow.

Doctor is Frank

It was much the same with Dr. Church. Dr. Church's direct examination had been short and he was quite frank; wanted it understood he had reached his conclusions in his own way and could truthfully say that Leopold and Loeb are not irresponsibles. Attorney Crowe had told him he didn't want to hang the boys if they were insane, he said.

Young Loeb was on the verge of tears as he was brought into the court room yesterday morning. It was caused by a letter from his mother and he said:

"I can't recall every word of it, but it was a wonderfu lletter. It isn't one of those things that you memorize—you just feel it, and I have been feeling it ever since I read it."

PRINTERS STRIKE TO BE CALLED OFF

Strike Has Lasted Since May 1921, For 44 Hour Week

TORONTO, August 16 (Canadian Press). — The decision by the International Typographical Union to call off, as from 31st August, the strike for the 44-hour week which has been in progress since May, 1921, was reached at the session of the convention which lasted until midnight last night.

A discussion on the merits of the strike and the phases affecting the various localities was heated and strenuous, but in the end the resolution of the committee was adopted unanimously.

It was recommended to the executive council that the men still out should continue to receive financial assistance.

There are 144 men in Toronto who are still out.

Ottawa Coldest Spot In Canada Thursday Night

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Ottawa may never be likely to equal the record of White River, Ont., as the coldest spot in Canada in winter, but it achieved prominence during Thursday night with a record for being the most frigid point anywhere between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The temperature in the locality was probably the lowest of the summer, the thermometer dropping from a maximum of 70 down to 44 points above zero.

No damage to fruits or vegetables is reported to have been caused locally by the unseasonable weather. The only effect of the cold wave was to bring into service additional blankets. Empty coal bins were probably the only obstacle to the inclination of many residents to light furnaces and take the "chill" out of the house.

MISSING FINGER IN MURDER CASE

Photographed Hand Print Shows Three Fingers.

MONTREAL INQUEST

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—Twenty-one witnesses, a few frayed edges of cloth, a panama hat, torn trousers, finger prints, plaster casts of a shoe heel made in the mud two broken pickets and a photograph of a hand print with only three fingers are included in the exhibits to be produced at the inquest which begins this morning in the murder of Wm. Clarke, night watchman who was killed last Saturday morning. The finger prints come from the broken pickets and the photographs of those, when developed failed to show the third finger on the right hand.

The man detained as a material witness, Christopher White, lost the third finger of his right hand in an accident four years ago. Through his counsel, White will plead an alibi to the effect that he was not of his house at the time of the murder.

WEST REPORTS TRADE BETTER

Slight Improvement at Winnipeg—Toronto Finds Undertone Strong.

WEEKLY REVIEW

WINNIPEG, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, states:—

Halifax—Wholesalers report business up to expectations. Retailers report good carnival business. Collections good.

St. John—Wholesalers report business quiet. Sorting business fairly good. Retail trade fair considering this is holiday season. Collections fair.

Montreal—Wholesale trade reports business up to expectations and improvement looked for in the near future. Retail trade reports business fairly satisfactory. Collections fair.

Toronto—Wholesale trade report holiday season prevailing but a reasonable amount of business being transacted. Retail trade report sales satisfactory on marked down goods. Other business quiet. Although there is a strong undertone to the market and conditions seem ready for improvement manufacturers appear to be reticent to take other than a cautious policy.

Winnipeg—Both wholesalers and retailers report a slight improvement and better feeling existing. Collections slow.

Regina —Both wholesale and retail trade report business fair considering the season. Ample moisture reported during the past two weeks which would help out crops considerably.

Saskatoon —Both wholesale and retail trade report business quiet. Collections poor.

Calgary—Wholesale and retail trade report no change over last week. Conditions generally are quite normal. Collections slow.

Edmonton—Trade reports prospects very much improved. Recent rains and warm weather have helped improve crop prospects considerably

Vancouver—Wholesale trade in all lines of trade show good improvement during the past week. Retail trade fair. Collections fair.

PREMIER AT GRIMSBY.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).— Premier Mackenzie-King will address a meeting at Grimsby Beach, Ont. on August 30th. He will not speak at Guelph on the 30th as formerly announced.

CANADA'S TRADE DEVELOPING ON THE CONTINENT

Noticeable Recovery in Buying Power of Some European Countries.

WHEAT IN DEMAND

Hon. T. A. Low, Minister of Commerce, Believes Prospects Are Bright.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable). — Canadian export trade will increase largely when the conditions abroad are settled and normal again. This is the opinion of Hon. T. A. Low, Canadian minister of Trade and Commerce, who has been on the continent investigating Canadian Trade offices and sailed for Canada to-day on the Empress of Scotland.

Mr. Low told the Canadian Press that the outlook for increasing business in Canadian wheat on the continent seemed to be specially bright, its excellent qualities being highly valued on the continent. Canadian flour, he said, was generally in demand both in Great Britain and on the continent because of its strength.

Mr. Low inspected the Rotterdam harbor method of distributing Canadian wheat from the vessels at Rotterdam to the mills in Holland. He noted particularly an increase in the Canadian export trade in wheat with Holland the last 18 months.

The recovery of the buying power of money in certain continental countries was noticeable, Mr. Low said, and new lines of trade had opened in Greece. He hoped for further trade development, he said, with Italy, Spain and Portugal. New lines of trade had been opened in Western England on a small scale, he added.

Like everybody else here the Canadian minister of trade expressed enthusiasm over the Canadian exhibit at the British empire exhibition. He said he was satisfied that Canada was growing in importance among the British dominions in the eyes of British business men.

Mr. Low had nothing to say with regard to ocean freight rates when this subject was broached.

QUARREL OVER LEASE

Husband Gives Himself Up to Police—Wife Murdered.

ASSINIBOIE, Sask., Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Adelaide Nobles was found dead in her room here Friday morning with her head smashed in with a blunt instrument. Alfred Nobles, her husband, gave himself up to the police at 6.45 a.m. The killing occurred early yesterday and it is believed followed a quarrel over the signing of a lease for a rooming house at Lafleche. Mrs. Nobles only arrived in Assinibois on Thursday but her husband has been employed here for two months. An inquest will be held.

REV. H. J. KEITH RETURNS

Prominent in the Early History of Knox Church—Will Preach Sunday.

Rev. Henry J. Keith, B.D., of Winnipeg, former minister of Knox Presbyterian Church here, has arrived in Peterborough, and will conduct the service in his old church in Sunday morning and at Murray Street Church on Sunday evening.

Mr. Keith was pastor of Knox Church when the present splendid building was erected, and it is a monument to his energy and faithful work. The congregation that he built up is still flourishing and growing, built on the foundation he laid while pastor.

Oldest Man In Manitoba Dies In Poor House At 112

WINNIPEG, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The oldest man in Manitoba, Alexa Vivier, aged 112 years, who during the declining years of his life has been confined in the home for the aged and infirm at Portage La Prairie, died yesterday.

Mr Vivier was born in the district of St. Francis Xavier on Feb. 17, 1812. He spent all his life on the settlements along the Assiniboia river and at the age of 104 was sent to the home at Portage. Up to the time of his death, Mr. Vivier enjoyed excellent hearing although his eye-sight was beginning to fail him.

M'COY WAS NOT NAMED BY JURY

District Attorney Announced Ex-Pugilist Would be Tried For Murder.

INSANITY ALLEGED

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 16. The coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Thomas W. Mors, found shot in her apartment Tuesday night and in connection with which Kid McCoy, expugilist, is being held, late Friday found the woman came to her death from a gunshot wound inflicted by a person or persons unknown.

District Attorney Keyes previously declared that McCoy would be indicted and tried for murder.

McCoy is insane, said one of his two attorneys.

...."We will interpose an insanity defense in his behalf no matter what charge he may be tried on.

"Why, the "Kid's" friends have been worried about thim for two weeks.

"They were planning to have him confined on an insanity complaint when this happened."

The District Attorney expressed the belief that the police version of the crime was correct. The police hold to the belief thatMcCoy shot Mrs. Mors when she refused to marry him. McCoy then "ran amuck,," the police declare, and in his frenzy shot Sam Schapp and his wife, Anna Schapp, and Wm. G. Ross in the West Seventh street antique shop. All of the three wounded will recover.

Police in Death House.

An amazing incident which occurred shortly before 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, a few hous after Mrs. Mors was killed, was related by Assistant Captain of Detectives Cline.

Cline told District Attorney Keyes that McCoy had appeared at the Hollywood Police station about 1 o'clock Tuseday morning, "gunning" for a police officer. This officer is the one who had interferred in the row between Mors and Mrs. Mors when McCoy made his first appearance as Mrs. Mor's protector.

The police officers were unaware of Mrs. Mors' death and believed McCoy to be drunk and unable to drive his automobile. They returned him to the Nottingham apartments, where he and Mrs. Mors were registered as man and wife.

Mrs. Mors at that time lay dead on the floor of a room in the apartment. The two officers stepped inside the door as McCoy opened it in the hallway when they started toward the room where Mrs. Mors' body lay, McCoy blocked the door way.

Kept Officers Out.

"Don't go in there," McCoy said, and the police officers left without knowing the reason why he kept them out of the room.

The alleged confession of murder of Mrs. Mors, made by McCoy to Mrs. Jennie Thomas, his sister, was "tipped" to Captain Cline by Mrs. Thomas. McCoy told his sister he had killed Mrs. Mors early Wednesday morning. "I just had to kill her," McCoy is asserted to have said, according to Cline's information.

The bullet which caused Mrs. Mrs' death entered the left side of her head and came out near her right nostril. The authorities declare it would have been impossible for the wound to have been self-inflicted.

When the detectives questioned McCoy he said that he could not remember what occured when he entered the Mors art store, robbed the men who were there, shot Ross and then shot Schapp and Mrs. Schapp in their store, adjoining the Mors shop.

REVENUE LOSS BY C.N.R. HEAVY

Sir Henry Thornton Breaks Bad News Gently—Business Falls Off.

SLUMP SINCE MAY

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The people of Canada must face the unpleasant possibility that the loss on operation of the Canadian National Lines will be from thirteen to fifteen million dollars for 1924, much of which is due to bad business in the United States, where the Canadian National has a large and productive mileage.

This information was given by Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, to members of the Board of Trade at a luncheon given Friday to Sir Henry and his party.

Sir Henry said that the year opened auspiciously with a material increase in revenue for the first three months, but that since May 1, last, revenue had been falling off at the rate of ten to 15 per cent. a month.

Part of this was due to falling off in revenue on manufactured articles from the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

"It will be very doubtful, if not impossible, to attain our objective of securing thirty millions net for the system, but we hope for some improvement over present conditions before the end of the year," he said.

WHAT A SIGHT!

One Look at Flapper and Back to Congo Goes Missionary.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—After taking one good look at the American, bob-haired flapper, Mrs. Helen E. Springer, missionary, has taken the next boat back to the Congo!

"I've treked 20,000 miles through Africa," she remarked. "But I've never met a type I understand so imperfectly as this 'modern woman' that has grown up in my native country during my absence."

For 23 years Mrs. Springer and her husband traveled as missionaries through the Belgian, Congo and Rhodesia. They established churches, schools and medical stations and taught simple crafts to natives. Yet, in all her experience, she repeats—

"I've never known a native girl to drape her three yards of calico or burlap so suggestively about her body as the flapper of today does her chiffons and silks. And I find any of the six or seven Bantu dialects more intelligible to me than the patter that goes on at tea tables and over the counters in New York."

So back to "cannibal land" she goes.

TWO CYCLISTS KILLED

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—William Quesnel, 43, and Armand Durorcher, 23, both of Longueuil, died from injuries received when their motor cycle collided with an automobile on the Boucherville road Thursday night. Quesnel died Thursday night but Durochre lived until this morning until August 27.

The inquest yesterday was adjourned.

DOMINIONS ARE UNMOVED ABOUT EMPIRE PARLEY

Casual Attitude Shown By Canada and Australia Result of Blunder.

J. H. THOMAS BLAMED

British Reviews Expresses Doubt of Proposed Autumn Conference.

LONDON, Aug. 16. — (Canadian Press Cable).— Opinion here, as at Ottawa, seems to harden against the possibility of the autumn conference concerning inter-imperial consultation producing anything tangible. Australia is certainly not intending to put itself about over the matter. Canada's attitude is taken to be that its delegates can attend the conference while they are also doing other other work at Geneva.

The Outlook, a weekly review, talks about the government going from one blunder to another in relations to the dominions, declaring that the latest proposal of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has given Premier Mac Kenize King of Canada an opportunity to turn down in advance the suggestion that in future leaders of the opposition should be brought to the imperial conference.

Follows Precedent

Premier King, once more following the late Sir Wilfred Laurier, holds that it is the duty of the govements to decide the policy and of oppositions to criticise the decisions, the newspaper adds. The Outlook also declares that the Russian treaty violates Premier MacDonald's explicit assurance that his government would respect last year's conference resolution concerning "the fullest exchange of views."

The Russian Treaty.

The Saturday Review speaks of the Treaty being effected "without even a cable communication to the dominions," Continuing, it says: "Are there no Russian bondholders in Canada? This treaty is bound to involve the legality of Bolshevist propaganda and must, of necessity, link up Bolshevist machinery in all parts of the Empire."

The Nation, another weekly review, while condemning the treaty on various counts, notes that it is signed only on behalf of Britain and Northern Ireland and so the dominions are not apparently implicated in it.

KIWANIS CLUB HELP CHILDREN

1,000,000 Free Bottles of Pure Milk Were Distributed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(Associated Press).—How to help underprivileged children along the path toward good citizenship is one of the problems the Kiwanis clubs of Chicago have studied for a number of years. Various movements with this end in view have been carried out with gratifying results, officers say, and now an effort toward a happier state of mind is to be made through the child's stomach.

"Sociologists are generally agreed that the chances are decidedly against the undernourished boy or girl," they assert. "Hunger breeds unhappiness and unhappiness breeds bitterness against those more fortunately situated. Kiwanians believe that building up the bodies of these underfed little folk will tend to produce a cheerier outlook on life, in other words, that more good citizens will develop from a group of well fed children than will come from the same number of undernourished children.

"The Kiwanis clubs therefore perfected arrangements to distribute during the summer 1,000,000 free bottles of milk. Mothers in the poorer sections of the city were given coupon books entitling them to a given number of quarts of milk over a certain period, new books to be issued as needed."

TO PREVENT PREMATURE BURIAL.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—A bill designed to prevent burial alive has been presented in Parliament. It provides for medical inspection of a dead body before certification of death, and for adequate inquiry before certification of cause. The cost would be chargeable to the estate of the deceased.

DIVORCE SUIT NOTICE.

SALESMANSHIP IS KEY TO SUCCESS

Salesmanship Helps to Make the Successful Business Woman.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Salesmanship—that's what makes the successful business woman, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Sears, editor, writer and head of the New York organization of business and professional women.

"If you can sell, no matter what—for the principle is the same for all commodities—you are absolutely the master of your own fate and you can command your bank account to run up as far as you like," she maintains.

"In fact, no matter what the job you get is, it resolves itself into a matter of salesmanship, even though you never actually turn over a commodity in exchange for money.

Sell Ability First.

"First you have to sell your ability to the person who will give you the job. Then you must sell your own work to the firm and finally you must sell your firm to the world."

Because of the importance of salesmanship in the career of a woman who must earn her own living, Mrs. Sears believes that a little experience back of a counter or in direct contact with the people she must serve is the most valuable experience a woman can have.

"You can't name a big business woman in the country who is not first of all a good saleswoman, and you can't name a big business that isn't a selling job when you get down to the final analysis," she went on.

"A trained mind that has been nourished on theories and gorged with the principles of psychology becomes a power in business if it is clarified and molded by contact with actual problems instead of theoretical onees. Otherwise it may be a detriment to success.

Managing People.

"In business it is much more important to be able to placate the man who is tearing out his hair because of some injustice, fancied or real, than it is tobe able to analyze exactly why the man is angry and whether or not he is in the right.

"You learn to manage people by experience with them. You sell them because you understand them."

"How about personality as a factor in business success?" I asked.

"There's just this about it," she replied. The word personality is the most overworked word in the English language.

"Holding a job by personality merely means thtat you can sell yourself but you can't deliver the goods. If women would just forget personality and cultivate salesmanship, they could command the salaries they dreamed of."

There is no Poultry Feed quite so good as Purina. Come and we will tell you why, and give you some very informing literature.

AUZZIES BEAT JAPS.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., August 16 (Canadian Press). — The formidable Australian doubles combination of Gerald L. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood volleyed the land of the Kangaroo into a victory in the American zone Davis Cup final on the grass courts of th Agawam Hunt Club here yesterday when it defeated Sunao Okamoto cnd Takeichi Harada of aJpan, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Yesterday's victory, together with Thursday's two triumphs in the singles, gives the Australians the right to meet the French team, winner of the European zone play, in the round before the echallenge round.

PROPOSAL TO REMEDY EAST CITY EYE-SORE

To Make Beauty Spot of Unsightly Patch of Weeds.

ON CITY PROPERTY

Will Lay Concrete Sidewalk From Bridge Approach to Burnham Street.

Of all the eye sores in East City, the vacant city property at the corner of Hunter and Burnham streets stands out as a blemish to this section of Peterboro, that boosts of its beautiful avenues and residential districts.

Engleburn, with its modern homes, situated amid groves of trees, in full view of the river, displays the wildwood affect. Then the massive Hunter Street Bridge, a monument of beauty bordered on the right hand side as you enter the old Village of Ashburnham with an ugly blotch of weeds, affording a grotesque comparison to the magnificent structure.

It will be remembered that the north east portion of the City property bordering Burnham steet and the sidewalk leading to the bridge was filled in from the soil of the adjoining plot of ground. On the surface of this fill are growing the weeds referred to, and at the present time citizens turning south on Burnham after crossing the bridge take a short cut at this corner, tramping through the weeds to Burnham street. Of course, in damp weather this path is used, but at any time it is an inconvenience.

The matter of remedying this corner has been a keen subject of discussion from time to time, but never received its final disposition.

It will come as welcome news to residents of East City that this matter is again current. Mayor Turner, Alderman Morrison, Chairman of the Board of Works, Ald. E. M. Turner, Chairman of Parks Committee, inspected the scene recently and it is likely that action will be taken as a result.

These three members recommended that a concrete sidewalk be laid from the sidewalk leading to the Bridge to Burnham street, thus leaving a triangular plot of ground bordered by sidewalks. It is proposed that a lamp pole be erected in the middle of the triangular boulevard and the ground seeded.

With a nice grass plot here and a flower bed, it will make one of the most attractive corners in the City, a real beauty spot, remarked Mayor Turner, in commenting on the project.

This constructive bit of work, if carried out will be much appreciated. Aside from remedying the present unsightly appearance, it will provide a great convenience to citizens now using the path beaten through the growth of weeds on the surface of the fill.

Although it is as yet only a proposal, City Engineer Parsons is preparing estimates of the cost of the construction and the members of the visiting party sincerely hope that the recommendation will be accepted by the whole Council and the work completed this year.

FRANKS GET MAIL DIFFERENT NATIONS

Some Express Sympathy; Others Berate Slain Boys' Parents for Indulgence.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The mailman who trudges up to 5052 Ellis avenue three times a day, even if he had never heard of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., would know that something unusual had occurred within the beautiful house on his route.

A few months ago perhaps half a dozen letters a day came addressed to 5052 Ellis avenue, to the old couple who seemed recluses and their three lively children. But now the mailman has thirty or forty letters each delivery.

"The contents of may mail bag are amazingly interesting," said Jacob Franks as he stepped into Judge Caverly's court room this morning after the long ride from 5052 Ellis avenue. "I often get 100 letters a day, most of them from perfect strangers."

The grief-stricken man with the face like a cameo, reached in his pocket and pulled out a packet. He handed it to a reporter.

"Here," he said. "Look through these letters. You may find something which surprises you. They are the early morning delivery; I myself have not yet seen them. Look."

Pray for Little Robert

Letter No. 1 came from a village called Ismay, Mont. The author said that there was only one house in the tiny village, but that every person in that house every night prayed for the soul of little Robert Franks.

The second letter was forty-two pages long—a typical "nut" manifesto. It was postmarked White Haven, Fla., and was addressed "Mrs. Franks, mother of the murdered boy, Chicago," Most of the forty-two pages were incomprehensible.

Letter No. 3 came from a woman in Benton Harbor, Mich., and furiously denounced the Franks family.

"Mother to mother—the gold you spent so eagerly on your boy brought on his death," the almost illegible letter read. "And the gold which was denied me brought on the ruin of the light of my life, my glorious daughter."

Scrawl From Arkansas

Letter No. 5 was a more or less conventional note of sympathy from a family friend travelling to New York on the Twentieth Century Limited, the crested stationery was the highest possible contrast to letter No. 6 ,a scrawl on a piece of yellow paper from Arkansas demanding money.

Many of the letters came from far distant foreign countries. One was from a British resident of Singapore expressing grief; another was from a Belgian hotel keeper in Brussels one postcard came from Samarkand in Central Asia; still another was scrawled in German script from Dresden.

Lette No. 11 came from a Catholic priest in Minnesota, who said he had vowed the night of the murder to pray every day for a year for the little boy; a few letters further on was one from a Protestant bishop in Pennsylvania, formally expressing sympathy.

Answers Them All

"This crime is the most horrible of all crimes," said a woman in a note from the North Carolina mountains. "We are praying for your boy. May his murders be hung."

And so on down the list it went. Each letter told a different story. Each come from a different quarter of the world; it seemed; a different social environment; a different sphere of sophistication. The reporter handed the packet back to Mr. Franks.

"I answer them all—every one," he said. "Every one."

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Hal. Argue and little daughter Barbara spent a couple of days this week visiting Mrs. W. Hanbidge and other friends in Peterboro.

Mrs. W. Cody is at present visiting in Bethany, and will spend a couple of days at Mr. T. A. Kelly's, where Mr. Cody is staying, while attending to selling and shipping his lumber.

Dr. Woodhall came down from Hamilton on Saturday evening and motored home on Sunday with Mrs. Woodhall and the children, who have spent the past month visiting her mother, Mrs. Touchbourn.

Miss Bertha Touchbourn accompanied them home for a visit.

Mrs. Stapleton, Newcastle, Mr. Tom McNeil and daughter, Theresa, also Mr. Lang, of Orono, spent Sunday with Mr. John McNeil.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith and family also spent Sunday with her father, Mr. John McNeil.

Mr. McNeil is so far recovered that he is able to walk in the garden and sit on his verandah.

Mr. Wilfred Reynolds motored to Omemee on Wednesday and attended the ball games.

Miss J. Donelly, Peterboro, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Eber Syer.

WEEK'S FAILURES

OTTAWA, Augf. 15.—Notices of twenty-eight bankuptcies appear in this weeks' issue of the Canada Gazette.

FLATTERY FOR THE "EXAMINER"

One Daily Paper in District "Lifts" "Examiner" Report of Cobourg Trial and Claims It As Its Very Own.

The Daily Times, which is a four-sheet poster published daily in Port Hope, apparently appreciates the daily new service provided by The Examiner when it takes from the columns of The Examiner long scads of news and labels it "By Our Own Reporter."

A case in point appeared in Wednesday's issue when The Examiner's story of the Pallister trial at Cobourg appeared in The Times carrying a "By Our Own Reporter" slug at the top. However, a paper that gathers its news in this manner deserves sympathy more than censure.

It goes to show that the paper in question lacks news-gathering resources of its own, and must resort to the shears and pastepot, even at the expense of serving up the news second-hand.

The Times is not the only offender in the district. If it were not for The Peterborough Examiner, many of the district weeklies, including a few so-called dailies would have to go out of business for want of news or fill up on the canned variety.

There is one daily newspaper not a hundred miles from Peterborough that lifts entire editorials from the columns of The Examiner, and uses them minus credit lines or other means of determining their origin.

In this enlightened and progressive age, readers of newspapers are more discriminating, and that is why The Examiner circulation shows a steady and consistent growth. The Examiner covers the district thoroughly and provides an accurate record of news events from all parts of the world. This is not accomplished by means of a pastepot and a long pair of shears, but by expenditure of real money and effort.

If this were not so, subscribers would not write and say "Your paper is the best paper that ever came to our house, and we would not like to be without it. Yours truly, etc., Tweed, Ont." Or this one from Colborne, Ont.: "Please renew my subscription to your wonderful paper, which carries all the news while it is news. I would not be without it for twice the money."

OLDEST MAN IN WHOLE COUNTRY

Joseph Sandy Victoria County Passed 94th Birthday.

OMEMEE. August 16. — Mr. oseph Sandy, possibly the oldest active resident in the county of Victoria, celebrated his 94th birthday this week. He was born in Cornwall, England, in 1830, and came to Canada in 1854, taking eight weeks to make the voyage on a sailing vessel.

In 1867 he settled on the farm on which his son, Mr. F. G. Sandy, ex-member of South Victoria, now resides, where at that time only a few acres had been cleared. Here he laboured hard to make a comfortable home for his family, and with their help the fruits of his labours are plainly evidenced by the beautiful dwelling, spacious barns, and pleasant surroundings around the Sandy home.

In 1903 he and his helpmate retired to the village of Omemee, where he resided until the death of Mrs. Sandy in her 85th year, after which he returned to the farm to live with his son.

Mr. Sandy is a remarkable man for his age. One of the pleasant reminiscences he will retain will be the pleasure of a motor trip which he thoroughly enjoyed with his son on the occasion of his birthday.

Mr. Sandy is enjoying fairly good health, and is interested in everything on the farm, and until very recently enjoyed a day's work behind a team of horses. He has always been temperate in his habits, and does not use tobacco in any form.

The Harvest.

Harvesting has commenced in this district, and there is every indication for an excellent output of fall wheat and rye grain.

Threshing has not commenced yet, but expectations run high for a splendid yield. Alsike threshing is in operation, but weather conditions are unfavourable to obtain the best results.

Garde ncrops are excellent, and many vegetables such as beets, peas, and beans, etc., are being canned for winter use by the careful housewife. Possibly sime of our readers have never tried the simple method of storing string beans, and the following recipe might be of some value:

12 chps beans, 1-2 crp salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 pints of water. Boil fo 5 minutes, bottle, and seal in air-tight jars, allowing plenty of liquid on th top of each jar. The same method may be used for peas or cirn.

T eharspberry season has opened, but the demand thus far is greater than the supply. The price per box is 15 cents.

Dairy butter is almost out of the question, and creamery is retailing at 35 cents, while eggs are gradually increasing in price, now retailing at 30 cents per dozen.

WHEN THE BABIES ARE CUTTING TEETH
THE MOTHER SHOULD USE

During baby's teething time, especially in the hot summer months, the bowels become loose and diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps, etc. manifest themselves; the gums become swollen, and cankers form in the mouth.

This is the time when the mother should use "Dr. Fowler's," and, perhaps, save the baby's life.

GIRLS DESERTED

Josephine, on January 14, 1896, was transferred to the Staten Island Childs' Hospital. She grew up there and then worked as a domestic in various homes, studying in her spare moments. She chose hospital work, she said, because she hoped that, in that way, she might find her mother in some institution and care for her.

"Something tells me she is still alive," said Miss Donnelly, "and something tells me also, that she is waiting anxiously to find me. I have had three offers of marriage, but have declined them all, because my conscience tells me that I should find my parent, before I do anything else."

RADIO HARD HIT.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(Associated Press).—Another burst bubble of high hopes is the story of Germany's radio industry. When Government restrictions on the sale of receiving sets were lifted last fall, a hundred or more factories sprung up. Of these, only two or three are still working, largely for exportation. The manufacturers blame the introduction of the rentenmark and the sudden end of the inflation period for the situation.

The fact that most of the 900 patents in the field are controlled by the "Telefunken" concern proved to be another snag for the young industry.

M'COY WAS NOT

He asserted however that Mrs. Schapp had talked against him to Mrs. Mors, and that he had intended to "wipe them out" —apparently meaning Schapp ,Mrs. Schapp, Mors and any one else who had tried to persuade Mrs. Mors to "forget him"

Schapp Urged Her to Leave McCoy

From Schapp and Mrs. Schapp, the police learned what they say was McCoy's motive for killing Mrs. Mors and starting on his murderous attack upon the others. The Schapps said they had persuaded Mrs. Mors to a decision to leave McCoy and re-turn to her former home in New York.

This refusal of Mrs. Mors to marry McCoy, the Schapps said, caused McCoy to murder her and start out., pistol in hand, after Mors and those who had opposed him.

"I belive McCoy meant to kill us both," said Schapp, who is a New Yorker. "He started out ofter us when Mrs. Mors told him she was through with him. Mrs. Schapp and myself were Mrs. Mors's closest friends. My wife had known Mrs. Mors since they were young girls together. I arrived in Los Angeles, last Sunday. Tuesday, I was in my wife's store in West Seventh street when Mr. and Mrs. Mors came in together, and we all had a long talk, lasting more than an hour, over the Mors's unhappy domestic troubles.

"I talked to Mrs. Mors like a brother would, I told her she was foolish to have anything to do with 'Kid' McCoy. I told her he was simply after her money, and that by marrying him she would make herself the laughing stock of the country. My wife talked to her the same way. Finally Mrs. Mors broke down and promised to give up McCoy. She said she was going to see McCoy that night, and she would tell him she could never marry him, and that she was going back to New York without him.

"She was very sincere about it and left us with the firm determination to call everything off between McCoy and herself."

Mrs. Schapp said she had had a number of talks with Mrs. Mors in which she urged her leave McCoy.

TEACHING IS A PROFESSION.

The suggestion advanced by the President of the Canadian Teachers' Association that teaching should be elevated to the dignity of a profession, like law or medicine, is a proper one, says the London Advertiser. Why teachers have not had a professional status equivalent to that of a solicitor or physician is difficult to understand.

On the training given and the principles taught in the classroom depend the prosperity and happiness of future generations. Those who undertake such vital work should be especially well qualified. Professionalization of teaching is best calculated to bring about this result.

At present teachers must take courses in scientific education, comparable in intensity and duration with training in medicine or law. Many believe teachers' organizations should become incorporated bodies and be given legal existence by special statute. This would elevate the standard and give the calling the professional recognition it deserves.

THE BEST BET NEGLECTED.

If the average person got from his auto as few miles per gallon of gasoline, as much engine trouble or as irregular service as most of us are content to get from our bodies, he would make changes. Dr. Frances Scott of Smith College says this in a lecture.

How many people take as good care of their bodies as they do of their autos or radios?

And yet the human body, a thousand times more delicate than the auto, radio or any other machine, is given very little attention. Its fuel (food) is fed to it haphazardly, with little of the care we bestow in buying gas for the auto or batteries or tubes for the radio.

The owner, careful not to put too much "juice" on the filaments of the radio tubes or too heavy a task on his auto, repeatedly throws too much strain on his body—especially its nerves, stomach and heart.

The noted surgeon, Dr. Charles H. Mayo, probably had all this in mind when he said recently that civilization can end "mass diseases" (such as yellow fever), but individual ailments (such as cancer and nervous indigestion) are gaining.

Diet and proper exercise—neglect of these are the big enemies of health, Dr. Mayo emphasizes.

"Continuous over-eating is the bane of our modern existence."

Not only over-eating, but eating the wrong combinations of foods . . . Putting molasses in the gasoline tank and sand in the gears.

One trouble with most people is that they want to buy good health and long life in pill or bottled form. That's why the monkey gland experimenters caught popular fancy. They held forth the promise of health and longevity without individual effort in the matter of food and exercise.

This bottle-and-pill fetish is further illustrated in the annual drug bill of our country—500 million dollars, 300 millions of which are spent on so-called patent medicines. Thirty years ago only 2,699 drug items were on the market. Today the figure is over 45,000.

WHERE YOU'D BE A KING.

A tired man, figuratively chained to an office desk or a work bench or a store counter and yearning for the great outdoor freedom that people had before the coming of "efficiency," must have sighed enviously if he caught this little news item:

William Ingram of England sues a New Yorker for a balance of $5,500 due on the purchase of the island of Little Tobago in the West Indies. The New Yorker claims the Englishman told him there were 600 birds-of-paradise on Little Tobago. The buyer figured on selling these birds of gorgeous plumage to millionaires whose estates they were to ornament. Instead, he says, he found only 12 of the birds.

The thing that will interest the reader most is that the entire island, a tropical paradise in the wonderful climate of the West Indies, sold for only $10,000.

Imagine being able to buy such a place.

There you would be king.

The lure of the South Seas is not the hula dancers nor the weird wailing of ukulele and steel guitar. What fascinates people is the idea of the freedom from worry and work supposed to be an inevitable accompaniment of island life.

Here is Little Tobago, for instance, selling for $10,000. There must be thousands of such islands. It is a marvel that people do not save their money, buy these little kingdoms and go there to live—far from the income tax, politicians, traffic regulations, city stenches, nasty dispositions of nerve-wracked people, and the other discomforts of "civilization."

How'd you like to round up your friends and their families, buy an island and flee for good from the maddening crowd? Radio and newspapers and magazines would keep you in touch with most of the things you'd miss.

It is impossible for any man to be "monarch of all he surveys." The closest approach is to own a strip of land. There is no greater pleasure than the realization that a definite section of the earth belongs to you, even if encumbered by a mortgage.

Few of us can escape the "system" and live on tropical islands. But we all can own a house and lot in the city or a small patch of ground with a "shack" and garden out in the country where we can spend vacations or week-ends.

The real rulers of the earth are the land owners.

THE BRAINS OF THE BOSS.

Cutten, who is understood to have made a couple of millions spectacularly playing the grain market, tells a reporter: "Speculation is, I think, the very highest form of intellectual endeavor in business. The man who hopes to be successful must keep himself informed concerning every phase of the commodity he is interested in."

It is true that the big speculator has to do more than sit in a broker's office and watch figures on a blackboard. It is true that he must be a constant and alert student of economics.

But the fact remains that, if he keeps on playing, the market will get him—despite any knowledge of market conditions, weather and other factors that sway the price of the commodity he is betting on or against.

Given fundamental and accurate knowledge of his subject, he is less apt to lose than the man who bets blindly—perhaps! The man who bets blindly has the Law of Chance (luck) on his side. This very often is a better ally than knowledge of economics.

Cutten talks a bit broadly when he says that speculation is the very highest form of intellectual endeavor in business.

In the first place, the speculator doesn't ever know nearly as much about his commodity as the average big purchasing agent or sales manager handling the same commodity. These two have to know, because they can't take chances. They deal with sure things.

The "very highest form of intellectual endeavor in business" is not found in speculation. It is found in production and in salesmanship, which rank with the higher sciences.

The sales organization of a business like National Cash Register Co., for instance, utilizes more "intellectual endeavor," psychology and knowledge of economic conditions in a day than are used in a year by all the stock market and grain pit speculators combined.

Probably the final word in "intellectual endeavor in business" is the research department of scientific corporations like General Electric Co.

Surely all of this is obvious. But it is worth emphasizing, particularly for the rising generation, who are apt to get a false notion that gambling in commodities is a noble and admirable work of the intellect.

The human brain does its finest work at useful things, not playing poker with the necessities of life.

BRITISH CRIMINAL TRIALS.

Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, Home Secretary in the British Labor Government, is evidently no more disposed to commute death sentences passed on foreigners, than was the present Dominion Cabinet. He has declined to yield to the personal intervention of Premier Herriot of France to spare the life of Jean Pierre Vaquier, a Frenchman recently convicted of the murder by poison of a Surrey innkeeper under circumstances that could hardly be palliated and were established to the satisfaction of the jury, and of the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Avory, whose long and large judicial experience lends the strongest weight to his conclusion. Home Secretary Henderson's decision, too, was against the view of the London Daily Herald, the organ of the British Labor Party, which urged remission of the death penalty on the ground that Vaquier was at a disadvantage during his trial through not understanding English court methods, nor even the English language. Where deliberate murder is clearly proved, the accused's ignorance of the language, or his unfamiliarity with court procedure, does not appear to furnish sufficient reason for interference with the course of the law. The arguments against capital punishment in principle are clearly beside the question.

Nevertheless, it is true that no two system of criminal law and administration differ more profoundly than do the English and French. The differences are indeed fundamental, though they do not justify the distinction constantly and wrongly made that in France the prisoner is regarded as guilty until he proves himself innocent. His guilt is not assumed, but it is assumed, as indeed it must be, in any criminal system, that there is, at least, a case against him which requires answer. Perhaps the most outstanding contrast is that in England he is largely a silent watcher of the duel between his counsel and the Crown, while in France he becomes the star actor in the judicial drama. That role begins with his arrest, when he is taken, with his counsel, if he has one, before an examining magistrate, and there confronted with witnesses, bombarded with questions from the bench, and invited, indeed forced, to exercise a loquacity and freedom of speech which, in any British court, would be considered improper and even indecent. Only in modern times did an Act of Parliament permit him to give evidence in his own behalf, but should he choose not to do this, his abstention may not be used as a presumptive indication of guilt.

An English writer, conversant with both the English and French systems, who attended the trial of Vaquier, subsequently gave the impression he derived from the proceedings. It must have astonished Vaquier, he thought, to observe the aloof austerity of Mr. Justice Avory, and his cold, infrequent questions, and no less the unemotional carefulness and matter-of-fact way in which the great King's counsel engaged in the case contended with anxious sobriety and moderation over the issue of his life or death. But the impression brought away was that of a man who had come to understand the system under which he was tried, to realize its fairness, and to appreciate the grave dignity of its mechanism. This British writer was sure Vaquier would admit that his trial was fair, and further—if he had ever followed the processes of his own country—that in France he would have been in custody at least as many months, as he had been weeks, before his case was decided.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 15.— Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today. Sterling demand 4.543.
Cables 4.5525.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 15. — Prices for cash oats were marked up 2 1-4 cents per bushel. There was no change in flour. Demestiic trade in millfeed was fair and the market for rolled oats was strong. Trade in baled hay is fair. There were no further developments in eggs. A firmer feeling prevails in butter and the tone of the cheese market is easy. Demand for beans is good at $3 a bushel for one pound pickers.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.— Arrivals —449 cattle, 113 calves,, 416 hogs, and 47 sheep and lambs.

Trading on the cattle market this morning was generally steady, the demand for good killing classes being strong. Stockers and feeders were active at firm prices.

On the hog market thick smooths sold at $9.75, and select bacons for $10.70 1-2. Prospects on the sheep and lamb market are for prices well in line with yesterday's close.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 15— Dealers are very optimistic over the egg situation and anticipate a substantial profit in storage eggs this fall. The quality of eggs in storage this year never was better and if kept under proper conditions the percentage of low grade stock should be small.

Toronto market firm. Dealers are buying delivereed extras 37, firsts 31, seconds 23.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

Empty Canoe Blown Ashore at Fort William.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Hope has been abandoned of finding alive two Fort William young men, Hathaway Colborne and Grant Bain, 22 and 18 years old, who ventured out in a canoe from the water front of Chippewa Park, Thursday afternoon just before the fiercest electric storm of the season broke over the city.

The canoe in which the two young men, Colborne and Bain, set out was picked up by fishermen, blown ashore near the mouth of the Mc-tions. Kellar river, opposite Mutton Island, thus making it certain that both boys have perished in the storm.

CUPID LAUGHS AT JAIL BARS

Woman and Youth Held for Killing Former's Husband Pass Notes in Cell.

Both Indifferent To Fate.

MIDDLEBURG, Pa., Aug. 15. — Written in the round, laboured scrip of a third grade copy-book, each on a sheet of blue-ruled tablet paper, two letters were handed through the bars of the little Middleburg jail today, entrusted to the care of Sheriff Runkle.

The first, strong with the sickly odor of cheap cologne, was held out to him by the work-hardened hand of Mrs. Anna Willow, while stained her face and lips said:

"Will you be so kind as to fetch that to Ralph."

This is the woman — the farm woman of forty, speaking of the boy, Ralph Shadle, whom she cajoled with her kisses to shoot her husband dead last October—Ralph the Willow farm hand who had just turned sixteen then.

Now, ten months later, Ralph's conscience has wrung a full confession from his tremulous lips and he, with the woman who still infatuates him, awaits the course of the law for murder.

Pledges Renewed

Sheriff Runkle opened the letter, as his duty required. A dust of white talcum powder aly over it. He read:

"I was glad to see you in the yard this morning. I trembled when you spoke to me. I love you."

A little later the kindly sheriff returned this answer to the middle aged, love-stricken woman:

"I love you, too, and always will."

Together with this missive the guardian of the jail received a written request from his youthful prisoner to "please buy me a can of sweet smelling talcum powder."

So it is that while Prosecuting Attorney Miller insists that this inarticulate Madame Bovary and her over-young lover be brought to trial for murder in the first degree, the love-making goes on within the shadow of the electic chair.

Neighbors Talk

Mrs. Willow was a "Kratzer." The elder Kratze, her father, came to the farm section near Selinsgrove when a lad and worked as a farm hand. He was industrious, thrifty but hot tempered. Soon he had acquired a farm for himself and enemies.

"She's a Kratzer"

Mrs. Willow's neighbors say this in that tight-lipped way of finality that farm people have.

When Sheriff Runkle opened the door of her cell late yesterday and introduced her visitor, it was nearly nightfall. There she sat in the shadows peering into a small square mirror, n a chair in front of her was a pink tin of highly perfumed talcum powder. She held a powder puff in her hand.

Anna Willow looked up and smiled. It was a dumb, sickening smile the kind that is seen on people's faces when they are backing into some unseen disaster. There is no reality for her in the iron bars that fasten her in a cell. She is in love, and a sickly smile is on her face.

Her life?

Just a Farm Girl

She says like a somnambulist:

"Oh I was just a farm girl, raised on a farm and went to the country school for five terms. I can write and read. I used to love to read novels, but I never had much time with a farm and two children."

"What about all these men in your life. You know, in your confession you said something about Ralph's not being the first, and about tricking your husband into marrying you."

She deliberated the question. Almost it seemed that she had not heard it, or had forgotten it. But she answered:

"No that isn't true. Did I say that? No, there weren't any men except my husband and Ralph. My husband was a farm hand on our place. I was twenty when we married. We worked hard and bought a farm of our own."

She was asked:

"Did you ever love your husband?'

Thrilled by Youth

Still like a sleep-walker—

"Yes. Yes I did and that's the truth. But he soon got tired of me. He went out with other women. He did it first, and when he accused me of loving Ralph and said it had to stop, I told him I could do anything that he could."

Then, after a pause and recapturing the pallid smile:

"Don't think I did it for spite. Ralph was just a boy to me, and a hired hand, till one day out in the chicken yard he said something about love, wondering what it was. I don't know why, but his words went right through me. Then, it was one day last September. We went out in the barn to see a sick dog and Ralph kissed me.

"After that —well, it was just something we couldn't have helped Of course I'm sorry about what happened to may husband, but the night before he had held a shot gun to my head and said he would kill me if I didn't give up Ralph, and I couldn't do that."

THE DELICATE GIRL.

What Mothers Should Do as Their Daughters Approach Womanhood.

If growing girls are to become well-developed, healthy women, their health must be carefully guarded. Mothers should not ignore their unsettled moods or the various troubles that tell of approaching womanhood. It is an important time of life. Where pallor, headache, backache, or other signs of anaemia are evident you must provide the sufferer with the surest means of making new blood.

Remember, pale bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep, and regular open-air exercise. But to save the bloodless sufferer she must have new blood—and nothing meets the case so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills increase the supply of new, red blood; they stimulate the appetite and relieve the weary back and limbs; and thus restore health and charm, and bring to anaemic girls the rosy cheeks and bright eyes of strong, happy girlhood.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BRINGS BODY 3,000 MILES.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., August 16 (United Press). — Edmund Anderson, eleven-year-old orphan, recently reached here with the body of his mother, guarded by the lad all the way from San Francisco to the Adirondacks.

None of the relatives on the Pacific Coast were in a position to carry out the dying wish of the mother, that she might be carried back across the continent and buried in the community where she was born.

It was then the little son insisted he would accompany his mother's body on its nation-wide journey.

Kindly railroad men and fellow-travellers gave a helping hand. The sturdy lad as chief mourner at the burial smiled through his tears as he noted the loved parent being laid to rest in exactly the spot she had longed for.

COLORED COTTONS

The water in which colored cottons are washed should be merely warm, not hot. Soap should not be rubbed on colored cotton. Instead the material should be washed in strong suds made with warm water and dissolved soap.

WOMAN SUCCESSFUL ON A FRUIT FARM

City Office Worker Takes Over Run-down Cranberry Farm.

MINONG, Wis., Aug. 16.—She was city-bred and office-trained.

All she knew about cranberries was that they were good to eat.

Nevertheless, she took over a big cranberry bog and converted it from a financial losing venture into a profitable business.

Miss Lyda M. Huyck, the woman who succeeded where more experienced men had failed, knows now that cranberries are good for something else besides sauce for turkeys, for they have put her on the road to financial success.

Miss Huyck is manager of the Lewis Cranberry Company, a 40-acre swamp tract eight miles from here.

The marsh was the hobby and family playground of its owner, E. C. Lewis, a Chicago business man. In 1912 his death left the tract a business liability.

Made Her Manager.

A successful cranberry grower of Wisconsin Rapids became a stockholder in this corporation, with the stipulation that the young woman, who had been Lewis' private secretary in Chicago, would go to the marsh and manage it personally. He agreed to teach her how to direct the work. This woman, Lyda Huyck, reared in Austin, a suburb of Chicago, and educated in office training.

Six months later, in May, 1913, Miss Huyck, with her invalid mother, took the train to Minong. She knew that if the bog could be made successful it would have to be done with no capital, as there was none available. The berry sheds were tumbled down. The Lewis summer home, a half mile distant, was the only thing in sight, save a marsh surrounded by stumps and sand.

Mortgaging the first two years' crops for running expenses, the old barn was whitewashed, and, with a few partitions, did service for a berry shed. Six years later a sorting machine was installed in the middle room of the whitewashed barn.

Now Pays Dividends.

The first year's yield was 80 barrels, the following about 200. The last two seasons have yielded each approximately 1,200 barrels. The investment now pays its five stockholders 6 per cent. on their investment, one year even paying 8 per cent.

On her sleeping porch, facing the marsh, Miss Huyck watches the weather in hourly nightly vigil, ordering the marshes flooded with a suspected frost. Three years ago a second marsh was begun entirely under her personal supervision, Miss Huyck handling her own engineering level.

She is constantly on the job from early April planting until late October with the final shipping. She directs the workers as they plant, prune, pick, cull, sort and crate the berries that you may have cranberry sauce for dinner!

NEWS OF WARKWORTH.

Another Big Crop of Wheat Threshed. Personal Mention.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 15.— Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wright of Demorestville, returned home after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. H. J. Walker.

The annual Sunday school picnic of the Presbyterian church was held at Percy Boom on Wednesday. In spite of the rainy day quite a number attended.

Miss Rose Runciman of Toronto, is visiting her friend Mrs. F. L. Walsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bonny of Campbellford, attended the funeral of the late Joseph Beswetherick, on Wednesday.

Mr. Harold Skinkle recently threshed seven hundred and fifty bushels of wheat which turned out forty bushels to the acre.

Mr. W. S. Jackson and Mr. Lorne Massey were in Belleville, on Wednesday.

Mr. J. E. Thompson has been spending a few days with his son Mr. C. A. Thompson, Cobourg.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Massey of Saskatoon, Sask., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Wm. Massey and other relatives in town and vicinity.

At a meeting of the school board which was held Wednesday Mr. Ben Buchanan was chosen as trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Jas. H. Angus.

Mrs. Hilton Stott and daughter, Isabel of Buffalo, N.Y., are visiting her sisters, Mrs. Wm. Beatty and Mrs. Geo. Beatty Jr.

CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE

Vancouver House Burned Inside as Father Sat on Verandah.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—David Kolberg, 3, son of Charles Kolberg, Kosher butcher, and Tilley Chernoff, six, daughter of I. Chernoff, are dead as the result of a fire which broke out Thursday night in the Kolberg home. A twin brother of the dead boy and an older sister were saved by firemen and neighbors.

The interior of the house was destroyed with practically all the furniture. No cause for the fire has been ascertained and Kolberg, in his story to the police, said that with a number of friends he was sitting on the front verandah of the house, when fire broke out and appeared to have caught hold of the entire interior. Mrs. Kolberg, he said, was also outside the house at the time.

NEW SEARCH FOR GOLD UNDER WAY IN MONTANA

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 16.—(Associated Press).—Quartz prospectors are roaming the Montana hills, gulches and abandoned mining camps this summer in such numbers as to arouse speculation among the early settlers as to whether the cry of "gold" again may lure hundreds into the areas where few men have ventured since the early sixties.

Free milling ore veins have long since been exploited, and in most cases abandoned by the individual prospector, to be taken over by the larger companies or operated on a small scale by miners. Gold laden sands in the creek beds where old placer camps were located have been panned and repanned, yielding millions in the early sixties until bed rock strata turned the fortune seekers to other fields. Forced to discontinue the placer mining on a large scale, the pioneer prospectors are now enlisting younger blood in the search for quartz, hoping to discover veins of sufficient size to warrant construction of stamp mills and reduction works.

Reports from the early-day camps indicate renewed activity at Virginia City and Alder Gulch, one of the richest of early-day sites, while from Confederate Gulch, 30 miles east of here, come stories of occasional nuggets in sluice boxes.

EMBALMED.

So the Reds have the body of Lenin on exhibition on a crimson velvet-draped bier inside an air-tight glass cage. Proudly the Russian undertakers claim that he will "last" and look life-like, virtually forever. It is something new in advertising, this appeal to morbid curiosity.

The real Lenin, of course, is his economic philosophy. To embalm it —preserve it for future generations —may not be so easy.

Mortal man does not really die until his influences cease. In this sense, Lincoln is more alive today than when Booth shot him down in 1865.

NEWS OF OMEMEE.

A Mid-summer Wedding Of Interest. John Morgan Dead.

OMEMEE, Aug. 15.—A midsummer wedding of interest to many was solemnized in Orillia when Vivian Irene, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parsons, became the bride of Frederick Wilfrid Hart, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart of Fleetwood. The bride wore a becoming suit of navy French tricotene, with fall hat in sand shade matching blouse, suede shoes, hose and gloves. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Mr. McGillvary of Orillia. Following a brief honeymoon, spent in the Muskoka district, the happy young couple returned to their home in Fleetwood where a reception was tendered to them, on Tuesday evening. The many beautiful gifts received are an evidence of the esteem in which the young couple are held. The good wishes of a host of friends will follow Mr. and Mrs. Hart for a long and happy wedded life.

Held a Meeting.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. A. MacPherson. There were twenty members and three visitors present. In the absence of the president, the meeting was conducted by the first vice-president, Mrs. Bushnell. Following the devotional exercises and the secretary's and treasurer's reports, a short business session was held and a new programme committee appointed for the next three months, namely, Mrs. T. C. Ivory and Mrs. Bushnell. Several members paid their annual fee, after which the heralds of the "Watch Tower" were heard from, bringing news from the foreign field.

A devotional leaflet, entitled "Prayer for greater realization of Communion with God," was read by Mrs. Percy McGahey; this was followed by a number of prayers. A reading by Mrs. William Earle, on "What we should know about liquor," was very timely and most interesting. Mrs. (Rev.) Clare, of Marmora, was present and gave a short talk on Mission Band work in their Church.

The meeting closed in the usual way, after which a social hour was enjoyed in a picnic held on the spacious lawn surrounding Mrs. MacPherson's home. The hostesses being Mrs. MacPherson and Mrs. D. Weir.

John Morgan Dead.

News of the death of John Morgan, of Edmonton, Alta., which reached Omemee came as a shock to the many friends and relatives in this locality. The late Mr. Morgan was engaged on the Edmonton High School staff. Details regarding the death have not reached the village as yet, with the exception of the fact that the deceased was suddenly stricken while working in his garage on August 1. The funeral was held in Edmonton last week. The late Mr. Morgan was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan. He was born on the Morgan homestead, now owned by Mr. T. A. McConnell. Mr. Morgan received his early education in the little country schoolhouse near his home, later coming to the High School in Omemee. Then, after fitting himself as a High School teacher, he returned to his home town and taught for a number of years under Principal Jardine, thus helping to mould the character of many of the boys and girls of this locality who have since gone out to fill positions of responsibility.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving husband, father, and brother, are the sorrowing widow (formerly Miss Mark of Lindsay) and her nineteen-year-old son; three brothers, Edward and Thomas, of Western Canada, David, who resides in the United States; and three sisters, Mrs. T. Poast, of Bridgenorth, Mrs. Bowe and Miss Mary Morgan, of Toronto, to whom is extended the sincere sympathy of a host of friends.

Gave a Concert

A large crowd greeted the members of the Oakwood dramatic club in Coronation Hall on Wednesday evening when, to complete a full day under the auspices of the O.A.A., they put on in good style the three-act comedy, entitled "What Happened to Jonah After the programme, the ladies of the O.A.A. served refreshments to the cast of characters, and all were well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

OUT IN THE GARDEN.

Right now is the time when the garden brigade sets forth on a mission of fun. And Dad does the hoeing while Mom plies the spade 'cause there's plenty of work to be done.

Old clothes, from the attic, are handy once more as the diggers start turning the soil. The work goes along and some muscles get sore. It's the toll that you pay for the toll.

The rubbish is cleared and there's war on the weeds that have sprouted all over the place. There's ridges to make for the various seeds and there's sweat of hard work on your face.

Some things that you planted the season before were supposed to come up every year. They used to be there, but they're not any more and there's nary a sign they'll appear.

But shuck, just the same, garden workers are game 'cause the work and the air gives 'em spirit. They hope they'll be able to furnish the table, but seldom come anywhere near it.

HERE, MONDAY
Remarkable and Instructive Demonstration of
VARI-TONE FOR WALL DECORATING
(Replaces Wallpaper)

ALL ARE INVITED—especially Architects, Painters, and House Decorators—by COLEMAN BROS., to see Demonstrated in their Store, MONDAY, 18TH AUGUST, the wonderful potentialities of VARI-TONE for Interior Wall Decorating.

VARI-TONE is a newly patented Sponge Roller method for simply, practically, and economically applying colours to Walls in a clean and uniform maner, thus producing attractive and novel decorative effects.

This device makes possible the application of two or more colours on the same surface, producing an intermingling of shades, which effect is both pleasing and harmonious, and impossible of achievement with a brush or other form of application.

The possibilities of this device are limited only by the originality and taste of the operator, and does away with such makeshift, uncleanly methods of applying paint, as wadded paper, rolled newspapers, rags. rope, etc., as used in the past.

Visitors will be surprised at the ease with which this decoration can be put on Walls, and that with this tool they can get Actual Wall Paper Effects in the most beautiful designs.

CITIZENS' BAND IS PROGRESSING

Lakefield Musicians Fill 3 Engagements in Week With Laudable Performances.

GROWING POPULAR

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 15. — The Citizen's Band, which is becoming a popular institution in the village is progressing splendidly and faithful attendance at practice has brought forth good results. Three engagements within a week mean that it is recognized as an essential part of the village life and one hopes for more engagements in the near future. A helping hand and a little encouragement added to practice and Lakefield will not take second place to any town of its size in Ontario with its band. Its always better sport to boost than to knock so let us as citizens boost our citizens band.

A NEW OIL WELL.

Well to Produce 500 Barrels A Day Struck In Alberta.

VANCOUVER, August 16. — The completion of a new well at Wainwright, Alta., which will produce more than 500 barrels of oil a day, was announced by Newton W. Emmens, superintendent and geologist for the British Petroleums, Limited, at last night's annual meeting of the company held here.

In Mr. Emmens' report to the shareholders it was stated that Sir Henry Thornton had advised the company that the Canadian National Railway Lines are prepared to take the Wainwright oil for locomotive fuel if quality and production are satisfactory.

NO NEW POLICY.

Eamon De Valers Declared He Had No New Policy To Enunciate.

DUBLIN, August 16 (Canadian Press). — Eamonn De Valera, speaking at Ennis yesterday, declared that he had no new policy to enunciate.

"We need no new policy." he said. "Our policy of 1917 and 1921 stands. Kings may be forced upon us; we may be temporarily forced to submit to certain things, but our assent they can never gain."

The speaker accused the British Government of propagandising throughout the world with a view of persuading the world that the Irish national demands have been conceded.

BRITISH JUSTICE MUST BE ALTERED

Abandonment of Legal Proceedings Against John Ross Campbell.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The whole course of British justice must be altered, says the Evening Standard in the course of a "revelation" on the subject of the abandonment of legal proceedings against John Ross Caempbell, who was charged with attempting to seduce men in the fighting forces from their duty and allegiance. The paper declares that after the case was adjourned a number of Labor members of parliament vigorously expressed the opinion that the prosecution should be abandoned and intimated that prominetn ministers of the crown who previously attered views similar to those expressed in the Worker's Weekly would be called to give evidence for the defence. The ministers, thereupon, considered the matter and decided not to proceed with the prosecution although the case was before the courts. The paper asks if the director of public prosecutions or the attorney-general will henceforth be obliged to consult the cabinet before taking action on any matters connected with politics.

Erases Wrinkles in Less than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. The result indicates that the "tarkroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tarkroot, one spoonful, and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and sagginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes!

The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost of a package is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any

THE PRINCE COMING

CALGARY, August 16 (Canadian Press). — The Prince of Wales will arrive in Calgary on the morning of Friday, 19th September, and will leave for his ranch almost immediately.

This information was received from Prof. J. W. Carlyle, manager of the E. P. Ranch at Pekisko, on Friday.

Prof. Carlyle also said that the Prince expected to spend at least a month in the South, fishing, shooting, riding, golfing, and possibly doing a little farm work to keep in shape.

NEW LIQUOR LAW

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., August 16 (Canadian Press). — At last night's session of the Legislative Council, a Bill respecting alcoholic liquors was passed through its final stages, and with the signature of the Governor it will replace the Prohibition Act which has been in operation since 1915.

The Act recognises the principle of the sale of alcoholic liquors as a beverage. It allows the purchase of a bottle of spirits a day, and gives to the hotels the right to supply the guests with beer and wines.

The restrictive measures are drastic

QUICK SERVICE DIRECT CABLE

Took But Two Minutes To Send Telegram To England and Receive Answer.

SENT TO PRINCE.

MONTREAL, August 16. — Only two minutes elapsed between the time that Mayor Charles Duquette of Montreal cabled the Prince of Wales yesterday morning and received his answer by means of the direct cable service inaugurated by the Canadian National Telegraphs and the Anglo-American Telegraph Company.

The inauguration of this new service dispenses with the delays which have been experienced in the past through the transmission of cablegrams over land lines to the cable companies' offices on the Atlantic coast in Canada or at New York.

Where formerly it was a matter of several hours to transmit a cablegram from Montreal to England, it is now a question of but a few seconds. The new service was officially opened by Mayor Charles Duquette of Montreal at ten o'clock yesterday morning. A closed switch linked the new office in Montreal with the cable office at 22 Great Winchester street, London.

The first message transmitted was from Lord Byng to His Majesty King George V., the message reading as follows:

"It is my great pleasure and honor to address your Majesty this message, which inaugurates a direct cable service between the City of Montreal and London, England. It is only fitting that the first message should be addressed to your Majesty, assuring you of the unswerving loyalty and devotion of the people of Canada to the Crown and to the British Empire."

Following this was a message from Premier Mackenzie King, to the Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, the Premier of Great Britain, the text of which follows:

"Any link which will draw Canada closer to the Mother Country will always be appreciated by the ctizens of the Dominion. On this occasion the opening of the first direct cable service between Montreal and London, I send you greetings on behalf of all the people of Canada."

Mayor Duquette then cabled the Prince of Wales a message in French advising him of the opening of the new service, wishing him a pleasant passage on the occasion of his visit to the United States and Canada, and particularly inviting him to visit Montreal.

Within two minutes after the transmission of this message the following was received:

"The Prince of Wales thanks the Mayor of Montreal for his kind message sent over the new direct cable route. His Royal Highness much appreciates the invitation to visit Montreal, which though his plans for his private visit to Canada are at present indefinite, will certainly be borne in mind.

Mayor Duquette also sent a congratulatory message to Sir Louis A. Newton, Lord Mayor of London, and received the following answer:

"I warmly reciprocrate on behalf of the City of London, your friendly greetings on the inauguration of the new direct cable between Montreal and London and confidently anticipate that it will be the means of increasing the cordial relations between our respective communities."

Another official message and reply followed from Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.B.E., Chairman and President, Canadian National Railways, to Mr. William Phillips, European Manager of the System, advising him of the opening of the new service. These two cablegrams follow:

"William Phillips, European Manager C.N.R., London, Eng:

"To-day the Canadian National Telegraphs have forged a new link in the unity of the British Empire by inaugurating the first direct cable service between Montreal and London; on behalf of myself, all officers and employees of the Canadian National Railways in Canada and the United States, I send best wishes to all officers and employees of the system in Great Britain and Europe, and to our fellow railwaymen. I wish to congrautlate you on the splendid results being achieved by our exhibit at the British Empire Exhibition. Keep up the good work—the Canadian National Railways are on the map to stay.H. W. Thonton."

"Sir Henry Thornton, President Canadian National Railways, Montreal: Your cable advising inauguration new cable service between Montreal and London received. This achievement gives another example of the determination of all connected with the Canadian National Railways to serve the public. It will be a live link between our great Dominion and the Mother Land. The Canadian exhibit at Wembley clearly demonstrates the immense opportunities that exist in Canada and feel certain satisfactory results will follow. On behalf of myself, officers and employees of the European staff, I reciprocate the kind wishes of yourself and colleagues in Canada, and the United States. A continuation of the close co-operation now existing between the organization on both sides cannot but result in increasing the company's already high prestige. We shall go forward with this aim in view.—William Phillips."

This new cable service will provide Canada with direct contact with the continent, making the transmission of cablegrams a matter of seconds instead of hours. It is of untold advantage to banking and business institutions throughout the country in instances where immediate contact with England and the continent is imperative.

The transmission of the first cables was under the supervision of F. H. Waycott, Montreal manager for the Anglo-American Telegraph Co., Jas. Lister, United States cable manager for the Western Union and F. C. Wells, district manager of the Canadian National Telegraphs.

Not only is the direct line available but the Canadian National Telegraphs is able to work three other routes in case there is any hold up on the direct cable through storms or other causes.

It is possible to connect up with Quebec and the United States through Albany and New York, and via Toronto, Buffalo and New York, so that the cable service between Montreal and London is not likely to be interrupted. It is possible on the new cable to send 50 words a minute duplex, which means that a cable can be on its way to London and another on its way to Montreal, at exactly the same time.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of hte people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD, August 16.—The Methodist Sundap School picnic held at Percy Biom on Friday afternoon was a great success. The weather was fine, and over two hundred boys and girls and parents motored down. The afternoon was spent in boating, swimming, etc. There were race for the boys and girls and the older ones, which made lots of fun. Another of the features was a game of softball. A challenge came to the men of the Methodist Church rom the men of the Presbyterian Church, the game to be played at the picnic on the grounds at the Boom.

The game was one-sided, as the Presbyterians won the game by a large score. Many of the men on the defeated side had never played softball before. Dr. H. O. Richardson was the referee. J. D. Cummings was the strong man on the winning team, he making five runs. The following were the teams:

Presbyterians — Messrs. J. C. Birmingham, T. O. Connor, D. W. Douglas, J. D. Cumming, Dr. Longmore, A. Armour, G. Nicol, R. J. Allan, and J. D. McEachern.

Methodists — Messrs. A. L. Reindeau, Dr. Beattie, A. P. Hind, J. H. Bell, R. Abernethy, D. Hutton, M. McCarty, E. Bates, and F. Doric.

The game caused great excitement and lots of merriment.

About five o'clock the long tables were filled with good things for all the younger ones, then later for the older ones.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Pearson and family motored to Campbellford on Monday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholas, Inkerman Street. Two of the children, Jack and Nettie, remained, and are spending a week with the Nicholas children.

ADAMS, N. Y.

The Rice Truss Expert, personal representative of William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., will be at the EMPRESS HOTEL
Peterboro, Ont.
MONDAY and TUESDAY
Aug. 18 and 19

Every ruptured man, woman and child should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Rice Method for Rupture is known the world over. You can now see this Method demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the Outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep-pressing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore. Can be worn night and day with positive comfort. Soft, rubber-like composition pad, any degree of pressure required.

Don't wear a truss all your life when thousands have reported recovery through using the Rice Method. Why suffer the burden of rupture if there is a chance to be free from truss-wearing forever? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help it offers in your case. Remember this Truss Expert will be there only two days, then your opportunity will be gone. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Representative and he will do the rest. Call any time from 9 to 12 a.m., 2 to 5 p.m., or 7 to 9 evenings.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see this Expert on Hernia.

JAPANESE AROUSED BY THE MISSIONS

No Japs Plan to Take Part in Exploring Missions.

OSAKA, Japan, Aug. 16.—(Associated Press).—Japan's inactivity in the exploration of the Asiatic Continent, in view of an American expedition under Roy Chapmen Andrews to seek the first home of man in the uplands of Mongolia, and General G. D. Bruce's British expedition's attempt to scale Mount Everest, has drawn an editorial attack from the Osaka Mainichi, one of Japan's greatest newspapers.

This inactivity, the Mainichi asserts, is especially culpable at this time, when the American exclusion law has made it desirable for Japan to seek closer relations with her fellow Asiatics.

"Our young men will go in great numbers to the usual summer resorts this summer," says the Mainichi, "but we regret to note that no Japanese are planning to take a part in the great exploring adventures that are offered. We envy the Americans and British their bold scientific undertakings at great expense. They are not afraid of hardship and danger.

"Since Congress adopted the exclusion clause, some Japanese have raised a vigorous propaganda for an Asiatic federation, with the support of some Chinese and Indians. These peoples seek Japan's leadership. It is Japan's duty to lead these other colored races to racial prosperity and welfare, but we must not be led astray by big names. First we must foster our national strength, strengthen the ties with our brother races in Asia and assist them in the advancement of Asiatic civilization. Our millionaires must make contributions to this end, and our scientists must enlist in the cause."

BABY FOUND IN FLOATING BOX.

MUNICH, Germany, August 16.—Clad in costly garments and with a silver chain around its neck, a healthy girl baby was found floating in a box on the River Inn near here. Beside the infant was a note quaintly written saying the child's name was Josephine, she knew no father, and the mother must remain unknown. The baby was immediately adopted by a water works employe.

GERMANS WILL ACCEPT TREATY

Allies Agreed Last Night to Evacuate Ruhr Within a Year

SESSION TODAY

Staff Correspondent).

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Once more the Germans are ready to sign and go back home to face the folks. After an all night conferences between the representatives of France and the Reisch, the Germans notified the secretary of the conference on application of the Dawes report that they had decided to accede the French proposal to conclude the France-Belgian evacuation of the Ruhr, Within a year. This is the most serious of all the problems involved in putting into effect the provisions of the Dawes reparations program. Its satisfactory solution means that the conference, held by many authorities ot equal in importance the peace conference of 1918-1919 has reached its final stage, is a success after many previous futile attempts and may clear up its desk for an adjournment within a few days. The whole agreement probably will be christened "The pact of London". It will be submitted first to the big fourteen-comprised of two representatives from each nation in the conference for approval, next it will be referred to each delegation fo a final study, and then this evening or to-morrow a plenary session of th efull conference, including all the experts will be called for the ceremony of signing the pact. In the closing hours before the Germans finally decided to accept the French proposal Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stressemen made persistent but futile efforts to gain some concession in writing from Premier Herriott on the question of Ruhr evacuation which would better enable the German leaders to face the Reichstag music when the pact comes up fo ra vote before that body.

Herriott, was adamant, however. Marx at 10 o'clock last night, finally told Herriott he was so utterly exhausted from the long strain that he would collapse if he continued today, so he retired for a time. Herriott continued with the others on the German representatives but he also left later leaving the German representatives to continue.

The final decision of the Germans to capitulate was not reached, until 4 o'clock this morning. A messenger was then sent to Herriott's hotel and he was awakaned to read the communication of acceptance.

"I thought so," he said with a drawn smile, "but I didnt' expect it quite so soon and then he returned to his bed and sleep.

Tt 10 o'clock this morning, Stresemann and Marx were again in session with Herriott at the Hyde Park Hotel finishing up details of the night's agreement. Members of the conference staff had worked through out the night typeing and preparing the different protocol for the grand final and expected to conclude their work to-day. In a statement to the press, the German delegation at noon to-day said: "We are profoundly disappointed in the result of the conferences."

Our ministers will opint out the Reichstag that we were compelled to submit to force measure, our only hope now for early evacuation of the Ruhr is for the bankers, when the time comes for raising a loan to intervene and insist on a speedier evacuation."

EXPERTS SEEK LIGHT ON WAYS OF WOMEN YEARS AGO

CHRISTIANIA, August 16. — What is believed by experts to have been a kind of vanity box used by the women of 2000 years ago and a neck ring of solid gold, were unearthed recently on a farm by a peasant wo gave the articles to his children for playthings.

Collectors eventually heard of the discovery and induced the children to part with their ancient toys. The articles, in the judgment of the experts date back to about 120 B.C. The ring, of artistic though barbaric design, has been placed in the museum of Christiania University, while the vanity box has been going the rounds among the experts who are eager to determine if it contained a powder puff among its appurtenances, or if not what might have been in use to take its place in those days.

JOHN ROONEY FELL FROM BAND WAGON

First Ardent Temperance Worker Now Charged With Operating Still

LONDON, Aug. 16. —(United News).—In all the town of Duntocher, Scotland, there was none more ardent in the battle against strong drink than John Rooney. Nightly John Rooney, who by day was a carpenter, mounted improvised platforms and delivered a stirring attack on liquor as the Nation's curse.

There was not a "dry" organization in the district of which John Rooney was not president or some other officer. John Rooney's fame spread through all Scotland. But those days have gone forever. John Rooney's house was raided by the police, according to a Glasgow despatch to the London Express. The police found two stills and twenty five gallons of whisky. Rooney and a companion were found bottling the booze, caught redhanded with the Redeye. Now John Rooney, according to the Glasgow court, must either pay a fine of $1,500 or spend months in the Glasgow Hoozgow.

NEWS OF MARMORA

MARMORA, Aug. 16. — Farmers in this district are expressing the fear that if rain continues to be as frequent hereafter their abundant potato crop will be affected and rot set in. Much of the mown hay lying in the fields has assumed a very dark color, too. To use an old phrase —"it is nip and tuck" with local harvesting.

Quite a number contemplate going west with the first Harvesters' excursion.

Students from Queen's University and elsewhere who have been employed at Deloro during the summer vacation will soon be returning one by one to their respective studies.

Mr. Allan Taylor of Warsaw, also Miss Evelyn Atkins of New Jersey were visitors at Mr. Ben Osborne's for a few days this week.

Mr. Sandy Burrows of Belleville renewed acquaintances at Marmora and Deloro on Thursday.

Mrs. Pennier has returned home from an extended ivsit to Toronto.

Mrs. Stanley McMeehan of Toronto is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. T. Neal.

Mrs. Norman Kilpatrick of Deloro is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lloyd, at Bannockburn.

The Deloro baseball team were again in winning mood on Thursday when they defeated a Belleville team at home by 4-2. Their game with Roseneath has been postponed until Wednesday.

OFFICE GIRL MAKE OWN HATS

Working Girl Should Not Spend All Her Salary On Eating and Clothing.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. — Get ready for matrimony while you wait for it, but don't wait too long.

This is the advice of Mrs. Marion T. Brockway, housemother of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, with the social, educational and recreational activities of 5,000 women employees in her charge.

Because of this viewpoint she has made it possible for all the girls of the company to have daily lessons in millinery and dressmaking while they pursue their regular jobs of stenography, filing, or whatever they are hired to do. Now she is going to institute lessons in cooking.

"The girls who are in the offices and factories today are the wives and mothers of tomorrow," she says, "and they should be preparing for that as well as learning to support themselves now.

"There should not be such a wide gap between the business world and the home. Girls should not be completely divorced from the mechanics of home life while they are in business."

Last year 3,578 girls, at her instigation, learned to make their own hats. This represented more than half the number employed. She employed expert teachers and outlined a thorough course. She even learned to cover frames herself.

"The hats that cost 10 or 15 dollars in the shops, girls made here for two or three," she went on. "It is most unusual to put more than five dollars' worth of material in a hat.

"The girls learned to utilize their ribbons and silks that had served other purposes, thus cutting their bills and improving their appearances at the same time. And besides this they had the joy of creating something themselves. In the dressmaking classes they turned out gowns that would have been a credit to Fifth Avenue shops."

And cooking, of course, is just as important as making your own clothes.

"Every girl, no matter what her station, should know how to cook simple things and know the elementary principles of food values. She can live more economically and have better health.

"The working girl should not be obliged to spend all her salary merely to eat and to clothe herself, and she need not do so if she learns to manage well."

Mrs. Brockway believes that the girl in business who knows homemaking as well will have more opportunities for marriage than the girl who can only typewrite.

"And a home of her own is much more to be desired by any woman than a private office with her name on the door," she concluded.

ROSENEATH.

ROSENEATH, Aug. 16. — Mr. Andy Comfort of Beamsville, is visiting at the home of Mr. Orra Varcoe.

Mrs. Geney, Point Anne, accompanied by her two grandchildren are visiting in the vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDougall and Master Donald of Toronto, are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe.

Miss M. McWilliams of Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Mary Brown.

Mr. Chas. Sherwin has added a new verandah to his house on Spring street, which greatly improves its appearance.

Mr. John Mc Millan's new house on Main street, is rapidly nearing completion.

"You-Hoo" Lodge, Margarete Island is housing a number of tourists and all report a good catch of fish.

Miss Reta Varcoe and her friend Miss Shaw both of the Ontario Hosptial Cobourg, were visitors at the formers' home on Sunday.

Miss Bert Nill has gone to Hamilton to undergo a treatment on her ankle which was injured in an accident some time ago.

OSBORNE CONCEDED PLACE IN ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(Associated Press).—By virtue of his achievements in the Olympic games Harold M. Osborne of the Illinois A. C. has won an enduring place among America's premier track and field athletes of all time. Osborne won two gold medals by his brilliant victories in the running high jump and decathlon at Paris, thereby reaching the zenith of a long and remarkable career.

The one man, aside from Osborne himself, to whom a lion's share of credit is due for the athlete's record is Coach Harry Gill, who has been training men at the University of Illinois for 20 years. Gill discovered and developed Osborne shortly after he arrived at the university, an obscure aspirant for honors in the world of sports.

Osborne, who possesses intercollegiate, National A. A. U. and Olympic trophies, won his first important title, the Western Conference high jump championship, only four years ago. He has suffered occasional reverses in this event since then, but has remained supreme in the decathlon, his specialty. He registered his most praiseworthy achievements in this event at the Colombes Stadium a few weeks ago, not only winning the Olympic title but establishing a new world mark.

PREDICTS AMERICA WILL NEED FOREIGN MEATS IN FIFTEEN YEARS.

EDINBURGH, Aug. 16.—At the concluding session here of the Scottish cattle breeding conference, when a review of the cattle situation in the chief countries of the world was under discussion, Major E. N. Wentworth, of Armour's Bureau, Chicago, said that the United States had already passed in consumption the rate of production in sheep and mutton, and was at the balancing point in beef. He believed as the industrial population increased and while wage levels remained high, it would be very possible within the next 15 years for the British colonies to export produce to the United States.

Major Wentworth said also he did not think the United States would ever become a market for imported pork and bacon, but that America was certain to become a definite market for beef, sheep and lamb, and dairy products.

What Constitutes Milk Quality?

1.—RICHNESS 3.—SAFETY
2.—SWEETNESS 4.—CLEANLINESS

Milk shares with all other foods habitually consumed raw, the possibility of transmission of disease germs. Pasteurization constitutes at once a cheap and effective protection against germs of both human and animal origin.

Milk contains calcium, phosphorus and other minerals, needed by the growing body, in the most available form; milk contains protein, which is needed in the formation of strong muscles and firm flesh; milk furnishes the fat needed in human nutrition in the most assimilable form; milk contains carbohydrates, which are necessary energy units for growing bodies; milk contains vitamins, which act as growth promoters and body regulators.

Altogether, milk, more than any other food, contains all the necessary elements needed to promote growth and sustain the body in grown-ups and children.

To go without good, safe Milk is poor economy. Use our Pasteurized Milk, and you get quality as well.

Valuations of Securities

A periodical valuation is very helpful to the holder of securities. It may enable the investor to take advantage of a favorable market for the sale of some securities. It may discover to the holder that he has some securities which have been called at a premium and which have ceased to bear interest. Moreover, it affords a protection in cases where declines are indicated.

Many estates, institutions and private investors make it a practice to have their holdings valued frequently.

We shall be glad at all times to make valuations of securities, without obligation, or to make suggestions as to the betterment of holdings by purchases, sales or exchanges. Our investment experience of thirty-five years is at your service.

TEACHERS SECURE

Profession in New Zealand Trained By Actual Work.

VICTORIA, B.C., August 16 (Canadian Press), — The New Zealand school teacher is in a sound position in a tenure of office, the Canadian Teachers 'eFderation learned from Miss M. W. Anderson, of Christchurch, N.Z., who has just received an appointment to a school in this province.

Miss Anderson gave a most interesting address on the profession in that Dominion, showing how the High School teacher was trained for the calling, actual work in school as pupil-teacher and two years at the Normal School.

The inspectors gave great latitude to individual teachers to use their initiative in their classrooms, and there was no supervision except in isolated districts. Two inspections were regularly made to grade the teachers, one a surprise visit, the other within ten days' notice.

Bachelor Farmer in Saskatchewan Disposed of Estate and Died.

SASKATOON, Sask., August 16 (Canadian Press). — When James A. Veach, 33, bachelor farmer of the Eversham, Sask., district, was found dead in bed on Tuesday, near his body were discovered three cheques, one to a mortgage company, covering the last payment on the mortgage on his farm, another to his mother, and a third to his sister to cover his funeral expenses.

With the cheques he left a note specifically directing that they be honoured by the bank, and saying that the cheque to his mother was issued to be sure that she would receive a share at least of his estate.

He left $3,000 cash in the bank, and his farm.

A coroner's inquest returned an open verdict as to the cause of death.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY.

What Mothers Should Do as Their Daughters Approach Womanhood.

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realises he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any one of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mothers' best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DRIVER COMMITTED

London Car Driver Charged With Manslaughter — Drove Away.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Wm. R. Hodges was committed to stand trial on a charge of manslaughter at the fall assizes, which commence in this city on October 13, by County Magistrate Hawkshaw, presiding at the preliminary hearing at the county court Friday, following the evidence of several witnesses.

At a coroner's inquest held Thursday night at the county court, the jury found Hodges responsible for the death of John Knott, and recommended that he be severely censured for driving away after his auto had struck the deceased.

MURDOCK FAILED

Minister of Labor Blames Miners in Calgary Coal Strike.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 16. — (Canadian Press).—Efforts to settle the strike of coal miners in District No. 19, United Mine Workers of of America, which has been in progress since March 31 last, have proved abortive, according to James Murdock, Canadian Minister of Labor, who has been here for some time working in the interests of a settlement.

Mr. Murdock stated Friday that the scale committee of the miners had flatly turned down his proposal that the strike should be settled on the basis of one-eighth reduction of the wage scale that existed on March 31, and which the Western Canada Coal Operators' officials stated they would accept in order to terminate the strike.

ASBESTOS KEPT FIRE IN CHECK DURING A TEST

Flames Failed To Penetrate Resistive Sheeting. Wood Scarcely Warm.

FIREMEN CRITICIZE.

President of Fire Fighters Says City Apparatus Is Hopelessly Inadequate.

Friday was entertainment day for the delegates to the fifth annual convention of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters. After witnessing a display of fire resistive sheeting and roofing on the market square at ten o'clock in the morning the fire-fighters were taken to the Hydraulic Lift Lock where the lockmaster and his assistant explained in detail the mechanism of the lock. At noon they were guests of the Quaker Oats Company Limited in a tour of the plant from basement to water tower, and in the after noon, under the auspices of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Motor League they were taken on a four of all points of interest in the city and surrounding district.

The demonstration on the market square showed the power of the Johns-Manville Company's asbestos sheeting to keep out flame. A frame house was built and covered with the asbestos sheeting. Around this was piled kindling wood, slabs, and saw dust and coal oil aided in starting the blaze that enveloped the structure and drove back spectators to a very respecetable distance. Inside the building the air remained fresh until smoke drifted under the wall, and the walls themselves were scarcely warm at the height of the conflagration. No flame touched the wood, and on removal of the protective covering the surface was found to be unharmed and unscorched. In the opinion of the fire fighters and of Chief Gimblett the demonstration was very effective in showing the great resistive powers of this sheeting.

Another exhibition of the same kind was the kindling of a fire on a model roof, covered with Johns-Manville Company shingles. These are composed of Portland cement and asbestos fibre and when the fire had been burning twenty minutes the only mark on the roofing was made by smoke. The shingles are hard as flint and impervious to flame.

The MacDonald Lumber Company is handling the product of the Johns-Manville Company in Peterborough.

Fire-Proof House

William O'Rourke, of 476 Bolivar street, had an exhibit on the market square that drew the approving attention of the firemen. A model house is equipped with piping over the ridge, under the eaves, and down the gables. The pipe is perforated after the style of the interior sprinkler in use in all modern factories, and is designed to throw a stream of water over the outside of the house.

J. J. O'Kelly, president, and D. H. Lamb, secretary, of the Federation, and others declared the idea highly practicable, and said it might be run from the domestic water service without special mains. The pipes would be of solid aluminum and would be so placed as to throw a solid protective screen over the house. In cases of other fires nearby this would be an almost positive safeguard, and in case of a roof fire or other blaze in the house itself the installation would be a splended guarantee of safety, the firemen said. Mr. O'Rourke holds the patent on the device, and intends, if he can obtain permission, trying it on his own house.

Some of the delegates declared the system to be perfect for country home with force pump connections, as it would be an absolute safeguard while awaiting the gathering of a volunteer bucket force.

Other delegates thought that the inventor of so promising a device for the protection of property should not be compelled to finance tests but should be assisted in the interests of fire prevention.

Approves Apparatus.

In the tour of the Quaker Oats plant the delegates were greatly interested in the fire fighting apparatus installed on the different floors and in the provision made for the safety of the employees. President O'Kelly complimented the Company on the installations, saying a full complement is on hand. Expressing the opinion of the other delegates after a conference with them, he deprecated the use of "man. elevators" without traps to shut off one floor from another. The elevators, running on an endless belt for seven or eight stories, form, he said, a natural draft that would suck the flames into all parts of the building.

City Force Small.

After a survey of the city and the area to be covered by the fire department, President O'Kelly told The Examiner he considers the apparatus and force altogether inadequate for the proper protection of the city. "After a careful survey," he said, "we agree that the fire fighting apparatus in the city is hopelessly inadequate. If there was a second station on this side of the river (indicating East City), and Chief Gimblett had a triple combination pumper at the main hall with one of his smaller pieces of apparatus in the small station, it would be much better. The fire hall as it is now is too far away from the hospitals and large factories. If a blaze broke out in one of these factories the fire department as it is equipped now would be helpless."

POLITICAL LIFE AROUSES INDIANS

Several Indians Have Filed This Year for County Offices.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 16.—(Associated Press).—Montana Indians, apparently aroused by the recent enactment of the Indian citizenship bill, are taking an increasing interest in politics. Several Indians, educated in the reservation schools, have filed this year for county offices, while Robert Yellowtail, three-quarter blood Crow Indian, of Lodge Grass, on the Crow reservation, has announced his desire to attend the white man's Congress at Washington as a representative from Montana.

Yellowtail, who is 35 years old, completed his education by private tutoring after his graduation from the reservation schools. Encouraged by his tribesmen, he recently filed for Congress from the second district, subject to the primary election Aug. 26. He is opposing Congressman Scott Leavitt of Great Falls, who is completing his first term.

Montana's Indian population is estimated at 13,000, of whom 7,000 live in the second congressional district. More than 2,500 Indians from the six reservations will be allowed to vote this year. Yellowtail, who gives his occupation as a rancher, announces he will base his campaign on his knowledge of Indian problems.

FAIRYLAND FOR LIGHTED BOATS

August Moon and Unclouded Sky Set Lovely Scene for Illuminated Parade.

MANY NOVEL FLOATS

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 15.—Nature provided an ideal setting for the annual illuminated flotilla which was held on Thursday evening, being postponed from Friday of last week because of the bad weather prevailing. The full moon shone in unclouded radiance and made the lake and islands appear like a bit of fairyland. A crowd gathered to view the flotilla, which, last year, was such a success, and about nine o'clock the procession started in its progress past the Juniper dock. The number of boats decorated was not nearly as large as last ye but those decorated were extremely pretty, and some new and very original ideas were worked into the schemes of decoration. Chinese lanterns were exceedingly popular and were used in nearly every boat. The comments, all full of admiration, of the spectators were evidence of the popularity of the boats.

The judges were Messes. J. R. Dodworth, S. Henderson and Dr. Perry Goldsmith, who acted in a just and unbiassed manner. Two of the canoes were so nearly alike, and both so well decorated in a highly original manner, that the knotty problem was solved by giving each a prize. The applause of the spectators showed clearly that the decision was popular. The cruiser "Twin," owned by Mr. J. C. Strickland of McCracken's Landing, was awarded the prize for motor boats; it was decorated with festoons of greens and Chinese lanterns as a "love boat," with several very pretty girls in Oriental costumes posing on the deck. The effect was extremely pretty and was much admired. The prize for skiffs, or punts, was awarded to Mrs. L. Thomas, whose boat was decorated as a Chinese junk and was lighted with gay lanterns and filled with a jolly crowd in Orinetal costumes. From the Orient to the Occident is but a step, 'tis said, for the first canoe prize was awarded to Master Dick Mudge and a young friend who wore the costumes of the North American Indians and had a lighted wigwam in the centre of the boat. The idea was original and very effective. The second prize (a very close second) was given Mr. Fred Sym, who, with Mr. Emmet Sheehy, had a lighthouse erected in their boat, with the light flashing on and off. This was, in many ways, the most original of all, and won a hearty round of applause.

After the presentation of prizes by Mr. J. R. Dodworth, the president of the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association, the young people enjoyed an informal little dance for an hour.

LONDON FLOUR DROPS

Third Shilling Hopped Off Price Within Week.

LONDON, Aug. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The price of standard grade flour has taken another tumble after frequent advances since about the middle of July. This time it is one shilling, and, accordingly, the price for a 280-lb. sack of flour will be 46s 6d. A reduction of two shillings was made on August 11.

The peak price of standard grade flour was reached on July 28, when it was advanced to 48s 6d per 280-lb. sack.

FARM NEWS

SUNSHINE BEST FOOD YOU CAN GIVE TO ROSES

The Hardies Varieties Will Grow in Nearly Any Kind Of Soil.

SOME GOOD HINTS.

Cool, Deep, Rich Loam is the Best General Type of Soil.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 16.—Those interested in rose culture will glean a large amount of helpful information from Bulletin 17, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. From the end of July until September is the proper time for propagation by budding, though amateur gardeners are advised to secure two-year-old, strong, budded plants from a reliable nursery garden rather than go to the time and labor involved in doing this intricate work themselves.

Roses flourish best with plenty of sunshine, hence should be planted where they have a liberal share of sunlight most of the day. Failing this, set out where the morning sun will be their portion, but where they will not be affected by heat from a wall or building. The hardiest varieties do well on almost any kind of fairly good soil, but the more tender varieties are more fastidious in their requirements. A naturally cool, deep, rich loam, well drained, is the best general type of soil, though roses may be planted in almost any kind of good, "loamy" ground, provided it is not too wet or too dry.

Plant roses in autumn just before winter sets in, for the best results the following season, but leave any pruning until spring. The reverse of this rule holds true if spring is the time of planting, and the bushes must be set deep enough to have the point of union between stock and scion about three inches under the earth. Heap up the soil around the stems should the weather be dry, but do this in any case if fall is the chosen time for planting.

Keep the soil well stirred after a rain, or when watering, as roses require plenty of moisture. Annual applications of some good fertiliser are also necessary. A thorough soaking is preferable to frequent light waterings, and all spraying should be done in the early morning, or at evening, to avoid sunscald.

The hardiest groups require little protection in Canada, but the more tender kinds must be cared for either by earthing them up to a height of six or eight inches, or by bending the tips down and covering them with earth as well. A more thorough method is to provide a covering of straw, or evergreen boughs, while climbing roses must be taken down, usually, and the branches tied together and covered with leaves after they are placed in a long, narrow box, remembering that boxed plants need ventilation at intervals.

The frequent rains have hindered the harvest to a considerable extent and increased the danger of sprouting with the wheat cut and stooked but not yet in all cases drawn in because of the unfavorable weather. One experienced local farmer states that this season the wheat fields have been somewhat unusual, the centre proving quite soft when the binder was put into use, doubtless the result of so much rain. Some sprouting has been noticed with the hard grain on the edges of the fields, or where it was touching the ground, but that in the centre, not having reached the hard stage, has probably saved it from sprouting and thus being damaged as much as would otherwise been the case.

Some oats have recently been cut and promise a fair yield, though not up to the average in every case. Many fields are of uneven growth and the straw short. Reports as to barley differ also, some having a good crop, while in other cases the harvest in this grain is below the average. Root crops are making good progress, and corn is doing better than was anticipated earlier in the season. Warm, dry weather is required if it is to mature properly, however.

ALLAN B. MANN TAKES PRIZES

Has Prize For Five Horses at Cobourg Horse Show.

COBOURG, Aug. 16.—Allan B. Mann with his string of five horses at the horse show in Cobourg, is upholding the honor of Peterboro County as, up to Thursday, he had secured a prize for every one of his animals, the awards including a handsome silver cup. Mrs. Mann had her share in bringing victory to the stables of her husband, winning second prize in the competition for lady drivers. The prizes won so far by Mr. Mann are as follows:—

Third prize for the Clydesdale stallion, Dundurnan Jock.

Fourth prize in a class of eight entries for the hackney stallion, Terrington Denmark.

First prize for hackney mare, Maid, in the district combination class for best turnout (open to ladies only).

Silver cup, in class open to ladies and gentlemen in district combination for best horse harness and vehicle, Mr. Mann driving his handsome roadster, Terrington Skylark, in this event.

First and second in district combination for best runabout. Mr. Mann drove the first prize winner in this class and Harland Murray, of Oakville, the other.

Second prize, Thursday, for the best carriage horse.

FROST CREATES HARVEST FEARS

Manitoba Farmers Anxious for Biggest Crop Since 1915.

SASKATCHEWAN, TOO

WINNIPEG, August 16 (Canadian Press). — With Manitoba farmers waiting to harvest what agricultural experts regard as the best crop since 1915, the ensuing ten days will be fraught with much suspense, inasmuch as the cold wave which has prevailed throughout the province during the past week is lingering still with light frosts forecast last night.

The weather, which was moderately warm on Thursday, took a disagreeable turn late in the afternoon, when a stiff gale swept over the province direct from the Hudson Bay region. It abated somewhat during the night but gained in force again yesterday morning, although the lowest point registered was 44 degrees in The Pas.

While the cold wave is at present confined to Manitoba and parts of North-eastern Saskatchewan, indications are that the unfavourable weather will become more general in Saskatchewan.

In Alberta unsettled conditions prevail with prospects of additional moisture during the week-end.

RUN OVER BY ENGINE.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—David Lake, 50, 46 Midmerst Avenue, Toronto, died in the hospital here Thursday night from injuries received when he was run over by a freight engine in the Canadian National Railway yards four hours earlier. He was horribly crushed, both shoulder blades, his spine and several ribs being broken. No one witnessed the accident. Coroner Dr. T. P. Bradley has ordered an inquest. Lake was an employee of the railway construction gang.

POSSIBILITIES FOR SHEEP AND WOOL INDUSTRY

British Columbia As a Sheep Raising Province Sounds Good.

GOOD INVESTMENT.

Enormous Decrease in Sheep Raising Throughout the world.

(By Arthur Morton.)

From the standpoint of a sheep-producing province, British Columbia might be divided into two sections, the large grazing areas of the interior, affording possibilities for the running of large bands of sheep, and the lower mainland, Gulf Islands, and Vancouver Island where smaller flocks are to be found.

Climatic conditions vary considerably. The cold winters experienced in the central part of the province necessitate the growing of winter feed, whereas at the coast, sheep are in many instances allowed to forage for themselves during the winter months. The climate at the coast is particularly suited to the raising of early lambs, for which a good price is obtained. The prolific pastures and grazing lands of British Columbia afford excellent summer feed and being fresh and new, in some cases hardly touched, any trouble arising from infected land is practically unknown.

It might be said here that sheep diseases in general are conspicuous by their absence from this province. There are no large ranches operating in British Columbia, and the sheep population is almost entirely made up of small bands, widely scattered throughout the province. These small flocks have proven to be a valuable asset to general mixed farming. Increased fertility of the land and the destruction of weeds are the natural results of a small band of sheep on the farm.

Sheep a Good Investment.

Possibly no phase of the live stock industry offers better returns for money invested than does the raising of sheep. In comparison with the expenditure necessary in other classes of live stock the initial outlay is small, no expensive buildings being required. Adequate shelter, however, must be provided.

Sheep require less care and attention than perhaps any of the other animals on the farm, but in order to ensure good returns they must not be neglected. In practically every case where no extraordinary bad luck has been encountered, sheep have returned profit to the owner. Losses have been sustained through dogs, coyotes, cougars, and other causes, but these are the exception rather than the rule.

Demand for Mutton and Lamb.

Last year over 61,000 live sheep, besides over a million and a half pounds of dressed mutton, were shipped into the province for home consumption. The demand for mutton and lamb within the province is considerably greater than the local supply is able to meet, and this fact discloses the ever open market for the local grown product.

Our Sheep Population.

The total number of sheep in British Columbia is approximately 53,000 head, a very small number, indeed, for a province with sheep-raising possibilities such as British Columbia is known to possess. It is interesting to note the increase in sheep from the year 1914 to 1923. In 1914 statistics show 27,529 head; in 1915, 34,411; 1916, 50,000; 1917, 43,858; 1918, 45,291; 1919, 44,985; 1920, 46,473; 1921, 51,457; 1922, 49,745; 1923, 53,336.

These figures point to the fact that the sheep population of this province has practically doubled since 1914. There is room for a great many more.

Less Sheep in the World.

There has been an enormous decrease in this class of live stock throughout the world within the last few years. It is estimated that there are approximately 84,000,000 less sheep in the world than in 1913.

With this large world shortage the sheep industry generally is bound to prosper. Wool and mutton are always in demand.

Wool on a Sounder Basis.

The general opinion is that the wool market is on a steadier basis than has been the case for some time. Indications point to the fact that good prices will be realised for the finer grades. It is possible to raise as good wool in British Columbia as in any part of the Dominion. Why not, then make British Columbia a larger mutton and wool-producing province? The opportunity is at the door, the markets are waiting; all that is wanted are the sheep.

OMEMEE MAN RECIPIENT OF DUCK'S GENEROSITY.

Who would choose a domesticated duck for a friend? Very few, if any, but what would be nicer than to have a friendly duck swim a considerable distance up stream every other day or so, just so that it could lay a beautiful big egg right on your premises?

It would hardly seem possible that anyone could be the recipient of a duck's generosity; nevertheless, an Omemee man is bestowed with a newly laid duck egg quite frequently in the above manner.

"I just had one for dinner yesterday," he told The Eraminer, licking his lips, as if the sweet taste had remained on his palate from the day before.

LOCAL CROP SITUATION SAID TO BE FAVORABLE

Very Little of This Year's Grain is Yet On The Market. Barley and Rye Good. Early Peas Were Very Poor This Season.

(By STAFF REPORTER.)

Although very little of this year's grain is yet on the market, reports from grain merchants in the city indicate a very satisfactory condition of affairs locally in general crops. Wheat both spring and fall variety, is described as being much better than last year, with no trouble from weevils this season Barley and rye are good crops, and oats are extra good this year, while the buckwheat is promising well. Although the early peas were poor, the later brand is very good. The alsike crop is somewhat disappointing in this district, although other sections report a satisfactory yield. Around Peterboro there will not be half the alsike that was harvested last year. The root crop is described as being "magnificent," with a splendid outlook also for corn. There has been a fair hay harvest this year, and the red clover is promising well, but the sweet clover is recorded as being "patchy" in this district. As far as can be ascertained, no rust has developed in the wheat in this district, unless the late rains affect the spring grain.

Potatoes have been a good crop, as in other sections of the country. As a trade journal puts it, when speaking of the huge potato yield in Prince Edward Island, where it is anticipated that the farmers of that province will realize $2,000,000 from the two million-bushel aggregate predicted for this year, "the prosaic potato is undoubtedly a producer of great profit."

The upward movement in wheat quotations is reflected in the advance in hog prices and in hog products. What is termed a "strong" situation in hog products is predicted for the balance of the summer season at least, because of a very light delivery of porkers at stock yards, a condition which will likely continue until fall. Prices in lard and bacon are advancing steadily. Quotations on live and dressed hogs at local packing plants show increases every few days recently.

The influence exerted on auxiliary industries by reason of advance in wheat prices, may be measured by the amount of wheat and flour consumed in the Dominion yearly. Federal authorities calculate the per capita consumption of wheat at about 6½ bushels. One member of the trade thinks an estimate of 5½ bushels per capita more nearly correct, which would represent about 1 2-9 barrels of flour per capita, a considerably higher consumption than most countries.

Dairy Products High.

In the dairy products line, prices remain in the upper register. Creamery butter sells for 37 to 40 cents per pound, the dairy brand at 35 to 38 cents, while lard ranges around 24 and 26 cents a pound, and eggs remain at 32 cents a dozen, generally speaking. The honey crop this year will be negligible.

Trade reports show an increase in the export of butter to Old World markets from Western Canada. Shipments of Alberta creamery butter continue to be forwarded direct from the producers to the British market. Recently three carloads left Edmonton for the old Country, and other shipments have been made from Calgary. Manitoba's first shipment of unsalted creamery butter for export to England has been made, consisting of approximately 90,000 pounds. The first two cars left Winnipeg recently for Montreal, and the second two cars a few days later, each car of which contained 400 boxes, or 22,400 pounds. The price realized was one cent a pound higher than local quotations for salted butter, after deducting the cost of freight, which was two cents a pound, and the shipments were made from one Winnipeg and one Brandon creamery.

Meet the "Dasheen."

A new vegetable product that has not yet reached Canadian markets is being sold in the Southern States. It is called Dasheen, and is similar in food qualities to the potato, but is said to contain about 50 per cent. more actual food than an equal weight of potatoes. It has long been grown in European countries but has only been recently introduced to this continent. The Dasheen has a rather peculiar appearance in its natural state, and in this account has to be properly prepared by the housewife before it has any appeal. Some of the hotels and clubs in the South are serving the new vegetable at banquets and dinners, and some manufacturers have commenced making Dasheen flour and chips and crisp from it.

Corn is the latest popular arrival in local stores, the early white corn, that sells anywhere from 30 to 40 cents per dozen. Tomatoes are going down in price rapidly, some of the stores selling the big "love apples" at a dime a pound. Like everything else, as soon as they become plentiful, as is the case at present, their value decreases in proportion to their availability. Little green gherkins for pickling are in also, and sell for 20 cents a quart.

The fruit season is approaching its height, and the stores are filled with tempting-looking specimens of the varigated family which has first mention in the Bible as an article of food. Red Astrakan apples, the Duchess and the harvest brand, may be had; there are big, luscious peaches from California at three for ten; cool-looking green grapes at 30 cents a pound; small red and yellow plums and big red and blue one; greengages at $1 a basket; and little miniature pears at 20 cents a quart. Big, husky-looking thimbleberries are 30 cents a box. Strawberries are still holding their own in a last defiant stand of a few pale-looking boxes, and raspberries have a muddy look this year. Thier disposition appears to be melancholy this season, as they are somewhat blue, as a genera rule, even the usually cheerful-countenanced red ones assuming a slightly purple tinge.

It is estimated by Niagara growers that the crop of grapes in that district will only reach about 65 per cent. of last year's outturn. The Canadian apple crop, also, indicates a smaller yield than last year's.

From Montreal comes the report of a preserving process successfully tried out at the harbor cold storage warehouse there, by means of which local stores may sell berries practically all the year round. Kept at zero temperature and frozen hard as bullets, without any injury to flavor or fragrance, berries of all kinds are now resting in the ice-cold rooms of the warehouse, where choice products will be kept for many months after their harvest, and sold later in a condition as excellent as when they are picked.

Sugar Market.

The sugar market still remains unsettled. Undelivered stocks in United States warehouses were a good deal larger on June 30 of this year than a year ago. Lower prices, fair fruit crops and increasing population will, it is believed, result in a larger final consumption by December 31, which, however, is likely to be offset by heavier available supplies. A first estimate of United States beet sugar production for 1924-25 shows 820,000 long tons compared with about 787,000 tons for 1923-24. European crop reports continue favorable, with the exception of Ukrania and Southern Russia, and, to some extent, Germany.

Figures just released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that there was considerable increase in the domestic consumption of sugar in Canada this year over a similar period last year. Shipments in the four weeks ending July 12, for instance, for domestic consumption, totalled 82,804,032 pounds, as compared with 68,002,886 pounds last year, an increase of 14,186,146 pounds. A slight decrease is shown in figures for export shipments, as compared with those of last year.

New Eastern Demands.

It is interesting to note the reaction of world markets from cataclysmic disorders that shake the world from time to time. As a result of the Japanese earthquake, it is asserted that the Japanese have taken in increasing numbers to the use of canned products, such as Canadian salmon and tinned milk, Australian jams, and United States canned vegetables, by reason of the fact that so much of this brand of food was sent in for their use in days after the catastrophe. Corned beef also has become a popular article in the Japanese menu, the import having grown to about 8,200 cases per month.

Exports and imports of rice have also changed. In 1924, from January to June, the imports of rice into Japan amounted to 40,372,000 yen, and exports during the same period to only 233,000.

According to trade journals, the Chinese are diverting more and more from their centuries-old rice habit, and insistent calls for fresh flour bread from Chinese housewives are responsible for the recent establishment of a modern compressed yeast plant near Shanghai, capable of producing over 3,000 pounds of yeast daily. The machinery for the plant was almost entirely imported from Germany, and the plant is in charge of a German chemist who has superintended the construction and operation of similar plants in several countries in Europe.

While Oriental countries, then, are forsaking century-old allegiances in the food line and taking to Occidental eats, it is reported that Canadian peoples are going in for a greater consumption of the macaroni that has helped to make the great Italian nation famous. Another back-wash of the war, although just why a war should be responsible for making Canadians want to eat macaroni is a mystery, is said to be indicated in the fact that Canada has built up a big macaroni industry since war time. "Canada's pre-war imports of macaroni amounted to nearly 7,000,000 pounds, 61 per cent of which came from Italy, 25 per cent. from France, and 10 per cent. from the United States. During the past three years the average imports into Canada have been 1,324,000 pounds a year, of which 82 per cent. came from the United States and 9 per cent. from Italy." "Italy," says a trade journal, "has lost not only the magnificent market in the United States, but most of that of Canada as well. In 1923 there were nine factories in Canada with a capital of $873,000 and having an annual output of nearly 11,500,000 pounds. Canadian imports in that year were 1,096,000 pounds and exports 2,229,000 pounds. Canada's per capita consumption of macaroni is less than one-third of that of the United States."

THE MAN WITH THE HOE

The report of Hon. Mr. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, on his recent trip to Iorway and Sweden, where he investigated co-operative marketing systems, will be awaited with a great deal of interest by the rural communities of the Province. Growers in this district are particularly interested and look for an early announcement from the Minister.

Interviewed on his return, Hon. Mr. Martin stated that Ontario farmers were in a better position than those of European countries. He was favourably impressed with the co-operative scheme and stated that under the systems adopted in Denmark and Sweden the producer receives 75 per cent. of the total price paid by the ultimate consumer, while in this country only 50 per cent. finds its way to the producer. Growers are anxious to learn how they can increase their revenue 25 per cent.

FARMERS NEED WARM WEATHER TO HELP CROPS

Many Fruit Growers Fear Loss From Heavy Rains.

FEWER TOMATOES.

Cherries Will Soon Be Off The Market For Another Year.

Moderately warm, dry weather is needed to bring along the fruit and late grain crop of the Niagara peninsula. Heavy rains will cause serious loss if they continue, the Spectator was told this week by some of the larger growers. The damp weather is hitting the plum crop particularly hard, and rot is feared unless weather conditions improve.

Heavy Shipments.

Cherries are about done. The sweets, as predicted, proved a poor crop. Sours were exceptionally heavy in many districts. Shipments from Winona, reached the highest total in history. Prices were not satisfactory, and very little profit was realized by the fruit farmers, despite the fact that they had a bumper yield. The fact that the strawberry and cherry crop came along almost together had something to do with poor prices, growers believe.

Grapes Short.

Compared to the 1923 output, which established a new record in the fruit belt, this year's yield will be 65 per cent., it is estimated. The production will be slightly short of last year's total.

Many new vineyards will bear for the first time this season, and this new crop is helping to keep the figures up. While the quantity will not be as heavy, the quality in some districts is the best for many years.

Fewer Tomatoes.

The tomato crop will not be heavy. Large acreages were set out, but early frosts killed off thousands of plants. One grower in the peninsula lost $5,000 as the result of cold weather early in the season. Vines which came through successfully are doing nicely, however, but the yield will not be sufficient to repay the producers for early losses.

MANITOBA RYE IS IN THE MARKETS

First Shipments Arrived in Winnipeg This Week—Harvest Next Week.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 16.—Three carloads of Manitoba rye, the first of the 1924 crop, were marketed in Winnipeg on Wednesday. It graded No. 1. The bulk of the rye in the Province has been cut and 50 per cent. of the barley in some districts of Southern Manitoba is already in stook.

Several fields of wheat have been cut in the Morden district of Manitoba, and George Batho of the Manitoba Agricultural Department states the wheat cutting will be general next week. The Manitoba crop is still safe from frost, and rust damages to date has been negligible.

Saskatchewan Situation.

Hon. George Langley, former Minister of Agriculture in Saskatchewan estimates that the Saskatchewan wheat crop will average somewhere between eight and twelve bushels to the acre. Many thousands of acres of crop had been damaged by drouth beyond possibility of recovery, he said, but where damage was only partial, recent rains had effected a considerable improvement in prospects. The crop, as a whole, however, would be about half of last year's yield.

Rain Is Compensated By Second Hay Crop

MARMORA, Aug. 16—A town through the surrounding farming sections this week reveals the fact that grain crops are everywhere heavy. The largest bulk yet remains to be gathered chiefly on account of the intermittent rains. It is hard to remember a year when the buckwheat showed such density of bloom. Whilst farmers are led to complain a little concerning the frequency of rain in so far as it affects harvesting they take some consolation in the knowledge that a bountiful second yield of hay and clover is possible and that root crops are thriving. Berry pickers continue to be rewarded for their efforts.

RAIN CHECKED HARVEST WORK

Farmers in Bailieboro Delayed in Hauling Fall Wheat.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 16.—Owing to the frequent rains that have been falling recently, the farmers are finding a great deal of difficulty in gaining much headway with their harvest.

The majority of the fall wheat is yet in the fields, and as yet the weather has kept so cool that there has been very little damage done to the grain. Some sheaves that have fallen from the stook and have been lying on the ground are slightly discoloured and sprouted, but no serious harm has been done to the wheat by the damp weather yet.

The spring grains are fast beginning to ripen, and on account of the wheat harvesting having been delayed by rains, it is going to make a very busy harvest time, as all of the grain will be ready to harvest at once.

Alsike and pea threshing is now in full swing. The former is turning out even much beyond the majority of farmers' expectations. Mr. G. Hall, a farmer residing on the Fifth Line of Cavan, had twenty-five acres of Alsike which yielded over three bushels per load, and other crops in these parts yielded anywhere from three to two and a half bushels per load.

Prospects look exceedingly fine for a good crop of roots, corn and clover seed and the farmers are making good of the opportunity of ploughing their land and preparing it for fall wheat. It is generally considered that there will be a larger acreage of fall wheat sowed this fall than there has been for some time.

Horses Won.

Mr. James Eagleson brought home several first prizes for his splendid percheron horses that he showed in several different classes at Cobourg Horse Show this week.

HOG PROBLEM IN THIS DISTRICT

Industry Highly Profitable Over a Period of Years.

(By Prof. W. T. McDonald.)

One great handicap in the constructive development of our pigs, and of the pig industry is the case with which farmers may go into the business because of the rapidity with which hogs multiply and the consequent tendency to go entirely out of the business when the market is low.

Under the generally prevailing system we find a keen demand for breeding stock when the market takes a decided advance and continuing till the market has again started to decline. As this demand follows a period of depression in hog raising during which numbers have been greatly depleted, there is little breeding stock available and many of the sows bred are lacking in type, feeding qualities and prolificacy. Under certain market conditions there is a profit in hogs even when such a practice is followed but the margin of profit disappears much sooner than would be the case if properly selected breeding stock had been used.

Economical Production.

Associated with the fluctuation in hog raising, we frequently find a lack of suitable quarters and also a failure to provide pasturage where plans for such could have been made. Ordinarily pork can be produced more cheaply where pasture is used as part of the ration for growing hogs.

Pigs make an excellent side line on dairy farms where cream or butter is the dairy commodity sold and could be made use of to a much greater extent than at present. There is room for greater diversification on our average farms. Carefully collected statistics show that even in dairy districts, the greatest profits are usually made where speciliazation is not carried beyond about 60 per cent of the gross returns in dairy products.

Highly Profitable over a Period of Years.

Even under present methods we find that for a period of years hog raising is one of our most profitable branches of farming and with improved stock and improved methods could be greatly increased.

The most satisfactory procedure is the adoption of a permanent policy within which provision may be made for fluctuations, within certain limits according to conditions. To enter any line of farming at the top of the market is not sound business. Markets will continue to rise and fall and the man who takes up a certain line of live stock on a high market will frequently find a low market by the time he has surplus stock for sale.

Diversification along the lines of a definite permanent policy is one of the needs of agriculture.

MACKEY'S BREAD MEN WIN GROUP

Pounded Cognawagas, Last Year's Champions, in 8 to 1 Victory.

MEET BETHANY NEXT

Bob Mackey's bread crew clinched the championship of the East Peterboro League, and won the right to meet Bethany in the Intermediate play offs, last evening, at the Exhibition Park, when they hammered their way to an 8 to 1 victory over the Cognawagas, the champions of 1923.

"Lefty" Connors mystified the Cogs' batters, and with good support allowed but one hit, a pop fly behind second. The run scored against him was the result of his sole walk issued, an error of Collins, the only one made by Mackeys, and a pass ball. Mackeys crammed all their misplays in that one innings, and throughout the rest of the game played sparkling ball. "Busy" Thorndyke, who stands in the left garden plot for Bob's boys, covered broad acres, and got under some almost impossible flies. He covered the rough ground in the field at fast clip to gather in Williams' fly coming from deep left to just behind third.

Williams started on the mound for the Southenders, but was drawn at the end of the second after seven hits and seven runs had been made off his deliveries; a couple of errors and wild throws aided greatly in the obtaining of Mackey's commanding lead. Billingsley then took up the almost hopeless task, and came through splendidly. The Cogs showed their old form behind him and only one [illegible] all Mackeys could collect, a double by Hardill.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. There is a runner on third. Pitcher starts his windup and accidentally hits his arm against his leg, the ball rolling 10 or 15 feet. Runner dashes for home, pitcher regains ball and throws him out at the plate. What is the proper ruling?—H. F. D.

2. Batter strikes out. Starts for the bench, believing the catcher has caught the ball. Shouts from his teammates tell him the ball has gotten away. He has gone about 20 feet toward his bench. He starts for first and beats the throw of the catcher. Is he safe or out for running out of line?—F.D.A.

3. When is the batter automatically out on strikes whether the catcher holds the third strike or not? Why was such a rule made.—G.F.S.

ANSWERS

1. Pitcher in dropping the ball after starting his windup fails to deliver same to the batsman and has made a balk. No consideration can be given the fact that it was accidental. The runner on third, retired at the plate, is entitled to score.

2. He has such a right and is not out for running out of line, as many think. In going toward the bench he did not avoid being touched with the ball, simply making the distance to first all the longer.

3. The batsman is automatically out on strikes if first base is occupied by a baserunner, and the third strike be called unless two men are already out. The rule was made to prevent the catcher from purposely dropping the ball and trying for a double play.

MOLLA AND HELEN WIN

Both Won Their Semi-Finals —Meet in Final Today.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., August 16 (Canadian Press). — For the second year in succession, Miss Helen Wills, of Berkeley, Cal., National and Olympic Tennis Champion, will battle Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory ,of New York, for the women's single crown to-day at the West Side Club Stadium.

Both triumphed in the semi-finals yesterday afternoon, but while Mrs. Mallory gained a decisive victory of Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, 6-3, 6-3, Miss Wills was forced to a sensational three-set struggle to overcome Miss Mary K. Browne, of Los Angeles, champion of 1912 to 1914.

RECALLS 1908 CAMPAIGN

This year's American League race brings to mind the sensational 1908 chase when four teams—Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis—battled neck and neck almost up to the final wire. In that campaign St. Louis was the first to drop out with Cleveland following a few days later. Detroit and Chicago carried on until the last game when victory for either meant the flag. Detroit, through the sensational pitching of the late "Wild Bill" Donovan, won 7 to 0.

PREDICTS LOWER PRICES

But Babson Institute Foresees Rise for a few Months

WELLESLEY, Mass., Aug. 15.—Commodity prices will descend during the next decade, but are likely to rise somewhat in the next six or eight months, according to a forecast made at the eleventh annual business conference of the Babson Institute here to-day. Factors making for an eventual economic descent, it was said, were excess of production capacity over domestic consumption and export demands, European competition and a probable fall in wages from their present inflation.

The average of commodity prices to-day, the report stated, was about 50 per cent. over pre-war levels.

Old Del Pratt of the Tigers still can clout the horsehide as was evidenced in a recent game with the Yankees when Pratt got four safe swats out of six attempts. Two of them were doubles and one a home run, all made at opportune moments.

Champion Trims Star

JOHNNY WILSON.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, is in the midst of a spectacular comeback. Wilson dropped Jock Malone for the long count the other night and is now after a return bout with Harry Greb, the champion. Malone, who is one of the bright stars of the game, claimed he was fouled.

THURSTON DEMANDED A CHANCE

Insisted He Was a Big Leaguer And Wanted to Prove It —Was Warming Bench With Browns.

Each year produces one or more new pitching sensations.

Last season George Uhle of Cleveland and Adolph Luque of Cincinnati were the bright shining stars.

It is baseball history that few pitchers have ever had two big years in succession. Apparently with as much stuff as ever, Luque and Uhle have been unable to win consistently this year.

In the American League Hollis Thurston of Chicago has supplanted Uhle in the spotlight, while Emil Yde of the Pirates is the big noise in the National.

Unlimited confidence in his ability to make good has made possible the great success that has come to Thurston this year.

Had Thurston been content to warm the bench, act as relief twirler, in general play the role of second-string pitcher, he would probably still be with the St. Louis Browns, unknown to fame.

Didn't Like Sub Roles.

Two years ago Thurston was bought by the St. Louis Americans from the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast League. A winning pitcher in that organization, he made but little progress at St. Louis.

Playing the role of mere substitute didn't make a hit with Thurston. He wanted to start games, not finish contests that appeared hopelessly lost before he broke into the lineup.

"Give me a chance to start some ball games or else send me to some other American League club. If no other team in the American League wants me, give me a ticket back to the minors. I want to be some place where I can pitch in regular turn. I am either a big leaguer or a busher and want a chance to establish my status.

Johnson Saved Thurston.

That was the ultimatum Thurston delivered to the St. Louis club. It sounded rather chesty, but Thurston isn't that sort of a chap. He simply adopted drastic methods to get the big opportunity.

The St. Louis club didn't like Thurston's attitude. Waivers were asked on him, and the Chicago club alone put in a claim for the pitcher, who is now leading the American League.

No doubt the White Sox can thank Ernie Johnson, then playing short for Chicago, now utility man with the New York Yankees, for the acquisition of Thurston. Johnson for several years had managed the Salt Lake club Thurston had been one of his best pitchers; he knew what he could do. He advised Chicago to take him over.

Last season Thurston pitched good ball; this year he is going great. Every club in the American League would be willing to pay big figures for his services.

Yet, had Thurston lacked ambition, been content to be a bench warmer, he probably wouldn't be baseball's most talked-about pitcher today.

NEWARK YIELD TWO TO LEAFS

Reynolds Had Edge on Moliart in First—Second Game Was Easy.

ROCHESTER DEFEATED

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press). — The Newark Bears closed their series here yesterday with Toronto by losing both ends of a double-header by scores of 1 to 0, and 9 to 3.

The first game was a pitchers' duel between Reynolds and Mohart, with the former having an edge. Ellis was pounded all over the lot in the second game, while the Bruins found Judd a puzzle. Scores:

TITANIC BATTLES CAUSE INTEREST

England Looking Toward Grey Days of Autumn and Winter.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(By Canadian Press).—The summer's distractions in the Old Country this year have been many and of unprecedented interest, and chief among them, as always, were the titanic battles fought out in the realm of sport. But on both sides of the Tweed, the Olympiad has become history; the curtain is slowly descending on the quieter and less conspicuous play of the cricket-field; tennis, golf, polo and all the activities of the outdoor summer are approaching their end. The country is looking towards the grey days of autumn and winter, for then the one great national sport of Britons sweeps everything else off the boards and centres all attention in itself, "Soccer" the game which has now become an international pastime, will shortly makes it bow for another eight months and hold Britain's millions in its spell.

North of the Tweed, the Scotsmen will get under way somewhat earlier than the English leagues. However, the manoeuvres of the first week or two of the Scottish Divisions are mere skirmishes. The country does not begin to feel the urge until the major leagues in England have all answered the call and lined up for the blast of the whistle.

In England, all transfers have been effected; club finances have been straightened out, and players have already been loosening their muscles preparatory to the opening games which are scheduled for Aug. 30. The first Division have already bade "au revoir" to the inglorious elevens that were literally "kicked out" of the league last season. Chelsea and Middlesborough, perforce, must this year battle along in humbler company, remaining in the second Division until such time as they can make their way back to the senior league. Their places are taken by Leeds United and Bury.

Similarly, Nelson and Bristol City have been relegated to a still lowlier plane, making way for the promotion from the Third to the Second Division of Portsmouth to Wolverhampton Wanderers.

To Bournemouth, (Boscombe) and Queen's Park Rangers in the Southern Section of the Third Division and Hartlepools United and Barrow in the Northern, falls the humiliation of having to seek re-election in order to play in these leagues at all.

The one outstanding tilt of the opening card is that presented by the Cup Holders contending against the League winners, Newcastle United are down to play Huddersfield Town, and the game is slated for the Tynesiders' ground. The runners-up in the league race, Cardiff City, meet Burnley, a team that finished six steps up from the cellar in last years' standing. Following the Welshmen were Sunderland who are set vis-a-vis the newly promoted Leeds United, while the co-aspirants of the latter, Bury, are matched with Manchester City, a club whose outstanding feature in last season's play was its consistent mediocrity.

Aston Villa, who battled it out for Cup honors with the Northumbrians, will endeavor to take a fall out of Liverpool. The denizens of Highbury, the Arsenal, will be entertained by Notts Forest, with whom they ran neck and neck in the league race. Only one point separated the two clubs at the heel of the hunt. Blackburn Rovers, whose defeat at the hands of Corinthians, now on tour of Canada, furnished the tidbit of the cup contests, are scheduled against Sheffield United. Spurs clash with Bolton Wanderers; West Bromwich meet Notts County and West Ham play Preston North End.

All clubs have made the usual announcement that their teams are greatly strengthened by an infusion of new blood and every one of the twenty-two has already expressed its confidence in the ultimate result of the 1924-25 league battle.

Coupled with the evergreen enthusiasm of the great English sporting public for their "kick-ball" game is a general improvement in British industrial conditions throughout the year, and the clubs feel justified in the hope that the season now about to begin will deal more open-handedly with them than the one which has been written off as the last chapter in English football history.

ROSENEATH WON ANOTHER FRAME

Defeated Orland by a Score of Fifteen to Two

ROSENEATH, Aug. 16. — In a very one-sided game Roseneath champions defeated Orland on the home grounds on Wednesday by a score of 15-2. The last half of the game was played in a drizzling rain which made it very unpleasant for both players and fans.

Dawson started on the mound for the visitors but after he touched for seven runs in the first inning he was taken out and A. Zufelt took his place. He was lucky enough to last until the fifth when he was forced to retire and Mulhall who replaced him held the locals fairly well in hand during the balance of the game. The three pitchers had six strike outs to their credit while they passed three men.

Dunnett who pitched for Roseneath struck out six and walked one. He pitched a splendid game fielding his position well and holding the visitors scoreless in seven out of the nine innings. He struck out two men in the last innings and forced the third to lift a short fly to third. Samis, who played centrefield for Orland was the pick of the visitors making what looked like two impossible catches. Montgomery, a Roseneath right fielder made a star play when he went into deep right and speared a long drive which looked good for at least a three bagger. Moore at centre made two perfect throws to the infield one to home and one to third nipping the runner both times. Thackeray at first played one of his best games of the season accepting all of his chances without an error. Bates was there iwth the willow as usual getting two bagger. Armstrong and Thackeray also had one each.

The line-up:

Orland—Dawson, Dawn, K. Zufelt, A. Zufelt, Mulhall, Samis, Houlihan, Belford, Engles.

Roseneath—Davey, Bates, B. Thackeray, Montgomery, Armstrong Turner, Dunnett and Varcoe.

Score by inning:

Roseneath ....7 0 2 0 5 0 1 0 x—15
Umpires—Richardson and Macklin

The Play-Off

In the O.B.A. play offs the local team were matched with Oshawa but on account of some change being made they were notified by J. Solomon, and vice president of O.B.A., that they are now matched with Deloro, the Trent Valley champions. They will play at Deloro on Wednesday, August 20th and the return game will be played at Roseneath, Saturday, August 23rd.

ANENT THE PIRATES.

Pittsburgh has been playing pennant-winning ball for the past month or so. From a second division berth the club has pulled up to a place behind the Giants. From present indications McKechnie's lads appear to be the New Yorker's most feared opponents. Much of the Pittsburgh success of late has been due to the batting of Hazen Cuyler and the hurling of Wilbur Cooper. The later seems to have struck his real pitching stride again.

NO LAURELS FOR LINDSAY BOWLERS

George Cairns Won Weekly Fruit Tournament. After Lively Night's Play.

One of the most enjoyable evenings of the bowling season was spent last night on the local greens, when five Lindsay rinks invaded Peterboro to participate in the weekly fruit tournament.

The players drew for their places, and played on the plus and minus basis. The greens were in good shape and the weather ideal for bowling.

Among the Lindsay visitors were Larry O'Connor, Liberal candidate for South Victoria in the last Provincial election, and Tom Begley, editor of the Lindsay Post. As guests of the local bowlers, the Lindsay men were treated most hospitably, but in the matter of bowling they were royally defeated.

Bell's rink was the only Scugog rink to survive the first round on top, and the game between Bell and Dayman was a feature of the evening. Neither one could gain an edge and finished with a tie, an extra round declaring Bell the winner.

Dr. Hammond and George Cairns were the long and short of the first round. In matter of time, however, they were both decidedly long, finishing the first round in the rear, when most of the others were well advanced with the second game.

The Long and the Short of it—Doc. Hammond and George Cairns.

After this, perhaps, the others will take a little longer, for, true to the old old proverb, "The last shall be first, and the first shall be last," when the points were collected after the third game, George Cairns had the most to his credit and was declared the victor.

Dr. Allen was his nearest rival, and, as runner-up, the members of his rink were each presented with a basket of fruit as well as the tournament winners.

The personnel of the winning rink were George Cairns (skip), Reg. Fox (vice-skip), Alex. Dick (second), and President Moore (lead); while Dr. Allen (skip), N. Routley (vice-skip), M. Chenhall (second), and A. Ringer (lead), composed the runners-up.

Therwe ere sensational wind-ups in last evening's tournament, Dr. Allen winning his rink in a whirlwind finish. At intervals excitement ran fever high. Without doubt, "Herb" Martin covered the most ground. It is the current opinion that Harold Freeman should have been a surveyor. With care and precision he measures the tangle of bowls. Then, slowly rising, he will instruct his team mates at the other end what bias to take.

It is poor place to demonstrate the art of surveying, and some fear that Mr. Freeman will get a crack on the "noodle" some day when some over-anxious bowler refuses to wait for instructions.

Harold Freeman—"A real stunning shot."

At the close of the tournament, President D. Moore, in a brief address, expressed the pleasure and enjoyment experienced as a result of the Lindsay invasion. The visitors' presence added spice to the occasion, creating the competitive spirit and arousing enthusiasm.

A maximum of 7 points for each game won, and a credit of 13 points for three successive wins were rules agreed upon before the play started.

YOUNG COPS AND LEAFS IN TIE

Youthful Sleuths made Strong Finish in Bantam Game.

In an exciting finish to a well-played Bantam game at Exhibition Park last evening, Young Cops tied the Maple Leafs at 8 to 8.

Darkness overtook the teams as they batted through the last frame, and the backstops were unable to handle the fast ones from the pitchers.

The teams:

Young Cops — White, 3b; Collins, 1b; Deannard, lf; Cripps, c, cf; Cuffe, c; Grose, 2b; Sturgeon, 2b; Masterson, cf; Howden, rf; Gordon, rf.

Maple Leafs — Hope, ss; Abraham, 1b, p; McDonald, cf; Gamble, 3b; Sproule, p, 1b; Beavis, 2b; Armitage, lf; Payne, c; Cuthbertson, rf.

HASTINGS LOST BASEBALL GAME

Brighton won League Fixture And Is Now Tied With Colborne.

BRIGHTON, Aug. 16.—Brighton defeated Hastings in a League game played at Presqu Ile Point on Wednesday, and as a result the team is tied with Colborne for first place. The game was very hard fought and exciting, and Brighton won by scoring the tieing and winning runs in the ninth. Several disputes marred the game, and Manager Wellman of Hastings has entered a protest on the grounds that Solomon, Brighton shortstop, interfered with P. Lemoire when the latter was going to third. Both teams suffered from bad decisions. P. Lemoire swung at a ball which hit him, and yet Umpire Brennen permitted him to take his base. Both Hastings and Brighton players kicked on his calling of balls and strikes.

Stevenson started for Hastings and Roblin for Brighton, and while the offerings of both were pounded quite frequently, they pitched fair ball. Shannon relieved Roblin in the seventh and saved the game for Brighton. He allowed only one hit in the two and a third innings he worked.

Corey Scriver continued his hard hitting by means of two doubles and two singles. McKee, Brown and Roblin had two hits each for Brighton, as did Herrington, N. Scriver, Lemoire Brothers, Howard and Keogan for the visitors.

Brighton grabbed a three-run lead in the first inning, but Hastings fought back in determined style and Brighton was only leading 5-4 at the end of the sixth. Hastings then made their big bid for victory, scoring three runs. The Greys got one back in the seventh, and were one down coming into the ninth. Scriver doubled and Archer's drive to right would have been good for three sacks, but it was foul by four feet. He missed the next one as Scriver stole third. McKee bunted safely, Scriver scoring, and continued to second when the throw went past the uncovered first sack. Fred. Thorne singled to right and the game was over.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Hastings	012100300—7	14	2
Brighton	301100102—8	14	3

The teams:

Hastings—Herrington 1b, Stevenson p, N. Scriver c, Cruickshanks 2b, D. Lemoire 3b, P. Lemoire lf, Lambert m, Howard m, Collins ss, Keogan rf.

Brighton—Solomon ss, C. Scriver 2b, Archer m, McKee c, Thorne 1b, Brown lf, Walt rf, Langdon 3b, Roblin p, Shannon p.

Umpires—Brennen (plate) and Adams (bases).

Tied For Lead.

Colborne and Brighton are now tied for the leadership of the Northumberland League, due to Colborne's defeat in Campbellford, while Brighton was beating Hastings. Roseneath defeated Orland 16-2, and made the latter's chances of winning the second half very slim. The standing now is:

	Won	Lost	PC.
Brighton	3	1	.750
Colborne	3	1	.750
Roseneath	2	2	.500
Hastings	1	2	.333
Campbellford	1	2	.333
Orland	1	3	.250

FIRE AT WARSAW.

Barn and Contents Destroyed Including Touring Car.

WARSAW, August 16. — Between one and two o'clock this morning the barn of Mr. Richard Dean, on the east side of the river, was destroyed by fire.

A touring car belonging to Mr. Starks of Toronto, was among the contents. A wagon, set of sleighs, and other implements belonging to Mr. Dean, was also destroyed.

The building is a small structure, and at the present time Mr. Dean is away from the village. It was said to-day that Mr. Starks carried no insurance on his car.

SHOOTING DUCKS OUT OF SEASON

Unsportmanlike and Illegal Practice Carried on in Vicinity of Rice Lake.

Incensed at reports that wild ducks are being shot in the vicinity of Rice Lake and also in the northern waters of the Kawartha system, officials of the Fish and Game Association are determined to bring the offenders to justice.

No blame is attached to American or other visiting tourists, as it is felt that the law-breakers are parties who are familiar with the territory and know the rounds.

The shooting season does not open until September 1, and more can be done towards the extinction of the duck in a week of the breeding season than probably months would do in the autumn.

The Fish and Game Association officials, aside from the illegal aspect of the practice, regard it poor sportsmanship, as one member remarked, "They are a bunch of cheap skates."

UNITED STATES AID FOR LEPERS

Plants for Cure of Deadly Disease Are On Their Way.

WASHINGTON, August 16. United Press. — The United States has extended a helping hand to the stricken lepers of Abyssinia. Twenty five Chaulmoogra plants, from whose fruit is drawn an oil that cures the disease, are now on their way to Ras Tarari, the prince regent.

A request for the plants was first transmitted to the Department of Agriculture several months ago through T. Clifford Hay, of Saxonburg, Pa., who had just returned from the African kingdom.

Because of the slow progress of medical science there, Hay said the Abyssinians had practically no means of fighting the dread ailment.

At first the request was refused. Each of the plants because of its rarity is worth a small fortune, and no one could be found to whom they could be entrusted.

Miss Viola Bayne, a representative of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian Church was finally drafted for the duty.

She has sailed for Aden from New York and will go to Addis Abbata, the Abyssinian capital, by way of Djibouti. She will be met by Dr. T. A. Lambie, a personal friend of the prince and an American.

Coincident with the gift to Abyssinia, another messenger of American good will is en route to Siam, from whence the chaulmoogra originally came. He is bearing a consignment of rare tropical fruit trees to King Rama the Sixth.

Included is a variety of the alligator pear, shade trees from the West Indies and Central America, cases of Florida lemons and oranges and many varieties of berries—all plants which are not either known or grown in Siam.

The chaulmoogra originally sent to this country from Bankkok have enabled the American government scientists to grow 3000 of the plants. Most of them since have been sent to Brazil, Ecquador, Venezuela, Colombia and other Latn-American countries where leprosy is prevalent.

MANY NATIONS RATIFY GENEVA CONVENTIONS

GENEVA, Aug. 16.— July has brought numerous notifications of ratification of League of Nations international conventions.

Italy announced she had ratified the convention for the suppression of international traffic in obscene publications. Germany filed her ratification of the treaty for the prevention of traffic in women and children which was signed at Geneva in 1921.

Austria recorded her official approval of the declaration which extends recognition of the right of countries which possess no seacoast to fly their national flags on ships engaged in commerce.

Finland gave notice of her ratification of the protocol which arranges for arbitration in disputes arising out of the operation of commercial contracts. Holland, in behalf of the Dutch East Indies, ratified the international convention for the simplification of customs formalities.

The whole of the brain never works at one time. It operates alternately in halves.

Canners of fruit and vegetables use great quantities of all kinds of boxes for shipping their products.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

NEW YORK'S SOUL BARED ON FILM.

'Broadway After Dark,' the screen version of the renowned Owen Davis play, coming to the Capitol Theatre, beginning Monday, is said to be an honest attempt to reveal via the screen the soul of the world's greatest city, to show that beneath the outward glare and glamour of the Great White Way human hearts are the same.

Into the making of this picture has gone the splendid direction of Monta Bell, a sterling all-star cast, and a great play. It is a simple story, but replete with intimate touches of Manhattan life which covers every phase of it, from the lowest to the highest points. The great Actors' Equity Ball, attended by every Broadway celebrity, is shown in every detail, fashionable "studio parties" are contrasted with the existence of the "hall-room" boys and girls.

The Broadway portrayed in this Warner Brothers' Classic of the Screen is the Broadway we all know, through fiction and observation, where flaming signs scintillate and syncopate, and where life is glowingly incandescent.

What happens after a pampered son of wealth forsakes his giddy moth-like life, and betakes himself to the cheap boarding house where struggling actors put up a decent front, are shown in this picture. Ralph Norton meets a little slavey, Rose Dulane, down on her luck, and unfortunate pair's daughter and tells her everything and—but why go further, it would only be to spoil an evening of delightful entertainment for you.

If you've read Zane Grey's novel, you'll want to see the picture. But whether you've read the book or not, you'll go see the production anyway, when we tell you that the picture is done entirely in color. And when we say entirely, we mean just that.

Speaking of screen thrills!

There's one that ought to leave a lifelong impression on everyone, who sees it down at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It's the avalanche scene in the Zane Grey Paramount picture, "Wanderer of the Wasteland," which opens at the Capitol next Thursday. Irvin Willat directed the production, which was adapted from the novel of the same name by George C. Hull and Victor Irvin.

It all comes about when one of the characters in the picture, who lives with his wife alone in the desert, gets it into his head that their daughter, Ruth, played by Billie Dove, who is teaching school in a far distant town, is not his daughter. In a fit of anger in the middle of the night he goes to the top of a slope behind their shack and starts throwing bolders down on to the shanty. The larger rocks carry smaller ones with them and start an avalanche that is a bear for realism. You've never seen anything quite like it before on the screen. As the madman stands on the edge of the cliff hurling over the rocks, his foot slips and he hurtles headlong down the precipice and is buried with the cabin under the mass.

Jack Holt, in the role of Adam Larey, has witnessed the whole thing, powerless to do anything. He leaves the desert and looks up the

IN MEMORIAM.

McILWAIN. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Ethel McIlwain, passed from us on 16th August, 1923.

Just one year ago you left us;
How we miss your loving face;
But you left us to remember
None on earth could fill your place.
You have gone to be with loved ones
Who have gone on long before;
They are waiting, watching for you,
Over on that golden shore.
Though your place on earth is vacant
And you'll come to us no more;
Yet again we hope, dear Ethel, to meet you
When our time on earth is o'er.
And in that land of song and beauty,
Parting hands are clasped no more,
When we meet again, dear one,
'Twill be when parting all is o'er.
And your days of pain and sorrow,
All your weary nights are past;
All earth's trials for you are ended—
You are safe in heaven at last.

—Sadly missed by Dad, Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

LOWER PRICES FOR POTATOES

Produce Plentiful on The Local Market This Morning.

Pickled remnants of the corns that once grew on human feet and were removed by the aid of the salve he was dispensing were exhibits of the colored gentleman in the purple and red robe and hat, who addressed a group of patrons on the farmers' market this morning. Across the way was a man who had "a little of every thing to sell", including razors and watches, and beside him was a loquacious young man selling packets of indestructible pen points, at fifty cents with a fountain pen and a pencil thrown in gratis. His commodities were pens in sealed packages, "that haven't seen the sunlight or daylight or Israelite since they were sealed. I thank you, and you will thank me when you use them".

The price of potatoes was still on the toboggan this morning, the favorite vegetable selling for 25 cents and 20 cents a peck. And there were plenty of them on sale. One vendor put in eighteen acres of potatoes this year.

In fact, everything was plentiful this morning. Products of garden and berry patch were having a brisk sale. Tomatoes were 10 cents a pound, with 6 quart and 11 quart baskets at 65 cents and a dollar, cucumbers were 50 and 65 cents in large baskets, pickling beets 50 cents a basket, and corn, which was scarce and soon picked up, was 25 cents a dozen. String beans were 5 cents a quart, cauliflower, also very scarce 10 and 15 cents apiece, parsnips 3 bunches for a quarter, carrots and onions a nickel a bunch, vegetable marrow 15 and 20 cents each, and big yellow Crown squash, 20 cents. Small, tight, green khol rabi and 15 cents each.

Apples were much in demand and there was a fairly large quantity on sale. Duchess and Yellow Transparents were 35 cents a peck, with small samples of the former at 25 cents, and an inoffensive-looking apple labelled the Catastrophe was 35 cents a peck also.

Red berries in the basket section were 15 cents a pound. On the open market, they sold for 20 cents a box or 2 for 35 cents, black berries were 15 cents a box, and thimbleberries were 20 cents. The ordinary black currants were selling at 25 cents a quart, and one lady upstairs had the "fragrant" black currants, with a pungent, delectable taste, at 2 boxes for a quarter. Green gages were 15 cents a quart, one vendor selling his big yellowish fruit at $1.15 a basket.

Honey on the market this morning was 15 and 20 cents a pound. One crate of pigs was priced at $8 a pair. Cream was 30 cents a pint, and butter and eggs were plentiful, the former selling at 38 and 40 cents a pound generally the latter from 29 to 32 cents a dozen.

Hens were 20 cents a pound, chickens 30 and 35 and ducks 30 cents.

AGED MAN WAS BADLY BEATEN

Gang of Young Men With Grudge Against Him, Put Him in Hospital.

BROCKVILLE, August 16 (Canadian Press). — Set upon and badly beaten by a party of intruders, to whose appeal for assistance for their damaged motor car he responded, Robert Gamble, a farmer living in the Township of South Crosby, near Morton Village, lies in the Kingston General Hospital with but small hope of recovery.

Gamble, who is over 50 years of age, is said to have a fractured skull, and his condition is most serious.

The attack is believed to have been the result of a long standing grievance by a party of men living in the neighbourhood against Robert Gamble, Clifford Earle, Levi Perrin, Milton Shook, and A. Gamble, on account of being refused admittance to a dance last winter.

At that time the party of young men arrived at the dance hall in an intoxicated condition, and those in charge of the affair refused them admission.

Gamble obtained a lantern for the purpose of rendering assistance to the men, who knocked at his door at a late hour at night, and was badly beaten by instruments as yet unknown, but believed to have been steel knuckles.

The gang also called at the home of Milton Shook, but being met by his father an elderly man, left without molesting him.

They next aroused A. Gamble, who refused to leave an upstairs balcony; while Clifford Earle received a terrific blow in the face the moment that he opened the door.

Calling upon Levi Perrin, they attempted similar violence but were beaten off and forced to take to their car.

WHO IS CHRIST?
WHO IS ANTI-CHRIST?

For centuries the warning has gone forth against the coming of Antichrist. People everywhere have been told to be on guard against the day when Antichrist should come and destroy the faith.

Antichrist has come, but in spite of the many warnings people have been deceived and their faith destroyed, until many to-day cannot discern who Christ is, and thus fall readily into the error of accepting Antichrist.

Is Antichrist a man, or a system of error? When did it come? How can it be recognized?

These and other interesting questions will be fully and scripturally answered in the FREE PUBLIC LECTURE to be given by

AMERICAN AIRMEN PLAN LONGER FLIGHT TO SOUTHERN GREENLAND

Abandon Proposed Base on Eastern Coast for 825-Mile Hop to Southwestern Point—Will Be Longest Jump Attempted.

AWAITING FAVORABLE WEATHER

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, August 18.—Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the United States army round the world flight, has decided to give up the proposed flight from Reykjavik to Angmagsalik, on the east coast of Greenland, and with Lieutenaint Erik Nelson, will fly instead to Fredericksdal, on the south western point of Greenland, a short distance from Cape Farewell.

Study Large Map

A correspondent yesterday found Smith and Nelson studying large maps of Greenland, making measurements of distance and deviation. The jump from Reykjavik to Fredericksdal will be the longest of all they have attempted in their world flight, about 825 miles. It is estimated that without stopping the airmen will be forced to fly about twelve hours.

Both Lieutenant Smith and Lieutenant Nelson appeared to be cheerful over the decision to go to Fredericksdal. Lieutenant Smith said he was very glad that the question of a landing place had been settled and that he and Nelson would make their start from Reykjavik on the first day that weather conditions are favorable.

Italian Arrives

While the correspondent was talking with the United States fliers, Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian airman who reached Reykjavik Sunday from Hoefne Hornafjord, called on Lieutenant Smith and handed him a letter from the United States air attache of the embassy in Rome. The letter was twenty days old.

The cruiser Raleigh, lying off Angmagsalik, Greenland, reported the wind was blowing at forty-six miles with a falling barometer Friday night. Conditions Saturday were worse and the vessel ran out to sea, clearing the ice.

The Richmond and Billingsley, stationed midway between Iceland and Greenland, encountered heavy seas and high winds, while the Reid, off Reykjavik, the present resting place of the aviators, reported good weather.

Asked if he were not tired of the long halt at Reykjavik, Lieut. Smith replied: "Yes, but we have plenty of time left for getting through. I am not worrying about that."

Lieutenant Erik H. Nelson, returning from his bath, said he hoped his next would be America. Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold was busily engaged in bringing his diary up to date, while Lieutenant John Harding Jr., said his only regret was that he had had to spend so much time in Reykjavik, whereas he would have preferred to have the leisure time in Paris.

Lieutenant Smith was interrupted not unpleasantly in his studies of his maps when a hotel maid brought him a letter containing a red rose, one of many which the fliers have received during their stay here.

Italian Joins American

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, August 18 Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian aviator, arrived here Sunday at 11.44 o'clock on a flight from Hoefn Horn afjord, where they landed Saturday from Farve Islands. He made a safe landing in the outer harbor.

Later the Italian plane was brought into the inner harbor and anchored between the planes of Lieutenant Smith and Lieutenant Nelson the American airmen.

It is still uncertain when Locatelli will leave Reykjavik, and where his next landing place will be. There is no hint that the Italian aviator has any idea of getting to the American continent before the United States fliers.

LAUGHED TWO WEEKS AGO - NOW THEY'RE WORRIED

The smile has gone from the faces of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., slayers of Bobby Franks. Two weeks ago, when the fight to save them from the gallows started, the two youths took the proceedings lightly, they laughed and joshed with each other. To-day it is different—the picture at the right shows the serious strained look that envelops the boys' faces. Perhaps they are now experiencing the "thrill" they sought in murder.

CHICAGO TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

"Schizophenia" or Split Personality New Mental Disorder Introduced.

FOURTH WEEK BEGINS

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Testimony of Dr. H. Douglas Singer, fourth alientist for the prosecution, that Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold Jr., were entirely normal when they kidnapped and killed 14 year old Robert Franks last May 21, was subjected Saturday to the expert cross-examination of Clarence S. Darrow, chief of the defense counsel.

The hearing to determine whether Judge John R. Caverly shall inflict the death penalty on the youths on their plea of guilty or shall impose penetentiary sentences upon the plea for mitigation of punishment was enlivened by frequent clashes of Mr. Darrow with the witness and again with Robert E. Crowe ,State's Attorney.

At adjournment the defense claimed these were net gains:

Admission by Dr. Singer that he had reached conclusions by observation and not examination; that a split personality, described by defense alienists as existing in both boys, "might be evidence toward a mental disorder"; that the present ages of both Loeb and Leopold are the critical times for developing "mental sickness," and that dream life might influence personality.

Dr. Singer did not deviate from his general declaration that he had found no evidence in his observations nor in the testimony of defense experts to sway him from his conclusion that there was "no evidence to indicate a diseased mind in either youth," and that they had displayed normal emotions and that their phantasy lives contained nothing abnormal.

One in 304 Hanged On Guilty Plea

The other line of the triangular plea of the defense, functional disorders of the endocrine gland systems, was not touched upon Saturday.

Mr. Darrow was gratified by getting into the record a statement by James Quinlin, at one time an official of the State Pnitentiary but now a lawyer, that 340 persons had pleaded guilty to murder in Illinois in the last ten years and that only one, Thomas Fitzgerald, nearly forty years old, had been hanged. Mr. Darrow's point was to bring out that no youths of the ages of Leopold and Loeb had paid the supreme penalty upon pleas of guilty, and that Mr. Crowe, who has termed the Franks case a "perfect hanging case," sentenced Fitzgerald.

Once during the short session Mr Crowe charged that the defense was trying to cheat the law. Mr. Darrow countered by accusing Mr. Crowe of having held Loeb and Leopold illegally while he forced confession from them. At another point the two argued heatedly when Mr. Crowe referred to the youths as "criminals."

"You are not trying to fool me, are you, Doctor?" presaged one of Mr. Darrow's tilts with the witness and, "You are not trying to avoid us are you?" heralded another. The doctor, retaining his calm under the inquistion by Mr. Darrow each time shot back invitations to try to find out.

"What other names do they use for "split personality" asked Mr. Darrow.

"Phantasies, delusions, illusions, mannerisms, &c.—they are all evidences of a split personality," replied Dr. Singer.

Introduce "Schizophrenic Person."

"The schizophrenic person" was a newcomer in the hearing. He was introduced by Dr. Singer in a book in which he had sought to define more definitely persons with split personalities. Mr. Darrow reading extensively from the work.

It was in that connection that the defense counsel obtained the admission from Dr. Singer that schizo-

MacDonald Joins The Hands of Herriot and Marx in Peace Clasp

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The story of the London conference closed Saturday night with a noteworthy incident. The singing of the documents was ended, and the British Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, was shaking hands all round. When he came to Chancellor Marx, the Prime Minister, still gripping the chancellor's hand, led him to where M. Heriott, the French premier, was standing surrounded by friends.

Without a word, so the story goes, Mr. MacDonald lifted M. Herriott's right hand and joined it with that of Dr. Marx. Then he stepped back, smiling genially while the Frenchman and the German tightened the grip and shook hands cordially.

Unqualified pleasure is expressed in all official quarters here at the success of the conference. King George and Brigadier General Dawes sent messages of congratulation to the Prime Minister. The delegates have all left London with the exception of M. Herriot and some of his colleagues. They will return on August 30 for final formalities and the signature of the proctols, provided the French and German Parliaments vote ratification. No difficulty is expected in the British or Italian Parliaments.

LATE J. MEHARRY FELL FIVE STOREYS

Two Men Met Death When Hoist Crashes to the Ground.

The funeral of the late W. J. Meharry who died Saturday morning in Jersey City will he held from the residence of his father W. H. Meharry, 42 Victoria Avenue. Rev. A. J. Langford officiating in the absence of the Rev. W. J. Gordon.

The deceased and one Frattale met their death on Saturday morning when a workman's elevator fell from the fifth floor to the basement of the Jersey Journal Building under course of construction in Jersey City. The latter died almost instantly while Mr. Meharry succumbed to his injuries later in the day.

The first to die was Samuel Frattale, a laborer, of 107 Lincoln avenue, Ridgefield Park.

The second death was that of a West New York man—William J. Meharry of 211A Eighth street. He is survived by his widow. He was foreman of the concrete gang.

In adition to injuries to the spine Meharry sustained two broken legs and internal injuries. His death at the City Hospital occured about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Frattale and Meharry were on the way to the top floor with a load of sand when the cable which hoisted the elevator snapped and the elevator crashed to the bottom.

Victim Beyond Aid.

Frattale died within ten minutes after the accident. Both were unconscious when the ambulance from the City Hospital arrived but Frattale was beyond aid, and while the surgeon was working over him, expired.

Michael, Burns running the elevator hoist, was taken to the Montgomery St station by Captain James Larkin where he told how the accident occurred.

The two men were riding on the elevator when it fell. There were two wheelbarrows full of brick being hoisted up at the time. When the elevator had nearly reached the second floor in the rear section of the new building the cable parted. the elevator of its own weight and with the additional weight of the two men and the bricks made a quick decent to the cellar.

Frattle, it is believed attempted to save himself and struck his head against steel guide rods around the elevator shaft in the cellar. His neck appeared to be broken, there was a deep gash in the chest near the left shoulder from which a quantity of blood poured; his right arm was broken and he was thought to have received other internal injuries.

Both men were employed by the W. H. & F. W. Cain Company, which is the contracting builder. Meharry was known to his fellow-workers as "Tom."

Frattle, it was learned, was unmarried and boarded at the address in Ridgefield Park.

An investigation is being conducted by the Jersey City police in efforts to fix the responsibility for the acident.

The body of Meharry was last night brought to the undertaking parlors of S. R. Sharpe Com'y in Union Hill where Masonic services were held.

The Masonic services were under the auspices of Bluestone Lodge No. 213, F. and A. M. North Hudson Chapter. No.; 50, R. A. M.; Super Excellent Council, No. 13, R. and S. M.; New Jersey Consistory Valley of Jersey City and Salaam Temple, A. A. O. M. M. S. of Newark.

NEWSPRINT TOO DEAR.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18. — Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian proprietor of the London Daily Express, who is staying here, believes that Canadian producers of newsprint will soon have to cut the price of their product. "Canadian firms are getting too high a price for newsprint at present and the price is sure to come down," said His Worship. "By this time next year it will not be so high as it is to-day."

AGREEMENT SIGNED BY ALLIES AND GERMANS TO ESTABLISH DAWES PLAN OF REPARATIONS REGARDED AS DAWN OF HAPPIER DAY FOR WORLD

LOAN TO GERMANY AND PRINCIPLE OF ARBITRATION FEATURES OF AGREEMENT

Meeting for Formally Signing Documents Fixed for August 30—Germany Pledges Enforcement of Plan for Economic Rehabilitation.

LONDON, August 18.—The agreements concluded Saturday night by the London conference takes the form of a final protocol with four annexes. The final protocol is a brief document in French and English. It is signed by Ramsey MacDonald, as President, by Secretary General Sir Maurice Hankey, the Allied secretaries, the German secretary and a representative of the reparation commission.

The potocol states that the President informed the representatives of the powers and of the reparation commission assembled at the Foreign Office that all the Governments concerned and the reparation commission have confirmed their acceptance of the Dawes plan, and that by means of the conference certain agreements annexed to the protocal have been signed or initialled by the parties concerned.

Not Formally Signed

These agreements are mutually inter-dependent and cannot be varied except that the dates will be advanced, as the original dates presupposed that the first steps would be taken on August 15. The parties concerned will meet later in London to attach formal signatures to the documents, which have not been signed, and a certified copy of the agreements as concluded between the Allies will be communicated to Germany.

Pledge to Carry Out Plan

Annex I of the protocol is the agreement of August 9 between the reparation commission and Germany, whereby Germany agrees to take necessary measures to promulgate and enforce the laws required to carry out the Dawes plan in the for approved by the reparation commission, especially relating to the bank of issue, the railways and industrial debentures, and to apply certain provisions regarding control of the revenues assigned as security for the annuities.

Will Facilitate Loan

The reparation commission undertakes to do its best to carry out the Dawes plan, particularly in the way of facilitating a loan, nd both the reparation commission and Germany agree to help to carry out any additional agreements, including arrangements for modifying the Dawes plan. If there is a disagreement on the interpretion of the provisions, the dispute shall be submitted to arbitration.

Annex three of the protocol embodies agreements which the conference reached for dealing with sanctions to be applied by the Allies to Germany in the event of her possible default under the Dawes plan, restoration of Germany's economic unity and the setting up of a transfer committee to receive and distribute reparations in kind from Germany.

Successful Conclusion to London Conference After 30 Days of Deliberation.

FRANCE TO EVACUATE RUHR WITHIN YEAR

Premier MacDonald Wins Admiration of Delegates as Chairman of Conference.

"FIRST PEACE TREATY"

Protocol of Settlement Now Referred to Individual Governments for Ratification.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Peace between France and Germany came one step nearer Saturday night when the representatives of the Allied powers and Germany assembled in Premier MacDonald's room in the Foreign Office and signed or initialed a protocol providing the means for putting into effect the Dawes plan, designed to settle the perplexing reparations problem. The London conference after thirty trying days, was thus brought to a successful conclusion.

Premier MacDonald as President of the conference, presided at the meeting, which was attended by about 200 delegates and experts from the various powers. The session was strictly informal and lacked spectacular features, as the entire conference has.

A Business Meeting.

It was a business meeting in a business office, and more like a directors' conference than a diplomatic function. The British Prime Minister and Premiers Herriot and Theunis of Belgium, Chancellor Marx of Germany, Ambassador Kellogg of the United States, Baron Hayashi of Japan, and Professor de Stefani of Italy, all made brief addresses expressing their satisfaction over the successful conclusion of the conference.

M. Herriot said: "We see the ARMY OF OCCUPATION STARTS TO MOVE OUT.

To-day Sees First Move Towards a Re-establishment of Peace in Europe—Official Orders Quickly Issued and Obeyed.

HERRIOT WILL FACE STRONG OPPOSITION.

(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, August 18.—To-day sees the first move towards re-establishment of peace in Europe under terms of the London pact when Franco-Belgian troops occupying Offenburg and Appenweir, towns of Baden, start moving out.

The towns have been occupied since February 4, 1923, when the Germans suppressed international trains running between Paris, Warsaw and Prague, the International train service was restored some time ago.

Official orders for the withdrawal of the French and Belgian troops were given on Sunday only a few hours after the inter-Allied Conference in London had signed the protocols of the London pact. The orders call for evacuation of the troops starting to-day.

Premier Herriott, socialist leader and Chief French negotiator at the London conference on application of the Dawes report, will return to Paris amidst the spontaneous plaudits of his faction, the socialists. Already the radical group has planned a big celebation at the Saint Lazaire station while the city of Dieppe is preparing a municipal welcome. The French people apparently have decided to accept the London agreements and are willing to experiment with the Dawes plan for new relations towards Germany. The people are not much stirred over the evacuation of Appenweir and of Offenburg, which starts to-day, but are more anxious to know what the London pact will do towards living questions.

In the proposed evacuation of the Ruhr the people are asking whether the cost of living will be lowered and whether they will pit cheaper or more expensive coal this winted. It is confirmed now that the opposition is preparing to attack Herriot in that they claim through his acceptance of the pact of London he practically agreed upon cancellation of the Treaty of Versailles.

Long Way Yet To Go, Says MacDonald, And Work Of Peace Is Only Beginning

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Characterizing the agreements reached as the first negotiated agreement since the war and more "the first peace treaty," inasmuch as the delegates at the conference had turned their backs on war and war mentality, Premier MacDonald addressed the delegates to the international London conference before they left the Foreign Office Saturday night.

Addressing Chancellor Marx, Mr. MacDonald spoke of the difficulties the German ministers face. He knew their burdens were heavy, he said, and their people might not be too happy at the results achieved, but he commended Germany to study the system of arbitration agreed upon, where defects in the Dawes plan might be removed.

Work Only Beginning.

The Premier said: "The period of national isolation is ended, and that of exchange of views and of reasonable exchange of experiences has begun. That is the advance the London conference has made. However, our work is only beginning and we must continue step by step the work of peacemaking and restoration. There is a long way to go before we reach the goal of European peace and security, but I think we are on the right road."

Premier MacDonald went on to point out other unsolved problems.

"There is the question of the inter-Allied debts," he said, "the question of disarmament and national security, the question of the composition and authority of the League of Nations, the question of doing justice to arbitration. None of these is a simple problem, none of them solvable by sacrificing one nation to the interests of another. They all require international agreement between peoples whose representatives are on terms of absolute equality and who are absolutely free to accept or reject the proposals.

Economic Obstacles.

There is another great class of danger which we have to face. I refer to the economic problems which are bound to arise as soon as the central European powers find their feet. There will be an attempt on the part of soulless international combines, using the weapon of political pressure to subordinate the common interests for their own. The defense of national interests and well-being against such moves must receive the most careful consideration and firm action of democratic governments.

"The all-important thing today is that we should be sure that we are on the right road. I am sure that, however prolonged or brief may be the rule of each of us—mere straws in puffs of popular favor—we have every reason to be proud that it has been our good fortune to take part in this historic conference."

MANDALAY RIOT; POLICE KILLED

Buddhist Procession Fired on Military Police—Political Demonstration.

MANY INJURED

LONDON, August 18.— Serious riots broke out Saturday at Mondalay, Upper Burma, according to a Rangoon despatch to the Exchange Telegraph. Two priests and two policemen were killed and many police and civilians injured. The rioting occurred during the course of a Burmese procession through the main streets in connection with a political demonstration led by a Buddhist priest named Okama, a well known home ruler.

The procession, which included many Buddhist priests, assumed a truculent attitude when asked to keep clear of the tram lines and men aced the military police. Some of the armed processionists are reported to have fired on the police, who returned the fire.

The Burmese are greatly agitated and the city is in a disorderly state.

COLLINS REMEMBERED.

Dublin Ceremony On Second Anniversary of Death.

DUBLIN, August 18 (Canadian Press). — The second anniversary of the deaths of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins was commemorated yesterday by a state ceremony at the cenotaph in Leinster Lawn, Dublin, and by a military parade through the city.

More than 2,000 troops, including a ibranches of the service, and several hundred civic guards, participated in the parade.

Governor-General Healy and all the Free State ministers, together with judges and various officials and relatives of Griffith and Collins, were present at Leinster Lawn, where a solemn and impressive ceremony was held.

President Cosgrave, in an oration, said the people of Ireland looked forward to the day when United Ireland would join in commemorating the greatness of the services of Griffith and Collins.

"The unity of Ireland was beyond their power to achieve in their time," said Mr. Cosgrave. "Let us recognise how much they did achieve."

HARVEST HANDS CAUSE TROUBLE

One With Whiskey Bottle Directed Traffic at North Bay Corner.

RAIDED HOTEL BAR

NORTH BAY, Aug. 18.—Harvester's excursions have already started trouble in the Northern towns through which they pass. Saturday morning, one Canadian Pacific excursion stopped here and while engines were being changed, harvesters started uptown. Waving a whiskey bottle in one hand, one took charge of traffic at Main and Ferguson streets and others raided the Temperance Bar of nearby hotel and did considerable damage. There were only two town police on duty at that hour and both were engaged elsewhere at the time and when they got to the station, the wanted men all mixed in the crowd and it was impossible to identify them. Chief Clarke is arranging to have a full force on duty whenever harvester trains are due hereafter and may ask the council Monday night for more men.

KABUL JUSTICE STIRS ITALIANS

Engineer Sentenced to Death for Killing Policeman Sent to Arrest Him.

COLONY EXCITED

PESHAWAR, British India, August 18.—The Italian colony of Kabul, Afghanistan, is in a state of great excitement and a number of Italians have left the country because of an incident involving an Italian engineer, who has been sentenced to death, according to advices reaching here.

It is stated that the engineer was summoned before the police because of a brawl in the Kabul post office. Refusing to attend, the police went to his house to arrest him. He is said to have refused to allow them to enter, and when they attempted to break in he shot and killed one of them.

Later, the engineer, with two compatriots, surrendered. He was tried and sentenced to death by the lower courts, but the sentence still awaits confirmation by the third highest court. It is reported that negotiations are under way for a settlement by "blood money" in accordance with a tribal custom. The Italian residents assert that the engineer did not have a fair trial according to the Italian ideas of justice.

SIX DROWNED.

Rowboat Upset in St. Lawrence River at Montreal —Three Saved.

MONTREAL, August 18 (Canadian Press). — Three men and three women disappeared and are considered drowned, and two men and one woman were saved, when the rowboat in which they were crossing from the island of Moutreal to Bou cherville Islands capsized [illegible] esterday morning in the River St. Lawrence in the east-end of the city.

The missing are. Hector Deslauriers, 18; Leo Boyer, 24; Mrs. Leo Boyer, 23; Gertrude Leduc. 24, and a man and woman from Viauville, whose names have not yet been ascertained.

BARN AND CROP GO UP IN FLAMES

On Warsaw Road, Near Canal—Curtis Bros.' Barn Destroyed By Fire Sunday Morning.

Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, the barn belonging to Curtis Bros., on the Dixon property, about ½ mile east of the canal, on the north side of the Warsaw Road, was destroyed by fire.

The building contained between 75 and 80 tons of new hay, and before the fire was discovered, the whole inside of the barn was enveloped in flames, rendering it impossible for the many who flocked to the scene to do anything.

The loss has been estimated at $2,000, and it was said to-day that the owner carried $550 insurance on the barn.

The exact cause of the fire is unknown.

TARIFF ONLY ISSUE.

Conservative Candidate in Montreal Addresses Negroes.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—Addressing the Universal Negroes' Improvement Association here Sunday Wm. M. Birks, Conservative candidate for St. Antoine Division laid it down that there was only one question before the electors to-day and that whether they should betray their birthright and vote for the free trade Liberal Government under the influence of the western Progressives, or support the national policy of protection for Canadian industries and workmen. He made his plea for election as a straight supporter of a protectionist policy for Canada as the only means of regaining and holding our national prosperity.

CHALICE STOLEN BLAME THE KLAN

Two Men Entered Sarnia Catholic Church and Extracted the Host.

SARNIA, Aug. 18.— (Canadian Press)—Police to-day are searching for two men who last week are alleged to have driven up to the Roman Catholic Church here in a car bearing a Michigan license, entered the edifice, broke open the tabernacle and extracted the host. The crime committed shortly after mass on Thursday morning and the tabernacle had to be smashed in order to get the Chalice. In the afternoon of the same day a woman in the church saw two men enter and throw something into the confessional box. She informed the Rev. Father McCarthy, parish priest, of what she had seen and on making an investigations he found the Chalice and part of its contents. Members of the Klu Klux Klan are blamed for outrage.

THE GUMPS—PULL FOR THE SHORE

IN MILLBROOK THE DISTRICT

Kenneth Fallis Figured in a Runaway—Decoration Day Service.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 18. — Kenneth Fallis, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Fallis Line, met with a painful accident on Saturday while driving the rake in a wheat field on his father's farm. In some way the tongue broke and the horses, maddened by the sharp wood which pierced their heels, ran away, jumping completely over a wire fence and were not caught until some time afterward at a considerable distance from their owner's home.

Kenneth who clung pluckily to the reins, was dragged several yards, had both eyes blackened, and side, knee and hand severely injured. Medical aid was necessary on Sunday when the ill effects of the accident became more seriously felt.

Oat Competition

The results of the competition in oats, held under the auspices of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, have been announced as follows:

1. Kennedy Bros. Millbrook, 2 George Bonner, Millbrook; 3 Harold Tate, South Monaghan; 4. W. Brown Millbrook, 5 L. H. Winslow, Ida; 6. W. R. N. Sharpe, Ida; 6 Robert McKnight, Millbrook.

The prizes are the same as were given in the fall wheat competition, and include respectively: $20, $15, $12 $10, $8, $6, and $4.

The combined Standing Field Crop and Threshed Grain competition for which registered seed is compulsory, has not been entered into in this vicinity this season.

Decoration Day

The annual Decoration Day service, under the auspices of Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 308, was held on Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian cemetery, the gathering for the occasion being a large one.

About fifty members of the local lodge, headed by the Millbrook band, paraded from the I.O.O.F. Hall to the Soldiers' Memorial in the town hall square and placed flowers at the base of the monument in memory of Brother B. Elliott who paid the supreme sacrifice in France on November 13th, 1917. A brief address was made by Brother A. J. Henderson, P.G., and all joined in singing, "Blest be the tie that binds".

Upon reaching the cemetery the members of "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, joined the Oddfellows for the service, and the following programme was carried out under the leadership of Brother Wilbert Thorne, N.G.,

Hymn, "Nearer my God to Thee," led by the band under the leadership of Mr. G. A. Duncan.

Opening Address, by the Noble Grand Bro. W. Thorne.

Prayer, by the Chaplain, Bro. V. R. Hunter, P.G.

Reading Names of Departed Brethren, by Bro. P. I. Bentley, P.G.

Hymn, 'Blest be the tie that binds', the band leading.

Address by Brother (Rev.) N. R. McLeod, pastor of Park Street Baptist church, Peterboro.

Band Selection.

Closing Address by the Noble Grand.

Hymn, "Safe in the arms of Jesus",

Closing Prayer by the Chaplain.

Decoration of graves.

The address by Rev. Mr. McLeod who was heard in Millbrook for the first time, was particularly appropriate to the occasion, the speaker giving some concrete illustrations of the practical benefits of Oddfellowship along philanthropic lines. Basing the second half of his address upon the eleventh chapter of John's gospel, which depicts the raising of Lazarus, three points were emphasized: (a) the need of faith, (b) the limitations of sorrow, (c) the life union with Jesus Christ.

The graves decorated, and the chairmen of the committees in charge, were:

Presbyterian cemetery: Bro. W. S. Given, P.G., Bro. W. O'Brian, Bro. Edward Kerr, Bro. John Hicks, P.G., Chairman, Bro. H. R. Armstrong, P.G.

Gardiner's cemetery (Methodist): Bro. Walter Gillott, Bro. John Bateson, Bro. Harry Dunford, P.G., Bro. Robert Fallis, Bro. Ed. Richardson, Chairman, Bro. P. I. Bentley, P.G.

St. John's (Anglican): Bro. Thos. Hutchison, Bro. John Tinney, Bro. H. A. Wood, Bro. F. Ritson, Bro. B. Van Homreigh, Bro. W. D. Leach, P.G., Chairman, Bro. V. R. Hunter, P.G.

9th Line Cemetery—Bro. Stanley Grandy, chairman; Bro. V. R. Hunter.

Frazerville—Bro. Bert Elliott Memorial Cross), Bro. David Baxter, chairman; Bro. E. R. Armstrong, P.G.

Centreville — Bro. Fred Deyell, chairman; Bro. J. Isbister.

Bailieboro—Bro. J. D. Perrin, chairman, Bro. W. Byers.

Fourth line—Sister Robins McCamus, Sister Zella Bentley, P.N.G., in charge.

Several carloads of Rebekahs were in attendance for the Decoration services at Sister McCamus' grave.

Miss Laura Clarke, B.A., of Weyburn, Sask., is the guest of Mrs. S. E. Eakins.

Mrs. (Dr.) Montgomery of Embro, is visiting Miss M. Needham.

OSHAWA MOTORS WIN FIRST GAME

Held to Tie for Five Innings by Methodists and Then Ran Up Ten.

INTERMEDIATE O.B.A.A.

OSHAWA, August 18 (Special to The Examiner). — A first round game in the play-offs of the Intermediate series of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association took place at Alexandra Park here on Saturday afternoon, when Oshawa Motors, champions of the Durham and Ontario League, defeated the Methodists, who won the honours of the Oshawa Church League by 15 to 5, in eight innings, the game being called on account of rain.

The spark plugs led the parade up to the end of the fourth frame, 5 to 2, but the church lads chased three runs across in the fifth, and evened up the score, after which Spragge, who was doing the heaving for the representatives of the Church League, faltered, and when his help behind him issued three juicy errors, he walked three batters in the remaining three frames which accompanied by eight safe clouts, among which were a home run and two extra base hits, ten runs were chased over the pan by the Motor crew, and the first of home and home games to decide which team would represent the "Baby City" in the second round of the O.B.A.A. Intermediate was won.

Webster, who is an ex-Brantford boy, worked on the rubber for the D. and O. champions, and turned in a fine performance, allowing only seven hits, five of which were bunched in the fourth and fifth, issued two walks, and made twelve of the 35 batters that faced him go out by the strike-out route.

The return game will be played on Wednesday evening of this week, and the third game, if necessary, on Saturday afternoon next.

The line-ups of the teams and the score by innings were as follows:

Methodists—Langmaid, 2b; Harris, cf; Barker, 1b; Alger, 3b; Kellow, ss; Perkins, lf; Whattam, rf; Spragge p; Nott, c.

Motors—Hall, ss; Thompson, 2b; C. Bennett, cf; Critney, lf; Jubb, c; G. Bennett, rf; Hobbs, 1b; McDougall, 3b; Webster, p.

Methodists ..... 00023000— 5 7 7
Motors ..... 11030154—15 15 5.

Umpires—Roy Murphy at plate, Si Del on bases, both of Oshawa.

YOUTH AND TWO DAMSELS GAOLED

Girls Say He Loves Both of Them.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 18.— Wilfred Courneyea, 18, of Tweed, with his two youthful sweethearts and the car owned by Earl Jones from Thomasburg and stolen one week ago were brought to the city at 3 o'clock on Saturday morning by Provincial Constable S. Elliott.

Seperated from the friends who accompanied him on his rampage, Courneyea now sits in his cell, while the two girls sit together in the woman's cell room.

The unforunate damsels admit having run away with the youth, who they claim loves both of them. Having never seen the inside of a goal before, to-day the girls want their mothers.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Evidence of Inspector Nugent and Detective Truaiseh Strong Against the Defence.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 18. — On charges of shop-breaking and theft David Sharkey was committed for trial by Police Magistrate R. Casement at Madoc, following the preliminary trial on Friday.

He will now remain in goal until the fall assizes.

FIRE AT ASYLUM.

MONTREAL, August 18 (Canadian Press). — Fire of an unknown origin broke out on Saturday in a large barn of the St. eJan de Dieu Hospital for the Insane at Longue Point, and caused damage estimated at $50,000.

A large number of animals in the barns were saved.

Keep the car well lubricated.

HERRIOT ASKS U. S. HELP TO EFFECT PEACE

Appeals For Support in Carrying Out Reparations Plan and Starting Anew..

TURN NEW LEAF.

French Premier Says Volume of History Completed and Europe Faces New Era.

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent, Copyright.)

LONDON, August 18. — "I appeal to the United States to support Europe in carrying out the Dawes plan — and we will depend upon America's help."

In an exclusive interview with the United Press just before leaving for Paris to-day, Premier Herriot of France discussed what he believed to be the outstanding results of the successful conference on applying the Dawes reparation report, and appealed particularly for American help to make the Dawes plan effective.

"We have reached an agreement—now comes the work of executing the Dawes plan in the same spirit in which it was conceived," Herriot said.

"We are writing "Finis." on the old volume of European history, and are beginning a new one.

"Upon the public opinion of the various nations depends whether our successful work here means the dawn of a new era for Europe and for the world."

The stocky and solid Herriot, still pale and drawn as a result of the long and foodless series of conferences on Saturday which finally resulted in the complete success of the Premiers' meeting, was sitting in the conservatory of his hotel, his elbow on the table and his chin cupped in his hand as he gave his interview.

"We will need America's help," he said.

"I appeal to the United States to support Europe in carrying out the Dawes plan, and we depend on America's help. You must give it to us.

"American public opinion has been helpful in the present conference, and it will be needed to carry on the work of removing the war's scars and starting anew.

"I feel that the conference is a success. But upon our work hereafter depends whether we consolidate and succeed. The good spirit of all participating is necessary if we are to trust instead of distrust."

Praises French.

"The present conference differs widely from past ones in its general atmosphere," Herriot continued. "I feel that it was due to the spirit of the French people that an agreement was possible. It was their ardent desire for peace that enabled them, who suffered most in the war, to sacrifice most in bringing peace. I feel that the success of the conference is due to the fact aside from the general interallied feeling of mutual trust, and the valuable aid of the American delegates, that France, at the breaking point in the first phase of the conference offered a completely new formulae to overcome the disagreement regarding means of declaring possible German defaults and imposing resultant sanctions.

"We offered a new way for settling treaty disputes—arbitration to a point never dreamed of. The extent of our sacrifice may be seen by remembering how it differs from the previous formula. The many forms of arbitration provided in the London agreement are France's contribution to the new era. They may prove to be a new chapter in international law and international relations because never in history have there been such safeguards against dangers of international disagreements.

"Now," Herriot concluded, "we must get to work to execute the Dawes' plan. France's sacrifice written plainly in the London agreement, validates the Dawes plan, and I ask the United States of America to help us and the world in winning the fruits of our efforts for peace."

CALOMEL TONIGHT!
HOT WATER IN THE MORNING

To rise in the morning feeling full of pep, no headache, drowsy or tired feeling, nasty taste in the mouth, coated tongue, backache, constipation and no more gas on the stomach after eating; if you will only get a few simple Tanol Calomel Tablets from your druggist and take two before meals or two at bedtime, and a cup of good hot water in the morning to wash all the previous day wastes, poisons and toxins from the bowels, kidneys, stomach and liver before more food is taken in. Be sure you get Tanol Calomel, for it is the only medicine known that acts upon the liver, and no salts or seidlits powders are needed to remove it from the system like ordinary calomel.

Try this simple treatment for a week or ten days, and I am sure you will feel 100 per cent. better in every way. Tanol Calomel Tablets are sold only by F. C. Webber, Charlotte street.

CHICAGO FINAL

phenia, the inclination of parts of the personality to split off, is more likely to develop into insanity in intelligent persons of the aproximate ages of Loeb and Leopold than in others.

There is only one remaining witness, Dr. W. O. Khohn of Chicago a veteran expert witness in murder trials, and regarded as the prosecution's "age." Attorneys estimated that a day and a half would suffice for hearing his testimony, permitting arguments in the hearing to be started possibly Wednesday morning.

Mr. Darrow brought out that Dr. Singer had collaborated in writing a book about "insanity and the law," leading up to the accusation that Dr. Singer had examined Loeb and Leopold in violation of their constitutional rights while they were in the custody of Robert E. Crowe.

Mr. Crowe arose and engaged Mr. Darrow in a wordly combat. The prosecutor maintained that Loeb and Leopold had not been forced to talk while he held them, that once they had starttd talking he could not stop them.

"You are not trying to enforce the law, you are trying to cheat it," Mr. Crowe accused Mr. Darrow.

'Strike it all out, Mr. Reporter' said Judge Caverly, ending the argument.

Denies Slayers are "Criminals."

Another tilt was precipitated, however, as Mr. Darrow insisted on a "yes" or "no" answer to his question. "You could not tell by looking at them whether they had a mental disorder?" repeated four or five times, with Dr. Singer trying to reply by qualifying.

Mr. Crowe interrupted with an objection that "Mr. Darrow is trying to force the witness to soy something."

"Why didn't you tell them to get a lawyer instead of violating their sonsitutional rights?" hurled back Mr. Darrow.

In his reply Mr .Crowe referred to Loeb and Leoplod as "criminals."

"Now," shouted Mr. Darrow, "you have no more right to call these boys criminals than I have."

"What's the matter?" Mr. Crowe shot back. "They are confessed murderers, aren't they? You are not pleading insanity, are you? If you are, let's call a jury."

"I am not calling juries," replied Mr. Darrow.

The defense chief counsel resumed his cross-examination.

"Doctor you heard questions put repeatedly to each one of the youths and they answered all by saying they refused to answer on the advice of counsel?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"Yes, but not in those words; they were more precise," replied Dr Singer. "I heard Leopold say to the Sheriff that he was in his care, but he protested."

"You didn't say anything to the Sheriff about giving Loeb his constitutional right?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"No," replied Dr. Singer.

"Were you able to make up your mind whether they had any mental disorders that day?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ever see them again until they came into this courtroom?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ever ask them any questions?"

"No."

"Did you have any opinion as to whether they had any mental disorder when they were in the State's Attorney's office?"

"Yes, I have this opinion, that what I had observed showed no evidence of mental disease."

Darrow in Fighting Trim.

Mr Darrow was pounding hard at the witness, roaring his questions in a constant stream. His long hair had fallen forward over his eyes, as he gestured with his fingers, arms, head and body. At times his voice dropped to a low, lulling hum. He then was getting replies that suited him, only to repeat the favorable replies in a resounding baritone.

For a man of 67, Mr. Darrow was displaying remarkable energy. At times he teetered on toes and heels, he would drop his hands lower and give yanks to his loose trousers. His coat sleeves rippled constantly even when his gestures were confined to short jerks of his hands.

MATTHEWS RETURNS.

Police Escort Former Deputy Treasurer Back to Toronto.

TORONTO, August 18. — Charles A. Matthews, Jr., the former Deputy Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, is back in Toronto to answer a charge of accepting secret commissions while in office, preferred against him on instructions of Hon. W. F. Nickle, the Attorney General.

At 9.47 (Central Time) last night, the "New Yorker," the fast train operated by the Canadian National Railways and the Lehigh Valley, between Chicago and New York, reached Port Huron.

Among passengers were Matthews Patrick J. Farrelly, United States Immigration Officer in charge of deportation of the former Deputy Provincial Treasurer, and Inspector A. G. Boyd of the Ontario Provincial police.

There was no delay in crossing the border, the proceedings were purely formal. Farrelly handed to the waiting Canadian imigration officers the United States deportation orders. Matthews was admitted and transferred into the custody of Boyd to proceed to Toronto.

On its arrival in Hamilton at 2.45 this morning, an automobile was waiting with Inspector W. H. Stringer of the Provincial Police in charge Matthews and Boyd quietly left train and were driven into Toronto.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Oddfellows Observe Decoration Day at Mount Pleasant Cemetery—For Poison Ivy.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 18.—Thirty-two members of the local lodge of Oddfellows paraded to Mount Pleasant Cemetery Sunday afternoon and laid wreaths upon the graves of their departed brethren. The attendance was not up to the standard of former years as a number of the members were attending funeral in Stirling. R. Dunk, D.D.G.-M., marshaled the procession, which was headed by the Northumberland Regimental Band which rendered sacred airs with their usual efficiency both on the march and at the cemetery.

The address was delivered by Rev. Weslesy Elliott, of the Methodist Church.

Since the decoration services a year ago only one member of the logde has been laid at rest in the cemetery, E. C. West, formerly Town Clerk of Campbellford.

A Monument by no Grave

In Mount Pleasant Cemetery there is a white marble shaft the only inscription on which reads: "Lovica Ann Dorie's Plot". There is no grave in plot which is just large enough for one last resting place.

The monument was put up about 20 years ago by Mrs. Lovica Ann Dorie, mother of Deputy Reeve Dorie, whose husband who was of a different faith is buried in St. Mary's Cemetery and was erected in anticipation of her own death. Mrs. Dorie is still living, hale and hearty at the age of 94, with a daughter in Toronto and her children are hopeful that it will be some time before her name is cut on the tombstone.

Mrs. Dorie and her late husband formerly resided on a farm at Stanwood, where they raised a large family.

Engine Broke Down.

Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Colborne, formerly of the Mark Street Methodist Church, Peterborough, spent Sunday in Campbellford, the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Elliott.

Mr. Whattam was on his way in a motor boat to spend his holidays at Bobcaygeon, but when he reached this vicinity his engine broke down, and he had ti lay up until the damage was repaired.

He was elected president of the Bay of Quinte Conference in 1923, and has worked in a large field since leaving Peterborough.

Cure for Poison Ivy.

A resident of this town complained to the Council recently that poison ivp was growing near his house and he thought that some effort should be made to eradicate it and other noxious weeds. That resident probably did not know that wherever poison ivy grows there is always to be found another weed which is an infallible antidote.

When the Councils of four townships met near Allan's Mills a week ago to debate the question of repairing the road through the big swamp there, a resident of Campbellford, who was present and who has a turn for nature study, ventured into the swamp, and in a short time set up a wail that he had been stung with poison ify. One of his wrists was as red as a boiled beet, and he was rubbing it furiously.

A farmer who was in the crowd told the martyr to botanical investigation not to worry, promising to have him all right in no time. Pulling a weed that grew by the roadside he squeezed the sap in the stalk upon the affected part, and in a few minutes the itch had disappeared, and the normal colour of the wrist was restored.

"Native is beneficent," philosophised the farmer for the enlightenment of the interested crowd. Wherever there is a disease a natural remedy has been provided. This weed grows wherever poison ivy or other stinging plants, such as nettles, are found, and th juice of it is a sure and swift specific. It is effective where the best medical skill fails.

The onlp name the farmer knew for the curative plant was Touch-Me-Not. Works on botany call it the Jewel Weed, The Humming-Bird Flower, The Speckled Jewel, Wild Balsam, and Touch-Me-Not.

It is given the latter designation because the pods on the plant will burst on the slightest touch and scatter their seeds around. It is known as "The Humming Bird Flower," because if it grows where such birds are found they extract honey from the orange flowers which it bears. The term Jewel is applied to it because the stem is semi-transparent and when held between the observer and the sun looks like silver.

A resident of Campbellford was stung by poison ivy some time ago, and suffered intensely until relieved by applications of the sap of the Jewel weed, which grows on low land in this vicinity. It was a favorite remedy with the Indians for all skin diseases.

Campers need have little efar of poison ivy if they are able to identify the antidote.

The bill at the Regent for this week is as follows:

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday — The feature picture is "Hell's Hole." A portrayal of episodes in the career of Andy Gump will provide the comedy.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Hoot Gibson in "The hroll Chaser" and another episode of "Haunted Valley," with Ruth Poland as the star.

On Monday and Friday nights, electric reading lamps will be given away to the holders of the lucky numbers.

HOUSE BURNS ON MR. S. OKE'S FARM

Local Fire Brigade Arrived at Scene, But Unable to Stem Flames.

Early yesterday afternoon, the frame house on the farm of Mr Sam Oke, on the east side of the Communication Road, about one mile north of Smith Street, was destroyed by fire of an unknown origin.

The firemen were called to the scene but because of the advanced condition of the fire and the absence of water on the premises could render little assistance. Fortunately neither of the barns caught fire.

Mr. Oke lives in Peterboro and a Mr. Welsh, who works for Mr. Oke lived in the frame house on the farm. The furniture and all contents of the building were also destroyed.

HARDEST JOB OF ALL.

Years ago the slogan of business was, "Let the buyer beware." There were few exceptions. The general attitude was that business was a battle of wits, cunning against cunning, and that profit could only bemade at someone else's loss.

Traveling salesmen in those days were concerned only with getting a buyer's name on the dotted line. Once they had his signature, he had to accept the shipment or get sued.

That time is gone. For it's now realized that a dissatisfied customer doesn't come back a second time. Business used to exist mainly for the first order. Now it's out for repeat orders—to build up a lasting patronage. And its policy accordingly is based on giving full satisfaction. Concerns frequently accept a loss rather than displease a customer.

The Chesapeake & Ohio sends this logan to its railroad employees: "The customer is always right." The idea is that a railroad sells service and that the buyer of service is entitled to the same courteous and satisfactory treatment that he would get in a store. That's correct.

The customer, of course, is not always right—not by a long shot. But the general attitude, that he is always right, assures him of a square deal in cases where he is right and the seller wrong.

The hardest job in the world is handling the public—selling goods or service. The average person is never quite as unreasonable as when he is spending his money, particularly for necessities. The industries that sell him his amusement have him pretty well cowed.

The way a courteous and obliging clerk is imposed on and barked at by some customers is enough to make the blood of any fair-minded person boil.

These human beings who sell us store goods, railroad tickets and the like—let us keep in mind that they are human, not just business automatons, and that the sharp and unreasonable word stings them as much as it would us.

The campaign for courtesy in handling the public is fine enough. But it's about time we had some campaigns for courtesy by the public in its dealings with clerks and other agents of business. Most modern business transactions are mutually profitable. Both sides should be fair and kind.

A SATISFACTORY SEASON.

Discouraging weather conditions in the spring made the possibility of an average harvest in this Province seem rather dubious, but these fears have fortunately been dispelled with the advance of the season. The fall wheat came through the winter in unusually fine condition, and now, at harvest time, it is generally considered to be a crop somewhat better than average. The spring grains were sown late, and at first made slow progress, but during the past month they have come along so rapidly that in most parts of Ontario the yield will be close to average. The acreage sown to feed grains, however, was unavoidably smaller than usual, so that the total harvest of these grains will undoubtedly be considerably less than it was last year. This, coupled with the smaller harvest of oats in the West, may bring a comparative scarcity of feed before the winter is over, and this is possibly the most serious aspect of the situation from the Ontario farmer's point of view. On the other hand, hay—particularly alfalfa and the clovers—have given a good average yield, and silage corn, while late, promises to fill its usual place on the dairy farms. The outlook for a good crop of seed corn in the southwest, however, is not so bright, and depends largely on the weather from now on and on a late fall. Potatoes show every sign of a heavy yield in most of the counties, and roots are equally good.

All in all, the Ontario farmer has found the season a much more satisfactory one than early prospects warranted. The bottom had not fallen out of the dairy market in spite of the low levels of some months ago; eggs are higher than they were a year past, wheat promises to be a good cash crop, and hogs have made a sudden turn for the better. Should the West suffer a poor harvest, while it will be sincerely regretted in the East, the reaction is more likely to be felt in eastern industrial centres than on the farms. —Brockville Times and Recorder.

TALK IS NOT REALLY CHEAP.

Parliament has become a very talkative body. The average member of the Commons does not believe that so far as he is concerned—actions speak louder than words, says the Financial Post. In practice he proceeds more on this rule—you can't speak too long or too often.

It is difficult to say just how many words were spoken in Parliament during last session, but those who have attempted to figure it out have about come to the conclusion that a word was said for almost every man, woman and child in the country.

Here is how this is arrived at. The House of Commons Hansard for the session has 5,050 pages. Set solid it contains about 960 words to a page, which means about 4,850,000 words. Of course, all the pages are not solid, but on the other hand, some of the type is very small. So it about evens up. On the same basis of estimating the members of the Senate uttered about 960,000 words.

But these figures, which account for 4,850,000 words, make no allowance for the words spoken in committees. As some of these are in session sometimes for between two and three months, it is easy to see how the volume of words in these mounts up. Both Houses have their committees, and their number is increasing.

Senator McCoig has suggested that radio be substituted for Hansard. The proposal will not be popular among the members, for among other things it would do away with that veritable mine of information in the form of old speeches contained in Hansard, which are a never-failing inspiration, especially to those who are not prolific in ideas.

Talk is said to be cheap, but it costs money at Ottawa.

FANTASY AND FACT IN YOUTH.

At a recent conference of psychologists and educators the question of the proper direction of leisure-time activities was discussed from many points of view. Common-sense advice was given to the mature and especially to the aged who are considering retirement from regular business. It was generally admitted, however, that the problems presented by the play and leisure time of youth were far more complex and serious than any other which engaged the attention of the conference.

The day dreams, ambitions and fantasies of children, from nursery and kindergarten age, came up for discussion. Eminent psychologists emphasized the necessity of parental and school study of child fantasies. Rightly controlled, fantasy was declared to be "a rich possession of the human race." Most men create for themselves a world of fantasy, but their sense of reality prevents mischievous results from the tendency to dream and imagine conditions different from and more alluring than those that exist. But fantasy in youth may lead to lapses and delinquencies. Hence children's day dreams and fancies should be carefully studied by parents and teachers and directed into safe and wholesome channels.

There is nothing particularly modern or scientific in the idea that parents should know their children, gain their confidence, become their intimate companions and guides, and cultivate the art of eliciting helpful information regarding childish aspirations and childish perplexities. But every tragic case of juvenile crime, or of crime in some degree attributable to abnormality that might have been discovered and cured, serves to focus attention on that essential need.

It is not enough to attend to the physical welfare of children; it is not enough to give them facts and mere dry knowledge. Science is very important in education, but the emotions, the will and the imagination should not be neglected. If the best kind of imaginative literature—the literature of adventure, travel, biography and healthy fiction—is not opened up to them, children may find secret satisfaction in the literature of degeneracy, which is moral poison.

The chief aim of education is, after all, the development of character.—Chicago News.

UNCERTAINTIES IN SPAIN.

King Alfonso, in an interview with a Times representative, denied that there is any basis for the rumors of an impending political crisis in Spain which might involve the monarchy itself. This denial would be corroborated by the general tenor of the King's remarks. If Alfonso had serious expectations of the overthrow of the Rivera dictatorship and the return of the old party chieftains, it is not likely that he would have spoken of the latter in terms that were more than uncomplimentary. The King accused them of combining inefficiency with graft. He ascribed the present campaign against the Directory to a venal press which the Rivera regime has deprived of its time-honored subsidies. A constitutional monarch who will take such a tone with parties and politicians is either not afraid or doesn't care.

Primo de Rivera's experiment can point to very few of the achievements of its Italian model. The Dictator has failed to win the enthusiastic support of the Spanish people. If he has nevertheless managed to hold on, it is because he has avoided arousing popular hostility. Spaniards have been too long schooled in cynical indifference with regard to their partisan statesmen to display exceptional interest in the Directory. Primo de Rivera, unlike Mussolini, has not brought new blood into the service of the State, though he has made a beginning toward purifying and revivifying public life by the promulgation of a comprehensive municipal law which confers extensive powers of local autonomy. If put into force, it should go far toward eliminating the ancient system of municipal government directed from Madrid in the interest of party advantage and graft.

The issue upon which the Dictator came into power remains unsettled. It is Morocco. An attempt has been made to drag the Spanish Army out of the bog in which the incompetence or worse of political Generals mired it. By drawing in his lines in the Riff and restricting himself to the defensive, Primo de Rivera has succeeded in bringing home 25,000 men and curtailing expenses. But the Moorish tribesmen have taken advantage of the situation to bring increased pressure against the Spanish positions, and the reports from the front continue to be "unsatisfactory." The Dictator's tenure of office would thus seem to be largely dependent upon which the Spanish people wants most—domestic reform or military "glory."—New York Times.

Brandon Sun: If only someone will discover where summer is resorting, we'd go there.

Times are improving elsewhere than on the farms, though soaring grain prices have been getting most of the attention—quite naturally, since the average man has gotten accustomed to regard rising prices as the sure sign of prosperity's approach. (As soon as times get good, "they" get ready to take our money from us. The more we get, the more we have to pay.) Railroad freight traffic continues climbing steadily. If the upward movement isn't checked, another month will find the roads moving as much freight as a year ago when times were booming.

COOL.

A woman can dress modestly for the street so her whole outfit, including shoes, will weigh only 28 ounces. If a man wears less than four and a half pounds of clothes, the policeman is apt to senhib Kfbome. Discovered by a Boston reporter. Either outfit costs over $60.

Men get a raw deal in hot weather. After watching some of the semi-stripped women tripping along coolly on the streets, a perspiring man wonders if he isn't ethically entitled to walk abroad in pajamas. Equality for sexes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 16. — Feverish activity and sharply higher prices for all grain, especially corn, were witnessed to-day. Official predictions that no summer weather would come to Chicago and the adjoining parts of the corn belt this season were largely resonsible, owing to the unfavorable condition of the corn crop as a whole. The most extreme advance in prices was for May delivery of corn, which soared 5¼ to 1.21 1-2. The opening which varied from ½c to 5¼c higher, with Dec., 1.17 to 1.19 and May 1.18 to 1.21 1-2, was followed by many swife changes within the initial range, but mostly near to the top level.

A THOUGHT

The Silver Spoon.

At one year old he was fed from a silver spoon.

At seven years old he was never denied anything.

At fifteen he was at the best school and would not study.

At twenty-three he was still at the University.

At thirty he had never done a real day's work in his life.

At thirty-five he divided his time among dance halls, theatres and restaurants.

At forty he was dissipated and useless.

The Tin Spoon.

At one year old the only spoons he knew were tin.

At seven years old he had learned to obey.

At fifteen he was head of his class at school.

At twenty-three he was earning his own living.

At thirty he was supporting a wife.

At thirty-five he was a factor in the business world.

At forty he was a leader among men.

FELL TO DEATH.

Hoisting Engine Operator Dropped 75 Feet To Floor of Lock.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 18.— The third fatality within a week occurred about eight o'clock Saturday night at Lock Three when William J. Hutchinson, 42, was instantly killed by a fall of 75 feet. Hutchinson, who was a hoisting engine operator, was using a wrench upon some machinery, when something gave away, causing him to lose his balance, falling to the concrete floor of the lock, alighting on his head. He was a native of St. Catharines and leaves a widow, two small children, aged mother, two brothers and three sisters. An inquest will be opened to-morrow.

NEWS FROM APSLEY.

Sunday School Held Annual Picnic. A Good Programme.

APSLEY, Aug. 18.—St. Stephen's Sunday School had their annual picnic at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Philip Tanner, Chandos; and favored with fine weather, spent a most enojyable day. Dinner and tea were served on the lawn, about 60 guests, besides the scholars, participating in the good things provided. The morning was spent in games, and during the afternoon sports and a softball game were the attractions. The prizes for the races were donated by Peterboro friends—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, Fred. Haggart, Mrs. Haggart, Miss K. Martyn—whose kindness was very much appreciated, and to whom warm thanks were extended.

The races resulted as follows:

Girls—Charlotte Masters, Katie Tanner.

Tots—Virginia Smith.

Young women—Laura Tanner, Minnie Tanner.

Men — Walter Miller, Charles Smith.

Women—Mrs. R. Tanner, Mrs. W. Miller.

Boys—Wesley Johnston, Victor Tanner.

Boys, over 12—Eddie Everett, Ernest Tanner.

A sum of about twenty dollars was netted from the proceeds, which Mrs. Tanner intends to give the wardens toward necessary repairs for St. Stephen's Church.

Outside guests present were: Mr. Hinchcliffe, Mr. Finch Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, Fred. Haggart (Peterboro), W. J. Chadwick (St. Catharines), Mrs. Franks (Omemee).

The two oldest ladies present, Mrs. Beggs and Mrs. Roberts, both 80 years of age, each received a present.

Give the children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

A prominent physician says:

"It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat. Several flavors—all of WRIGLEY quality.

TOMATO GROWERS WERE SWINDLED

Investigators State Growers Were Deliberately Misled Regarding Returns.

SMALL CUCUMBERS BRING GOOD PRICE

Constant Picking is Required To Get the Best Results.

With a steady demand and satisfactory prices growers of pickling cucumbers have found that production of this crop is profitable, and in some districts the output is steadily increasing. To grow the "cukes" successfully the plants must be well cared for but local producers have found that returns make it worth while to use a portion of the farm for their cultivation.

Suitable Land.

A medium heavy sandy loam or a clay loam with plenty of humus is recommended. Cucumbers will grow on a variety of soils, but the yield will vary according to the characters which each kind of soil possessca. Sandy light land is usually deficient in humus or organic matter and dries out too quickly during the dry months, which results in a short yield. On the other hand a clay loam may become more packed and hard from heavy late spring rains, and for this reason may be found to be somewhat unfavourable. For this reason farmers favour a medium heavy soil.

Land which has been well farmed previously, or new land entirely are capable of delivering the best yields

Cucumbers can not be successfully grown on worn out land. Strong growing vines are necessary for the good yields and continuous production and the moisture-holding capacity of the land is one of the factors that determines whether the crop will be satisfactory. Fields intended for the cultivation of cucumbers should be ploughed early and kept well worked. Well rotted stable manure is the best fertiliser, and should be thoroughly worked in.

Seeding.

There are two ways of seeding. First, drilling the seed in rows five feet apart, and second, planting the seed in hills three feet apart, in rows placed five feet apart. There is less labour if the drill method is adopted; plants are better distributed, and the cultivation is made easier.

Nicotine sulphate dust is effective in controlling the attack of the striped beetle, which is regarded as one of the most destructive pests. This can be applied as soon as the growth appears. The same treatment will kill the weevil.

Harvesting.

The highest price is paid for the smallest cucumbers, and it is important that the vines be picked clean, to prevent the formation of a large unmarketable crop. Regular picking is necessary ti get the best returns and the harvesting of the crop is the heaviest item of expense.

THE CONTROL OF POTATO INSECTS

Cheapest Poison for Potato Bugs is Arsenate Of Lime.

The chief potato insects in Ontario are the common potato beetle, the flea beetle, the leaf hopper and the green or pink aphis.

The cheapest poison for the potato beetle is arsenate of lime (calcium arsenate) at the strength of 1½ pounds to 40 gallons of water, or better, of Bordeaux mixture. Paris green,1 to 2 pounds to 40 gallons, is a good killer but much more expensive. Some prefer to use 1 pound Paris green and 1 pound arsenate of lead to 40 gallons of liquid. Any of the above poisons may be applied as a dust but should first be diluted with from 10 to 20 times their own bulk of hydrated lime. An old burlap sack forms a handy duster for small areas. Put a few pounds of the poison in the sack stand on the side the wind is from, and shake the bag over each plant.

It is very important to apply the poison while the young bugs are small; in fact, just after they have hatched. Repeat as soon as seen is desirable.

The flea beetle is a tiny black beetle the size of the head of a pin. It eats small holes in the leaves. The best control for it is to use Bordeaux mixture (4 lbs. bluestone, 6 pounds hydrated lime, and 40 gallons of ater) with any of the above poisons. Apply as soon as the beetles are seen to be abundant enough to justify it.

The leaf hopper is a small but active pale green insect, which works on the underside of the leaf, and then sucks the juice out of it. At the same time it injects a poison which causes a a great deal of tip-burn on the leaves, which is often quite destructive and may be spoken of as a form of early blight, though it is not what the botanists call this disease.

This insect is best controlled by spraying the potatoes on both the under and the upper side of the leaves with the Bordeaux mixture.

The potato aphis is a small sluggish (not active) green, or in some cases, pink insect. It works on all parts of the new growth, and by sucking the juice, stunts and weakens the plants. It is also a great carrier of mosaic and leaf-roll diseases.

Control consists in spraying heavily with nicotine sulphate 40 per cent (or black leaf, 40) as soon as the aphids are at all numerous. The spray will only kill them if it hits them.

All the above sprays may be combined in one if all four insects are present. Often it does not pay to use the nicotine sulphate, but by combining the arsenate of lime, or Paris green or arsenate of lead with Bordeaux mixture, excellent results may be obtained on the first three insects mentioned. It should be remembered that Bordeaux is a great preventative of rot and also invigorates the plants, thus leading to greater yields. Hence it will practically always pay to use Bordeaux with the poison when controlling insects. It makes the poisons absolutely safe at almost any strength.

Spray before the daamge is done, not after it, and cover every plant well each time to get good results.

dawn, and hope soon to see daylight."

Chancellor Marx thanked Premier MacDonald especially for "the human understanding" with which he had dealt with the delicate problems.

Ambassador Kellog said: "I may be too much of an optimist, but I believe this settlement is the dawning of a new day, the hope of millions of people, the revival of industry and prosperity so necessary to the happiness and progress of mankind."

Not Fully Satisfied.

Neither the Germans nor the French were fully satisfied with the compromise agreement on the Ruhr evacuation, but both delegations scored many points which they believe will appeal to their publics and ease the way in obtaining ratification.

The specific promise of the French to evacuate the Ruhr absolutely within one year from August 15 and to evacuate Dortmund immediately are great prizes for the German delegates, although they had hoped that the period would be narrowed to six months.

MacDonald Praised.

Premier MacDonald won the admiration of all the delegates by the fearless and dashing manner in which he handled the tangled Ruhr situation, speaking with equal frankness to both M. Herriot and Chancellor Marx and doing much to keep war time animosities down.

The French and German delegates had many long conversations during the conference concerning their future tariff arrangements, and at times this commercial feature threatened to be a serious handicap to the Ruhr settlement.

But they finally agreed to meet October 1 in Paris to begin negotiations for a commercial treaty, and the German delegation insists that it made no trade on tariff arrangements to gain the Ruhr evacuation decision and that it will begin negotiations in Paris untrammelled by any pledge to admit Alsatian iron ore or other French products free.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN WAS HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Charles Brown Believed To Have Been Victim of "Frame Up."

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 18. — Charles Brown, a local teamster, who was arrested and taken to Trenton on a serious charge laid by a young girl in that town, was honorably discharged when the case was heard by the Magistrate in Trenton, who decided that there was no ground for the complaint. Brown is back at work here. He is a young man of industrious habits, and from the first those who know him believed that he was the victim of a frame-up.

Young Men Acquitted.

Two young men from here who have been waiting trial since last spring on a charge of stealing liquor were tried in Cobourg on Friday and acquitted.

Personals.

BOY VAMPED BY GIRL TO MURDER, POLICE BELIEVE

Sheriff's Theory of Florence McKinney's Share in Cora Raber's Death.

PROOF OF HER POWER

Victims Wedding Dress, Worn When She Met Zupke, Disappears.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 16.—That Florence McKinney, demure farm maid, who has declared that she drove Emil "Ace" Zupke's automobile while he, sitting beside her, strangled her rival, Cora Raber, brought on the murder, if she did not actually suggest it, is the belief of Sheriff Bridgman.

The sheriff also announced that evidence obtained in all-night questioning of the girl and Zupke indicated that they may have killed the girl in or near the McKinney home, instead of in the automobile, and then taken the body away in the car.

Theory of Sheriff.

It was not that Florence wanted to be the bride of the young farmer who had been thrown out of his own home by his father two weeks ago, the sheriff believes. It was not that the pretty nineteen-year-old girl now held in the Berrien County jail on a charge of murder became suddenly insanely jealous.

It was simply because she wanted to see how much power she had over the youth who had promised to marry Cora Raber to give a name to her expected child, but, instead, killed her and hid her body in a clump of weeds by an abandoned railroad track, seven miles from Benton Harbor.

Florence, the sheriff holds, had shown power as a "vamp" over "Ace" when she took him away from Cora. But she didn't want him to marry her, and had no intention of his doing so, Bridgman says she revealed in the night of questioning.

Another development came when the slain girl's mother said that Cora, expecting Zupke to take her to St. Joseph and marry her, had worn her wedding gown, a white satin dress, when she left home on the evening of August 6 to meet him. The dress has not been found.

When Cora's body was found it was clad in a brown slip, a garment which Mrs. Raber did not recognize as anything that her daughter had possessed.

The white shoes, white silk stockings and silk lingerie were intact, but the gown was missing and no trace of it has been found.

No one but Florence was at the McKinney home when Zupke and Cora drove up, the sheriff has been informed. Florence's father is working down State and her three brothers and sister were away.

Sheriff Bridgman questioned Zupke and Miss McKinney closely to ascertain if they had taken Miss Raber somewhere besides to the lonely spot where they placed the body, and taken the gown off, but both denied that they had done so.

Girl as Housekeeper.

Miss McKinney has been head of the McKinney farm household since the death of her mother a few years ago, it was learned. She has a sister, Jennie, and three brothers, Otto, John and Ramsse. Except for a short time a year ago when she worked in Benton Harbor, she has been housekeeper for her father, sister and brothers.

The sister and brothers accompanied her when she went to St. Joseph and surrendered to Sheriff Bridgman and told him that she was with Zupke, driving his car, when he strangled Cora Raber.

Except for her voluntary confession, the sheriff said, her part in the murder might never have been known, for Zupke never mentioned her in his confession made two hours before she appeared, and even after she had confessed he denied that she had been with him.

Confronted with her confession, however, he admitted, the sheriff said, that he had told Florence when he drove up to her home with Miss Raber that he "guessed he'd have to kill Cora to get her out of the way." It was then, both confessed, that he said to Florence:

"If you love me, if you ever want to do anything for me, do it now."

BLINDED.

More than 200 American children were blinded in one or both eyes this year celebrating the Fourth of July with fireworks. So claims National Committee for Prevention of Blindness, after checking up.

It's less than one child out of every 100,000 in the country. No statistics were kept, but years ago the rate was much higher. Safe and Sane Fourth was as wise a move as this country ever made.

THE HIGHEST PAID LADY IN CHICAGO

She Bosses 3,000 Men and Has Time to Raise Children.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The highest salaried business woman in Chicago—and one of the highest paid in the world—is Mrs. C. H. Boyer.

As superintendent of agents for the United States National Life Insurance Company, she gives orders to more men than any other woman in the country.

For 30 years Mrs. Boyer has been "bossing" from 1,000 to 3,000 accident insurance agents.

With her husband, C. H. Boyer, she has built up and directed two large accident insurance companies, at all times having complete charge of the field force of agents, determining their policies and sales methods.

Side by Side.

Thirty years ago in Philadelphia she decided to enter business with her husband. Since that day she has worked side by side with him in his office with the exception of a few months when she remained at home to bring two children into the world and rear them through the first weeks of their infancy. She has at all times maintained her home as though she had 24 hours a day for such duties.

The first company of the Boyers was the General Accident Fire and Life Assurance Corporation with which she remained 17 years until Albert M. Johnson, millionaire president of the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A., persuaded the Boyers to come to Chicago, 13 years ago and launch an accident insurance department of his company.

Beginning at the bottom she and her husband, who is vice-president and general manager of the company, built up the accident branch of the National until last year it was made an independent corporation.

Gets $25,000.

Mrs. Boyer gets $25,000 a year. According to Mr. Johnson she is the highest salaried woman in Chicago, probably in the whole country, and has unquestionably directed the business activities of more men than any other woman in American history.

"Men do not object to working for a woman or to taking orders from them so long as the orders are given quietly and straight forwardly," says Mrs. Boyer. "They never complain about their wives so long as the women folk keep the house running smoothly, efficiently and comfortably.

"I try to keep the business affairs of my department in just that shape. Men can find out what they want to know quickly and without fuss in my office. When I send out orders they are put simply and clearly. Men have never objected to me on the grounds of my sex. They have been uniformly courteous.

"I believe any woman has plenty of time to work eight hours in any office if she will order her home life and housework."

EIGHT OUNCES PLENTY

Milady's Costume Without Hat and Shoes Weighs Half Pound.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—No wonder women know how to keep cool!

They can dress, with becoming modesty, in eight ounces of clothing. They can buy the clothing for $26.40.

Unsophisticated, unmarried men may doubt it, but it has been put to the test here and proved.

The estimate, of course, excludes hat and shoes, the heaviest items of Milady's summer wardrobe, but even with these added the total weight is just 21 ounces.

The fast-fading corset outweighs the entire ensemble. The costume of 1910 probably weighed four times as much.

Just to show Pittsburg women how to shop for an eight-ounce costume, a Pittsburg girl, accompanied by a safe, young married reporter with two children, was chosen to select the garments.

Here is a leaf from the reporter's notebook:

"Brassiere. This is a strong, web-like garment, weighing one-half ounce. The price is $1.50. A rosebud, which is nearly all the weight, is embroidered in the centre.

"Teddy or step-in. This er—er garment weighs one and one-half ounces. Price, $1.50, material silk.

(Young unmarried men are advised to turn to the sport pages.)

"Hose. Nothing secret about them. The price is $2.95, material chiffon silk. They conceal nothing and weigh one-half ounce.

"Slip. This is the real light-resisting garment. It weighs as much as the dress—two and three-quarter ounces. The material is silk, the price $3.95.

"Dress. Truly a thing of beauty—gossamer-like. It may be put in a man's pocket. It is silk, price $16.50. Weight, two and three-quarter ounces."

The total comes to $26.40. Suitable shoes, weighing up to 10 ounces, may be bought at from $5 to $15 a pair. Hats, weighing three ounces and up, may be had at $5 to $25.

And that's that. The best part of it all is that Miss 1924, thus arrayed, is every bit as modestly dressed as her old-fashioned sister—and a lot more becomingly.

Watch out for the road hog.

HONEY YIELD LIGHT.

Marmora Bees Have Produced But One-third of Normal Flow.

MARMORA, Aug. 18.—Mr. James Gordanier who keeps an apiary, mentions the fact that the yield of honey locally is only one-third of the usual, this year. Bees are very backward about swarming.

Angelus Wast Late.

Where there is no town clock as at Marmora, the tolling of a church bell at certain hours throughout the day assists many in the regulation of timepieces and personal movements. What amusing results must have been last Friday evening when the bell tolled forth twenty minutes later than usual.

TAKES OFF HOSE BECAUSE OF HOLE

Pedestrians Don't Notice Bare Legs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Somebody page a psychologist and let him explain this:

Why is it that a "runner" in a girls's silk stocking immediately draws everyone's attention to her legs?

And why is it, after she has removed her stockings that few notice her?

Pert Kelton, vaudeville comedienne, was strolling through Central Park last spring when one of her stockings developed one of those annoying "Jacob's ladders."

Miss Kelton, conscious of the pedestrains' stares, noticed the accident and forthwith removed her hosiery.

"Maybe they'll stare harder than ever," she thought, "but I'll feel more at ease barelegged than with holey hose."

But it seems that the psychology of your scurrying pedestrian is such that he sees only that which he is accustomed to see.

Passes On.

He sees a young lady in a pink dress. The young lady has bare legs. The pedestrian is accustomed to seeing young ladies in flesh-coloured hose. His mind assumes that the manufacturers of flesh-colored hose performed another miracle, and skips on to the next pair of legs.

The cool breezes of springtime the saving of vulgar dollars spent for stockings, combined to decide Miss Kelton to wear no more hose.

So she has rolled her stockings into the discard. Ever since that memorable spring day she has gone barelegged, with her feet encased in toe-revealing white leather sandals.

No Flurry.

She walks through crowded streets and creates no flurry at all. Pedestrians, she says, are more apt to notice her lack of stockings after she has passed them and they scan the back ankle, where the motion of her leather sandal reveals that flesh, and not silk, is beneath.

Miss Kelton believes that her idea may be copied by girls throughout the United States. Didn't Greek and Roman maidens, some centuries ago walk through Rome and Athens in just this style of footgear? And doesn't history repeat itself?

Cleopatra wore sandals and no stockings. And Cleo in her day was no back number.

New Standards of Tire Performance Proclaimed By Car Owners

Just one thing is responsible for the remarkable public acceptance of Firestone full-size Gum-Dipped Balloons—the wonderful performance of these tires on the cars of users.

Everywhere, from Victoria to Halifax, come reports of new and exhilirating experiences—of trips made over all kinds of roads in wonderful comfort and without fatigue, of perfect safety and of new mileage.

Follow the example of motorists of long experience and make the changeover on your car. Insist on Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords mounted on small diameter wheels, applied anywhere at low cost by Firestone service dealers.

Or, if you are buying a new car, make certain of superlative ease, sure road grip and car conservation by demanding full-size balloon equipment.

It is the combination of Firestone gum-dipping, Firestone design, construction and Steam-Welded Tubes that assure you the full measure of balloon tire superiority.

GUM-DIPPED BALLOONS

"Brakes More Effectively"

Since February last we have been using Firestone Balloon Tires on our Bluebird Shaw Taxi No. 40. We have also found that these Tires do not skid so readily and brake much more effectively than the high pressure Tires. The mileage to date of these Tires approximates 12,000, and from their present appearance they would seem to be good for at least another 12,000 miles. We have had no trouble from punctures.

ALEX. McGARR,
Sightseeing Autos, Taxis, Montreal, Que.

"Expects More Mileage"

There is no comparison in the riding qualities of the two types of tires, the balloon tire having added greatly to the comfort. My tires have now covered four thousand miles, there is no sign of wear and it would appear to me as though one might reasonably expect considerably more mileage from these tires than from the ordinary cord tire.

WM. STEWART, Ottawa, Ont.

"No More Rumbles"

I have had excellent results with these tires, they have eliminated the rumbling noise in my car, and make riding a real pleasure. Crossing car tracks and going over bad spots in the road is now like driving on a pavement.

HUGH E. MACNAB, Halifax, N.S.

"Riding Qualities Improved"

By equipping my car with Firestone Balloon Tires I found that the riding qualities were considerably improved, for they seem to absorb the shocks from the numerous bumps which are so noticeable with ordinary tires.

L. PARROTT, Saskatoon, Sask.

"Thorough Satisfaction"

One of our demonstrating cars has travelled over 10,000 miles with very little apparent tire wear which precludes any doubt as to the ultimate mileage expectancy. This is so unusual that we take pleasure in letting you know of the thorough satisfaction we are having with Firestone Balloon Tires.

W. F. DONLIN, Sales Manager,
Reo Motor Sales Company, Toronto, Ont.

"All Vibration Disappeared"

As to riding qualities, in my opinion there is as much difference between ordinary pneumatic tires and full size Balloon Tires as there is between ordinary pneumatic tires and solid tires. All vibration and the continual annoying chassis rattle has disappeared, due to the tires absorbing the small holes and bumps in the road.

JAMES H. LUCAS, Vancouver, B.C.

"Rides 50 Per Cent Smoother"

This spring I equipped my Star Touring Car with a set of Firestone Balloon Tires. They have given me perfect satisfaction, and make the car ride at least fifty per cent. smoother. I cannot detect any loss of power, and I can make much better time on the country roads, as they make the ordinary rough road like pavement, not necessitating slowing up for rough going. I certainly would not like to change back to high pressure tires.

M. H. TESKEY, Killarney, Man.

"The Greatest Improvement That Could be Added"

I have given them a very fair test, having driven them 1275 miles within so short a time, and at a season when test was quite varied, having used them on icey rutted roads, also on pavements coated with fresh snow, without the slightest tendency of skidding. They respond excellently to use of brakes and have fine steering qualities, all of which goes to make motoring a pleasure. This is my seventh car and believe that Balloon Tires are the greatest improvement that could be added to make safe and pleasant motoring.

W. R. TURNBULL, Brantford, Ont.

"The Ultimate Equipment"

I wish to say that the comfort is totally different than any car I have ever ridden in. Might also add that the braking is simply wonderful. I believe that the balloon tire is the ultimate equipment for a motor car.

Kitchener, Ontario.

MANY A BOOK LONG AWAITS RECOGNITION

But Some Reader Is Almost Certain To Want It Some Day.

SAYS JOHN McCREA.

Every Book Has a Personality and Some Do Not Meet Their Affinities.

"Why don't certain books sell?"

John McCrea, President of the Dutton Company, repeated the question; and then gave the answer that all books sell, but that it is a question of matching personalities, which in some instances, takes more time than in others.

The question was asked in connection with the recent sale by E. P. Dutton & Company of 750,000 books to Thomas & Eron—the largest transaction, it is said, that has ever been known in the world of books. According to a member of the selling firm, it was necessary either to dispose of the books at a reduced figure or to rent a warehouse in which to store them.

The volumes, many of them of considerable monetary value, are by authors who have achieved wide success in their respective fields of research. Names well known to the general public are interspersed with names known only to the specialist. And the 1,800 different subjects displayed at the Little Blue Book Shop on upper Broadway, where the stock is being retailed, embrace science, history, poetry, drama and fiction. Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches rub shoulders with popular romance. W. H. Hudson's "Birds of La Plata," a large and beautiful book, reposes not far from "24 Little French Dinners." A catholic taste, it would seem, will find ample satisfaction in browsing among volumes of so diversified a character.

Some Books "Remain Single."

"Just as there are old maids and old bachelors, who do not find their mates," continued Mr. McCrea, "so there are books that do not find theirs. Sometimes the old maid or the old bachelor eventually find a mate. But it is a slower process for some than for others. It is so with books. Every book is a personality. And there is something in every published volume—I am talking now of books with thought behind them, and most books have it—which will appeal to some one in the world. It may take time for that book to find the person who wants it—to marry off the book, as it were. The personality of a book has to be discovered by just the one person to whom it will most appeal, to whom it will be of help and inspiration."

Thus the man who has spent most of his life among books told of the romance of the personalities that repose between cardboard or leather covers. "There is no use, of course, in expecting a person who is looking for love stories to be interested in a book on wireless. But somewhere there is usually a person for every book that is ever printed. The trick is to bring person and book together, and that takes time, often more time than the average publisher has to give.

"A publisher is always looking for a new idea, a new thought. When he finds a manuscript that contains what he considers a good story, he brings it out in book form, feeling sure it will please a certain type of reader. The book may have a heavy sale, or it may not. It may appeal only to a particular group. A book may be a slow seller, yet cannot be called a book that does not sell. If 5,000 copies are sold, the book has attained a fair average, although the best silner may run up to hundreds of thousands.

"Take Lorna Doone for instance. When that novel was brought out, it had no sale at all. The dealer couldn't give it away. Yet now the first edition sells for perhaps $300. It was thus, too, with Omar Khayyam. Fitzgerald sent 500 copies to a dealer in Hempstead, who tried to sell them at sixpence apiece. He could not dispose of a copy. At last he asked Fitzgerald to come and remove his books. Those first autographed volumnes are selling to-day for anywhere from $300 to $1,000."

Books That Are Not Yet Wanted.

According to Mr. McCrea, there are books among the lot just sold to Thomas & Eron that will be worth five times their present value in a few years. Several of W. H. Hudson's works are among the number mentioned as likely to become harder to procure as time goes on. This author's book, "The Purple Land," passed through the vicissitudes of many other stories, having no sale at first, but gaining notable popularity slowly.

"Some books are ahead of their time. People have to grow up to them; have to accustom themselves to a new thought. If a story contains thoughts that a publisher believes will attract attention, he prints it. There is no telling when a book may contain something that will change the thinking of the world, just as a certain book changed the life of Patrick McGill.

"The boy belonged to a poor family who could give him no advantages. Patrick could neither read nor write. When he was old enough he went to work on the railroad with pick and shovel, like many other boys of his class. One day, as he stepped off the track to let a train go by, a pape -bound book fell out of a car window. Patrick picked it up and took it home. The book proved such a joy to him that he determined to get an education, so that he could read the books that others read. Patrick McGill beczme a student of English and eventually a writer."

Now and then it happens that books that have been stowed away for years are hauled out of their hiding places in response to some newly-risen need for just the sort of information they contain. Almost all publishers have known such a thing to occur to books on h their lists.

"I remember buying in Europe," said Mr. McCrae, "250 copies of a book called 'The Criminal Prosecution of Animals.' It was a story of the way in which animals that had done harm were brought to punishment in medieval days. The horse that kicked a man and the cow that injured a child with its horns were tried before a court and punished, as if they had been intelligent human beings.

"No one seemed to want these books. We held them a long while and finally disposed of the lot at a low price. Shortly after the sale a professor of law wrote for sixty-six copies, saying he wished to use them in a course he was giving on the evolution of law. I still remember the delight of the dealer in reselling the books to us at a 25 per cent increase.

"That is merely an example of the way books will find their place at last in a world thatdoes not always appear to want them. There are a few books that 'miss out,' just as there are people who 'miss out,' or seem to. But there is always a chance that these apparently unwanted ones will be wanted some day."

CLASSICS STAY IN PROGRAMMES

Schools Cannot Drop Roman Law, Grecian Art and Hebrew Morals.

AVERS PROFESSOR

TORONTO Aug. 18 (Canadian Press).—Classics will never be dropped from the curriculum of secondary schools if J. L. Myers, professor of ancient history at Oxford University, has his way. Prof. Myers, in his address to educationists at the British Association, emphasized the fact that training for participation in modern societies necessarily habituates the citizen-to-be not only to the outlook and manners transmitted from Teutonic and Celtic ancestors, but to our threefold heritage from other civilizations.

The religious and moral experience in the Hebrew background of Christianity, Roman experience in law and public order, and the intellectual and artistic achievements of Greece, each reflect on the character and conduct of a twentieth century individual, Prof. Myers indicated.

"The Reformation's insistence on intimate acquaintance with Hebrew literature compelled and justified general recourse to translations," he said. "Classics teachers, on the other hand, postponed surrender of the traditional initiation into 'dead' languages, until this discipline, over-specialized at heavy cost to philosophical, historical, and scientific studies, was challenged by another heritage from the 'revival of learning'—the direct 'interrogation of nature' by systematic observatıcn and experiment. In this reaction against 'classical' studies, indispensable elements of the 'humanities' lost their due place in the curriculum.

Translations have their value, Prof. Myers admitted, but understanding of the originals is needed for full appreciation. He concluded:

"Experience of strictly utilitarian training, and broader conceptions of citizenship, compel reconsideration of the educational value of our heritage from Greek and Roman experience, readily accessible now, like Hebrew thought, in adequate translations, but imperfectly appreciated, beyond the elementary stage, without progressive acquaintance with its original sources."

SCOUTS THEORY OF FIERY HEAT

Climate in Canada Did Not Differ Much in Early Geological Days.

COOL AND MOIST

TORONTO, Aug. 18 (Canadian Press).—Climate in Canada, in early geological days, did not differ much from the present conditions. This fact was brought out in the geology section of the British Association by Prof. A. P. Coleman, of the University of Toronto, who explained how older theories required an extremely hot atmosphere during the time when the earth was supposed to be cooling and solidifying. According to the latest surveys of primitive rocks in Canada, however, it now seems certain that the oldest rocks were formed when the weather was much as it is now, and certainly under cooler conditions than prevailed during the later geological ages.

"Geologists previously thought that the oldest rocks on the earth, formed at the beginning of the pre-Cambrian era, were the frozen crust of a cooling and freezing mass of molten material," Dr. Coleman said. "This required a climate exceedingly hot—so hot that no form of life could exist, and the supposition was that it was only after a long interval that the globe cooled down sufficiently for water to remain on its surface, and that a much longer period elapsed before life came to be established.

"Evidence is now growing that climates and geological processes in that early time werenot widely different from those of later times." Dr. Coleman substantiated his claim with descriptions of the pre-Cambrian rocks, which are found in huge areas in Canada.

"The latest rocks of this era, of the Keweenawan formation, include red sandstones, indicating desert conditions," Prof. Coleman said. "The slates of the Animikie, which preceded this series, point to a cool, moist climate.

"The sediment of the Huronian formation include the Cobalt tillite, which is a rock formed under galacial conditions, similar to boulder clay.

"Still earlier than these deposits are the rocks of the Keewatin and Grenville districts," the scientist stated. "These were evidently formed under conditions not unlike the present, and they indicate alternating deposition corresponding to seasonal changes of the year.

"The conglomerates of the Dore series probably represent another very early glacial period."

Summarizing the evidence, Dr. Coleman said: "On the whole, the pre-Cambrian formation, the earliest in the geological history of the world, indicate cooler climates than those which existed in the next, or Paleozoic era, as far as the time of the coal-forming or Carboniferous age.

"The climates were certainly cooler than in the next era, the Mesozoic, and during much of the time, were probably very similar to the conditions to-day."

WHITENS LINEN

Linen may be whitened by soaking in buttermilk for two or three days and then rinsing in cold water. If it can be dried on the grass in the sun the results are almost magical.

Disturbs Your Complexes When You Write Too Fast

TORONTO, Aug. 18 (Canadian Press).—The well-known observation that the faster one writes, the more mistakes one makes, has been made the subject of experiments, reported in the Psychology section of the British Association by Prof. A. A. Roback, of Harvard University, whose researches show that, under pressure of increased speed, there is loss of control, the results being explainable as the workings of two complementary processes in the nervous system, designated by the psychologist as perseveration and assimilation. "The first of these factors refers to the tendency of a movement to be repeated whether in substitution for another or superfluously," said Prof. Roback. "The second process relates to the tendency of one movement to resemble another in close proximity, and in accordance with certain cues which would favor such assimilation."

Prof. Roback investigated the subject from the point of view of the movement in writing, the sensations accompanying the physical act of forming pothooks and hangers, and, finally, the effect on the process of concentration on the part of the subject of the experiment, and he has conculded that the writer's attention becomes diverted from the idea of the word, to the muscular system called into play in reproducing it in letters, the result being confusion of the movement.

"Consonants have a greater chance of occurring than vowels," said Prof. Roback, in telling of types of mistakes which have been found common in writing at high speed. "That is to say, vowels are more frequently omitted than consonants.

"The more pronounced a consonant is, the more chance it has of presenting itself. Letters like f, g, y, are favored in preference to l, c, or t.

"Down strokes and circular movements are preferred to other types of movement.

"The same subject tends to break down at the same place in writing a given sentence or series of figures many times, which would show that the psychical processes possess some uniformity."

Increased pressure on the writing ability tends to bring out characteristics of a particular handwriting in an exaggerated form, the scientist stated. Large handwriting tends to become still larger, under the abnormal conditions, and "loopy" characters are accentuatd.

Says Kidneys Don't Mind Extra Labor

TORONTO, Aug. 18 (Canadian Press.)—A popular belief that a heavy meat diet serves as a source of irritation to the kidneys, owing to the increased amount of nitrogenous waste which must be eliminated, was shattered by Lafayette B. Mendel, Thomas B. Osborne, Edward A. Park, and M. C. Winternitz, of Yale University, who told the physiology section of the British Association of investigations which they have conducted on rats. Rats will thrive on a diet extremely rich in protein, it seems, other dietary essentials being provided, and thus it is possible to study the development of their organs under this excessive consumption of meat. Changes in the kidney cells did actually take place, these workers found, but they were not such as to interfere to any extent with the activity of the rats.

"Microscopic examination failed to disclose any changes of an inflammatory or degenerative nature," the scientists reported.

THE UMBRELLA.

The frequent need of an umbrella this season because of the wet weather and the unexpected showers, has led to the study of whence this useful article originated, and from an old magazine some facts have been learned. That the umbrella is of great antiquity is assured, both Japanese and Chinese claiming the honour of being its inventors. At any rate it seems certain that it was first used by Asiatic peoples, and as originally designed, intended only as a protection from the sun's rays.

Parisians, it seems, claim that they were pioneers in its use for keeping off the rain, but another story states that the first authentic record of the invention of an umbrella for this purpose was made one hundred and fifty years ago in London, England, the inventor's name being Jonas Henneway. The latter disliked extremely having to wear a heavy coat in wet weather, particularly if it was hot as well, and so one morning, despite the protests of his family, he appeared on London streets carrying a queer-looking contrivance mad of canvas and upheld by a stick. Ridicule followed him even from his closest friends, who feared he had gone crazy.

Nothing daunted, Jonas continued to carry his home-made umbrella every rainy day until others, seeing its convenience, began to do likewise, and the custom became the rule rather than the exception. Naturally, a manufactured kind of umbrella soon made its appearance in the streets of London, and from there the idea spread over the whole world. Doubtless it took courage to do as Jonas Henneway did and follow what he considered a sensible custom, especially in the face of ridicule at home and abroad. But to-day we feel inclined to laugh at the person who will go out on a rainy day without the protection which an umbrella affords.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

WHAT THE SQUIRREL BOYS DID

"Hello!" said Nancy and Nick.

"Have you made your fortune yet, Mister Zip?" asked Nancy.

The fairyman counted his money.

"No," he said sadly, shaking his head. "Not yet. There are too many people getting into my park for nothing."

"Flop Field Mouse and Mikey Mole always come in by the gate now," said Nick. "And they pay their way."

"Yes," said Mister Zip, "and I think they learned a good lesson in honesty. But there must be other people getting in free, for yesterday there were more people than tickets in the ticket box. I know, for I counted noses. You Twins might do a little more investigating for me. There are more ways than one of getting into Happy Go Lucky Park, I am afraid."

The Twins said goodby and went off into the green woods.

It was a lovely day and the sunlight, coming down through the green leaves, made the trees look like lovely green lace.

Chippy Chipmunk was sitting on the roof of his stone house enjoying the weather.

"Hello!" said Nancy and Nick.

"Hello!" said Chippy. "Where did you come from?"

"We just came from Happy Go Lucky Park," said Nancy. "We are helping Mister Zip, the fairyman, who owns the park, to make his fortune."

"It's a nice place," sighed Chippy. "I've been there. If I was like Scamper and Scramble Squirrel, Daddy Cracknut's sephews, who are visiting him, I would be there every day."

"What do you mean?" asked Nick.

"Why, you see," said Chippy, sadly, "I can't climb so very high. I can only climb up stone piles and fences and things like that. My climbers are not sharp enough to climb trees."

"Well, what has that got to do with the squirrel boys going to Happy Go Lucky Park?" asked Nick.

"Oh, lots," said Chippy. "All they have to do to get into the park is to climb a tree outside of the park. Then they jump from the branches of that tree to the branches of another tree inside the park, and then they run down the trunk. And there they are. They go every day, and they have all the money their father gave them to spend on their vacation, just for rides and things like that. There they go now. I wish I could go along. I've got 5 cents to spend, but that wouldn't even take me in."

Sure enough the two frisky squirrel boys were coming out of their uncle's front door in Maple Tree Flats at that very minute, and the Twins watched to see what they would do.

Instead of coming down to the ground, they ran nimbly out to the end of a branch where it touched the branch of a pine tree. Then they ran from branch to branch of the pine tree until they came to a place where the pine tree touched a maple tree. They did the same with the maple tree until they reached an elm tree. From that to a chestnut tree, and so on, until they came to the edge of the woods where Happy Go Lucky Park was.

A big sycamore tree grew right in the park. When they reached it, they slid down, and there they were! In the park as nice as pie, and all for nothing!

"No wonder Mister Zip isn't making his fortune," said Nick. "Come, Nancy, we'll have to tell him."

But I'm sure the squirrel boys didn't think they were doing anything dishonest.

TWO AIRMEN KILLED.

Plane Used in Forestry Patrol Work Crashed to the Ground.

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 18. — (Canadian Press). — Junior Pilot, Kenneth McBride, 20, of Brantford, and Victor Gilbert, Kingston, foresters are dead and Pilot E. C. Burton is in Hospital here suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg and body bruises and burns, result of an airplane crash near Savanne on Saturday evening.

Plane was one of seven being used in this district by the Ontario government in forestry patrol work. Burton and his comrade were flying G-CADC and were on first trip searching for G-CAOB, which had been missing since Thursday but which was located yesterday and brought into Port Arthur where the three planes are now lying.

Senior Pilot Burton told Canadian Press that his plane "Run into Bum" on one wing which set him on edge. Machine went into spinning nose- drive from distance of 1,000 feet into muskeg swamp one and half miles from Savanne station. Kenneth McBride died of his injuries shortly after the accident and Gilbert succumbed in hospital here two hours after being admitted and 18 hours after the smash.

Fate which dealt death to Burton's comrades sent succor to him as he lay unconscious beside wreckage of his plane. G-CAOB piloted by J. F. Maloney flew overhead and spotted wrecked machine and was able to get immediate aid. Burton will probably recover. He has not been told of the death of his comrades.

FABLES ON HEALTH

With the coming of hot days, Mr. Mann of Anytown was wont to visit soda fountains and ask for buttermilk.

Few people know how important a part the use of sour milk, in any of its forms—whether buttermilk or concoctions—play in fighting intestinal poisonings.

Lactic acid, which is the acid contained on sour milk, is a medium in which putrefactive germs cannot thrive. So, if one can keep some milk germs in the intestinal tract manufacturing their belligerent lactic germs a constant enemy of intestinal poisons will be on hand.

This does not mean that the mere swallowing of a little sour milk will do the work. The good germs must be kept alive and to do this we must feed them.

The foods which best aid in the propagation of these good germs inculde a rather free usage of milk, some cereal such as oatmeal, cooked but for 10 minutes, or a slight amount of raw starch.

Whole Body Sympathizes When Vitals Are Injured

TORONTO, Aug. 18 (Canadian Press).—Many parts of your body sympathize when your vital organs aren't well. The knowledge of "referred pain," as this fellow-feeling is known to medical men, has been extended recently by Dr. F. R. Miller and Dr. H. M. Simpson, of Western University, who reported their researches in the Physiology section of the British Association. It has long been known that sympathetic pain may be experienced by the skin in the region of viscera which are inflamed or diseased, and this observation is an important factor in diagnosis. Contractions of the abdominal muscles have been attributed similarly to a related feeling with poorly internal organs, but the London doctors have been able to prove also that the interaction may also extend to the hind limbs, the result being the drawing up of the legs in cases of abdominal, visceral disease. The hind limbs of experimental animals can be made to respond in this fashion, when the body parts are stimulated electrically or mechanically.

REPORTS PRESENTED AT THE FIRE-FIGHTERS' CONVENTION

RE LETTER BOXES

After the last Convention a resolution was drafted by Bro. J. O'Kelly of Ottawa to be sent to the Postmaster-General in regards to the subject of the postal department changing the color of paint used on the letter boxes. The resolution followed along the lines of that suggested at the Convention, and I forwarded same on to the Honourable the Postmaster-General. In reply I received the following communication:

Ottawa, 20th June, 1924.

D. H. Lamb, Esq., Secretary-Treasurer,
Ontario Fire Fighters' Association,
132 Bellevue Avenue, Toronto.

Dear Sir,—By direction, I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter addressed to the Honourable the Postmaster-General, with reference to resolution No. 17 passed at the Convention of the Ontario Fire Fighters in Hamilton, to the effect to have the Post Office letter boxes painted of colour other than red. I also acknowledge copy of your resolution on the above subject.

In reply I beg to advise that this matter has, on different occasions, been considered by the officers of this department, and the conclusion arrived at was that in view of the fact that the public have been educated to the colour of the letter boxes, it was not thought advisable to deviate from this colour, particularly owing to the fact that no other colour is quite as distinctive and discernible as red.

Should this department consider the change from red to any other colour it is the opinion that it would lead to numerous errors on the part of the public by attempting to post letters in fire alarm boxes.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) T. P. MURPHY,
Supt. Equipment and Supply.

In reply again to the above missive, I wrote as follows:

Toronto, July 2nd, 1924.

T. P. Murphy, Esq., Supt. Equipment and Supply,
Post Office Department, Ottawa, Canada.

Dear Sir,—Your favor of June 20th duly received in reply to my former communication, and glad to have same, although somewhat disappointed in not being as successful as what we had anticipated in our request.

We agree with you in saying that the color "red" is most distinctive, but we feel that in the matter of which of the two boxes, namely, letter boxes or fire boxes, are required in the most haste and more urgently, that of the two a matter of five minutes lost in posting a letter will not cause the damage that is caused through five minutes being lost in summoning fire apparatus to the scene of a fire. I feel that you will agree with me on this.

Our experience in active fire fighting is that the first five minutes of a fire is the most opportune time for a fireman and fire apparatus to get to the scene of same, for it is at that time of growth that the most damage can be brought to a stop. After a fire has had five minues' growth it will be found that it will then double its size and then in another couple of minutes will have trebled itself, and so on. Therefore, you can appreciate the significant necessity of fire apparatus not having anything to, in any one way or another, that will be the means of delaying an alarm being sent in and to hold up such apparatus.

Your communication will be referred to our next annual meeting which will be held on August 13th, 14th and 15th, 1924, and if before then any other action is taken on this matter by your department, I would greatly appreciate it if you will advise me of same.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) D. H. LAMB,
Secretary-Treasurer, Ontario Fire Fighters.

Up to this date no more word has been received on this matter.

RE RED LIGHTS

Acting in accord with the resolution referring to the local Hydro Board of each municipality having a red light over all fire boxes, the following resolution was drafted, but has not been sent out, as I thought it would be more advisable to bring this to your attention again first:

To the Municipal Hydro Electric Commission.

Gentlemen,—The Executive Committee of the Ontario Fire Fighters were instructed at our last Convention to take up with your board the matter of placing a "Red Globe" light at or near every fire alarm box in all municipalities.

As the majority of citizens are unfamiliar with the location of their nearest fire alarm box, and in many cases they actually pass one box to go several blocks away to ring an alarm for fire, we feel this should be remedied where possible.

Gentlemen, we feel we need not urge on you the absolute necessity of no delay in the case of a fire, as in many cases lives are depending on the arrival of the firemen.

This we feel could be put into operation at very small cost, if any, for globes are put on all lights, only of a different color than what we apply for, and yet this would be adding greatly to the protection of the public.

Trusting you will give this matter your earliest attention, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) D. H. LAMB.

The following is the resolution covering the item as mentioned in above communication:

RESOLUTION NO. 18

Whereas, in towns and cities of Ontario it is very difficult at night for citizens to locate a fire alarm box, and,

Whereas, as it is most vital that no moments should be wasted from the time when a fire is noticed until the alarm is sounded, as in such cases life and property is at stake, and,

Whereas, nearly all municipalities are blessed with the finest lighting facilities due to the Hydro-electric System of Ontario, and as some of the municipalities have already instituted a system as mentioned here following, therefore,

Be it resolved that we, the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, do take up with each Ontario municipality asking the Hydro-electric Commission of such municipalities to consider well the advisability of having placed over or as close to as possible a "red" globe instead of white or cream at all fire alarm boxes.

CONCLUSION

In bringing my report to a close I want to take this opportunity of conveying my appreciation to the officers I have been associated with in the past, and also the Branch Secretaries who have co-operated with me in most cases, and were it not for such assistance it would be next to impossible to carry out our work successfully.

During the past two years it will be found that organization membership has been falling off, so that we may consider ourselves somewhat superior to others, for our Federation has increased each year. It will often be heard that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and in the case of an organization such as ours the strength of the Federation generally depends upon the local strength, numerically, co-operatively and financially, of the Branches themselves. Let no one hear you say that a small group runs your Branch, for as you say it you are saying at the same time that you yourself are weak. Allow no group to run your Branch; get in there and go to work, you yourself and every member put your shoulder to the wheel, and you will find that the result will measure a full cup of success that will astound you. When you want something do not elect or select a committee to do it and then say, "Oh, the committee will do it." Find out from them if they are on the job, and if not, replace them with these who will work. Never mind the good fellow who always sides in with you; get the man to work who works irrespective of the consequence and who does such work cheerfully and with results.

The report I have given you only represents one item of the work done by the Federation, and the Executive Committee report covers the ground generally, and I have tried not to retrace any of their report.

I have tried in the past year, the same as in the previous years, to do my duty by the work alloted to me, and have endeavored to leave nothing undone that I thought would affect the Ontario Fire Fighters' betterment. What I have done has been to the best of my ability and with an ambition to at all times further the interests of the firemen, and yet at the same time hold no one aloof, but to gain their respect and confidence. Trusting that what I have done will meet with your approval, I have the honour to remain,

Fraternally and sincerely yours,
(Signed) D. H. LAMB,
Secretary-Treasurer, Ontario Fire Fighters.

MATTHEWS WAS REFUSED BAIL AND REMANDED

Appeared in Toronto Police Court To-day, Restored in Health—Partner Gets Reward.

LIKE A NEW MAN. Ready To Face Anything That May Come Along, Says His Counsel.

TORONTO, August 18 (Special to The Examiner). — In the Police Court to-day C. A. Matthews was remanded without bail for eight days.

Application for bail was refused.

Matthews' counsel J .Seymour Corley, made a strenuous appeal for bail, stating that there had been no trouble getting bail for Home Bank officials and directors. Matthews, he said, had come back voluntarily.

Mr. McRuer, Crown Attorney —He took a long time to come back."

Mr. Corley — The Province waited three months to lay a charge against him.

Mr. McRuer — My learned friend should not get unduly excited.

Matthews candidly admits now that his hurried departure from Toronto last March was a mistake.

"I was nervous and upset—I did not know what I was doing," said Matthews. "Now I realise that it was a mistake."

"But there is one thing I want to say, and that is that I will never forget the loyalty of my Toronto friends and their kindness to me in my time of trouble."

Mathews also told The Examiner that he had been planning to return voluntarily even before Bennett tipped off the police and had him arrested.

"I was thinking about it and had been advised to come back," said Matthews.

"I would ha .e come anyway, even if I had not been arrested."

Confirmation of this came from J. W .Seymour Corley, K.C., his counsel, who said that he had advised Matthews against going away, and after he went Mr. Corley advised his Toronto friends, if they could communicate with him, to urge him to return.

Edmund Bennett, Matthews' late partner in the lunch waggon, will get the reward for "tipping off" the police as to him being wanted in Toronto.

The Province offered a reward of $2,500 for Matthews return in custody to Ontario. Of this amount, $1,000 was payable upon his apprehension in the United States, and the rest when he was handed into custody on the Canadian side of the border.

Inspector Boyd brought back to the city the required affidavits that Bennett is entitled to the full reward.

The papers are to the effect that the United States immigration officers idenified Bennett as the man who gave the information resulting in Matthews arrest in Santa Clara in the lunch waggon, and the other is a statement from Boyd identifying Matthews as the man wanted in Toronto.

The reward will be forwarded to Bennett through the British Office in Washington.

Told His Partner.

It was Matthews' anxiety to be "on the level" with Edmund Bennett, his partner in the lunch waggon business at Santa Clara, California, that brought about his arrest. Bennett was the man who uncovered Matthews to the immigration authorities.

"How did Bennett know who you were and that you were wanted by the police?" The Examiner asked Matthews.

"Bennett, after some time in business with me, expressed a desire to go home, to give up the lunch waggon trade. He wanted to go to Southern California, he told me, where he said his parents lived. He asked me to come along. I felt I could not go to his home and accept his hospitality under the circumstances surrounding myself, and I made up my mind to tell him all about myself, to tell him the facts. I took him into my confidence and told him the truth. He told me, 'I hope they will never get you—I'll protect you all I can,' he said, 'not to worry,' and said 'I'll not give you away.' Then in a few days he sold me out. I haven't anything to say. He was a very fine chap, stated he was well connected, and I believed him."

"Did you see him after you were arrested?"

"No, he never came back—not even to say good-bye to me."

"Did you ever find out who he was?"

"No, and no one seemed to know who he was."

"Where did you first meet him?"

"I was looking around to secure a small business, and called on an agency which had businesses for sale. That is where I first met him. We went in.o the car washing game. Business was bad, and we gave it up and bought the sandwich waggon."

Health Restored.

It was a vastly different Charley Matthews who returned to Toronto —a very different man from the near wreck, physically and nervously, who left Toronto on 28th March. Then he was in a state of breakdown —a nervous collapse.

Now he seems healthy and comparatively happy. His homecoming has lifted from his heart the fear of the fugitive from the law. His eye is clear, his face is a ruddy tan, the result of his open-air life in California, his step is firm and elastic, and the smile rarely leaves his face while he is in conversation. When he is left to his own thoughts his face becomes graver, while he no doubt ponders over what is ahead of him.

Both his father and his counsel expressed their pleasure at the transformation in Matthews.

"He is a new man." said Mr. Corley, "healthy, happy and normal again."

"He is greatly improved," said the father. "He is ready to face whatever may come now and go through with it."

Matthews no longer wore the apparel of the vendor of hot dogs. The corduroy trousers and khaki shirt were gone. Discards of a period now passed. Instead, he wore a Add More Take 1 No heading .... dark brown tweed suit, a soft felt hat, a soft collar and polka dot tie—all making up a fairly presentable appearance, though one could hardly describe him as dapper or dashing in his new outfit.

Matthews had brought along his lunch counter attire, including the corduroy trousers and flannel shirt, but they were in his bag merely carried along to be kept as souvenirs of his California sojourn.

Met at Chicago.

The former deputy was met at Chicago by his father, Charles A. Matthews, Sr., and by his counsel, Corley, who happened to be in Chicago on business connected with an estate there.

Hurrying across the platform, the father, all smiles, greeted his son, whose face was also one big smile.

"Hello Charley."

"Hello, dad."

That was all the greeting in words, but the warmth of the grip of the hands was eloquent of the feelings of both.

Matthews has had a lot of newspaper notoriety, and has seen a lot of newspaper men in the past few weeks.

He could smile as he shook hands. But all he had to say just then was that he was glad to be, "so near home again."

There was no time for talking at the point. The group moved off down the platform, father and son.

Matthews, Jr., refused to let his father carry his big black bag, but the elder man insisted, and together they carried it along.

"How are all the folks back home?" was the first query of the ex-deputy. And he smiled again as he was assured that all were well.

"Did you see anyone on the streets in San Francisco that you knew?" he was asked.

"Only once I saw a woman who I think knew my mother—but she did not see me."

"Did you keep out of sight?"

"No, sir—I was all about the city, went to shows . The statements in some papers that I hid here and there when I saw a policeman is not so."

Matthews stated when he first went out to the Coast he had planned to secure a position as secretary or clerical work. "I went to business college at night," he said. "I was anxious to learn typewriting. But the five-finger system bothered me. I could not get on to it, so I gave it up. I tried for a job, but references were required. I could not get any, and I could not fake one. I was not clever enough for that."

"You never know what you can do until you try," stated Matthews, as to why he went into the lunch waggon business and sold hot dogs and hamburger sandwiches in Santa Clara. His eyes twinkled and his sunny smile broke all over his tanned face.

"It certainly was funny when I look back and picture the stand down near the university. I would slice a bun, spread some butter on it, and then a lettuce leaf, some hamburger steak, and a pickle. I would ask the students if they wanted a sweet or sour pickle, and would slice it. If they wanted to carry it away we would wrap it up in a napkin.

"Did you make any money selling hamburgers?"

"Just a fair business. We had only started about two weeks. I have to laugh now when I think about it."

"Were they appetizing?" "Well, no one complained —the students seemed to take to them."

Matthews is genial and affable and ready to chat with newspaper men — but he does not tell them much. At least not much that matters.

At any mention of the bond deals he shuts up like the proverbial clam. The word "toll gate" is not one to cause his tongue to loosen. He has decided not to discuss those matters, for they are the things that affect his case. And further, he has been warned by his counsel not to discuss them. So "mum's the word" so far as Ontario's bond matters are concerned when the former Deputy Provincial Treasurer is talking.

It is now a well known fact that Charles Matthews, Jr., left Toronto without the knowledge, and against the advice of, both his father and his counsel, J. Seymour Corley, K.C.

In fact since the winter night when G. M. Hart and Alex Ross made their revelation before the Public Accounts Commission, the younger Matthews had studiously avoided meeting his father or discussing the matter with him because of the fear that it would worry and disturb his parent.

"But he was in a very nervous state and had been under a severe strain before he left," said the father to The Examiner as the train sped to Chicago. If the man had not left home when he did he might have collapsed altogether.

"He is coming back a different and much better man in point of health," said Mr. Matthews, Sr.

Discussingg the case against his son, the father said: "When you look at the whole matter you will remember that Charley handled some $19,000,000 in bonds and the only item cited against him is that one of $3,300 in connection with the Hart-Ross affair; as I see it if the charge is true he has not been guilty of a breach of any commandment in the decalogue, and if every man who ever took a commission were pilloried, there would be a lot of them under fire.

"And if a man were out to gather commissions the sum of $3,300 out of $19,000,000 would seem rather small."

It has come to light that before Charles Matthews left Toronto his house was shadowed by police in some interesting disguises. A motor car stood near his home on Runnymede road for hours with the figure of a woman in the front seat—patiently waiting for the return of the driver, but a little closer scrutiny revealed that the woman was not a woman at all, but a Provincial sleuth wearing a woman's wig and gown. Female impersonation is one of the new accomplishments of the force.

BELCOURT GIVES PREMIER CREDIT

Successful Termination of Conference Due to Tact of MacDonald.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press.) — Wonderful patience and constant resourcefulness of Premier Ramsay MacDonald were features of the recent International conference which chiefly impressed Senator N. A. Belcourt, Canadian representative at conference. Senator Belcourt declared to the Canadian Press that the successful termination of the conference was due to the British Prime Minister more than to anyone else. MacDonald's great tact and conspicuous ability were notable features of the conference throughout, he said. "The French Premier by his clear vision, unfailing courage and good will, earned the unquestionable right to gratitude of his own people, the Senator proceeded, and indeed the gratitude of the world at large. The Canadian Senator expressed admiration for attitude of United States' Ambassador Kellogg and United States' Secretary Hughes. The results of the conference, he said, ushered in a new era full of hope for the betterment of mankind. Disarmament was the next great task and who would dare say now that such was beyond possibility of achievement.

NEW ONTARIO ISSUE.

Bond Issue Will Be Used For Refunding Purposes.

TORONTO August 18 (Canadian Press). — The Ontario Government is now calling for tenders on the twenty million dollar issue of 4 1-2 per cent. bonds of twenty-year term, payable in London, New York. Toronto, and Montreal.

The issue when floated will be used for refunding purposes.

Speaking in connection with the decision to enter the market for money, Provincial Treasurer Price stated that it was nearly a year since the Province placed a long term issue of bonds when forty million dollars was raised. The fact that Ontario had been out of the Canadian market for about a year and the New York market for almost two years should make for a good demand in these centres, he said, for the new issue.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

Peter Tarlesky Shoots Wife Because of Alleged Advances Towards Other Men.

SARNIA, August 18 (Canadian Press). — Enraged because of his wife's alleged advances toward other men, Peter Tarlesky, forty years of age, shot and dangerously wounded her at her home here yesterday.

Tarlesky fled from the scene after the shooting, but was arrested on returning to get his hat.

LEEKING ARRESTED.

HAMILTON, Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Joseph Leeking, arrested in Orillia, was committed today on charge of robbing the safe of one of the branches of the Imperial Oil Company of $252. A constable swore that he recognized Leeking, former employee of the company, as he stood outside the safe on the night of the robbery. Thinking the man was still employed there, he did not bother him.

HEAR ADDRESS ON ARCHITECTURE

Rotarian Blackwell Delivers Instructive Treatise on Ancient and Important Science.

"This is Charlie Meekins," said Rotarian Chris. Graham, in introducing his guest at to-day's Rotary luncheon—"Charlie Meekins, the leading man in 'Merry Widows,' and the man that amde 'Merry Widows' famous."

In a couple of delightful solos Mr. Meekins awakened the members from their midsumemr dreariness. His broad smile and strong magnetic voice enlivened the gathering.

The popular conception in the mind of the public as to what an architect is and the work that he does, is, in many cases, very hazy, and sometimes at variance with the actual facts, Rotarian Walter Blackwell, the speaker of the day, said in an instructive treatise on architecture.

His paper proved a revelation to the members present and gave them a truer conception of the multifarious duties of an architect, which as the average man understands, is the preparation of plans and specifications by an impractical person.

The conception of ideas only are involved in the plan. Then comes the modification of these, by consultations with the owner, the preparation of the working drawings and specifications, which is a part of the work involving a knowledge of materials, their strength, comparative costs, their adaptability for the purposes for which they are used, and their appearance in the finished building. Following this there is the advertisement of tenders, the advising is to letting contracts, the drawing of contractural documents, and the superintendence of the work which involves not "policing" of the work but technical assistance to the contractor in his work, which gives the owner the assurance that he is getting the desired results.

The old copybook platitude that "necessity is the mother of invention" is more applicable to architecture than perhaps any other science, remarked the speaker.

Rotarian Blackwell's outline of the progress of architecture from its inception was very interesting. He pointed out the triumps and marked achievements of the modern science from the time nature forced the antediluvian forebears of the present generation to raise some crude protection to themselves from the elements of the weather through a series of experiments, errors, accidents, discoveries and corrections, until the art was developed to the degree it is known to-day.

It was shown that at the present time legislation is pending to regulate the practice of this ancient and important science as the professions of law, medicine and dentistry are now regulated.

Although a University course is essential, stated the speaker, the continued study and enlarging experience of actual practice is the most important part of the training.

Rotarian Blackwell has had a varied and extensive experience as a metropolitan architect, and while in New York had occasion to design and frequently visit structures in the different parts of the United States, Honolulu, West Indies, Panama Canal Zone, and Costa Rica. His instructive discourse to-day radiated with interest, and President Jack McDermid, in thanking the speaker, remarked that the members' appreciation had rewarded Rotarian Blackwell for the care and pains taken by him in preparing his address.

It was announced by Rotarian Dr. MacPherson that 11 of the 15 crippled children were now under treatment. Three have received operations in the Hospital for Sick Children, one of whom is returning for a second operation. Two of the cases are of such an nature said Rotarian MacPherson that they can be cared for locally and operations were performed on them about two weeks ago.

Two others mentioned by the speaker are under treatment for club feet.

The careful observation shown by Rotarian MacPherson in regard to these cases was stressed by the President.

Rotarian Fred Roy reported on the Boys' Camp, outlining the activities of Thursday, August 14, the camp field day. At the present time 58 boys are at the camp which taxes the accommodation to capacity. The work of Superintendent Mowatt was highly commended by Rotarian Roy who urged the members to show more encouragement to the movement by visiting more frequently the Rotary Boys' Camp.

ONE WAS KILLED.

Two Others Seriously Injured When Car Overturned.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Annie Duplin, 20, was instantly killed and her sister Simonne Duplin and her aunt Miss Oliva Duplin all of Sherbrooke, were seriously injured when the automobile in which they were driving over-turned into a ditch. Three ambulances answered the call and in their efforts to reach the scene of the accident one left the road and ran into a field and overturned, no one was hurt.

BEFORE AND AFTER

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 18.—What is the fine distinction between a "boyish bob" and a "mannish trim" The question is to be settled for the first time in the courts here.

Miss Laura Norton started out to become "boyish" and left the barber chair entirely "mannish." Some 500 hairs too many have been clipped from her head, she says, and she demands $1 for each of them from Michael Schloss, the barber.

The male Delilah sheared this feminine Sampson of the great strength that lies in beauty, and thus reversed in modern setting the Biblical tale, she avers.

She lost her job and could not get another, she recites. And, to set a precedent for all bobbed womanhood, she up and sued for damages.

The photographs herewith reproduced have been introduced by her lawyer as evidence and the rest is up to the judge who will have to possess Solomon-like tact if he is to face his wife after the verdict.

BETHANY OUTFIT HERE WEDNESDAY

Mackeys and Bethany Meet at Fair Grounds in Semi-Finals.

On Wednesday evening the Exhibition Grounds will be the scene of a regular ball game when Bob Mackey's bread makers, who defeated the Indians, the Cogs, and a few others in the East Peterborough League, and won the championship handily, fly into the fast team from Bethany in the first game of the semi-finals for the Ontario chamionship.

Bethany are hoisted high in the air as a ball team, and they are reported to carry with them a couple of snappy ball tossers. They figure on doing away with the Mackey outfit, and then take a crack at the C.G.E., who they figure might give them a harder battle.

Bob Mackey says his lads will take this out of them when they come up here on Wednesday. He is confident that his team was by far the best in the East Peterborough League, and that they will give Bethany the fight of their lives.

Lefty Connors, who speeded them across for Mackey's in their last game with the Cogs, will likely do the gunning against the Bethany boys.

The game is sure to be a good one, and a large crowd of fans will turn out to cheer the Peterborough boys on their way for the Ontario Th game is called for 5.45 sharp.

ANNUAL CONTEST.

Judge Says Peterborough Gardens Equal To Any in Province.

"Generally speaking, the appearance of the gardens was a credit to the owners and the Horticultural Society, being equal to anything the judges have seen in any part of the province." Such was the summing up of the impressions expressed by Mr. H. J. Moore, Lecturer on Horticulture, Department of Agriculture, Provincial Government, at the conclusion of the judging of the Annual Lawn and Garden Competition, in which he was assisted by Mr. Marshall, Superintendent of Queen's Park, Toronto.

Mr. Moore also stated: "While inspecting the various gardens, Mr. Marshall and I noticed several features that were worthy of commendation. Generally the owners of same had shown considerable taste in laying out the surroundings and in the arrangement of the subjects, the tendency being to make the plantation at the edges of the lawns rather than crowd the centre of same with flowers and shrubs. The arrangement of planting material at the sides of the lawn is proper."

Fences.

"In some cases it was noticed that the old board fences were disappearing, thus making the surroundings more pleasing and favoring the better diffusion of light and the distribution of air in the gardens and around the homes. This is a very important thing as it tends to give the plants a better chance for development, through better health,, and also affords better sanitation in every way."

Class H—School and pubilc institutions, possible score 100 points.

First, $3.00, Standard Medical Clinic, Charlotte Street, 65 points.

Second, $2.00, Public Library, George Street, 62 1-2 points.

Third, $1.00, Collegiate Institute, McDonnel St., 61 points.

Special Comment.

Mr. Moore in his report to the Society says that one of the lawns, that of Mrs .Stacey, was the best that the judges have seen anywhere during the present year, and it is a pity that other features, which would have given Mrs. Stacey a very high score, were lacking.

The layout at the Clinic was fine, and while entered in the Public Institutions Class, should probably be in a class by itself. The public Library merits the first prize in the public institutions class.

Mr. Derry receives two first prizes, and rightly merited, as the garden is a model one.

Belleville Lose Last Game -- Yankees Gain on Pursuers -- North Dummer Beat Grey Birds

PETES BUNCHED HITS AND BEAT THE TRUNKS 8-2

Ninth Straight Victory Did Not Affect League Standing and Was Listless.

FIELDING FEATURES

Johnston, Hall and Heckman in Limelight—Harrison Finished Game.

Peterboro experienced little difficulty in winning their ninth straight game on Saturday when they defeated the tamed Belleville team in their postponed game at Riverside Park, by 8 runs to 2. As the game had no bearing on the league standing, the Petes, having already won the second section, it was rather listless, as such affairs usually are, apart from sensational fielding plays by Hall, Johnston and Heckman.

Hall's catch of Casey's drive in the sixth was "big league" and the feature play of the local season. Williams had led off with a double and Casey drove one on a line between Hall and Turner which looked good for three bases at least, but Hall starting at the crack of the bat came far into right field and just managed to pull the ball down with his gloved hand, completing an almost impossible catch.

Johnston made a brilliant stop of Weir's single over second in the third and Heckman got in the way of a hard smash from H. Mills and threw the runner out at first.

and threw the runner out at first.

While the Trunks out-hit the Petes 9 to 6, their hits were kept scattered while the locals, as has been their habit of late, injected theirs where they would do the most damage, as a result of which eight of the eleven Petes who reached first scored, one perished stealing and only one was left stranded, whereas nine Belleville runners waited for transportation home. The big innings was the sixth when Collins cleared the bases with a timely double to left.

Oulette In Form.

"Iron-man" Oulette showed no visible effects of his strenuous season and let the Petes down with six hits but was unfortunate in having these bunched in a couple of innings along with his two charities and a costly error by Manager Gerow who was forced into the game as the result of an unfortunate accident to Meagher who was hit between innings by an overthrow at first base.

Heckman worked the first five innings to keep in shape for the play-off games this week with Kingston and was going nicely, holding the Trunks to 5 scattered hits and one unearned run, fanning five and walking none. Harrison finished the game and the big fellow also had little trouble in turning back the visitors, who, with the exception of Ross and Weir, showed little life on the attack.

Belleville at Bat.

Ross opened the game grounding to Heckman, and the pitcher also threw out Mills making nice stop of the first-baseman's hard smash, after Weir had reached first on Batten's error. Hagerman ended the inning by rolling in the second. Williams fanned. Casey flew out to Turner and Young, a new man, missed three.

Two hits were wasted in the third. Meagher led off with a single to right. Oulette fanned. Ross sacrificed Meagher to second, Heckman making the assist. Weir singled over second but Johnston made a brilliant stop and held Meagher on third. Legon was under Mills' fly to end the inning. In the fourth Hagerman singled off Collins. Williams popped to Heckman attempting to sacrifice. Casey flew out to Legon. Young singled to left but Meagher's fly was easy for Legon.

Trunks Get One.

Belleville scored their first run in the fifth. Oulette struck out but Ross was safe when Collins missed his roller. Weir singled through third sending Ross to third and reaching second on the throw. Batten threw out Mills, Ross scoring on the play. Hagerman then fanned.

In the sixth with Harrison pitching Williams led off with a double to right which looked like a sure hit but Hall made sensational catch and almost doubled Williams off second with a quick return. Harrison threw out Young and Gerow batting for Meagher fanned.

The Trunks put over their final run of the season in the seventh. Oulette was thrown out by Moore, Ross singled through first, stole second and went to third on Swanston's low throw. Weir beat out a hit to Batten scoring Ross. Weir stole second. Mills walked. Hagerman flew out to Moore and Williams popped to Johnston.

The visitors were retired in order in the eighth. Casey grounded to Moore, Young flew to Collins and Batten threw out Gerow. Oulette started the ninth by fanning for the third time. Ross hit through short but was caught off first and was out, Harrison to Moore. Legon was under Weir's fly to end the game.

The Petes' Runs.

The Petes scored two runs in the first without a hit. Batten was safe when Meagher fumbled his roller. Legon was hit, Swanston sacrificed sending Batten to third and Legon to second. Batten scored on a wild pitch and Legon went to third on Harrison's long fly to Casey, the right fielder just managing to get it. Williams threw out Heckman to retire the side.

The locals were easy in the second. Johnstan fanned, Collins hit weakly to Oulette and Hall struck out. In the third Turner struck out. Batten got a hit through short. Legon fouled to Hagerman on an attempt to sacrifice and Swanston was thrown out by Williams. The fourth was also unproductive. Harrison was out, Oulette to Mills, Heckman grounded to Mills and Meagher threw out Johnston. Likewise the fifth when Collins hit a foul to Williams, Weir threw out Hall and Turner fanned.

The Big Inning.

The sixth was the big inning for the Petes. Batten started by grounding to Weir. Legon walked and stole second. Swanston sacrificed, Oulette to Mills, Legon going to third. Harrison hit to Willaims for what should have been the third out but Gerow playing first dropped the throw, Legon scoring. Moore bounced a hit off Gerow's shins and Johnston walked, filling the bases. Collins was equal to the occasion and placed a high one in left out of everyone's reach, clearing the sacks. Collins was out trying to make third on the hit.

There was nothing doing in the seventh. Hall flew out to Ross playing second, Turner fanned and Batten grounded to Mills. In the eighth the Petes put two more runs over for good measure, Legon tapped one in front of the plate and was out Hagerman to Mills. Swanston singled through the box and scored on Harrison's mammoth triple to centre. Moore got his second hit, a single to right and was out stealing. Johnston fanned to retire the side.

SEEKS SIXTH TITLE.

Helen Mills Paired With Richards In Mixed Doubles.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., August 18.—Miss Helen Wills, who gained her fifth major crown of the season Saturday, when she was victorious in both the women's national singles and doubles finals, will bid for a sixth title next week when she plays in the national mixed doubles at Boston with Vincent Richards, youthful Davis Cup star as her partner.

This brings into partnership the two outstanding younger stars of the United States tennis ranks for the first time and their progress will be watched with interest against such combinations as William A. Tilden and Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, the champions; Rene Lacoste of France and Miss Eleanor Gose and Jean Borotra, another French Davis Cup star, and Mrs. George W. Wightman.

BATTLE ON FOR THE CITY TITLE

Averages for Curlers and Leafs Show Both Teams Are Strong.

DELAHAYE HIT .368

Bradley and Wood Whiff 105 Batsmen in Six Games Played.

To-morrow evening at Exhibition Park, Curlers and Maple Leafs enter the series to decide the championship of the City Juvenile division.

The Leafs won the title in 1922 and repeated in 1923. Home and home games will be played and a third contest if necessary.

In the six games played in the regular series the teams split even. Curlers won the odd game for the first half by 2 to 0, and the Leafs the third game for the second half by 4 to 1.

Each team is credited with 31 hits. The Leafs led in extra-base clouts, getting four doubles, four triples and a homer, as against four two-baggers from the Curlers' bats. Barrie contributed two, and Ash and Wood one each. For the Leafs Delahaye hit two three baggers and a double; Corbett had a double, triple and a homer. Franks also had a triple. Bradley got one double, and Hall one before leaving the team to join the Curlers.

"Chuck" Bradley had a big edge in the whiffing department with 63 strikeouts as against 42 by Wood. The Leafs' heaver had a no-run, no-hit game and Wood had one shut-out.

The Curlers had ten errors and the Leafs fifteen.

Here are the statistics:

	Won.	Lost.	Runs.	Hits.	Errors
Curlers	3	3	18	31	10
Leafs	3	3	20	31	15

ANZACS TAKE SERIES.

Patterson and Wood Complete the Victories Over Japanese.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., August 18 (Canadian Press) Australia smashed its way to a complete victory on Saturday in the American zone Davis Cup finals, when Gerald L. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, Australian stars, won their two final singles matches against Sunao Okamoto and Zenzo Shimizu of Japan in straight sets.

Patterson defeated Okamoto 7-5, 6-1, 6-4, while Wood triumphed over Shimizu 6-1, 8-4 6-2.

By virtue of these two victories, the Anzacs made a clean sweep of the entire five matches, winning the four singles matches and the one doubles match.

By winning this series, the Australians qualify for the inter-zone finals, and will meet the French team, winners of the European zone finals, at Boston on 4th, 5th and 6th September.

TORONTO SWIMMER'S WIN.

MONTREAL, August 18 (Canadian Press). — Scoring a double victory, George Young, representing the Queen City Swimming Club of Toronto, won the bridge-to-bridge swim, and the 220-yard Dominion championship at Ste. Rose on Saturday.

Young's performances were outstanding. In the shorter race he defeated Clayton Bourne, and in the bridge-to-bridge competition he beat an entry of over thirty.

CAN. WOOLLENS GOT TWO MORE LEAGUE POINTS

Blowers and Mitchell Were the Marksmen in a Clean Game.

DEFENSE PLAY GOOD

The Quakers Were Minus the Shooting Boots on Saturday.

The postponed soccer league game between the Canadian Woollens and Quaker Oats, played on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls' Oval, resulted in a victory for the former by the score of three goals to nothing. Boths teams were at full strength and the class of soccer was excellent.

First Half.

Mitchell set the ball in motion to visit Quakers' goal, but Honor and Willshaw frustrated the attack easily. Mayette went away on his own into Woollen area, where the Quakers forwards peppered the goal from long range, until Chambers headed forward and then punted to mid-field. Markman trapped quickly, sending his right wing men along the wing. Willshaw tackled, but the combination beat him. He came back again at them in time to nullify their career. Exchanges were even and fast, until Blowers, setting an example to the forwards, beat Pellow with a lightning drive from thirty yards out. After this reverse, the Quakers visited the Woollens goalie without any success. They tried the close-passing play, then altered their style to long swinging, which was more to their opponents liking. This was the "porridge" boys' mistake, because the half-backs of the Woollens were tackling very closely, and in this respect the newcomer—Foster, at right half—produced the goods. A timely pass by Foster culminated in Ward getting a successful corner which he placed to the centre-forward (Mitchell) to head the ball past Pellow for the second goal. The first half period found the Quakers still holding the Woollens from shotting range. Woollens2, Quakers 0.

Second Half.

Upon resuming, Craig and Wyllie initiated a desperate raid upon Hillman's goal. The centre-forward tested the goalie twice with fast shots which gave him lots of trouble. Mayette evaded Blowers, then Chambers, to send in a fast ground shot that Hillman picked up nicely, while Wyllie was a second too late to finish an effort to tally. Quick as a flash, Gaskill did the same thing at the other end. Ther was no harder worker than Wyllie in front of goal. He dribbled too much, when a timely pass to his inside men would have been more productive. Both inside men were starved, while the extreme men were overworked. No sooner had Wyllie tested Hillman than Blowers went away down the field on the touch-line. Downes accepted the ball on the run, beat Logan, centred into goal, where two Quaker players hesitated to kick, Gaskill tapped it over to Ward who lifted the ball between the foll backs. Mitchell saw the opening to break in between and finished with an accurate header that Pellow never saw. A minute later, the Quakers goalie robbed his previous marksman as he fisted the ball off his head. Honor cleared. Blowers checked Metcalfe, then got the ball to his favorite foot—the left— that gave the goalkeeper a few anxious moments. With a three-goal lead, the Woollens did not relax because the red and black sweater boys were making raid after raid that was unsuccessful; so far as scoring was concerned. The Quaker forwards were minus their shooting boots on Saturday, otherwise their outfield play was worth while witnessing. Play run from end to end until the finish of the short seventy minutes, and the Woollens winning a very nice, clean game by three goals to nothing. Full time—Woollens, 3; Quakers, 0.

Goal-scorers—Blowers, Mitchell (2).

Quakers—Pellow, goal; Honor and Willshaw, backs; Logan, Metcalfe and Soutar, half-backs; Mayette, Craig, Wyllie, Wilson and Scott, forwards.

Woollens—Hillman, goal; Cridland and Chambers, back; Foster, Monkman and Blowers, half-backs; Ward, Gaskill, Mitchell, Hodgson and Downes, forwards.

Referee—A. Mitchell.

PENNOCK WINS FROM THURSTON

Yankees Take Sunday Game From White Sox—Tigers Lose to Senators.

ONLY TWO GAMES

NEW YORK, August 17.—Pennock and Thurston hooked up in a pitching battle here to-day which was not settled until the last man was out in the ninth. New York defeated Chicago by a score of 2 to 1. The Yankees got their two runs in the sixth inning on Witt's double, Dugan's triples and Ruth's fielder's choice. Score:

Chicago ..... 000 000 010—1 7 1
New York.. ..000 002 00x—2 4 0
Thurston and Schalk; Pennock and Schang.

The Master's Hand

WASHINGTON, August 17.—Walter Johnson allowed but four hits to-day and Washington from Detroit 8 to 1. Detroit scored in the ninth when with two out, Jones hit a fast grounder to Peckinpaugh which bounded over his shoulder for a single and O'Rourke followed with a double to center, resulting in the one tally. Score:

Detroit ..... ,000 000 001—1 4 0
Washington.. .230 000 03x—8 16 0
Wells, Holloway, Cole and Bassler Johnson and Ruel.

THISTLES TOO MUCH FOR VETS

An Uninteresting Game in the Phelan Charity Semi-Final.

SCORE 3 TO 0.

The Vets were eliminated from the Phelan Charity Cup tie on Saturday afternoon by the Thistles by three goals to nothing in one of the most uninteresting games ever played in the city in years.

When time arrived for the start of the Phelan Charity Cup tie both teams were lacking players, owing to the holiday season, and they mustered together only eight men apiece. Play was farcical on opening, which was caused by the defense men playing the one-back game to perfection. Referee Clark started a tiresome afternoon when the delicate question of offsides was creeping up at every moment, but he made no mistake in any of his decisions, which were accepted as correct in his findings. Richmond was the first to make things interesting as he sent over the bar from close range. At the other end Dyer, then Clark, tested the Thistles' goalkeeper with mid-air shots. An individual effort by Burgess left Crowe and Wasson behind in the running. Everybody expected a goal, but what a shout went up when the little outside left shied up as high as the Lift Lock. Play was lacking in any thrills, although Richmond and Dyer with their drives passing the uprights by inches, kept the spectators in good humor. Both teams got unsuccessful corners just before half-time. No scoring.

Second Half.

After the customary interval, the players indulged in the long swinging passes that altered the game. Rae, at full-back, was a host in himself and held the Vets' forwards in check around the goal. His craftiness, along with Anderson and Jackson in offside manoevres, frustrated any serious attacks that Griffin would try to lead. The cause of any trouble to the Scots' defense was mostly from Clark on the right wing, who was brilliant in tricky passing and deadly shots at goal that Curtis found were full of sting. Dawson robbed the Vets' forwards, travelled past Mann, then drew the defense out, while McPhail sent across a ball to Richmond. Wasson headed it out of the attacking forwards' reach. Dawson caught the rebound quickly and let drive at close range. Quicker than it is to write, Crowe, in his frantic endeavors to clear his goal, finished Dawson's effort by back-healing past Frick. Underwood came on the field to make Vets nine men against eight. After ten minutes of five-a-side tactics, Richmond added number two from a well-placed corner kick from Burgess in amongst a sea of legs, Later Richmond added number three. Play thereafter was of an uninteresting character until the referee sounded a very welcome final blow, as the rain was starting to come down heavily. Thistles, 3; Vets, 0.

Goal-scorers—Richmond, 2, and Dawson.

The Teams.

G.W.V.A.—Frick, goal; Wasson and Crowe, backs; Underwood and Mann, half-backs; Clark, Griffin, Dyer and Hanson, forwards.

Thistles—Curtis, goal; Rae, full-back; Anderson, Dawson and Jackson, half-backs; McPhail, Richmond and Burgess, forwards.

DETROIT BOAT FAST

Baby Gar's IV Won $5,000 Trophy at the Buffalo Regatta.

BUFFALO, N.Y., August 18 (Canadian Press). — Baby Gar's IV., owned and driven by Gar Wood of Detroit, on Saturday won her third straight 50-mile heat in the Buffalo Launch Club regatta on the Niagara River course, to capture the Fisher-Allison Gold Cup, valued at $5,000.

As in the first two heats, the Detroit speedboat was not extended to win. It is the first leg that Gar Wood has won on the prize trophy, which will become the permanent possession of the owner who wins it three times.

An average speed of 42.06 miles an hour was made by Baby Gar IV. for the 150 miles.

DOUBLE-HEADER FOR BROOKLYN

Rixey and Donohue Batted Out of Box—Giants and Pirates Idle.

MARGIN THREE GAMES

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17.—Brooklyn knocked both Rixey and Donohue out of the box to-day and won both games of the double header, 9 to 4 and 8 to 5. Dibut, just recalled from the Florida League, pitched the last five innings of the second game without allowing a hit. Score:

1st game

Brooklyn ..... 001 101 420—9 15 4
Cincinnati ..... 013 000 000—4 7 1
Ehrhardt and Deberry; Rixey, May and Hargrave.

Cincinnati .... 010 200 002—5 11 1
Osborne and Taylor; Donohue, Benton, Dibut and Wingo.

Pitcher's Battle

CHICAGO, August. 17—Chicago's bunched its hits in the first inning to-day and defeated Philadelphia 2 to 1 in a pitcher's battle between Blake and Oeschger, the former having the edge over his veteran rival. Score:

Philadelphia .. 000 100 000—1 9 0
Chicago ..... 200 000 00x—2 6 1
Oeschger, Glazner and Henline; Blake and Hartnett.

Got To Haines

ST. LOUIS, August 17. — The Braves pounded Haines for four hits in the seventh inning, which, together with an error by Cooney and a sacrifice fly, broughto in four runs and Boston took the third and final game of the series frdom the Cardinals to-day 4 to 2. Score:

Boston .....000 000 400—4 6 0
St. Louis .....000 000 110—2 6 2
Benton and Gibson; Haines, Bell and Gonzales.

MISS WILLS WON TWO.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., August 18.—Miss Helen Wills on Saturday scored a double triumph in the finals of the women's national tennis championships. The California girl retained her singles crown by decisively defeating Mrs. Molla B. Mallory of New York 6-1, 6-3, while paired with Mrs. George W. Wightman of Boston, she gained the doubles title by conquering Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessu of Wilmington, Del., 6-4, 6-3.

BIRDS LOST TO NORTH DUMMER

Peterboro Team Leading at Half-Time 3-2, But Township Finished Strong.

FINAL SCORE 4-3.

The Greybirds journeyed to North Dummer on Saturday afternoon, and in a keen and well contested game the township won by 4 goals to 3. They Greybirds had the assistance of H. Gardner, a London school boy, who played a splendid game.

The Greybirds won the toss and had the elements in their favour. Cross made a dashing run down the right and sent across the goal. Bryan saved at the expense of a corner. Jenkins opened the scoring with a splendid drive that beat Bryan all the way. The township men now woke up and by some nice combined play Bell equalized. Gardner was very conspicuous and sent in a drive which hit the crossbar. Vinet met the rebound and put the Greybirds ahead with a shot well out of the reach of Bryan. From the centre kick Darling eased away and sent straight for goal, Fenner bringing off a great save. The township men were now on their mettle and brought great pressure to bear on the Greybirds' goal. The two young backs, Linsey and Downer, were having an anxious time, and it fell to the lot of the sharpshooter, Munro, to equalize, beating Fenner with a terrific shot. The game now became fast and exciting, first one goal and then the other, both having narrow escapes. Gardner got possession and evading all opposition, scored the best goal of the game. Half time arrived with the Greybirds leading by 3 goals to 2.

Second Half.

After the usual refresher, the township men began to force matters, and Fenner and his backs were kept busy. Connors, who was in the limelight, kept sending his forwards away with some nice ground passes. Jenkins accepted and sent in a beautiful shot which hit the cross bar. Gardner met the rebound and missed by inches from the goal kick. Darling went away and sent to Batten, who sent in a shot well out of the reach of Fenner. The ball was sent out to Payne. He sent in a beautiful centre. Fenner fisted out. Munro met the sphere and directed well out of Fenner's reach.

Time was soon afterwards called and the township were left winners of a keenly and pleasantly contested game by four goals to three.

The visitors were entertained to supper after the game, which was greatly appreciated. The teams:

Greybirds— Fenner, A. Downer, Linsey, Conners, Mowry, Nicholls, Cross, N. Vinet, H. Gardner, McCellan, Jenkins.

North Dummer—Bryan, H. Batten, A. Jory, G. Little, H. Jory, Taylor, R. Payne, Bell, Batten, Munro, Darling.

Referee—Frank McKinley.

CORINTHIANS WILTED.

CALGARY, Alta., August 18 (Canadian Press). — After fairly mystifying their opponents by a dazzling display of dribbling, and securing a lead of one goal to nil during the first forty-five minutes of play, the much-touted Old Country Corinthians wilted badly under the gruelling pace that the Calgary All-Stars set during the second half, and were forced to accept a 2 to 1 defeat here on Saturday afternoon.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE SEASON UNDER WAY

Comdenbeath and St. Johnstone Promoted To First Division.

LONDON, August 18. — The curtain rose on "soccer" football in the Old Country on Saturday when the First Division of the Scotitsh League got under way for the season of 1924-25. The newcomers in senior company, Cowdenbeath and St. Johnstone, promoted to fill the vacancies caused by the relegation of Clyde and Clydebank to junior company, were seen in action. The former succumbed to the Heart of Midlothian by a 2 to 1 score while the Perthshire men went down to Hamilton Academicals in a 3 to 2 contest.

Glasgow Rangers, leaders of the league last year, disposed of Raith Rovers by three goals to one, while Airdrieonians rang up a 2 to 1 victory over Paisley St. Mirren.

Of the ten games played six were won by the home teams, three were drawn and one that between Hearts and Cowdenbeath was carried off by the visiting aggregation.

Dundee played Celtic to a goalless draw, as also was the result in the tilt between Ayr United and Third Lanark. A two goal tie featured the contest between Greenock Morton and Kilmarnock. The Hiberians took Partick Thistle into camp by 3 to 2 at Easter road, and Queen Park acquired a couple of points at the expense of Motherwell. Falkirk sent Aberdeen down to defeat to the tune of two to none.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

Rinks are competing from the following out of town points: Guelph, St. Catharines Paris, Allandale, Kingston, Port Perry, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Stratford, Waterloo, Owen Sound, Brampton, Oshawa, Peterboro, Unionville, Bowamnville, Chatham, Woodstock, Buffalo, N.Y., Kitchener, Milton, Whitby and St. Petersburg, Fla.

JUVENILE FINAL AT FAIR GROUNDS

Maple Leafs and Curlers Clash In Opening Game of Play Off For Title.

One of the biggest games of the season takes place at the Exhibition Grounds, Tuesday evening at 5.54, when the Maple Leafs and the Curlers slash in the first game of the play off for the Juvenile City honors.

The Curlers were successful in doing away with the Leafs in the first half, but in the second half the teams had been tied up. The Leafs walked away with the honors when they handed Kay's gang a 4 to 1 beating.

Both teams are very evenly matched and have been running neck and neck all season with neither team piling up a big score on the other.

In former games they have put up great battles and have provided the large crowds of fans who turn out to see these two teams fight it out, with some snappy ball that was always full of excitement.

Chuck Bradley, the Leafs southpaw hurler stood the Curlers on their head in the first game when he shut them out in both hits and runs, but in the last few games he has been far off colour and has got himself into a good many holes. He has not had a good day in the past few weeks and is sure to come through one of these days and do some real pitching.

The second game of the play off will be staged on Friday night at 5.45 at the Exhibition Grounds. Both games are sure to be corkers as each team has had a good rest and should be in the best of condition.

Chuck Bradley will shove them in for the Leafs tomorrow night, while Wood will do his best for the Curlers. Kay is confident of a win over the Leafs, and in Lindsay his team has already won the championship, but his team will have some stiff battles to go through yet, before he gets a look at the championship.

TRIAL SOCCER GAME TO-MORROW NIGHT

Will Pick a Team For Plenty Cup.

The teams selected by the P. and D. F. A. for the trial game on Tuesday (to-morrow) evening at the Oval, will be composed as follows:

A Team: Griffin, goal; Rae and Chambers, backs; Jackson, Dawson and Blowers, half backs; Clark, Hutton, Richmond, Wilson and Burgess, forwards.

B Team: Curtiss, goal, Cridland and Anderson, backs; Read, Monkman and Ross, half-backs; Mayette, Wyllie, Mitchell, Dyer and Craig, forwards.

In the two teams Read cannot play because he is under the doctor's orders; also some more of the players may be doubtful starters, and no doubt this evening the executive will endeavor to fill up with a number of capable substitutes.

Mr. Alex. McGregor will handle the whistle and kick-off is timed for 6:15 prompt

RUTH AND HORNSBY SETTING PACE FOR BATSMEN IN MAJOR LEACUES

Yankee Slugger Holds Lead in American With Mark of .401—Cardinals' Star, With .410, Has Margin of Thirty-three Points in the National.

Babe Ruth continues to set the pace for the batsmen of the American League. The Yankee slugger is now hitting the ball for a mark of .401 and is thirty-five points ahead of Bib Falk of the White Sox, who is second. Ty Cobb is third among the regular batsmen of his circuit with .347. Eddie Collins, of the White Sox, ranks fourth with .344, and Jamieson, of the Indians, is fifth with .341. The leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored—Ruth, New York, 114. Most hits made—Ruth, New York, and Cobb, Detroit, 156 each.

Most two-base hits—Heilmann, Detroit, 36.

Most three-base hits—Pipp, New York, 14.

Most home runs—Ruth, New York, 38.

Most stolen bases—Collins, Chicago, 33.

Leading pitcher—Whitehill, Detroit, 13 victories, 4 defeats; percentage, .765.

Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals, is still far in front in the race for the individual batting championship of the National League, according to the latest list of unofficial averages. His per centage is now .410, which is thirty-three points higher than that of Cuyler of the Pirates, who is in second place. Zack Wheat, of the Robins, is third among the regulars with .373. Roush, of the Reds, is fourth with .348, and Bressler, also of the Reds, is fifth with .347. Leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored—Frisch, New York, 84.

Most hits made—Hornsby, St. Louis, 165.

Most two-base hits—Hornsby, St. Louis, and Kelley, New York, 29 each.

Most three-base hits—Wright, Pittsburgh, 16.

Most home runs—Fournier, Brooklyn, 23.

Most stolen bases—Carey, Pittsburgh, 28.

Leading pitcher—Vance, Brooklyn, 20 victories, 4 defeats; percentage, .833.

RAIN HANDICAPPED MOST OF REGATTAS

Nearly Every Dance and Regatta Held in Stoney Lake This Season Was Welcomed By Unsettled Weather.

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 18.—The weather man has not been very kind to the special events staged on the lakes by the various committees, this season as nearly every dance or regatta was handicapped with uncertain weather. The lowering clouds on Saturday kept the throngs of people who planned to attend the Old-Timer's Picnic on Juniper in a state of uncertainty all day. Some time before the hour appointed several men made a fire at the picnic ground and boiled water for the tea. A fine new Union Jack flew from the flag pole and a hospital "Welcome" was in evidence. The stage was all set but about four down fell the rain, quietly but in a determined persistent manner that betokened good staying power. Messrs. Jas. Acton and Gordon K. Fraser who were in charge of the preparations at the grounds suggested that an adjournment be made to the pavilion where the picnic was actually held.

The spirit of optimism and adaptability so characteristic of the old timers and which enabled them to see a great future for their summer playground, was evidenced by the ready manner by which the change of plan was adopted. There were about sixty present, in spite of the very bad weather and the programme of sports was run off in the pavilion under the capable direction of Messrs. G. K. Fraser, J. M. Gouinlock, Jas. Action and J. C. Budreo. The proportion of entries was very large for each event and several had to be run off in sections The following is the programme and the first and second of each event.

Nail Driving Contest for Ladies—1 Mrs. Colville; 2 Mrs. G. K. Fraser.

Thread the Needle Race, partners—1 Mrs. D. Walker, and Mr. Gouinlock; 2 Mrs. Budreo and Mr. Acton.

Peanut Race for Men— 1 Mr. E. L. Crawford; 2 Mr. J. C. Budreo.

Smoking race, (partners). — 1 Miss Elsie Sherin and Dr. Harold Rogers.

Balloon Race for Ladies—1 Mrs. Colville; 2 Miss Maxim Rayson.

Potato Race — Men—1 Mr. L. Thomas, 2 Mr. D. Walker.

Immediately after the sports the prizes were presented by Rev. H. J. Pritchard. One event, the forest steeple chase, had to be omitted owing to the rain. While the ladies set the long table prepared by the younger men, a large group gathered about the piano for an old fashioned "sing song" led by Mr. E. L. Crawford. Song sheets were distributed containing songs both old and new, the rafteds rang to the melody of old favorites. Supper was a reminder of the old days as the table was loaded with all the good things one can imagine at a picnic to which everyone did full justice. The reunion was a success in spite of the weather man, but given favorable weather, it would have been much more successful, as many of the older people were not able to venture forth. Mrs. Wm. Cox of Vancouver, formerly of "Dulce Domum", was the oldest person present. She is 84 years of age and enjoyed herself quite as much as the younger folks. Last year this reunion had its beginning in a gathering at Kawartha Lodge, the home of Mr. S. Henderson at Mount Julian and so successful was the initial effort that it was decided to incorporate it as one of the special events of gala week. It is now definitely established and will be an annual affair.

On Sunday evening on old fashioned camp fire service was held at Mr. Actons' island at which brief addresses were given. The musical part of the programme was in charge of Mr. E. L. Crawford of Toronto.

The Mount Julian Old Boy's Re-Union was held on Saturday after noon and evening. The event of the afternoon is the open sailing race for the Ardiel Cup donated by Mr. L. Harris Ardiel. This year Mr. James Pierdon of Kawartha Park was the winner with his "Alameda after a close race with the 'Cygnet'. Five boats entered and the race was a good one. The evening festivities are held in the Mount Julian hotel and consist of a supper and entertainment.

The "Mount Julian Old Boys" is quite a misnomer for this fraternity of good fellows as few, if any, have any record as Mount Julian summer visitors exceeding ten years but this is an age of miscalling things

SPECIAL TRAIN SERVICE FOR FANS

Large Number Expected To Accompany Petes to Kingston on Wednesday.

Confident that the Petes can trounce the Ponies in the first game of the play-off for the C. O. L. pennant, a host of fans are expected to follow the homesters to Kingston on Wednesday.

To meet the invasion of the Petes supporters, a special train service has been arranged. There will be an exclusive coach for Peterboro fans, and those desirous of taking advantage of the special fare can obtain their ticket at a reduction by leaving their name with Mr. Nagle Phelan of the Bank of Montreal before 3 p.m. to -morrow, Tuesday afternoon. Train leaves City 8 a.m. Thursday the sleeper leaving Kingston at 12.30 a.m.

BELLEVILLE PEEVED

The play-offs between Kingston and Peterboro have been arranged with the first game in Kingston on Wednesday, August 20, and second in Peterboro on Saturday, Aug. 23. If a third game is necessary, says the Kingston Standard, it will be played in Oshawa on Aug. 27. Hallinan, Dell and Thorne will be the umpires. The question naturally arises: Why do Oshawa get the third game? Belleville is the logical choice, on account of its close proximity to the two cities. Expenses would be much less and a greater number of fans from the two cities could see the contest. Peterboro has been given play-offs by Belleville, and it is nearly up to Jakie to return the compliment. Does the secretary run this league, or the President. Mr. Duff has not been officially notified and no meeting has as yet been held, so we presume the Standard and Mr. Bert Booth, business manager of Kingston, have been little premature in the announcement of the play-off, or maybe the three clubs are still in league to run Belleville off the baseball map. It can't be done.—Belleville, Ontario.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Having renounced lions and tigers as playmates, Battling Siki has taken unto himself another wife, by way of proving how utterly fearless he is.

The primitve Mr. Firpo no longer sleeps on the floor, except when he runs afoul of an American fist, and that's different.

On his visit to America the Prince of Wales will spend all his time in Philadelphia. Apparently this is not to be a pleasure trip.

There are times when young Bob Fitzsimmons shows flashes of his noted father's ability ....It seems that the old gent was a heavy eater, too.

Then English have very little respect for Tommy Gibbons as a fighter. They wouldn't offer better than 5 to 1 that he would beat Bloomfield.

The Olympic committee has decided to respect all marks made in the Paris games. Does this include the black marks hung up by the spectators against the fair name of sportsmanship?

The Finns carry watches with them in their races. No wonder it's hard to run them down comments Mr. O'Goofty.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

"Not in years has the American League race offered such a soft spot for a just good club to win the pennant," says Lee Fohl, manager of the Boston Red Sox.

"The race is made to order for a consistent club of fair strength, since all the favorites are erratic.

"Very few clubs have put over a sustained winning streak this year. That is unusual. "Certain clubs picked to win go along consistently for a week or so and then slump badly.

"Take Washington, for instance. On the last western trip, the Nationals started by dropping three out of four to Cleveland, a club that was going badly. That was a jolt to Washington's chances.

Fohl's size-up of the American League situation is based on fact. Not in years have the clubs favored to win played such erratic, inconsistent ball. One day good, the next day just as bad.

No doubt the erratic play of the world champion Yankees has been caused to a great extent by a rather shabby brand of pitching.

Perhaps it is well for the American League that the five-star pitching staff of the New York Americans has wobbled considerably this year.

New York has dropped any number of games this year in which the club has made five or more runs. Until this year, five runs just about cinched a game for the Yankees.

The injury to Second Baseman Ward also handicapped the champs. Ward came into his own last year as a truly great second sacker, and the loss of so great player over a period of eight weeks must be felt.

The breaking of Earl Combs' leg also hurt some. I regard Combs as the greatest outfielder to break into the American League for the last 10 years.

It looks very much as if the club that could settle down and play consistently the rest of the way, would win in the American League.

The Yanks seem to be less worried than any club in the race. Every ball game is just a game with them.

After all, experience may be the deciding factor in the race. The Yanks have it, they have been through three tough campaigns.

OMEMEE NEWS.

An event of great interest to the citizens of Omemee and vicinity took place on the Armoury grounds at Omemee, on Monday evening, Aug. 11th, in the form of a splendid mobing picture entertainment provided by the Ford Motor Company, featuring Ford production methds and other films of education and scenic beauty; also showing modern farming methods, of the various uses of Fordson tractors, trucks, etc.

Prizes for holding the lucky piece of literature distributed amongst those in attendance, were won as follows:

1st prize, cord tire, donated by Mr. William Irwin, Omemee, was won by Ira Reid Omemee.

2nd prize, automobile tube and box of patches, donated by Duffus Motor Sales, Peterboro, was won by Mr. W. Burgess, Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cruickshanks and family returned home on Friday after a motor trip through the Hamilton and Niagara districts.

Mr. Frank Pethick and son Francis and Miss Ruth Otto of Rochester, N.Y., motored home on Saturday, having spent two weeks with relatives in the city.

Miss Alma Beavis of the Robert Hicks Co, returned on Saturday evening from a very pleasant vacation spent in Troy, N.Y.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

ALL STAR CAST IN FILM VERSION OF FAMOUS DRAMA

Adolphe Menjou and Carmel Myers in "Broadway After Dark."

The combination of Adolphe Menjou, Carmel Myers, Willard Louis and Norma Shearer as part of the all-star cast in the coming "Broadway After Dark," at the Capitol To-day, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a guarantee of the good film fare in store for local followers of the silver screen. The four abovementioned are headliners, their names having scintilated in electric lights from every important theatre front in the country.

In addition to the cast, interest is added by the fact that the picture is an adaptation of the famous Owen Davis melodrama, which long enjoyed uninterrupted vogue on Broadway. It is set in that febrile atmosphere of the white lights, where night is turned into day, and where people live riotously in the effort to jazz up their sensations to the same pitch as the incandescent lights.

The story deals with two extremes of Broadway life, the upper strata and the lower, and the way circumstances interweave them. Tired of the artificialities of his set, Ralph Norton, a typical pampered son of wealthy parents, but withal a gentleman, decides to discover what life really is, by living it among the almost down-and-outers of theatrical boarding houses. Here he meets Rose Dulane, a young victim of unfortunate circumstances, working as a slavey. She is shadowed by a detective, who won't let her forget the fact that she served time in prison for theft. Ralph decides to find out if clothes really makes a woman, by sending her to his set. Then the plot comes fast and furious, with surprising developments.

Monta Bell, associated for years with Charles Chaplin, directed this production, which features, in addition to the regular cast, scenes from the recent Actors' Equity Association Ball, attended by leading Broadway stars.

Beside the four players mentioned above, the cast consists of Norma Shearer, Edward Burns, Vera Lewis, Mervyn LeRoy, Jimmy Quinn, Edgar Norton, Gladys Tennyson, Ethel Miller, Otto Hoffman, Lew Harvey and Michael Dark.

AT THE ROYAL.

LARRY SEMON'S FIRST BIG COMEDY AT ROYAL NOW

With the production of "The Girl in the Limousine," Larry Semon joins the ranks of the comedians making feature length comedies. It may be said at the outset, he does it very well. All the critics agree that the laughs are plentiful, lots of action, and pleasingly staged.

"The Girl in the Limousine" is from the New York stage success by Avery Hopwood. The Royal is fortunate in securing an attraction of this calibre before its Toronto release.

ANOTHER "TOWN SCANDAL."

A zeppelin raid isn't the only thing that can throw a panic into a small town. A chorus girl can do it—just as easily.

In Murphysburg there was a clique of citizens that assumed the responsibility of beating the devil in that particular locality, to wit: a Purity League. Not subtle were the methods of progress of the league. No, sir! They trod heavily on everything from Sunday baseball to ice cream "sodie" drinking.

In the chorus of a Broadway musical comedy show was a pretty little girl from Murphysburg. On the stage she was a riot. In Murphysburg she was a panic. In New York the husbands of the women who rules the Purity League in Murphysburg showered attentions upon the little chorus girl. In the home town they saw her not. The crown of rolling pins is always to be dreaded.

Gladys Walton, Universal star, in "The Town Scandal," Universal screen version of Frederick Arnold Kummer's "The Chicken That Came Home to Roost," comes to the Royal Theatre on Thursday.

"FAST STEPPERS" WELL LIKED AT ROYAL.

True to life production from the fascinating romances of the great Tia Juana race track, as written by Gerald Beaumont in the Red Book Magazine, make ideal short features, and may be seen at the Royal every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Each story is complete in itself and filled with high-speed, snappy action. Under the title, "Fast Steppers," these features are making a name for themselves, and the Royal should have no difficulty in getting the crowds with attractions of the calibre they have been showing lately.

ANGRY PARENTS DISOWN A CONFESSED SLAYER.

Father Refuses Cigarette Money to Emil Zupke—Woman in Case Gets Help.

BENTON HARBOUR, Mich., August 18. — Emil Zupke, confessed slayer of his discarded sweetheart, Cora May Raber, was told on Saturday that he may expect no help from his family.

Standing behind the bars of his cell, he heard his aged father denounce him and refuse him 15 cents for cigarettes.

The father, accompanied by the youth's brother and sister, came to the jail for the first time since Emil's arrest.

When your mother and I begged you to give up your bad habits and be our boy again, what did you do? You laughed at us. Now you can suffer for it," he said.

Contrasting the denunciation by the elder Zupke were the efforts of Arthur McKinney, father of Florence McKinney, to provide a defence for the girl, who is held with young Zupke on a murder charge.

CHALICE THIEF CAUGHT.

George Garner, An Evangelist, Arrested in Port Huron.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 18.— (Canadian Press)—George Garner arrested in Port Huron Saturday was arraigned in Police Court here to-day, charged with breaking and entering into St. Joseph's Catholic church on August 13 and stealing the host from the altar. He reserved election and plea and on request a week's enlargement was granted by Magistrate Gorman, bail was fixed at $10,000.

Garner is a member of an evangelist's party which has been holding religious meetings in Port Huron of an anti-Catholic nature. The police claim that Garner and another man entered the church here and took the chalice containing the host from the altar. Later returning the chalice. After arraignment in court, to-day Garner and some companions held a prayer meeting in a nearby store. A warrant is out for the arrest of Garner's brother, thought to be in Indiana.

PROSPERITY IN CANADA'S PATH

There Will Be No Federal Election This Fall, Said Premier King.

TORONTO, Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press).—There is to be no Federal election this fall. This was Premier King's statement at the close of his address at Markham village Fair Grounds on Saturday afternoon, on the occasion of a picnic tendered by the North York Liberals in his honor. The reason why there was no election he said, was because he thought the government was doing extremely well, because the people were satisfied with it, and because the country was on the high road to prosperity. It was his desire to give the country the benefit of more of the beneficient rule it had been experiencing for the nast two and a half years. And he felt convinced that at the end of its term of office. Government firmly established in the affections of the people by reason of fruits of its labors, would be returned with a bigger majority.

"We want the country to see that what calamity howlers are saying is wrong. We want you to look and see if factories will close up and trade fail. We want to have time to place before the people fruits and results of what we have done and then we shall appeal to the people again and tell them what we are prepared to do in the future," he said.

REV. H. J. KEITH VISITS CHURCH THAT HE BUILT

Union Services Enable Him to Preach at Murray Street Baptist Church, Too.

MESSAGE OF VISION.

"We Are Not Bodies With Souls, But We Are Souls With Bodies," He Said.

"The Gospel of Jesus Christ is a gospel of dissatisfaction," declared Rev. H. J. Keith, in his stirring address in Murray street Baptist church last night. "It gives us a longing for the high spiritual life He lived."

Rev. Mr. Keith was in Peterboro on a visit to his old charge, Knox Presbyterian church, in the building of which he was the moving spirit and most energetic worker. In 1914 he accepted a call to Winnipeg where he has since held the pastorate of two important churches.

The morning service yesterday was held in Knox church, but by virtue of the union services with the Murray street Baptist church the evening service was held in the latter building. It was attended by a large number of the members and adherents of Knox church, and after the service the visitor was greeted by hundreds who had enjoyed his ministry there.

Power in a Vision.

Jacob's vision of the ladder reaching up to heaven and Paul's exhortation to set the mind on things above formed the basis of a sermon that indicated the scope and the character of the teaching of the Christian faith. "We have greater symbols in our faith than Jacob's ladder," the speaker said. "There is the cross that speaks of the life given for the uplift of mankind and the principle of self-sacrifice that must be expressed in every life. The bread and the wine at the communion service are the most sacred symbols of our faith: the bread, pure and spotless, telling of the life broken for us, and the wine showing the giving of that life that others might be healed. Water, too, is a sacred symbol of God's spirit working in our hearts, cleansing our lives. But Jacob's ladder has written itself into the rituals as a significance of the connection between the human and the divine. It tells us we should set our minds on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth.

The message of Jacob's ladder is of the spiritual viewpoint. The man who saw the vision was one of the most lonesome men in the world that night. He was running away from justice with fear in his soul. No man running from justice ever was so lonely as Jacob, when suddenly he saw that he was not alone. He discovered that God was out there in the wilderness. He thought he had left his religion behind, but he found God was there bringing his religion to him, his shadow, his defense, his protector.

"In moments of stress the revelation comes to our souls that we are not alone, but that God is here with us, and a calm descends upon the turmoil of our souls. Heaven, we find, is right about us all the time. We are not bodies with souls; we are souls with bodies. We will yet bless God, as Jacob did, for the tragic experience that brings us to a sense of our spiritual surroundings."

Reality in a Vision

"There is a great reality behind the vision," the speaker continued. "We sometimes think that visions are foolish things, like ghost stories; that there is nothing in them. But there is something real behind the spiritual language is our souls. That is what Jacob became conscious of. The experience robbed him of fear, for at the top of the ladder he saw God, and realized he was not going out alone to pay the price. The spiritual longing of our souls is a cry for God who assures us we are not alone. Behind the vision is the face of Jesus Christ with a message of forgiveness and friendship."

Challenge in the Vision

The challenge of the heights is in the vision Man is not made to live down in the midst of material things and lose his soul in them or waste his talents and gifts in idle pleasure. There is a call to every soul to draw it up out of these things and draw it towards the highest.

"The ladder goes beyond the ordinary ambition for success. The soul of man is not made to be satisfied that way. There is another and better kind of success. The Gospel of Jesus Christ is a Gospel of dissatisfaction. It gives us a longing for the high spiritual life He lived. Great men and women have become actually great because they are ever striving to overcome the difficulties in their paths. Mount Everest has not been climbed yet, but man's spirit will not be satisfied until the heights are conquered. If a bridge is to be built, man's spirit must build it. If diseases are to be conquered man's spirit will conquer them.

The vision of Christ crowned on high is not discouraging to us in our struggle. It is a challenge. It is a call that has the offer of forgiving grace and the reaching out of a helping hand."

Concluding with an exhortation to climb rung by rung, the speaker urged his hearers to reach upward to the attractive graces of Jesus Christ, gentleness, purity, sacrifice. 'God calls us to this higher plane. He gives us the life of Christ on the heights and will not be satisfied until this life is overcome and we have achieved the measure of the stature of Jesus Christ. We only will be satisfied when we shall see Him and we shall be with Him and like Him on the heights, and we shall see Him as He is."

WEDDING BELLS.

SHARMAN—SEWELL.

A very pretty and interesting wedding took place on Tuesday afternoon at 6 o'clock in St. George's Cathedral, when Mabel Beatrice, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sewell, Nelson street, Kingston, Ont., was united in marriage to Mr. Sidney Sharman of Montreal by Rev. Canon J. W. Jones. The bride who was given away by her father looked, charming in a gown of ivory satin covered with a pearl tunic. Her dainty veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's little neice, Doris, was the flower girl and carried a lively basket of sweet peas. Miss Ethel Gorrie and Miss Amy Street were the bridesmaids and wore gowns of pale orchid with hats to match and carried bouquets of pale pink asters. The groom was attended by Mr. Ernest Sewell, brother of the bride. With his usual charm, Mr. R. R. F. Harvey, presided at the organ. During the signing of the register, the bride's little brother Arthur, rendered a violin solo acompanied by the organ. On leaving the church the flower girl scattered rose petals. After the service, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents who welcomed their numerous guests. Mrs. Sewell being gowned in brown canton crepe; Mrs. A. Sharman, of Montreal, mother of the groom wearing gray canton crepe; Mrs. G. Sharman of Montreal, in navy blue jersey silk, and Mrs. H. M. Smith of Peterboro in gray beadoro. Mrs. B. Waite, black beaded georgette, Mrs. A. Brown, sandlewood beaded in gold. Miss M. Christmas, ashes of roses, crepe roman. Miss H. Street, copenhagen blue flat crepe; Miss B. Street pale blue silk; Miss H.Street, gray silk. All wore corsage bouquets of sweetheart rosesr. Mr. and Mrs. Sharman left for their honeymoon on the midnight train, travelling to points west. The brides going-away gown was brown crepe with hat to match. Upon their return, they will reside in Montreal. The groom's gift to the bride was a piano, to the bridesmaids gold rings with pearl settings, to the flower girl, ivory-bound hymn and prayer book; to the best man, a gold pencil; to the violinist, a silver pencil. Many beautiful and useful presents were received by the bride from a host of friends wishing the happy couple "Good Luck." Mr. Russell Robinson of Detroit gave the guests endless amusement with his little pet dog.

APARTMENT HOUSE IS BEING ERECTED

Building Permits Issued During the Past Two Weeks Total $20,140.00.

The total amount of money spent on building and repairing in this city during the past two weeks was $20,104,00. During the past two weeks there were but two building permits of any importance taken out, one being for an apartment house on Water Street costing $17,000.00 and the other a house on Cross Street, costing $1,600.00. The majority of the other 14 permits issued were for building garages and repairing sheds and kitchen. Building is not brisk in the city at present and there is still a large number of men representing building trades out of work.

The building returns for the past two weeks would have been very poor had it not been for Mr. W. H. Hill who is erecting a large apartment house on Water street.

The following is the list of the permits issued during the past two weeks.

Office and apartment building, erected at a cost of $17,000.00 on the property of W. H. Hill, 412 Water street.

Garage valued at $100.00 was erected on the property of Mrs. Wm Nelson, 364 Smith street.

A porch valued at $40.00 erected on the property of W. C. Ford, 4 Knox street.

Re-shingled kitchen at cost of $25.00 on property of Mrs Margaret O'Brien, 178 Douro street.

Garage valued at $120.00 erected on property of Thomas Boyle, 379 Stewart Street.

Roof of green-house reglazed at cost of $250.00 on property of Peterboro Floral Company, 436 Water street.

Kitchen valued at $150.00 erected on property of Mrs. R. H. Braden, 223 London.

Dwelling house valued at $1,600 erected on property of Mr. M. Mehary.

Garage valued at $50.00 erected on property of G. N. Cowan, 489 Sherbrooke street.

Shingled house at cost of $55.00 on the property of A. Collins, 543 Elm street.

Garage valued at $75.00 erected on property of Samuel Wedlock, 184 Reid street.

Addition to kitchen on house at 543 Water street, owned by Mrs. E. MacFarlane, to cost $75.00.

Stable valued at $200.00 erected on property of M. Crowley, 54 Hunter street.

Built addition to store-room on property of T. C. Yonge, at 199 Park street, to cost $300.00.

Re-roofed kitchen on property of Mrs. T. T. Hall, 97 Robinson street to cost 125.00.

Sun-room erected at cost of $75.00 on property of J. A. McKone, 377 Downie street.

IN POLICE COURT.

Landlord and Tenant in Altercation— Assault Charge Follows.

Police Court was stirring this morning with a duplex assault case, as a result of a row between landlord and tenant. Arrears of rent on the part of tenant is alleged to have caused the incensed landlord to bawl his wife out on the street according to the tenant's testimony.

That was in the morning and hubby heard about it at noon when his wife brought him his lunch. Later, in the evening when hubby returned from work he interviewed Mr. Landlord for speaking to his wife on the street.

Before the parting of the parties the interview resulted into a lively mix-up.

This morning there apeared on the docket a charge against the landlord for assault causing actual bodily harm and a charge of common assault facing the tenant.

Magistrate Langley proceeded with the charge against the landlord first. H. W. Hatton, K. C., acting for the crown and J. F. Strickland for the defence.

EAGLE ATTACKED BOY.

Boy Weighing 97 Pounds Lifted Five Feet Off the Ground By Bald Headed Eagle.

CHATHAM, August 18 (Canadian Press). — Fred Cunningham, aged 14, son of George Cunningham, of Concession 6, Raleigh Township, had a thrilling experience of being attacked by a bald-headed eagle, which attempted to carry him away.

The boy was attacked at night when he took a short cut to his home across the golf links.

Swooping down on the lad in the darkness, the bird fastened its claws in his blouse, and lifted him four or five feet from the ground.

The bird did not carry him very far, as the lad fell when his shirt ripped.

The eagle attacked the second time, but the boy seized one of its wings.

The struggle took place near a fence. When the bird became enmeshed in the wiring, the lad ran away.

His back and arms were badly scratched. The boy weighs 97 pounds.

MURDEROUS ATTACK.

Toronto Man Slashed Wife's Throat and Then Committed Suicide.

TORONTO, Aug. 18. — (Canadian Press).— Believed to have been prompted by jealousy, Nick Kuleck, a pole, aged 50 years early to-day in house in the central foreign section of the city, cut his wife's throat from ear to ear then committed suicide by slashing his own throat. Mrs. Kuleck is in General Hospital in very critical condition and may not recover from her wound.

Attack by Kuleck on his wife was outcome of a quarrel shortly before six o'clock this morning. When she arose to call her son-in-law, who lives in the same house, she was met on the stairs leading to the kitchen by her husband who slashed her throat. He ran out of the house and on to verandah of house next door and cut his own throat, ing almost immediately.

Constable Byrt who was in the vicinity heard woman's cry of murder and on entering the house found her partially dressed lying in pool dying almost immediately.

wards found Kulecs lying dead on the verandah next door.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

SIX BELIEVED TO BE DROWNED

Boat Carrying Nine Passengers Capsized When Man Attempted to Change Seat.

3 WERE SAVED.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Three men and three women disappeared, and are considered drowned, and two men and one woman were saved, when a rowboat in which they were crossing from the island of Montreal to Boucherville capsized yesterday morning in the River St. Lawrence.

The missing are: Hector Deslauriers, aged 18; Leo Boyer, aged 24; Mrs. Leo Boyer, aged 23; Gertrude Leduc, aged 24, and a man and woman from Viauville, names unknown. The party, who are all of this city, except the last two, were being rowed to an island camp to spend the week end fishing, when one of the men attempted to change seats. The heavily laden boat turned turtle twice and threw all nine passengers into the swift current. Two men and a woman were saved out of the party by a camper who heard the shrieks and cries from mid-stream, but who thought it was a joke similar to one that had been practiced on him by a group of young men the previous week. He could have saved the whole party, but as things were, convinced the affair was a practical joke, he waited too long.

ALIEN LOST LIFE.

"Scotty" Heron, Alien Smuggler, Lost His Life in the Lower Niagara River.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., August 18 (Canadian Press). — Another smuggler of aliens has paid the penalty.

Alexander (Scotty) Heron, aged 38 of this city, lost his life on Saturday afternoon in the lower Niagara River when he jumped overboard from a motor in an effort to evade capture by the United States immigration and customs officials.

Thomas Livingston, also of this city, together with Peter ucy, an alien being smuggled into the States, submitted quietly to arrest.

GERMANS PLEASED BY SPIRIT AND RESULTS OF LONDON CONFERENCE

Words "Vanquished" and Victors Were Not Mentioned—Cordiality Was Shown.

CABINET HOPEFUL

"Germans Secured 100 Per Cent. Results" Says Dr. Stresemann.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.— (Canadian Press).—With the return of the German delegates from the London conference there is a conspicuous moderation in the tone of the editorial discussions on the outcome, and political experts are busy figuring out the party line-up in the Reichstag when the Government's action is up for approval or rejection.

The members of the cabinet are inclined to view the Parliamentary situation with a degree of equanimity born of the conviction that once the opposition forces are given a complete opportunity to examine the balance sheet brought back by Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann and allowed to contemplate the economic and political effects involved in a disavowal of the present government they will be less inclined to maintain the intransigeant attitude reflected in the current editorials.

The chancellor entered upon a series of conferences with the Reichstag party leaders last evening and will continue them for several days, or until the Reichstag is convoked.

No Disagreeable Word.

"This was the first post-war conference in which the words 'vanquished' and 'victors' were dispensed with and throughout negotiations we were never made to hear one disagreeable word," a participant in the London conference observed yesterday. He praised the spirit of equality that prevailed and said that the closing session was marked by a display of the same cordiality on all sides.

One of the outstanding achievements of the conference, in the opinion of the German delegates, was the adoption of the principle of arbitration, which it is believed will measurably simplify Germany's reparations difficulties. Dr. Stresemann objected to a report quoting him as saying that Germany had obtained a "sixty-six and two thirds percent success." He asserted that so far as the conference itself was concerned the Germans had secured one hundred percent results.

Evacuation Pleases.

The evacuation of Offenburg and Appenweir by the French yesterday is held in official circles as an earnest of French intentions to live up to the agreements entered into with German delegates and it is believed that this initial section will have a beneficial psychological influence on German opinion.

Official quarters are firm in their belief that progress in the evacuation of the Ruhr will be made in rapid stages and that the French and Belgian troops will have disappeared before the expiration of the one year term fixed by the conference.

Moose Jaw Was Centre Of Severe Hail Storm

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press). — The worst hail and rain storm experienced in many years swept over the Assiniboine district on Sunday afternoon. Hail drove over the town for more than half an hour accompanied by torrents of rain that flooded cellars and streets, causing considerable damage to garden truck and flowers.

Farmers in the immediate west, northwest and south of the town report loss to their crops estimated at from five to 75 per cent. Little or no damage is reported from Valor, just west of the town, or from the north and northeast.

NAMES OFF THE MONTREAL LIST

Prominent Business and Corporation Men of City Discovered Omissions.

BE-ELECTION SEPT. 1.

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Pess).—A startling development in St. Antoine Division here Monday where registration of voters' name is proceeding in view of the impending federal bye-election September 2, was the discovery that names of men prominent in corporation, business and professional communities had been left off the lists which would be in possession of deputy returning officers on the day of the election. Among them were Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, former Minister of Marine, Sir Montague Allan, E. W. Beatty, president of the C.P.R., General Sir Arthur Currie, J. W. McConnell and Fred W. Beardmore.

Mr. Ballantyne appeared before the revising officer yesterday and had his name restored to the list.

In all one hundred of such names were found to have been omitted from the list. It was stated that the names had been placed on the provincial registration list but had been omitted by the registration officer in transferring the names to the lists to be used for the federal bye-election.

Revising Officer A. McCaughan left the matter in abeyance, promising to give a decision later.

Liberal Rallies.

In the interests of Alderman J. W. Hushion, Liberal standard bearer in the approaching by-election in St. Antoine division, a public meeting has been called for this evening at St. Joseph School here. This will be the first of a series of Liberal rallies.

The list of speakers will include the Hon. J. A. Cardin, minister of marine and fisheries; James Welsh, M.P., Paul Mercier, M.P. and J. H. Dillon, K.C.

It is announced at Liberal headquarters that Premier King will be one of the speakers at a meeting to be held here on August 25.

BOURASSA'S TOUR

Heads Quebec Party of 250 Visiting Maritimes.

EDMONTON, N.B., Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Two hundred and fifty French Canadians, headed by Henri Bourassa, visiting the Maritime provinces, arrived here Monday morning and a formal welcome was tendered to them. Hon. J. E. Michaud, representing the province, and Mayor A. D. Cormier, representing the city, delivered speeches of welcome and Mr. Bourassa and Monsignor Richard, Montreal, replied. Mr. Bourassa declared no political significance whatever attached to the visit, which was mainly to cement friendly relations between the Maritime provinces and Quebec.

The party left for St. Leonard's, whence they will go to Moncton.

MANAGER ARRESTED

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—George H. Snow manager of the Mutual Vancouver Limited, was formally placed under arrest here Monday charged with conspiracy to defraud the Victoria Hot House Association. He was released on bail of $5,000.

AMERICAN GOLD FLOWS IN PARIS

Men's Handkerchiefs at $25 Each—Tourists Spend Billion in Europe.

WOMEN BUY PEARLS.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—Men's handkerchiefs will be a feature of Winter fashions in America after the return of the American tourists from Europe in the Autumn.

A wave of extravagance in the matter of dressing is apparently sweeping the masculine section of American visitors whose purchases by the fashionable men's wear shop of Paris this season have gone a long way to keep up the exchange value of the franc.

A world-known haberdasher who is now here declares that it has been ruinous to visit the expensive shops here early in August. He mentioned particularly the line of hand-made purest linen men's handkerchiefs which are large in size but so thin that their cobwebby texture permits them to be made into a package as small as a tiny nut. They have found immediate favor with American purchasers who are glad to take back home what is called the "ne plus ultra" of refinement.

Expenditures Lavish.

The prosperous business conditions in America are reflected in the lavish expenditures of visitors here. The latest estimates put at over $1,000,000,000 the amount of actual cash left in Europe by American tourists this season, breaking all records.

Paris and Deauville are unable to accomodate the number of arrivals, who have entirely replaced the Paris population away on annual holidays. Both places have actually changed into American cities out of season, but they are decidedly not fashionable.

Entirely new conditions have been established here since the tourist invasion, which decided the section of visitors usually qualified as "society" to make Venice, Biarritz and the German spas their playgrounds for 1924.

Tourists Liberal.

Parisian dealers say the novel tourist crowds spend their money more freely than the society habitues. All the fashion houses are reporting unusual sales of new models which were unquestionably designed this year to meet the almost exclusively American tastes.

The openings of the last few days offered choice gowns which, Paris experts predict, will never be worn by French women. The extreme shortness of day skirts, it is understood, will be modified in the early Fall to suit the wishes of Parisian women, into wider but longer models reaching at least five inches below the knee.

The backless evening gown only will remain unchanged, to create the diversion, which is this year in demand, of a high front decollete, with the back only adorned with long strings of pearls.

Big Trade In Pearls.

Although no woman admits buying pearls, it is a fact that Parisian merchants in the last few weeks have sold more pearls to American women than they did in the two preceding years

Girlish hats such as London has supplied since Queen Victoria's days appear in vogue this Summer with large floating straw rims trimmed with brightly colored flowers.

20,000 SHOPMEN OF C.P.R. VOTING ON REDUCTIONS

Temporary Shut Downs Or Work Less Than Forty Hours a Week.

CUTTING EXPENSES.

Several Options Presented To Employees For Statement of Preference.

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.— Twenty thousand rail shopmen employed in shops throughout the entire Canadian Pacific Railway system will state by ballot during the next two weeks whether they prefer temporary close downs to reduction in staff when the company desires to reduce expenses Up to the present, rail shopmen at Montreal have preferred close-downs to laying off men.

The questions on the ballot papers are as follows:

"(1) If the company has to reduce expenses, do you prefer temporary shut-downs reducing the working hours to an average of less than forty hours a week?

"(2) If the company has to reduce expenses do you prefer staff reductions instead of temporary shut downs?"

The taking of the ballot follows a series of conferences held with the management of the railway on the question of short time in the railroad shops. At these conferences the men have been represented by Frank McKenna, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America; J. E. McGovern, Montreal, vice-president of the C.P.R., Federated Trades; Wm. Leater, secretary-treasurer, Montreal; and N. Lyons, vice-president C.P.R., Federated Trades, Winnipeg.

LOOT WAS SMALL

Safe Broken Open in Winnipeg—Valuables Overlooked.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19. — Robbers who broke into the Pirt Printing Company here early on Sunday morning obtained only five dollars after their labourous task of breaking open a small safe with an axe.

In their hurry to effect escape the robbers overlooked another safe containing considerable jewelry and other valuables.

A package taken among other papers from the safe was found in a neighboring school yard with a sum of money and other documents still intact.

No arrests have been made.

MONS COAL STRIKE

30,000 Belgian Miners Out—Wage Cut Ten Per Cent.

MONS, Belgium, August 19.— The coal mines in the Mons basin are completely idle through the strike which began five days ago in protest against a wage cut of ten per cent. About thirty thousand men have walked out but it is believed they will soon return to their work as the companies have given proof that the wage reduction is absolutely necessary since British and German coal is being offered at prices below those of Belgian coal.

BEACH POLICEMEN IN TURKEY STRUGGLE WITH DIFFICULT TASK

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 19.—Turkish women must not bathe in the ocean, according to a recent edict of the local authorities, and the police have been given strict orders to see that the decree is given effect.

But this is what troubles the policemen: how can they determine her nationality when a woman has donned a bathing suit?

Non-Turkish women may bathe as before. Turkish women are more and more assuming western European habits and dress and bathing suits when worn by Turkish women look no different than when worn by a non-Turk. Is the bather a Turk, liable to arrest, is the question before the policeman, or a non-Turk to whom he will have to apologize for mistaking her nationality?

AIRPLANES HUNT FISH.

FELIXTOWN, England, Aug. 19.—Three government flying-boats are patrolling various parts of the North Sea trying to locate fish. Their principal objective is the herring and it is beleved that by spotting the shoals and advising various trawling stations the trawlers will be saved much time.

ACCIDENTS AND WEATHER DELAY AMERICANS' HOP

Another Day Spent at Reykavick, Iceland's Capital —Two Mishaps.

PLANES FREIGHTED.

Carrying Heaviest Load of Gas Since Start of Flight.

REYKJAVIK, Aug. 19. — Bad weather again prevented the United States army aviators from hopping of on the next leg of their world flight to Greenland. They had intend ed to attempt the resumption of the flight at three o'clock Monday morning.

Weather conditions Sunday looked favorable for a start yesterday. The fliers retired to rest early, and arose at 2 o'clock. They breakfasted and were ready to hop off at the scheduled time. The weather here was clear, but Major Clarence E. Crumrine, air attache of the United States embassy in London, who had been busy all night with weather reports, notified them of adverse conditions.

The patrol boats Reid, Billingsley, Raleigh, Barry and Richmond are stationed along the route which will be followed by the aviators from Reykjavik to Fredericksdal. The United States cruiser Milwaukee is stationed seven miles off Ivigtut, Greenland.

The American fliers had invited Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian air man who flew here yesterday from Hoefn Jornafjord, to join them in the flight to Greenland, but he declined as his plane has not yet been overhauled.

Two accidents yesterday were attributed to the fact that the planes were carrying the heaviest loads of petrol that have been attempted since the start of the flight. Although the sea was dead calm the machines were unable to leave the water.

One of the planes broke its spreader bar and the second machine broke its propellor.

FIRE-PROOF HOUSE PLEASES CITIZENS

Peterborough Lumber Company Showed Fire Resistive Powers of Sheeting and Shingles.

Yesterday, three days after its ordeal by fire, citizens were still curiously examining the wooden house that was protected from the flames by Johns-Manville Company asbestos sheeting during a test on the Market Square on Friday. The fire resistive material that kept even heat from the boards is handled in Peterboro by the Peterboro Lumber Company, not the MacDonald Lumber Company as reported on Saturday. The Johns-Manville Company fire-proof shingles are also handled by the Peterboro Lumber Company.

Friday's test, which was a very severe one, indicated to the entire satisfaction of firemen and laymen alike the great powers that the asbestos sheeting has to resist fire. With blazing slabs, kindling, and sawdust piled against it, saturated in coal oil, the asbestos threw the flames and heat away from the building. While spectators were forced back by the heat, the boards inside the house were scarcely warm, and on stripping the sheeting from the walls it was found that the boards were untouched by fire.

A second demonstration showed the fire resisting power of the shingles put out by this firm. A miniature roof carried a fire of twenty minutes without showing the effects of the blaze, the shingles being of the company's special composition containing Portland Cement and asbestos fibre with another ingredient. The shingles are hard as flint, and firemen remarked they would be more durable than slate. J. J. O'Kelly, president of the Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters was heard to remark tthat the roof composed of such material would be as permanent as the cement foundation of the house.

The entire exhibtion showed to the satisfaction of the firemen that such materials can be used with advantage in resisting fire.

INJURIES FATAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Donat Carbonneau, 25, who suffered a fractured skull when he and two companions fell sixty-five feet from the roof of the Canada Carbide Company at Shawinigan Falls on Friday, died in hospital here late last night. His companions Louis Morais, 46, and Alfred Vincent, 24, are also in hospital here in a critical condition.

RUSSIAN WOMAN MURDER MANIAC

High Born, But Led Robber Band During Revolution —Twenty Victims Traced.

COVERED UP CRIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—A demon in the shape of a woman who murdered in cold blood twenty women and children for the mere lust of killing has just been sentenced to death in the Superior Court at Moscow, according to press reports.

Among the numerous wholesale slayers who have scourged Europe in the wake of the war this wholesale assassin is unique. While most of the others belonged to the dregs of humanity, this woman, whose name is Anastasia Permiakova, was a dominant personality of superior mind and strength of will.

Led Robber Band.

During the turbulent times of the revolution she was the leader of a notorious robber band which she had organized to terrorize the district around Perm. Later she forsook her robber career and became a fortune teller in Perm.

Her home soon became known as a house of dark and sinister mysteries. Many visitors who were seen to go in never came out, but there was never any distinct proof available of crime.

Finally a particularly bold murder in a house quite near her home trapped her. She had been called to the home of a prominent lawyer whose daughter wanted to have her fortune told. The woman told the girl to turn around and lift the hair from the back of her neck. She said:

"I want to see if there is a certain sign of good luck there."

Slew With Hatchet.

As soon as the girl did as she was told the fortune teller pulled a small, sharp hatchet from her clothes and kifled the girl with one terrific blow, nearly decapitating her. She left the house without attracting attention.

The death of the girl produced a sensation in the city and the woman was finally connected with the case.

When the police raided her home they found ten hatchets, several long knives and other weapons, all showing traces of human blood. Two revolvers were also found.

After that, the police were able to fasten more than twenty murders on the woman.

BRITISH EAT TOO MUCH

99 People Out of Every 100 Eat Three Times Too Much.

—"Ninety-nine persons out of every 100 eat three times too much food," prominent London physicians declared at a meeting of the British Medical Association.

On top of that, Dr. Harry Campbell asserted that" the British are the worst fed people in the world."

"There is not a normal jaw in Great Britain," he said. "There is never a child with a normal jaw born in Great Britain. And it is all because we eat too much food, and eat the wrong kinds of food—stuff that is too rich and too fancy. We need to get back to plain, old-fashioned British cooking—but not to eat too much of it.

"Look at the difference in health between the plain-living tramp, who is usually sturdy and physically fit, compared with the over-fed man whose life is cast in more comfortable circumstances—but who is almost always ailing."

BRITAIN WILL MAINTAIN SUDAN REINFORCEMENTS SENT FORWARD

Exaggerated Egyptian Claims Blamed For Recent Flare Up—Joint Dominion of Great Britain and Egypt—Public Security To Be Preserved.

MUTINOUS TROOPS REMOVED.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Maintenance of order in the Sudan is the responsibility of the British Government and Great Britain intends to support the Government of the Sudan in taking any steps which may be necessary to preserve public security.

This statement was made by the British acting high commissioner for Egypt to a representative of the Egyptian Government, who called at the Foreign Office during the weekend, it was learned Monday.

The British Government believes that the recent trouble in the Sudan was directly due to exaggerated claims with regard to the Sudan, which have been repeatedly made in the Egyptian Parliament and press during the last six months.

The acting high commissioner expressed the strongest resentment at the inference of the Egyptian press that British troops caused the recent disturbances in the Sudan or that they inflicted the casualties at Atbara.

The British Government, he said, is proceeding with reinforcements for the Sudan garrisons and has authorized the Sudan Government to remove the disaffected elements from the Sudan railway battalion and the Egyptian troops.

In commenting on the situation, British officials insist that the Sudan will be maintained as a joint dominion under Great Britain and Egypt and that nothing will be tolerated which is likely to endanger that status.

LEOPOLD LEARNS SIXTEENTH LANGUAGE; SHOWS HOSTILITY AND CURSES CROWE

Youth Will Be Big Plea By Defense in Franks Case.

5,000 HEAR TRIAL

Approximately 24,000 Persons Have Applied for Admission to Court-room.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The monotony of the Franks case ought to be broken this week by arguments of the lawyers.

One of the big questions alienists have failed to agree upon is, where does sanity end and insanity begin? Leopold and Loeb are "borderline" cases, according to defense alienists. In other words, the slayers of Robert Franks are not crazy but still are not mentally sound. Alienists for the State pronounce them "normal and accountable for their acts."

If sane the law says they may suffer the death penalty. If mentally deficient, then the law says they must be sent to an asylum or some penal institution.

Dr. Singer Grilled.

Dr. Harold Douglas Singer, State alienist, has been the most damaging witness yet introduced by State's Attorney Crowe to tear down the "dream world" built up by the defense to save the young slayers.

Under pressure from Darrow Dr. Singer admitted yesterday that the symptoms describing the boys give evidence of a psychopathic personality. "Phychopathic personality" may likely develop into insanity, Dr Singer admitted.

Dr. Singer also said that a psychopathic personality is not a well balanced personality.

Form of Insanity.

More strenuous argument between Darrow and Dr Singer was followed by an admission by the witness that hallucination is a sign of insanity in some cases. Mr. Darrow asked:

"If a boy believes himself the leader of a gang of criminals walks along the street, makes motions and signs or talks of the members of his gang, is that a sign of hallucination?"

After more fencing the witness replied that if the boy in question believes it strong enough the case would be one of hallucination.

Darrow's question very plainly related to Loeb.

Counsel In Tilt.

Darrow conclued his cross-examination of Dr. Singer by stating that so little was known in the causes of human conduct that it is extremely difficult to account for the motivating influences. To this the doctor agreed and Darrow turned him back to the state for redirect examination.

Short, sharp argument developed between Darrow and state's attorney Crowe while Dr Singer was being questioned on whether his examination of the prisoners in the state's attorney's office was not a violation of their constitutional rights.

Crowe replied hotly that he would continue to examine prisoners as much as he wanted to.

Darrow retorted that civilized authority would not stand for a violation of constitutional rights of anyone included prisoners.

Stress Their Youth.

Stress is to be laid on the youth of the defendants, if developments of yesterday are an indication of Darrow's next move. He brought

THIRD AVIATOR IS RECOVERNG

R. C. Burton in Fort William Hospital—Crash Will Be Investigated.

BODIES SENT HOME.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 19. —R. C. Burton, pilot of the Ontario Government forestry patrol airplane C-CAOC, which crashed near Savanne, Ont., Saturday evening with a loss of two lives, is resting in hospital, and doing as well as can be expected, according to doctors. He is badly bruised and received a compound fracture of the leg. His recovery is hoped for. Burton saw war service with the Royal Air Force.

The bodies of Kenneth MacBride of Brantford, junior pilot and Victor Gilbert of Kingston, forester, will be shipped east for burial.

Secretary J. A. Wilson of the Canadian Air Board, has arrived in Port Arthur to investigate the affair. The ill-fated machine was seen to slip in the air above Lac de Mille Lacs, near Savanne station, by two fire rangers late on Saturday afternoon, and nose-dived to the ground near the lake, it was learned here yesterday.

It was also stated that another airplane, the G-GAOB in charge of Pilot "Duke" Schiller, had left Sioux Lookout on a sketching cruise and had not returned, so Senior Pilot Burton was instructed to patrol the district towards Savanne to search for him. Savanne is a fuel station for the air service. They were about to land and refuel when the crash occurred.

GERMAN LOAN NEXT

Wall Street Interested in Flotation of U. S. Share.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—With the successful conclusion of the inter-allied conference, bankers to-day began speeding up the machinery for flotation of their share of the $200,000,000 international loan to Germany upon which operations of the Dawes plan will hinge.

Preparations for underwriting this huge financial transaction will be started at once, international bankers indicated, with prospects that ratification of the London protocol by France and Germany will be followed by an early sale of the loan. The offering, however, is not expected before October.

The presence of leading United States' bankers in Europe, it was pointed out in Wall street to-day, would expedite arrangements for the German financing. J. P. Morgan, Thomas W. Lamonte and George Whitney, all partners of J. P. Morgan and Company, who will head the United States' syndicate, are now in England. Other bankers expected to participate in the flotation of the loan, who are either in Europe or on in thier way there are Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank and Everett B. Sweezy, vice-president of the First National Bank of New York.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Nineteen Year Old Girl Crazed Because Men Made Fun of Her Bobbed Hair.

EDMONTON, Aug. 19.— (Canadian Press).—Alice Beaudreau, 19 year old waitress employed in a local cafe attempted to take her life on Monday because several young men had made fun of her bobbed hair.

Restorative measures were immediately taken and last night the girl was reported to be well advanced towards recovery, she is to be married in a few weeks.

WHY CALVES DIE

Small Calves Should Be Kept Very Clean And Sanitary.

It is especially important that the feeding pails for calves be kept clean and sanitary. Otherwise intestinal disorders are certain to result. This is of more importance in summer than in winter, because the atmosphere is warm, favoring the rapid development of germs. It is a true saying that more calves die from dirty pails than from all other causes.

With the use of any of the various kinds of commercial scouring powders with hot water the pails can be kept sweet, wholesome and free from germs. An observance of strict cleanliness will reduce calf disorders to almost nothing. If the pails are washed and kept scrupulously clean the calves will respond with rapid growth and an unusual degree of natural thrift.

FLOWERS ADORN LAKEFIELD'S P.O.

Background of Ivy Climbing Stone Wall Sets Off Blooms of Beauty.

GRASS WELL KEPT.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 19. —One of the most admired places in our pretty little town is the post office and the grounds surrounding it. The grass is well kept and the flowers are a treat to see. Dahlias of all shades and of enormous size, asters cannas and phlox and many other varieties; the first gladiolis is showing its rich tropical bloom. The mantle of rich ivy which covers the stone wall in the back ground affords a splendid background for the multi-colored flowers growing so luxuriantly.

Dance on Thursday

A masquerade dance is being held on Thursday evening in the Riverside pavilion. Preparations are being made to make this the event of the season.

Thanks Expressed

The pastor and parishioners of St. Paul's Church, Lakefield, wish to thank all those who by their presence and generous contributions helped to make the social which was held on August 7th the success it was. Especially do they wish to thank the agriculture society for the use of the grounds.

NEWS OF MARMORA.

Bowling Tournament at Deloro—Several Dogs Poisoned

MARMORA, Aug. 19.— The final of the first inter-departmental bowls tournament at Deloro resulted in the team skipped by Mr. W Williams defeating that skipped by Mr. J. Judge by the narrow margin of 21-19.

The long awaited men's single tennis championship of Deloro was played off on Friday. A. E. Ada, of Queen's won from Major A. V. Yates as follows: 6-3; 6-0; 6-2.

Prior to his address on Sunday morning, the Rev. P. Caizer-Watson announced that the proceeds of the recent Regatta amounted to approximately two hundred dollars. This he said was a matter for much gratitude in view of the various handicaps of the day.

Next Sunday morning and evening, the pulpit of the Methodist church will be occupied by the Rev. Samuel Laycock, son of Mr. Ralph Laycock of this district. Owing to the pastor's holiday, there was no service last Sunday.

The Deloro Trading Co. are making an addition to their premises to serve as a meat store.

Dog Casualties.

No less than six or seven dogs which were familiar figures on Marmora streets, came to an untimely end last week through poisoning.

In the return game between Deloro and Belleville Intermediates, played at the city, the visitors proved superior to the extent of 11-0. This denotes continued improvement in the champion team of the Trent Valley League.

Personals.

Mr. Arthur Towle of Augusta, is visiting friends in Rawdon township.

Mrs. Smith of Montreal, is on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. T. S. Pearce.

Mr. Jack Grant is taking a holiday in Toronto.

Mr. James Lamb of Ottawa, is renewing acquaintances around town.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Emmorey and family visited friends at Shanick and Millbridge over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Grant and son Wilson spent the week end at Baptiste lake.

Miss Ida Gillen is spending her holidays in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pack of Madoc, were Sunday visitors at Mr. Dave McCoy's.

TABLE LINEN.

When laundering table linen do not put it through the wringer, as it makes creases that are almost impossible to remove.

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

Racing Pigeon Club Held First Race of Young Birds Series.

COBOURG, August 19.—Cobourg Racing Pigeon Club held their first race of the young birds series from Guelph, a distance of 96 miles, with the following results: 1 and 2, J. Swan; 3, A. Hatton; 4, C. Long; 5, George Manton.

Is Improving.

Miss White, of Toronto, who was severely injured in a motor accident on the Provincial Highway, just west of this town, a fortnight ago, sustaining a fracture of the pelvis, is improving at the Cobourg Hospital, and it is thought that she will recover unless unforeseen complications occur.

Jack Hamilton Here.

Among the visitors to the Horse Show here was Jack Hamilton, who has charge of Sir Clifford Sifton's horses. It was Jack Hamilton who rode Confidence when that horse made the world's record at the Cobourg Horse Show in August, 1912, taking the hurdles at a height of 7 feet 10 5-8 inches. Confidence broke that record at Ottawa the same year. When Sir Clifford Sifton disposed of his string, Confidence was sold, but later Sir Clifford bought him back ,and the old horse spent its last days on his owner's farm near Toronto.

Bowling Games Called Off.

The bowling games which are being played between Cobourg and Port Hope in the Hopper-Rosevear Trophy were called off last week on account of Horse Show events and other reasons.

Celebrated Golden Wedding.

Mr. William L. Payne, K.C., and Mrs. Payne, Colborne, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at the old family home here, now the residence of their sister, Miss H. Payne. William L. Payne was married at Cobourg in 1874 by Rev. Wm. Briggs, afterwards Methodist book steward, to Miss Emma J. Powell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Powell, of Cobourg, and a sister of Mr. George W. Powell of Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Payne took up residence in Colborne, where he has since conducted a legal business, having practised law for fifty-two years, a record exceeded by few in Ontario. There were present Hiss Hattie Payne, sister, Mr. Geo. Payne, Police Magistrate, Campbellford, brother, and the sons and the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Payne, Mrs. Lacey Amy, of London, England, Miss Frances Payne, of Detroit, and Mr. Hector A. Payne, of Buffalo.

Where Pedagogues Will Teach

Miss Mabel Rose, Colborne, has been engaged at Bobcaygeon Public School.

Mr. Aird will teach at Grafton Public school.

Miss Laurel Arkles at Norham.

PALLISTER FINED

Bound to Keep Peace for a Year in Millbrook Case.

COBOURG, Aug. 19.—The last phase of the Millbrook abduction case was disposed of before County Magistrate Floyd yesterday when the adjourned hearing of the charge of assault against Harry Pallister was resumed. When Pallister attempted to take his child from the home of his wife's parents, near Millbrook, Mrs .Hunter, Mrs. Pallisters' mother in her efforts to prevent him, was injured and received a black eye. Pallister was originally charged with an indictable degree of assault but at the hearing of the abduction charge last week it was made clear by Mrs. Hunter's testimony that he had not deliberately struck her, but that she had been injured in the struggle.

Yesterday the charge against Pallister was reduced by consent of Acting Crown Prosecutor Cochrane to one of common assault and he was fined $20 and costs, $28 in all and was required to give bonds to keep the peace for one year. The required security will be furnished today by himself and mother.

Pallister was originally held on cash bail of $2000 but when he was acquitted on the abduction charge, his Solicitor, A. R. Willmott, has his mail reduced to $1,000 of which he defendant's mother furnished $700. The abduction claim part of this amount but Mr. Willmott disputes this on the ground that the money is not the property of his client.

In the meantime Pallister's wife has possession of their child but no formal court order to this effect has been issued.

THROWN INTO PANIC.

Shooting Took Place at Silver Anniversary of Wedding.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—More than 200 men and women and children, who gathered in the Civic Hall at Richmond Hill, to attend the silver anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine Citarella, were thrown into a panic yesterday when two shots rang out and Andrew Stezio, brother of Mrs. Citarella, dropped to the floor dead. Arthur Citarella, 20 year old son of Citarella, contractor, was arrested, charged with the shooting.

Stezio, the prisoner's uncle, was shot by mistake. Bullets were intended for Frank Artura, who was walking in the march with Miss Marie Ambrosio. She was known as the prettiest girl in Richmond Hill. Young Citarella refused to make a statement.

HAWAIIAN RESEARCH INSTITUTE GETS OLD ESTATE FOR HOME

HONOLULU, Aug. 19.—Nucleus for a permanent home of a Pan-Pacific scientific research institute, where scientists from the Pacific area may gather to carry on experments or for other puposes, has been offered the Pan-Pacific Union here by the trustees of the Mary Castle trust in the shape of the ancestral Castle home. It is one of the largest in Honolulu, with four acres of surrounding land.

The chief work of the proposed institute will be along lines of research of the food resources of Pacific lands and waters.

Alexander Hume Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union, said that the institute had been promised financial support from mainland scientific interests. The Mary Castle trust was founded by descendants of the first missionairies who came to Hawaii.

GIANT AIRSHIP PLANNED BY BRITISH GOVERNMENT

CARDINGTON, England, Aug. 19.—To make room for the laying down of Britain's new giant airship of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity, the old R 33 is being reconditioned for an experimental flight to India where a mooring mast and gas generating plant are to be erected.

At the same time that work commences on the big ship at Cardington, another of similar size will be begun at Howden. Both of these immense airships will be approximately 760 feet long, 110 feet in diameter, and capable of carrying 200 passengers at 80 miles an hour on a non-stop flight of 3,000 miles.

It is stated that such a vessel cruising at 40 miles an hour will be able to remain in the air for nearly three weeks without alighting to replenish fuel. Steel is being considered as a possible substitute for duralumin in the structure, and engines that will burn a mixture of hydrogen and kerosene are being experimented with.

RUSSIA WILL EXPORT LITTLE WHEAT THIS YEAR.

NEW YORK, August 19. — Advices as to Russian crops are conflicting. The Chicago Tribune prints a copyrighted article from its Berlin correspondent stating that the Soviet press admits this year's crop failure is greater than that of 1920, that Ukrainia expects only 10 per cent. of a normal crop, while in the Tsaritsin and Volga districts the crops are a total loss.

Ordinary press despatches, on the other hand, say that while crops in certain districts have suffered severely from drought, and some of the Volga districts will need assistance, the danger of a general famine has been averted.

Russia is unlikely to export much of this year's crops.

BOBBED HEADS CAMPBELLFORD

American Visitors Copy the Styles in Trent Valley Town.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 19. — Campbellford girls have their hair more artistically bobbed than are the locks of their American sisters, according to Mrs. Albert Foster, a young matron from Philadelphia,who is visiting at the home of her uncle, W. M. Stephens, who resides on the Burnbrae road, just outside the town limits. When Mrs. Foster returns home she will carry on her own head a practical demonstration to prove the truth of her assertion.

Mrs. Foster is accompanied by her husband, who is overseer of highways in Philadelphia, and by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kirkpatrick, the latter a sister of Mrs. Stephens. Mr. Kirkpatrick has been on the staff of caretaker of Fairmount Park, one of the beauty spots of the United States, ever since he arrived in Philadelphia from Ireland, 37 years ago. This park contains 3112 acres and is traversed from end to end by a paved roadway 12 miles in length. Thousands of dollars are spent annually in its maintenance.

Philadelphia, otherwise known as the city of brotherly love, is really one of the most peaceful and pastoral communities in the United States. Nothing ever happens there, events simply and quietly transpire, like the rising and the setting sun. Ask a native of that city how they are getting along in Philadelphia, and the chances are he will bridle at the question and inform you that in Philadelphia they do not get along but progress. "Getting along," according to his creed, implies undignified haste, to which the Philadelphians are strangers.

The Republicans are in a vast majority in Pennsylvania, and the same is true of Philadelphia. The people have voted that way since the party was organized, and with renewed fervour since the Civil War, when a portion of their state was laid waste by the Southern rebels. In Pennsylvania it is not a question of which party but of which Republican will run in the state and county elections. In the presidential contests the outcome in Pennsylvania is never questioned.

Mr. Kirkpatrick knows just what his city and state is certain to do next November and expresses the modest hope that President Coolidge will be the national choice.

But as to Bobbed Hair.

Mrs. Foster is naturally more interested in feminine styles in Canada than in political problems. Her hair was bobbed before she arrived here but when she saw the prevailing fashion in Campbellford she went to a local barber and had the work done all over again. This knight of the shears, in reply to a question by Mrs. Foster, as to where he got his ideas, told her that these were the result of observation. He had trimmed the locks of visitors from some of the largest American cities, and noticing the different styles, adopted all the good and rejected the objectionable features, and so evolved a plan of his own.

INTEREST IN BIBLE.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 19.—Attacks made upon the efficiency of theological education in the United States are expected to stimulate interest in the thirtieth annual Bible Conference to be held here Aug. 22 to 31. The conference has had an enlarged attendance each year for seevral years, but its leaders predict that as a result of the recent criticism of religious educational work, notably by the Institute for Social and Religious Research, there will be an extraordinary attendance this season.

The conference program will deal with such subjects as Bible interpretation, expository preaching, pulpit and parish problems and missionary work. Noted speakers have been engaged.

DEFENDED HIS TITLE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press)—Steven (Kid) Sullivan of Brooklyn successfully defended his world's junior light-weight title last night, in 15 round bout with Vincent (Pepper) Martin of Brooklyn, at the Queenboro A. C., in Long Island City.

Sullivan won unanimous decision of judges.

Title holder out-fought his opponent from the start and had the better of every exchange in 15 round of furious milling.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach,' says a well know authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

GIANT OF STEERS

Just because this pure-bred Du rham steer is considered the largest in the world, he got a free trip from Alberta to the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, England. He stands 18 hands high, is 10½ feet in girth and weighs 2,834 pounds.

JUDGE DENTON RESIGNS.

Attorney General Nickle Was Notified Yesterday.

TIRONTO, August 19 (Canadian Press). — Judge J. Herbert Denton, of the County Court ,who was appointed by former Attorney-General Raney as Senior Police Magistrate of Toronto, carrying with it a place on the Toronto Board of Police Commissioners, yesterday afternoon called upon the Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., Attorney-General, and tendered his resignation as Senior Police Magistrate.

Judge Denton conveyed to Mr. Nickle his regret at being compelled to give up the office, but increased duties of county judgeship compelled him to take the step.

Mr. Nickle, in officially announcing the resignation of Judge Denton as Senior Police Magistrate, said he was sorry to lose the services of Judge Denton as Police Magistrate.

The resignation of Judge Denton has been expected for some time, and this gave rise to reports of the reorganisation of Toronto Police Court.

PADDLERS DROP OUT.

Parkdale Canoe Club Will Not Enter Team in the O.R.F.U.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Parkdale Canoe Club last night announced that their team will not be entered in the Senior Series of the O.R.F.U. this season. No definite reason was offered for their withdrawal but as most of the paddlers of last year's stars were not expected to return next fall. it was considered almost a hopeless task to go after the Senior Rugby Honors. Parkdale has a strong team last season but injuries robbed them of any chance of getting into the finals. Several of the last year's P.C.C. players claim they will retire while others will try out with the Argonauts.

AIRMAN LANDS ON ICE CAKE

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 19.—President Ebert has awarded the medal for bravery to air pilot Max Tuxen, of this city for an extraordinary air feat. Last January Tuxen made a perilous landing on an ice cake in the North Sea on which was a stoker who had been left as a watchman on a wrecked motorship. The man was half starved and had given up hope of rescue.

FELLOWSHIP.

May I reach that purest heaven, be to other souls
The cup of strength in some great agony,
Enkindle generous ardor, feed pure love,
Beget the smiles that have no cruelty
Be the sweet presence of a good diffused,
And in diffusion ever more intense.
So shall I join the choir invisible,
Whose music is the gladness of the world.

—George Eliot.

MONTREAL ARRIVALS.

WHEAT BEING CUT.

All Fear of Frost in the West Has Passed Over.

WINNIPEG, August 19 (Canadian Press). — With a milder turn in the weather, Western Canada is breathing easier over the frost danger. Two or three nights last week the country went to bed in anxiety as night might have meant the loss of millions of dollars through the ravages of frost.

As far as can be learned the damage has been negligible.

Following the heavy downpour of rain in Saskatchewan and parts of Manitoba on Saturday and Sunday nights, the temperature has been steadily climbing ,and the tang of frost has gone from the air.

The coarse grain harvesting is fairly general all over the West, and the binders are all working in odd wheat fields.

EXCHANGED BULLETS.

Two Men Meet on Highway and Kill Each Other.

OKLANHOMA CITY, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press).— Developing a sudden dislike for each other when they met on a highway near here, two strangers, in true wild west fashion, shot it out to death. Issac Redding farmer, "didn't like his looks," he told W. R. Turman who parked near the farmers home to "drink some wine" he had purchased, near by. "Drive on," the former told Turman, under cover of revolver. Turman replied by unlimmering his own six shooter and when the smoke cleared the both battlers were dead.

Four companions of Turman, responsible for the foregoing version of shooting, were held by the police One of them, H. G. Searcy, was shot in the leg. He said it was a stray bullet from one of the duelists revolvers.

CANADIAN STARRED.

BROOKLINE, Mass., August 18. Willard Crocker of Montreal, Canadian Davis Cup player, was the star of a match in the first round of the national lawn tennis doubles championship which opened here to-day. Paired with Frederick Kalms of the Australian Davis Cup team, Crocker put out Norton and Wray Brown of St. Louis, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4.

RUSSIA REVIVES RAILWAY CLASSES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 19.— Railway class distinction, abolished by the Bolshevist revolution in 1917, has been restored with first and second-class sleeping cars. It is reported that railway fares soon are to be differentiated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Unless there should be a decison to the contrary when General Pershing retires from army on September 12, his income will be cut more than half, officials close to nations financial control said last night in which case the General will receive $10,125 annually, instead of his present pay of $13,500 and allowances, total of $21,500.

SUGAR ON UP GRADE.

Sugar Advanced 15 Cents Per Hundredweight Yesterday.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.— (Canadian Press.)— Sugar continues to move on the upgrade, another advance of 15 cents per hundredweight being authorized yesterday. This brings the selling price of granulated to $8.59. The advance applies to all grades.

NEWS OF BURNBRAE

Social Events in the District —Call To a Minister.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 19.—The Rev. Mr. Campbell of Barrie spoke at Burnbrae and Rylstone on Sunday. His morning text was Matt 16: 18. "I will build my church." The evening service was not held on account of anniversary services at Mount Pleasant which were conducted by Rev. C. Daniels of Seymour circuit.

Rev. Mr. McKenzie of Cambridge will be the preacher at Seymour and Rylstone next Sunday. On the following Monday evening a joint meeting of the congregations will be held for the purpose of extending a call to a minister.

A Lawn Social

The Ladies' Aid of Zion Church held their annual lawn social in Mr. Simpson's grove last Thursday evening. Although the weather was cool a fairly large crowd assembled and everyone seemed to have an enjoyable time. The grove is an ideal place for a gathering at this time of year. In the earlier part of the evening a baseball match was staged between Petherick's boys and Hastings. This was the third game of the season for these rivals and was one by a 9 to 1 score by the Petherick's nine, the game being called in the fourth, owing to darkness. Kerr pitched a splendid game for the home team, while Howard who renieved for Hastings in the second held the locals scoreless for three innings. The Northumberland Regiment Band gave excellent music, while an up-to-date electrical plant furnished them with light. Mr. Garnet Hay held the lucky ticket in the draw for the quilt. The total proceeds from all sources was $333.55.

WHEN YOU BEGIN TO GET OLD.

At the age of 109, Mrs. Nora Bradley Kane died in Newton, Conn. She claimed she never had a doctor until a week before her death, yet had always enjoyed fine health.

Her formula was: "Work hard and leave all the rest to God."

A fine formula for a person gifted with excellent health. She never had a physician, for the simple reason that she never needed one. Incidentally she escaped an unfortunate feature of some medicine—that it often cures one organ of the body by wrecking another.

Doctors don't prescribe as much pills and tonic as they used to. These have their place in certain definite ailments, but the medical profession is recognizing Proper Living and Sanitation as the best medicines.

Formulas for living to very old age are constantly coming to light in the news. The public is always eager for them. But, unfortunately, these formulas rarely are of much value—because what is one person's meat is another's poison.

Aged people frequently claim that temperate living is responsible for their advanced years.

Yet the other day a healthy veteran of 74 appeared before Magistrate Gresser in New York on a charge of being intoxicated. He said that he had been drinking whiskey for 60 years, and the only difference he could notice was that liquor is "not what it used to be."

People who survive to very old age usually come from long-lived stock. "In one family, members who grow to maturity have a tendency to live to about 70, while in another family most of them die around 60.

Making allowances for individual cases that deviate from the rule, every family has—by the law of averages—its danger year, when death seems to strike down the greatest number. If you have a record of your family tree, you can check up and learn your danger year—when to be most careful.

The age of death has a close connection with heredity.

"MOST LAWLESS NATION ON EARTH."

For two decades American jurists, criminologists and others have been discussing in a leisurely way the question of American lawlessness. Many suggestions have been brought forth, but little has been done to remedy an amazing and discreditable state of affairs.

A few days ago a capable judge of one of New York's courts, in welcoming to the criminal bench a new appointee, said to him that it would be his painful duty to deal with many young law-breakers, to face grave problems and to be oppressed by constant evidence that America must plead guilty to the charge of being "the most lawless nation on earth."

If America, despite twenty years of discussion of the problem of crime, remains the most lawless nation on earth, judges, lawyers, educators, practical sociologists and others should attack that problem with redoubled energy and with a determination to find a solution.

Perhaps this country is attempting too much in the way of unnecessary, futile regulation and thus is breeding lawlessness. Perhaps its legislative mills work too hard and too continuously, and public opinion is not really consulted in the framing and enactment of restrictive legislation. Perhaps the United States pays too little attention to the enforcement of statutes, relying upon the naive assumption that to pass laws is enough.

Certainly the administration of justice is inefficient, clumsy, uncertain and erratic. Law and procedure have long needed revision, but the public has shown little interest in the matter and there are too many selfish, indolent and short-sighted lawyers in the legislatures who obstruct and defeat proposed reforms. There are too many courts, too many political judges, too little effective control of judicial work and too much toleration of dilatory and pettifogging tactics.

If the question of lawlessness is attacked in earnest a constructive program will be worked out. The recent proposal of a standard criminal code is excellent. Other concrete suggestions will emerge. The primary need is a will to force appropriate and effective reform in the administration of law and justice. —Chicago News.

ADVENTURE.

"Most men lead lives of quiet desperation," wrote Thoreau in a mood of philosophic melancholy. "They pine because they breathe their own breath over and over again. We should come home often from far adventures and perils and discoveries."

There can be no question that many find life a disappointment, its compensations by no means equal to its ardors, tis promise a lie. They turn here and there seeking distraction, relief; and at last resign themselves to more or less quiet despair. They have breathed too long their own breath, over and over.

Yet in apparently similar circumstances others find life an overflowing good. Such a difference in outlook can originate only in some inner dissimilarity. "Merely a matter of glands," the moderns explain sagely. Religion, declare the Christians. Dullness, sneer the intellectuals. The answer, if there be an answer, has been the age-long goal of humanity which has scarcely succeeded in establishing more than a few neglected guideposts along the way. The surest of these, and the one least heeded, is that gratification is not satisfaction. As one seizes the body of enjoyment the soul escapes and only a dead thing is left in the grasp. The belief that enjoyment, zest, hope, come only when life is absorbed in the pursuit of some other good is as much older than Christianity as the Greek Stoics. But each new adventurer in life has to learn it for himself. Only those who seek first the kingdom, a sufficiently unearthly kingdom, will find these other things by the wayside.

The far adventures, perils and discoveries which Thoreau advises are fortunately within reach of us all. To be sure, very few may scale the world's last peak, seek out white Indians or girdle the earth with flight. But the spiritual equivalent of such adventures can be had in Kingston itself. To seek out and know even one of the marvellous, shy souls which pass by hourly; the perils of service which looks for no reward but itself; the far adventure of the daring soul questing after God—these are the sort of deep currents which sweep from the human spirit the stagnation that breeds despair.—Kingston Whig.

GOOD TIMES AHEAD.

The surest indication of good times ahead does not lie in the rising prices of the stock market, impressive as that rise is. It lies in the climbing commodity prices.

When prices are rising the manufacturer sells for more than he expected to get when he contracted for his labor and raw materials. Therefore, he makes an unexpected profit, and this is an incentive to expand production, which means increasing employment and bidding up wages.

The merchant, likewise, sells his stock for a higher price than he figured to get when he laid it in. He has an incentive to buy now and buy heavily, before prices go up any more. His orders stream into the manufacturer.

The volume of production and distribution being thus stimulated by rising prices, the railroad car loadings increase. Bankers, who sell credit, make money because merchants and manufacturers must borrow funds with which to expand their businesses.

Of course, when prices begin to drop, the exact reverse of all this occurs. Manufacturers and merchants do not get the price they expected, suffer losses, contract their business. Then employment, railroad car loadings and banking profits all fall off.

This up-and-down movement is called the business cycle.

Keeping these facts in mind, look at the course of prices in the United States this year, as evidenced in Irving Fisher's index of average wholesale prices, covering over two hundred commodities.

Representing 1913 (pre-war) prices as 100, the average price level in January, 1924, was 154.4. It gradually dropped to 143 in June. Then it started up. The July average was 145.2. Last Friday it had risen to 148.5.

The price recovery is a certain index of coming business prosperity because it is the steam which sets that prosperity in motion.—New York American.

JELLICOE AT JUTLAND.

The British Admiralty's "Narrative of the Battle of Jutland" is issued five years after the publication of Admiral Jellicoe's book. Official zeal has assembled all the evidence available on disputed points. Every log, every signal book, every individual report has been examined. On the 154 British ships that constituted the Grand Fleet on May 30-31, 1916, there were thousands of witnesses, and they had many stories to tell. Of signal books alone there were hundreds to scan for items of intelligence, time and place. Literally, order had to be brought out of chaos, for so confusing and so fluctuating were the circumstances of the battle, which the Germans did not expect to fight, and which the British began but failed to finish, that the actors could not agree upon any important statement of fact.

As an author Admiral Jellicoe did not have access to all the evidence. He was embarrassed by instructions that he could not disclose in their entirety. Moreover, he had his own reputation to protect. As to the tactics employed at Jutland he was on the defensive, for there was much complaint that he had not grasped the opportunity to sink the German fleet. The Admiralty, with all the collectable facts before it, does not hesitate to say that when Viscount Jellicoe is at variance with conclusions reached in the Narrative the weight of evidence is against him. On one point, however, he is right: the Admiralty fails, he says, to give a true idea of the confusion caused by contradictory reports during the battle, and is therefore not always in a position to pronounce judgment.

At the very opening of the Admiralty account there is conflict with the statement made by Admiral Jellicoe in his book, that "the Grand Fleet put to sea on May 30 (1916) for the purpose of carrying out one of its periodical sweeps in the North Sea." According to the Narrative:

> By May 28 it had become clear that some considerable movement was on foot, and at noon on May 30 a message was sent to the Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet that there were indications that the German Fleet was proceeding out.

The alert intelligence service was right, but did the Germans come out to engage the Grand Fleet? It has always been Jellicoe's opinion that Admiral Scheer put to sea with his battle fleet to support a squadron ordered to break up a British cruiser "sweep" in the vicinity of the Skagerrak. "He did not expect," Admiral Jellicoe has said, "to meet the whole Grand Fleet." The times of sighting the enemy and of some phases of the fighting are not always the same in the Admiral's version and the Admiralty's. For instance, the latter makes the Galatea signal "Enemy in sight," at 2.20 p.m., May 31; Jellicoe's time is 2.35 p.m. The Admiralty gives the range when Beatty's flagship opened fire on the Germans as 15,300 yards. Jellicoe says: "At 3.48 p.m. the action between the battle cruisers began at a range of 18,500 yards."

A significant paragraph in the Narrative is the following: "With Admiral Jellicoe's battle fleet hurrying down only fifty miles away, the door of a great opportunity seemed to be on the point of opening." Further on there is an implication that the Commander-in-Chief was not hurrying down fast enough. It is not insisted, however, that the fault was his. There is plenty of evidence of "mutilated" signals. The messages received by Admiral Jellicoe were sometimes wrong as to the course the enemy was making. The British battleships were in action in only two periods of twenty and fifteen minutes, respectively. In the second period Admiral Scheer was heading away for Horns Reef and safety. In one respect Jellicoe is vindicated: "The Commander-in-Chief decided very rightly not to fight a night action." There is a salient conclusion to be drawn from the Narrative. It is that defective signalling, due to confusion and haste, explains why the British battle fleet was not up in time to destroy the German capital ships.—New York Times.

A THOUGHT

A lot of people never even stop to consider whether or not they are being carried as an asset or a liability. All of which reminds us of the colored boy who went into a drug store near his home and asked the druggist if he could use the 'phone. This is what the druggist heard:

"Hello, is dis Mistah Johnson's residence?" "Is Mistah Johnson theh?" Mr. Johnson, Ah hears as how you is needin' a boy to look after you yahd and drove you car." "You say you ahready has a boy?" "Is de boy givin' yo satisfaction?" "You say he am givin' you puffect satisfaction? All right, Mistah Johnson, good-by."

The boy hung up and the druggist said to him: "Boy, are you looking for work?" I am looking for a boy to help in the store."

"Nosuh, I'se not looking fo' wuk. I wuks fo' Mistah Johnson, I'se jest been checkin' mahself up."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, August 19. — The market for cattle had a little stronger undertone at the Union Stock Yards yesterday. The morning's run was 261 cars—4,945 cattle, 378 calves, 1,822 hogs, and 1,521 sheep and lambs.

The cattle quality was a good average, and prices paid by packers was unevenly better than last week by 10 to 15 cents a cwt. In the early sales, choice butchers' steers sold at $7.00 a cwt. and heifers at $6.25. Complaints were made that the bids on cows were lower, but transactions did not show any downward change from previous sales.

The exporters had a good selection. Prices asked were higher, but the buyers were unwilling to accept a higher market. Early purchasers of heavy steers were not made above $7.50 a cwt., and heifers at $6.75.

Extra choice loads of steers sold at $7.75. The stocker business had quite a revival yesterday with a number of farmers in looking for supplies. Two loads of steers were sent to the farm, one 800 pounds each at $5.00 cwt. and one 925 pounds each at $5.75. One load averaging les sthan 800 pounds each brought $4.55 a cwt.

The exporters had only bought around 300 head up till noon, but will need about three times this number for this week's shipment. Trading was brisk all morning and the packers were buying freely of handyweight butchers.

Tops were generally $6.75 a cwt., and good loads brought $6.50. Good medium butchers sold at $5.75 to $6.00 a cwt. and common butchers $4.50 to $5.00. Butchers' cows were just steady with sellers asking higher prices. A couple of choice cows sold at $6.00, but the average good cow was $4.25 to $4.50, and common cows went at $2.75 to $3.00.

Baby beeves sold well from $7.50 to 10.50 a cwt.

Yesterday's activity will pretty well take care of most of the cattle on the market.

Yesterday's good to choice calves did not last long. These were firmer by a dollar a cwt., with tops up to 10 1-2 cents. One butcher wanted 8 or 10 but was unable to get them in the early run. All the good calves sold at 9 cents, and mediums went at 7 to 8 cents a pound.

In the lambs there was considerable dickering before any settlement was reached. Some salesmen were asking 14 cents a pound for ewes, with the packers bidding 12 1-2 cents. The market appears to have settled around 13 cents for ewes and 11 cents for bucks. This is a drop of 50 cents a cwt. over the week-end.

Hogs continue scarce and the price is as unsettled as ever. As high as $10.50 a cwt. was paid last week-end, and prices were no easier yesterday. Salesmen reported trades at $10.50 a cwt. f.o.b. and $11.00 fed and watered.

Sugar Is Advanced.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18. — Local sugar refiners marked prices up another 15 cents per 100 lbs., here this afternoon making a net advance since the first of the month of 45 cents per 100 lbs. but prices are still much below the figure at the corresponding time last year. Extra granulated sugar is now sell- at $8.25 per 100 lbs. in bags.

Quebec Butter.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.— At the Quebec Agricultural Co-operative Society Auction sale held here today there were 1450 packages creamery butter offered of which 200 packages special pasteurized creamery sold at 36 1-4 cents per lb., 300 packages No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 36 cents per lb., 600 packages No. 1 creamery at 35 cents per lb., 300 packages No.2 creamery at 34 cents per lb. These prices as compared with the previous sale show an advance of 1-2 to 3-4 cents per pound.

Belleville Cheese.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.— At the United Dairymen's Co-operative auction sale of Belleville cheese held here to-day 1766 boxes were offered and 17 cents per lb. was bid for the different lots of No. 1 white and colored and refused with 17 3-8 cents asked while 16 cents per lb. was bid for the No. 2 grades which was also turned down by the seller.

Montreal Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—In sympathy with the easier feeling in the western market for oats, cash prices on the local market were down 1 1-2 cents per bushel. There was nothing new in the flour market. Domestic trade in millfeed was steady The tone of the rolled oats market was stronger and prices were up fifteen cents per bag. There is nothing new in baled hay. A fur-

Flexible Life Insurance

People whose circumstances are subject to change—the salaried and business classes—"want flexible life insurance."

They need all the protection they can secure for the amount they can afford to invest—which means the Whole Life plan. Then as salary or business conditions improve they want to be able to complete payments at a definite time either as a 20 Payment Life or an Endowment. It can be done through our Jubilee Policy.

When you desire to convert your policy any time from the third to the fifteenth year, simply pay the new premium: no new medical examinations, no redating of Policy, no paying difference in back premiums with interest.

Example: Age 35, $10,000. Jubilee Policy—changed to 20 Payment Life at end of 5 years

Premium—Whole Life rate, $214.00 for 5 years	$1070.00
Rate when made 20 Pay Life, $349.80 for 15 years	5247.00
Total premiums for 20 years	6317.00
Cash Value—guaranteed	5760.00
Net cost	$ 557.00

Protection of $10,000—$2.79 per thousand per year, subject to reduction by annual dividends.

Our representatives stand ready to serve you on request.

BRITISH SENSE OF FAIR PLAY

Absolute Justice Was Shown In Mahon Murder Case

LONDON, August 19. — British sense of fair play and absolute justice has just been demonstrated here by the astonishing tactics used in one of the most sensational murder trials ever known in England — the "Mahon case."

That sense of fair play and justice caused the court to withhold from the jury, and caused every newspaper in England to refrain from printing, the fact that the man accused of one of the most revolting murders ever recorded here, had a long criminal record previous to the crime for which he was being tried.

He was convicted and sentenced to death—but he was convicted solely on the evidence of the one crime. As far as the jury knew, when returning the verdict, he was innocent of any other wrong doing.

After the verdict had been returned and sentence passed the judge informed the jury of the man's previous crimes—and the next day the newspapers, which for weeks had been filled with the trial and stories of the crime, printed the facts they had known all along of the defendant's prevous life of crime.

Americans Astonished.

American lawyers here for the international bar association meeting, have been utterly astounded at this situation, by comparison with what would have happened in the United States under similar circumstances.

They admit the splendid ideal of justice involved—the theory that a defendant should be tried only for the single crime of which he is then accused. But they point out that a hardened and habitual criminal might escape justice under the operation of that theory.

To appreciate the astonishing contrast in British and American methods in this case, imagine the thing happening about like this:

A beautiful girl is murdered in a Long Island cottage, not far from New York. Her body has been hacked to pieces and parts of it burned and other parts hidden here and there. The head was found in one place, bits of the limbs in other places. Every newspaper in the land printed long display stories day after day. It was one of the most gruesome murders, one of the darkest murder mysteries in criminal history.

Everybody talked about the sensation. Finally a man named Mahon was arrested, under dramatic circumstances. All circumstantial evidence pointed to his guilt. Again for weeks it was the biggest news story going. Then came the trial. Again it was the biggest story going. Then came the day when the case went to the jury. For many weeks remember everybody in the country has been reading and talking about this terrible crime. Presumably every detail has been published. Presumably every fact has been given to the jury. A verdict of guilty is returned and Mahon is sentenced to death.

Previous Violence.

And then the judge says the jury may be interested in knowing that Mahon had previously "suffered a term of penal servitude for a crime of violence." And then, and not until then, the newspapers print that Mahon served five years for robbing a bank and hitting a woman in the head nine times with a hammer; that he had been guilty of forgery and burglary and had been accused of other crimes.

For weeks every newspaper had suppressed the hottest sort of stuff about the biggest story running; the prosecuting attorney had never breathed to the jury the slightest hint that Mahon had ever been in trouble before; even parts of his statements to the police under arrest, referring to his past crimes, were pasted over and concealed when that document was submitted to the jury—all for fear that any juryman, learning or even suspecting the man had committed previous crimes might be influenced thereby in returning a verdict in this case!

In America, of course, the prosecution would have laid bare Mahon's previous life. "He does that sort of thing right along!" would have been the meat of the argument. And the American newspaperman would have thought the person insane who would have proposed suppressing such a story!

But British justice is built that way! Any newspaper prejudging or influencing the case would have been fined and the editor put in jail. Such punishment, in fact, was given several newspapers that printed what the court considered too many early details of the murder. And if the prosecuting attorney had referred to Mahon's previous crimes he would have been considered a disgrace to the profession—because of not giving the accused a fair chance.

POOL MANAGER?

Hon. J. E. Brownlee of Edmonton Offered Managership of Wheat Pool.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The offer of the Inter-provincial Wheat Pool managership to Hon. J. E. Brownlee, as reported a few days ago, has been discussed in the Cabinet council of the Government and Premier Greenfield has confirmed the report as published.

His colleagues in the Cabinet were naturally concerned over the prospect of losing the Attorney-General from their Ministerial family but the Premier says that no pressure was brought to bear upon him and he was left with a free hand to make whatever decision he should personally choose.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto Montreal--Winnipeg

Winnipeg Grain.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18.—Based on strong Liverpool cables, which came about 2 cents higher, the wheat market here to-day opened 3-4 to 4c higher than the previous close but a much improved weather map together with lack of demand quickly turned prices downward and at one time prices were showing a decline of 4 to 4 1-2 from Saturday's close.

Near the finish which was around the low point of the day, considerable profit-taking sales came out which the moderate buying power could not take care of and prices closed 2 lower for October and May while December sustained a loss of 2 5-8. The trade volume throughout the session was light and while selling pressure was not large it was notable shortly before the market closed that the "bulls" had lost heart.

The coarse grains were following the trend of wheat and while the trade volume was limited, there was a disposition on the part of 'longs' to take profits with only a small buying power coming out. Oats declined 1 to 1 1-2c, barley 1 to 2 cents and rye 1 1-2. The flax market was extremely quiet with prices about 1 3-4 lower.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.— Grain values weakened to-day after corn, oats and rye had touched new high price records for the sesaon. Rising temperatures, which were forecast caused selling of corn in much larger volume than has been the rule lately and the market closed unsetteld at a range varying from 1 1-4 net decline to 1-4 gain, with December 1.18 to 1.18 1-4. Wheat finished heavy, 2 1-8 to 2 3-4c off, Seutember 1.30 1-2 to 1.30 3-4 and December 1.35 1-2 to 1.35 5-8, oats 1-4 to 1 1-2 down and provisions showing five cents to 27 cents drop.

LURE OF LOURDES IS STILL STRONG

Father Woodlock, a Jesuit Priest, Believes in This Miracle.

LONDON, Aug. 19. — (United Press).—Widespread belief in supernatural cures at Lourdes, the "miracle place" in southern France, continues, notwithstanding the scoffing of science.

A committee of 50 English physicians recently examined the case of a girl who was supposed to have been cured of blood-poisoning by a Lourdes "miracle."

"On the evidence submitted, the cure is not proven, the physicians reported.

Nevertheless, Father Woodlock, a Jesuit priest who is in charge of the English pilgrimages to Lourdes, reiterated his belief in Lourdes "miracle cures."

"The report of the committee of physicians does not shake my faith," he declared. "I still believe, from all the circumstances of the case, that the cure was supernatural. There is no reason why God should not suspend for a worthy purpose the operations of the great natural laws which He has made. The scepticism manifested in regard to the Lourdes cures is the outcome of unfair judgments, and not the result of evidence."

The committee of physicians was composed of both Catholics and non-Catholics, and its members declare they were swayed only by scientific facts, and were not in the least influenced by personal bias.

Pilgrimages Continue.

Meanwhile, English pilgrimages to Lourdes continue as pumerously as before. One party of 1,500 from Liverpool, started to the shrine a few days ago after the publication of the physicians' report—the pilgrims firm in their faith of Lourdes supernatural cures, scientific reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

According to the tradition a shepherdess of Lourdes was directed to the medicinal spring by a vision of the Holy Virgin, more than 50 years ago. During these years many thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the world have journeyed to Lourdes, and, according to accepted statements, a great many who went three afflicted came away cured. Medical science does not deny that there have been many such cures. But it attributed them to auto-suggestion rather than to miraculous or supernatural causes.

Equip Your Body for Success

MAKE it easy for yourself to win. Equip your body to successfully meet the many problems you must face each day. Have on tap always, boundless energy of body and mind.

The foods you eat, of course, are very important. You must choose them with care. You must see that they give your body the nourishment you pay for. Such a search will lead you to Grape-Nuts.

Grape-Nuts is concentrated nourishment. Whole wheat and malted barley give it a mighty store of the most vitalizing elements—phosphorus and iron, carbohydrates—all the essentials. A long baking process leaves these ready for rapid assimilation by the body. And then, because the whole wheat berry is used, Grape-Nuts contains an adequate supply of bran roughage.

Grape-Nuts is a perfectly-balanced food. Its crispness makes you chew it, thus aiding the teeth. It is easily digested; soundly nourishing; and economical, because there are many helpings in each package. Costs 1c per serving. Buy Grape-Nuts from your grocer and serve it tomorrow with milk or cream.

GRAPE-NUTS TOMATO SALAD

¾ cup Grape-Nuts, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 envelope minute gelatine, 1 cup boiling water, 1 can condensed tomato soup, Mayonnaise dressing, small heart of cabbage, or lettuce.

Put the butter over the fire till melted, then stir in the Grape-Nuts. Remove from fire and roll ⅓ cup on molding board.

Dissolve the gelatine in the boiling water, add the can of tomato soup. Mold in custard cups. When beginning to harden, gently stir into each cup a portion of the buttered whole Grape-Nuts, using the ⅓ cup in all.

Set on the ice till hard, then turn out on a bed of lettuce or (preferably) finely chopped cabbage heart.

Sprinkle over the whole salad (tomato mold and cabbage bed) the Grape-Nuts dust already prepared, and serve with Russian dressing.

Russian Dressing.—Mix Mayonnaise dressing with one-half as much Chili sauce, add one pimento cut in small pieces. If preferred, plain Mayonnaise may be used.

HERRIOT FACED CABINET TO-DAY

Received With Ovation On Return From the London Conference.

POINCARE TO SPEAK.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—Premier Herriot faces the cabinet to-day and the chamber of deputies Thursday, reinforced by an unmistakable expression of popular rejoicing over the settlement of the London conference and what the French people believe to be the return of France's foreign policy to a real peace footing.

Since Clemenceau relinquished power never has a premier been so enthusiastically greeted on returning from an inter-allied conference as was M. Herriot last evening.

The Premier will have to endure a debate in the chamber lasting two, perhaps three, weeks, as already eight important interpellations are scheduled and in addition eight prominent orators are on the list for speeches, and M. Herriot does not desire to cut short the discussions.

Poincare To Speak.

After the chamber debate the senate must be dealt with, and Former Premier Poincare will take the floor. His speech, while likely to be formidable, is not likely to cause the upper house to deviate from the chamber's course in voting confidence, which already is taken as a foregone conclusion, even among the premier's would-be successors.

When this business has been concluded the Government will probably adjourn Parliament until October, letting internal reforms, ratification of the Lausanne treaty and the agreement with the United States for reimbursement of the costs of the United States' Rhine forces go over. In the meantime, Premier Herriot's return is hailed by the general councils of three departments of central France with the passage of congratulatory resolutions praising his attitude in London.

TRIALS OF LONDON POLICE.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—During the year 1923, 81 London officers were bitten by dogs while on duty, 1,429 officers were injured while in the execution of their duty, and 804 were accidentaly injured.

PLANNING FOR PREMIER'S VISIT

Expect Five Thousand at Mammoth Community Picnic.

NO DULL MOMENTS.

With a realisation that Thursday, 28th August, is only ten days hence, and appreciating the size and enthusiasm of the 5,000 constituents that crowded the Exhibition Grounds at Markham on Monday to hear Premier Mackenzie King deliver the opening address of his tour, the members of the different committees of the West Peterborough Liberal Association are working with renewed zeal in preparation for the mammoth community picnic to be held here on the 28th of the month.

In anticipation of an equal gathering, extensive arrangements are being made to provide entertainment, eating accommodation, and the many other things that will have to be taken into consideration.

Last night at a meeting of the Sports Committee it was reported that a hardball tournament will form part of the programme, composing teams representative of the rural centres in the riding, as well as a girls' softball tournament.

The tug-of-war contest in charge of Jean Hurtubuise promises to be a thriller. Among the teams entered already are an aggregation from Curve Lake, who are on the war path, determined to wrest the county championship from the heralded Board of Works team.

Besides, there is an attractive prize list for track and field events—a programme so diversified that it will permit all to participate, from the fat ladies to the smallest damsels and youths on the grounds.

More additions will be added and a complete sports programme will be announced later in the week.

On Wednesday night, in the Builders' Exchange Room, over Bond's Drug Store, a meeting of all Liberals and citizens interested in the success of the picnic will be held to make a final disposition of all the arrangements, so that the committees will be able to proceed on a working basis, in immediate preparation for the demonstration.

Tuesday evening a meeting of the Ladies' Liberal Association is being called to discuss their participation in the preparations.

J. J. Duffus, general chairman of the committees, appreciates the splendid spirit of co-operation shown by all parties. Alex. Dick, chairman of the Sports Committee, supported by the leading sport promoters of the city and county, although a programme has been outlined, would be glad to receive any suggestions.

It is a community picnic, and the committee are anxious to include in their programme a schedule that will satisfy all branches of sport, provided it can be arranged without making the programme cumbersome.

President J. J. Hartley expects full forces in attendance at Wednesday night's meeting, after which public announcements will be made in reference to the speakers and the arrangements for their entertainment.

It is understood that the Right Honourable W. L. Mackenzie King with his party, which will include amongst others the Honourable Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, and probably the Honourable Charles Murphy, Postmaster General, who will attend if conditions permit, will arrive in the city by private car early on Thursday morning, 28th August.

There will not be a dull moment from early morn till late in the evening.

A feature of the day's activities will be an evening performance of a rare nature to be announced later.

THIS ENGINE LEAPED RIGHT IN WAITING ROOM

Imagine the surprise of women seated in the waiting room at Stoughton, Mass., when a big engine came right in unannounced. A Boston-bound express train jumped the track, injuring three persons. It went right through the brick wall of the station.

MONEY WAS MEXICAN

Petty Fraud Played Upon Obliging Kingston Druggist.

KINGSTON, August 19. — Early on Sunday evening a local druggist received a telephone call from a man who stated that his son was sick and that he wanted a hot water bottle. He gave an address on King street, and asked the druggist to send out with the bottle change for a $20 bill, as that was the smallest that he had. Accordingly the druggist sent a messenger boy with the hot water bottle, and with change for $20. The cost of the bottle was $2.50 and when the boy arrived near the number given the man appeared, and stated that he was the one who phoned. He tendered the $20 bill to the boy, received the bottle and $17.50 change, and then disappeared. Returning to the store, the boy deposited the $20 and a little later it was found to be a Mexican bill worth about 30 cents.

ELK RULES BUFFALO HERD IN SAN FRANCISCO PARK

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—A lordly bull elk rules a herd of buffaloes in a paddock at Golden Gate park here. And the elk is not required to use force to execute his orders, but merely indicates what he wants done and it's done, says F. E. Slattery, for 31 years a custodian of animals in the park.

There usualy are from 15 to 20 bison in the enclosure where the elk resides. Combat in the paddock evidently is distateful to him, for he frequently separates two belligerent buffalo bulls, shooing them aside in different direction. Furthermore he watches over the habits of the buffaloes. When he deems that they have lolled in recumbent postures too long and should be up and grazing, he goes in among them, touching them lightly with his antlers, until they rise and shamble away. Slattery declares he never has seen the elk's authorty disputed.

BOATHOUSES UNDER GOVERNMENT LOCKS

Owners on Crowe Bay Were in Arrears for Rental of Land.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 19.—The Dominion Government as represented by the Department of Railways and Canals is disposed to insist on its rights as a landlord. When notice is served on its tenants that they are in arrears with their rent and no notice is taken then the Department makes good its threat, and after removing the contents of the occupied premises affixes a lock of its own to the door.

Some time ago the owners of boathouses at Crowe Bay, located on land that belongs to the Government were notified that they owed the Department of Railways and Canals $23.40 each, this being three years' rent for the ground on which their boathouses stood, this figuring out at about 65 cents a foot frontage on the canal. No rent had ever been paid by the tenants since the boathouses were put up.

The owners were further notified that if the rent was not paid by 1st August all the property on the boathouse would be removed at the expense of the proprietor.

Six of the owners paid their rent rather than abandon the premises, two moved away, and three refused or failed to settle. Two local employees of the Trent Canal, James Sanders and Robert Greenley, visited Crowe Bay, and ordered the delinquent tenants to vacate. When the houses were cleared of their fixtures, the doors were locked.

Lock Was Broken.

One of the evicted tenants, who was absent at the time of the official visit, questioned the right of even Government officials to take such summary measures, without the usual legal process in which a bailiff would figure, and broke the new lock on his door. Hearing of this the representatives of the Department put on another, which the tenant again broke.

There the matter rests at present, but the outcome is awaited with interest. In the meantime the tenant in question is carrying on a correspondence with the Department at Ottawa.

All but two of the boathouses are built with their gable ends to the canal, the others being broadside to the water, thus nearly doubling their frontage and rent. The Government however, has agreed to pay these tenants the same as the others, or about $10.00 a year.

It is the first time any resident of Campbellford has dealt with the Government in the latter's capacity as a landlord. It is the general opinion here among those who have settled that as they had never paid either rent or taxes they were really trespassers on Government land, and that being the case were subject to summary conviction.

SCIENTISTS ON TRIP TO MADOC

Visited the Mines and Studied Geology—News From Madoc.

MADOC, Aug. 19. —Professor W. J. Solfas and Miss Elliss of Oxford University and Professor W. B. Wright of Manchester, all delegates to the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Scinece, spent four days visiting mines and studying geology in Madoc district. Professor Sollas, in addition to having written voluminously on geology is known as the translator of the famous work on geology entitled "The Face of the Earth by Suess of Vienna.

Professor W. B. Wright is noted especially for his work on glaesiology and has written a geological text-book.

Professor Bailey of the University of Illinois also a delegate to the British Association, and a number of his students were in camp at Moira Lake for two days. They have now gone on to Bancroft, and expect to return to the States by way of Ottawa and Montreal.

The distinguished visitors were very much interested in the Eozoon Canadense at the Talc mines, and the pillow-loke structures that occur in the ancient lavas found east of Madoc.

Professor Sollas, Professor Wright and Miss Ellis left this morning for Kingston.

Bird Took Bait.

An interesting and peculiar thing occurred at Moira Lake recently. A couple of American visitors were spending the day fishing, with Henry Mitchell as guide. While trolling they observed a gull following them, and occasionally swooping down into the water. They did not however attach any importance to the strange actions of the gull until he finally made a dive from his high position in the air, seized the bait on the end of their line and flew triumphantly up into the air again, carrying bait, hook and line. At once one of the party began hauling in the line as rapidly as he could, gradually drawing the bird nearer and nearer to the boat despite his frantic efforts to free himself. A few feet away the gull made a last desperate effort and the hook loosened from his mouth, and dropped into the boat, while the late captive flew rapidly away. The bird had evidently been attracted by the glitter of the spoon, which he could see gleaming in the water, but no doubt he is now a sadder and a wiser bird, knowing that all is not good to eat that glitters.

Condition Serious.

The many friends of Mr. J. Marcellus, principal of the Madoc high school, will regret to learn that he is dangerously ill. Mr. Marcellus has been taking a special course at Queens' University this summer, but was unable to attend the last few lectures. Since his return home he has grown steadily worse and is at present in a critical condition.

Dr. and Mrs. Crawford of Niagara Falls, and Dr. A. Whytock of St. Catharines, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Whytock.

The condition of Mrs. J. Whytock, Sr., who has been ill for some time, shows no improvement. Out of town members of her family have been sent for.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gillespie have gone on a trip up the Saguenay.

Mrs. E. Tumelty has sold the house and lot, which she recently purchased on St. Lawrence street, to Mrs. F. Harrison. This is the property which was owned by the late Mrs. Young, and though in need of repair, is a very desirable location. Mrs. Harrison intends putting extensive improvements on the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Embury have returned from a two months' visit in Manitoba.

Rev. W. Brown and family, of Simcoe, are visiting Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Riddell, of Renfrew, are in town to-day.

Dr. and Mrs. Grant Fraser spent the week end in Toronto.

Mrs. Wyper and Miss Breakell were hostesses at a clock golf tea, given in honor of Miss Wallbridge of Toronto, on Saturday afternoon.

Why is this little bottle on 3,000,000 toilet tables?

WHAT is this rite of the toilette which 3,000,000 women so fastidiously observe? This little bottle, so ever present—what is it?

A means to preserve one of the most powerful of feminine appeals, ageless, always potent in womankind. It is the appeal which is your person—dainty, sweet, immaculately clean.

And it is a thing which is not attained by soap and water, by perfumed baths, alone. For there is a trouble maker here which calls for corrective measures. — Perspiration always leaves the lingering mark of its presence.

Under the arm it is particularly troublesome—due to the fact that the perspiration glands here are very active and normal evaporation in this shut-in hollow is impossible. Physicians call this condition Hyperidrosis and say it is entirely harmless to control excessive perspiration in so small an area.

As a safe, scientific corrective of excessive perspiration Odorono was formulated by a physician. It is now widely used in hospitals by physicians and nurses.

One application gives you complete relief from all perspiration annoyance for at least three days. Its regular use just twice a week will safeguard you from distressing perspiration moisture and unpleasant underarm odor.

No more stained and ruined clothing; no more doubt of your perfect daintiness! Enjoy this assurance. You can get Odorono at any toilet counter, 35c, 60c and $1, or sent by mail postpaid. Address The Odorono Company, Ltd., 107 Duke Street, Toronto.

RECOLLECTIONS OF BEST SAFEGUARD

Opening Battles of 1914 Did Not Pay Countries.

By J. W. T. Mason

The tenth anniversaries of the first battles of the world war, now a matter of daily succession, are having a sobering effect up on the cries of a future conflict, which have been so persistently uttered in continental Europe. A chilling recollection of the meaning of war is coming over all the trans-Atlantic capitals. Instead of jubilant celebrations of the beginning of the world war, mourning has marked the anniversary observances in the victorious as well as in the defeated countries.

This striking psychological fact is best peace maker Europe has had. Hitherto, war anniversaries among victors have been kept with joyous appeals to patriotism. But, now the beginning of the second decade of the opening of the world war finds the victors disconcerted and without any trophies to show for their victories counterbalancing the cost of the conflict.

The Germans, in tears before their Reichstag, mourning their defeated dead, differ but little from the French trying desperately to prevent a peace defeat for themselves. The tenth anniversary of the great opening battles of 1914 shows to all the powers that war doesn't pay. There isn't a single country in Europe that would fight the war over again on the terms that the war itself brought to all. Nobody has been a real winner and all have been losers.

During the years that have intervened since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty, there have been many discussions about the inevitability of another war to be fought for revenge. The policies of the principal European chancellories have been based on this assumption. The fearful wreckage of the war to all alike was so easily forgotten as to be in itself one of the most striking phenomena of the twentieth century The pledges to make the world war a war to end war were forgotten as the victors began to parcel out the loot.

The Spoils of War

But, with the loot went the presumption of its own injustice, and so another war to right the injustices of the late one became uppermost in the minds of statesmen. Taking this for granted, military strategy grew so dominant in the council chambers of statesmen that army chieftains dictated national policies. War again began to be seen impersonally, simply as a move in the great game of furthering national fortunes at the expense of other nations.

The tenth anniversary proceedings, however, have broken down this artificial attitude. The reality of war, its terrible tragedies to all people, except the few at the top, are once more recalled. War, as a way to national expansion, is being seen as too expensive way of progress. The cost is being counted not only in the dead but in the heavy taxation and the weight of the war's debt on the living.

Therefore, there may result a definite change for the better in European relations from now henceforth. The reckless procedures of certain trans-Atlantic foreign offices, accept ing a new war as preordained by the last, are showing signs of breaking down. What a new war really would mean in destructive force to civilization is beginning to be realized by comparing its possiblites with the actualities of ten years ago. A more amenable attitude on the part of the victors toward the vanquished is beginning to be discerned. War, destructive of all alike, making nobody the victor in the next conflict, has been in the making. Europe is drawing back from this horror, thanks to the vivid realization of actualities which the tenth anniversary has caused.

LIMESTONE HELPS FARMS

Pulverizing Plant Supplies Farmers of Cape Breton With Needed Chemical.

SYDNEY ,Aug. 20. — Powdered limestone at $2 a ton is now being supplied to the farmers of Cape Breton from the new government pulverizing plant at Point Edward. The raw material is 250,000 tons of quarry refuse, which Besco furnishes at a nominal cost. The idea is to neutralize the marked acidity of the soil in this district, and was first mooted by Prof. M. Cumming, principal of the agricultural college, Truro. It has been demonstrated that local soil, so treated, gives the farmer from 20 to 40 per cent. higher crop returns. Fields with a normal crop of six inches of wire grass, since treatment, show clover and two-foot timothy.

BLACK AND BROWN.

Black and brown is a colour combination that is to be very smart for fall and winter. Beige and black is also very effective.

RARE CHANLMOOGRA GROWN FOR LEPERS

U. S. Government to Help Cure That Deadly Disease.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Uncle Sam has enlisted in the fight against leprosy from a new angle. At the Department of Agriculture's station at Bell, Maryland, the government is engaged in propagating chaulmoogra plants, from which oil will be obtained to treat lepers.

About 670 plants are growing in Maryland, and over 2,000 have already been shipped to Hawaii, the Philippines, the Canal Zone and Porto Rico, to mature in the warmth of a tropical sun. There is no place in the United States where the trees will develop fully.

This work has been going on since 1920, when Joseph F. Rock, agricultural explorer attached to the office of foreign seed and plant introduction, visited the jungles of Burma and Siam, searching for chaulmoogra trees.

Tracing chaulmoogra history, Mr. Rock found that its seeds and oil "have been known for centuries to the natives of Burma and south-eastern Asia in general as palliatives in leprosy and other skin diseases, and were employed by them both externally and internally."

There are about 500 lepers in the United States, as nearly as can be ascertained, says the United States Public Health Service. About 225 are in one colony at Carville, Louisiana. A small colony which was located at Buzzards Bay in Massachusetts was merged with the Louisiana colony in 1921. There are about 300 registered lepers and it is estimated that around 150 have not been identified.

Those afflicted are looking to chaulmoogra oil as their salvation, and the results achieved thus far with it lead sanguine medical men to foresee the day when leprosy will be added to the list of maladies which man can control.

NATIVE AMERICANS WITHSTAND ALIENS

American Stock is on the Increase in the United States.

BALTIMORE, August 19 (Canadian Press). — Native American stock in the United States is on the increase, and the indications are that the maximum of population of this country in the future, which he estimates at 197,274,000 in 2100, will be even more distinctly of American stock than the United States of today, according to the studies in human biology which are to be published shortly by Dr. Raymond Pearl, Professor of Biometry in the School of Hygiene, and of Biology in the Medical School of Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Pearl's statistics dealing with the vitality of native and foreign born Americans are based on studies of the birth and death figures from registration states during the period from 1915 to 1921 inclusive. They show that the native born Americans whose birth-rate was practically equal to death-rate in 1915, rase to equal to death-rate in 1915, rose to 142 births to 100 deaths in 1921. In 1915 foreign born mothers were giving birth to 267 children to every 100 deaths among the foreign born. In 1921 their proportion of births had fallen to 237.

This shows that the foreign born birth-rate, though stil lthe larger, is on the decline, while the native birth-rate is increasing.

"Constantly improving conditions of public health," says Dr. Pearl, "and their relation in the mortality returns have taken away any force that might at some time possibly have been thought to attach to the 'race suicide' argument against the general falling birth-rate. Any population or any group that year by year is producing more than one baby for each death is not on the high road to extinction."

Dr. Pearl's method for arriving at the maximum future population of the United States is based on the application of a cimplicated mathematical formula to the figures of the past. In calculating that the United States will not support a population of much more than 197,000,000 at any time he points out that, though this is but 66 persons to the square mile, it is not reasonable to suppose that this country can have a population of 673 to the square mile like Belgium, which is supported mainly by imported food.

With the growing demands for food in other parts of the world, Dr. Pearl does not think it is likely that any part of the globe can be depended on to supply America with a large per cent. of imported food.

STRAIGHT HEMS.

A perfectly straight hem is not nearly so effective on a gown designed for dancing as is one with an irregular, broken hemline with a floating drapery or points that take interesting lines during the quick movements of the dance.

CANADA'S WATER POWERS

Abundant energy throughout Canada is still available by hydro-electric development, according to J. B. Challies, Director of Water Power of the Department of the Interior. Of eighteen million available horsepower, but three and a quarter million are at present developed, with three-quarters of a million under construction.

During the past ten years, while the population of Canada increased 22 per cent., the developed water power increased 100 per cent., and the use of hydro power in industry 245 per cent. An even greater rate of progress is prophesied for the future.

BABIES CHECKED AT THE DOOR SO MOTHERS MAY SHOP AT EASE

Check the baby?

Yes, check the baby with a round brass disc on a short leather strap, just as one checks suitcases or umbrella when superfluous articles are a drag on freedom in shopping.

Row after row of carriages and go-carts, tagged with the identifying metal, line the sidealks on pleasant days in front of three of Harlem's largest department stores along West 125th Street. Fine wicker and coarse rattan vie with the greater elegance of the shiny English perambulator whose spacious interior provides artistic opportunitiey for tufted coverlets and downy pillows. Pink bows compete good-naturedly with blue bows, and blue eyes are good-naturedly compared with brown in this daily parade of the babies along one of the city's crowded thoroughfares. The babies range in age from 3 weeks to 3 years.

"Many as fifty or sixty some days," says Charlie, whose twelve years of guairdng the buds of lower Harlem make him an authority on babyhood. "We don't look after so many this time of year," he added, with a sweep of the hand toward a negligible dozen or so of baby-cars parked along the curb—a number negligible, perhaps, to Charlie, but a formidable host, surely, to an inexperienced layman suddenly called upon to mind twelve pairs of lusty lungs, twelve pairs of mischievous hands, and twelve strengthening backbones which insist on standing upright at an age when, as every one knows, it is best for backbones to remain in a horizontal position. And the number sometimes reaches sixty!

"No, they ain't no bother," continued the veteran of this great outdoor nursery. "If they cry, I just run my hand under the cushions and see if there ain't a bottle somewhere. Usually there is If that don't quiet 'em, I jounce the buggy up and down or wheel it back and forth. The smallest kids sleep most of the time," and he turned to exhibit one of the smallest, a scrap of humanity five weeks old.

Charlie, as well as the other baby guardians along West 125th Street, scorned the suggestion that there might ever be danger of "getting 'em mixed up."

"Even when mothers don't stop to get a check, there's no danger," said the astute Charlie. "I know all the babies that come here."

Most of the older children around that hospitable neighborhood, too, it seemed, were well known to the philosophic nurse. For just then a school girl came up demanding to know if Charlie could tell her the whereabouts of her mother, and Charlie could. He appeared to know just who went into the big store whose prospective customers he was so zealously guarding, and just who came out. No chance, apparently, to elude Charlie.

One woman has tried it—or that was what Charlie thought at the time.

"A woman came up to me one day," the baby authority recalled, "and said she wanted to take a certain baby into the store. It would be all right, she told me, for she was the baby's aunt. I didn't know her, but when she said the mother had sent her for the baby I asked her for the check. She didn't have it.

"'Well,' I said, 'nothing doing. You don't get that baby,' She got madder and madder, and said all sorts of things I guess she didn't mean. By and by the mother of the baby came out. She laughed and said the woman was her sister, and it would be all right. But, I tell you that aunt never would 'a' got that baby if its mother hadn't come along."

Out in the Snappy Air.

"Christmas is the big time, though. Then I have as many as fifty and sixty some days. No, they don't seem to get cold. They're all wrapped up, and the mothers think it's good for them to sleep outdoors. This is a dull day," concluded Charlie, reaching for a curly-headed 2-year-old who was trying to climb over his carriage strap. The curly head subsided with a chuckle. He liked the game.

"Saturday's always dull. Monday's the big day of the week," and Charlie dexterously shook the 2-year-old into place.

But even Charlie's careful supervision is not quite safe enough for some parents. The other day a father—a very young one—stood in unsmiling attention at the foot of his small son's perambulator; a son not more than 3 or 4 weeks old.

Responsibility was written heavily across his serious brow, and whenever the small bundle of white flannel stirred, no matter how faint the stirring, the novitiate would cast wistful eyes toward the wide entrance of the department store. Anxiety such as the smiling, philosophic Charlie never knows, looked out of the new father's eyes.

After all, Charlie has had twelve years of baby tending. He is a veteran and has long ceased to be afraid of anything in a go-cart.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

EVERYBODY IN FREE

So he hunted all over his amusement park.

"The very idea!" said Mister Zip, when the Twins told him what Scamper and Scramble Squirrel had done. 'If those squirrel boys are getting into my park for nothing, sliding down trees the way they do, and the mole boy is getting in by digging tunnels under the fence it's no wonder I'm not making my forutne. I shall have to put a stop to it at once."

So he hunted all over his amusement park until he found the squirrels. They were buying peanuts at the peanut stand.

"I've got a nickel left for butter milk," said Scamper to Scramble.

"So have I," said Scramble to Scamper.

Of course, you'll think it queer that they were not buying lemonade or soda water or ice cream cones, but squirrels love buttermilk much better than any of them.

"I think if you have a nickel left, you'd better give it to me to pay your way in," said the fairyman.

"What for?" asked Scramble.

"You came down the sycamore tree," said Mister Zip, "and that's not allowed. The sign says "Birds and Bibies Free," but you are not birds and you are not babies, either, so you will have to pay me. It doesn't say anything about squirrels getting in free."

"The only difference between us and birds," said Scamper brightly, "is that we've got fur and they've got feathers."

"Hopping rain toads!" cried Mister Zip. "I suppose you could fly across the ocean then."

"Oh, no! We couldn't do that," admitted Scramble Squirrel.

"And I suppose birds have four feet," said Mister Zip.

"Oh, no!! We don't mean that, either," said Scamper Squirrel, blushing to end of his nose.

"And I suppose you lay eggs and sing sweetly and do everything that birds do," went on the fairyman severely.

"Oh, no, we don't do any of those things," said both the squirrel boys bashfully. "We guess we're not like birds at all, Mister Zip.

"Except that you want something for nothing," said Mister Zip. "I see."

Then he went on more kindly. "I don't suppose you two boys thought you were doing anything dishonest But you were—just the same as if you had bought something and not paid for it."

"We're as sorry as we can be!" said Scamper. "And we'll give you all the rest of our vacation money. We were only in fun, Mister Zip, honestly we were."

"Well, if you are really and trully sorry," said th fairyman, "you may stay."

Nancy and Nick had slipped of and now they came back with more news

"Say, Mister Zip," cried Nick, "what do you think? We just saw Wally and Willy and Wooly Woodchuck come into Happy Go Lucky Park through a tunnel they dug from their underground house. They all got in for nothing."

"Hopping rain toad!" lcried the fairyman in dismay. "Whatever shall I do? I am ruined! Now I can never make my fortune."

Suddenly Nancy had an idea, "Why don't you let everybody come in for nothing, Mister Zip?" she said. "Then stacks and stacks of people will come and they'll all spend money on good things to eat and on having a good time. You'll make twice as much."

"Hopping rain toads!!" cried the fairyman in glee. "What a wise head you have, Nancy. That's just what I'll do!"

CHEMISTS HOPE TO SUBDUE ALL DISEASE GERMS

Germany Has Key to East Africa in Drug 205, Dr. Dale Tells Scientists.

NOT ONLY ONE

Dread Sleeping Sickness May Be Overcome By Drugs Compounded By French Also.

TORONTO, August 19. — Do Germans hold the secret key to East Africa? Is Drug 205 the combination which will open the door of the Congo to civilisation? These were the questions asked by H. H. Dale, C.B.E., M.D., F.R.S., head of the Department of Biochemistry and Pharmacology of the Medical Research Council, London, in his presidential address to the physiology section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Germany has a key, Dr. Dale admitted, but so have the French; Drug 309, developed at the Pasteur Institute, is equally efficacious as cure for the dread sleeping sickness which wreaks havoc in tropical countries ;and in their arsenical drug, "Tryparsamide," workers at the Rockefeller Institute have revealed another means by which Africa may be made habitable for whites.

Speaking of 205, developed after fifteen years of continuous work on the part of the scientific staff of the Bayer dye and chemical corporation, Dr. Dale said. "There seems to be no reason to doubt that this substance has cured a number of cases of African sleeping sickness in man, even some in which the disease was well advanced, and in which all previous known remedies had failed."

The development of this compound is an earnest of results which may shortly be expected in the way of treatment for infectious diseases of man, following upon Paul Ehrlich's revolutionary ideas on the subject of chemotherapy, in Prof. Dale's opinion. Chemotherapy, or the specific treatment of infections by chemical remedies, aims to poison the minute animal or bacterial forms which are parasitic on the human body, by the agency of compounds which have no toxic effect on the body of the afflicted person. That cures of this sort, safe and sure, should be synthesized in the laboratory for all dread infectious diseases, was Ehrlich's dream which has stimulated science to the discovery of 205.

The invention of this drug and its two competitors, is in itself a fairy tale of science. The German firm published the results which had attended their use of the new compound in 1920, but they neglected to give out its formula. The chief facts on which other investigators, anxious to learn the composition of the material, had to work, were to the effect that it dissolved in water easily and was colourless, and that it was a salt of a complicated sulphuric acid. Scrutiny of the German patents revealed that it must have an intricate chemical formula of a certain type, but there were an immense number of ways of grouping th components of the drug, any one which might be the successful ayer product.

Fourneau and others attacked the problem at the Pasteur Institute, and having first ruled the dyes from the series, since they evidently did not include the compound required, they proceeded to put all the possible combinations to the test, and the result was the preparation 309 which appeared to be as efficacious as the original. Commenting on the nearness of the match Dr. Dale said: "If M. Fourneau has not identified Bayer 205, he has discovered another compound having very similar, and probably as valuable, properties." Both have a high factor of safety, as the dose which is lethal to the patient is at least 100 times the quantity which is needed to fight back the disease.

Resistant Qualities.

"The remarkable property of 205 is the long persistence of its effect," Dr. Dale told the physiologists. "A dose injected into a mouse, a rabbit, or a rat, will not only free the animal if already infected, from trypanosomes—the casual organisms of sleeping sickness—in a few days, but will also render it resistant to such infection for weeks, or even months." This property, possessed in common with other specific cures, leads to the belief that the chemical is stored in the body tissues when it is first administered, and is put into action only as required, possibly in a modified form as a result of contact with the body tissues.

The realisation that the drug must react in some way with the tissues of the patient shows that the investigators early set aside Ehrlich's theory, although fired by his ideas, Dr. Dale pointed out. The search started with the aim of securing the compounds with a maximum affinity for the protoplasm, or body material of the parasites, and thus exerting a maximum poisonous action on them, but at the same time, without affinity for the organism of the host. The view which now prevails is that in many cases, there is some reaction with the body fluids or tissues of the sufferer, which is essential for the successful combatting of the invading germs, but which is without harmful influence on the human body.

The "side-chain" theory of the founder of the science may still hold in the modified form however. In the light of this view, certain parts of the involved formula for the material of which the germ bodies are made up, stick out, as it were, and join up readily with the drug applied to check the disease, or with some modification which has been produced in the body.

Acting on this assumption, Ehrlich investigated the influence of various organic dyes in the treatment of experimentally diseased animals, and on the organisms responsible for the sickness, because he knew that these complex chemical compounds frequently exhibited a curiously selective distribution among the cells and tissues of the body. Two promising materials, Trypan red and Trypan blue, resulted from this research. The Trypan blue is applied successfully in a disease affecting dogs and cattle.

One of the outstanding features of this early work was the observation that the parasitic organisms are not coloured by the dye as long as they are alive, and that therefore, the drug does not exert its action simply by entering the tissue of the parasite, poisoning and staining it, at the same time leaving the tissues of the host unaffected. Further, the chemical does not kill the organisms when they are treated with it directly in cultures prepared in the laboratory. "The Trypan red may be converted by the influence of the body fluids and tissues into something which is effectively lethal for the parasite," Dr. Dale explained. "On the other hand, it may be that the effect of the drug is not to kill the trypanosomes, but leaving their individual vitality impaired, it modifies them so that they lose their power of rapidly reproducing themselves and invading the fluids and issues of the body.

"In other words, the organisms lose the faculty of adjusting themselves to the various factors of the host's natural resistance, or as we crudely say, they become less 'virulent.'

"Such possibilities involve either storage or modification of the dye by the host's tissues, or their essential co-operation in its curative effect." When it was realised that the power to stain might not be a fundamental quality of the remedies they were seeking, the scientists tried other compounds similar in structure to the dyes, but not possessing their high colouring value. Bayer 205 was one of the successful chemicals resulting from these experiments.

The latest researches with 205 confirm the view that some co-operation with the host's tissues is necessary, although the process is not harmful to his body, Dr. Dale reported, as recent experiments have proved that some chemical reaction goes on between the drug and constituents of the blood. "There is no question of a substance curing simply on account of its affinity for parasites, and lack of an affinity for the host's tissues," Prof. Dale repeated. "What direct action on the parasite 205 itself may possess has still to be demonstrated, but we feel reasonably certain that its peculiar affinities for the constituents of the host's blood and tissues, play an important part in its remarkable and curative properties."

Difficulties which have to be faced in this type of work are illustrated by the varying results which are obtained on administering the 205 to different animals. "The curative action, on infections by the some organism, varies enormously with the species infected," the speaker stated. "A mouse may be cured with ease, an ox or a horse with difficulty or not at all."

"Similar complications may come into play when the remedies are tried on suffering humans. On unusual feature of some of the cases of sleeping sickness treated with 205 was the phenomenon that, although the symptoms disappeared, and the individual became apparently well, the germs were still found in the cerebro-spinal fluid, indicating that they had not found the drug particularly poisonous.

"Tryparsamide," the third treatment developed for sleeping sickness, acts by virtue of the well-known toxic action of arsenic. Salvarsan, also an arsenic compound, is a specific for the spirochete syphilis, and again illustrates the participation of the body tissues in the cure. This drug has little killing action on the organisms when the effect is tried outside the body, but when they come into conflict inside the tissues, a low concentration causes the death of the germs. The theory advocated to explain this anomaly is that the chemical is oxidised by the body tissues as rapidly as it is required to combat the attacks of the parasite, and it is the product of oxidisation which has the deadly influence. The oxide itself cannot be introduced into the body by injection owing to its poisonous nature, but the tissues liberate the defence as it is required.

Remedies in which the antagonistic effects of bismuth are utilised, have also been used successfully in the treatment of syphilis.

Various alkaloids have been investigated by Dr. Dale for the treatment of amoebic dysentery, and here a further difficulty faces the workers in that the curative action of the chemicals seems to be directly proportional to their toxic and nauseating action on the patient. "Yet the emetine and cepheline are not mere symtomatic remedies," said Dr. Dale. "They definitely stop the progress of infection by the amoeba, and properly administered, eliminate them altogether from the body."

That the exact mechanism of the cures has not yet been worked out, although many of them are used widely and successfully, is illustrated by the state of our knowledge as to the means by which quinine controls malaria. "Although it is one of the earliest of chemotheropeutic discoveries, the cure of malaria by quinine has never been satisfactorily explained," the speaker reminded his hearers. Those who are probing the question are again driven to the view that though the quinine has no hurtful effect on the body, it does react with the tissues.

While the chemical treatment of disease is still on a not altogether satisfactory basis, the time for trial and error methods in developing medicines of this kind has passed, Dr. Dale pointed out. Many of the results which the research workers have obtained are conflicting, but order is gradually being brought out of the chaos, and concrete achievements are already to the credit of those who are doing the work. Paul Ehrlich's first theory would still appear to hold in modified form, in the light of the latest studies of Avery and Heidelberger, of the Rockefeller Institute, who have been attempting to analyse the structure of a pneumococcus, a pathogenic type, with the object of determining the exact chemical machinery whereby combination with the remedial drug takes place. They forecast, in this way, the day when all infectious diseases, bacterial and protozoan, will resolve themselves into a matter for the chemist, who need only solve the equations which tell us what reactions are taking place between the bodies of the invading organism, the tissues of the sufferer, and the curative agent.

"Although in the action of almost every remedy which has proved its value in the specific cure of infection, there are features which cannot be interpreted by a strict application of Ehrlick's hypothesis, the discrepancies begin to show a new continuity among themselves," Dr. Dale declared.

"As the biological complexity of the problem is realized, it becomes increasingly a matter for wonder and admiration that so much of practical value has already been achieved.

"When such results have been obtained in a period during which practice has often and inevitably outrun theory, we may well be hopeful that a fuller understanding will make for more orderly progress in future."

THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT IS NEAR ITS PEAK

Since Conclusion of Conference, Parliament Will Recess Until September 30.

GREATEST LEADER.

Observers Say MacDonald Did What Lloyd George, Bonar Law and Baldwin Were Unable To Do.

LONDON, Aug. 19 — (United Press).—The MacDonald Labor Government reached the peak of its achievements through the successful conclusion of the conference on application of the Dawes young reparations report. With Parliament in recess until September 30, the critics and political experts are weighing the work of the Government during its first six months in office. The formation of the pact of London is the high spot in favor of the government.

Prime Minister MacDonald tackled the reparations question with sagacity and boldness. He has done far more than other British leaders since the Treaty of Versailles was drawn up. He persuaded France through Premier Herriot to recognize the prior claims of the Dawes young plan and brought about a peaceful solutions of the vexatious Ruhr evacuation problem between France and Germany.

The possibility that Herriot may be repudiated by his own countrymen later does not detract from the Brilliance of MacDonald's achievement he did what Lloyd George, Bonar Law and Stanley Baldwin were unable to do and that was to make a start toward untangling European affairs.

The Irish question resurrected itself to throw further snags into the troubled path of MacDonald but he was managed to stave off open revolt in the Irish Free State for two months thereby allowing intensive negotiations with Ulster.

MacDonald is unlucky to have been saddled with the fruits of Lloyd George's "slap"—in Irish settlement 1921. While Labor has always been opposed to Ulster's claims to self determination, MacDonald's predecessors have placed certain legislation on the statute books which will cause much trouble before it can be altered.

The present Irish embroglio is based on the exact meaning of clause 12 of the Irish treaty signed by Lloyd George, coalition leaders and Michael Collins. It provided for a boundary commission to de-limit the eventual boundary between the Free State and Ulster's Provincial Governmento of Northern Ireland. The commission was to consist of a representative of Ulster, the Free State and an inipartial chairman selected by the British Government.

The chairman has been selected in the person of a distinguished, South African judge the Free State has its representatives, but Ulster refuses to appoint a commissioner. Ulster justifies the attitude by the fact that she was not a party to the treaty, and that her borders had been established by a previous Act of Parliament.

Ulster obtained the Dominion status when the much amended Home Rule Bill of 1920 was passed creating two provinces of Northern Ireland and Southern Ireland. Ulster accepted the Home Rule partition with considerable reluctance.

The Sinn Fein flatly refused and after much negotiations the Irish Free State was constituted by the 1921 treaty. The real reason for Ulsters' refusal to participate in the boundary commission is that the Irish Free State—the extremists at least—intend to use the commission to lay claim to three Ulster counties. They include the city of Londonderry, and the Free State claims that the Sinn Feiners outnumber the Ulster men in these states. Ulster and her friends contend that nothing more than trivial frontier ratifications were contemplated by the clause in the Irish Treaty. Conservatives protest that they would never have sanctioned its enactment if they had known that fresh partition of Ulster was contemplated. In numerous speeches Lloyd George intimated he provided only minor boundary rectifications and a definite statement accepting this view from the Irish Free State would doubtless have over come Ulster's opposition. No such statement was forthcoming. The Free Staters contrived to conciliate many extremists and Republicans by intimating they expected to obtain substantial territorial increases from the boundary commission.

Whatever the vews of President Cosgrave they are on the eve of an election and to avoid being defeated by the Republicans they must get the boundary commission started with the prospects of getting territory from Ulster.

C.N.R. OUTLOOK GOOD.

Net Profits Will Compare Favorably With Those of 1923.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—I do not think anyone can say the result will be unsatisfactory and despite the loss there will still probably be a betterment on last years figures," declared Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways who discussed the financial position of the National System during an interview here last night. Sir Henry said he regretted to say they would not reach $300,000,000 net profit mark he had estimated for the year owing to probable decrease in gross earnings of $13,000,000 but that working costs had been so reduced that net profits for 1924 would compare favorably with those of 1923.

300 KILLED IN FIGHT.

Government Forces Drove Wahabis Forces Back, Taking Many Prisoners.

JEDDA, Arabia, August 19. — Bitter fighting took place yesterday between the Wahabis and the government forces in Trans-Jordinia, according to news which reached here to-day.

The Wahabis attacked and occupied several towns including Tarash.

Then the government forces under the command of Khalac Eital and Arif made a counter attack and drove the invaders out of Talash.

The government forces assisted by local tribesmen, killed three hundred Wahabis, took many prisoners, and captured many prisoners, as well as a number of camels and rifles.

REV. D. MacKENZIE DEAD.

Father of Former Pastor of Knox Church Here.

GUELPH, Aug. 18.—Rev. Duncan MacKenzie, father of Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, pastor of Chalmers church, died at the general hospital yesterday morning, in his 83rd year. The deceased gentleman had held many important pastorates in the Presbyterian church in Canada, his first being at Earlton, N.S., later serving with distinguished ability at Kirkhill, Ont.; Wood Island, P.E.I., Vankleek Hill, Ont., and his last charge being at Lost River and Lakeview, in the Presbytery of Montreal, where he labored for ten years before ill-health compelled him to retire. Three children survive—Mrs. D. . Dewar, Windsor, Ont.; Miss Isabel, Montreal, and Rev. J. A., pastor of Chalmers Church, Guelph. The funeral will be held at Kirkhill to-morrow.

TRICK HANDLES.

There's a reason for many of the short, stubby-looking handles you see on the smart umbrellas. Frequently they contain lipstick, powder box, and all the vanity equipment that used to live in the handbag.

WHITE HAT.

The all-white hat, small and practically untrimmed, is worn with the all-black costume of satin or crepe.

AVOID RUSH AND PAY TAXES NOW

Last Minute Rush Makes Tax-Paying an Unpleasant Duty.

City Tax Collector, Mr. William Green wishes it to be known that the second instalment of city taxes will be due on September 5th next.

That seems a long way off, but now is the proper time for ratepayers to make their payments. The nearest approach to a bread line is the rush created by citizens who wait until the eleventh hour. It is a tiresome and tedious thing to wait in turn during the last few days when the tardy ones in a great hurry carrying their tax bills, invade the city buildings to make their payments on the last, the second last, or even the third day, before the last due date.

The last rush play causes the city Tax Collector and his staff a lot of unnecessary inconvenience, as well as the late taxpayers.

On the other hand it is a pleasant duty for those who are paying their taxes now when the cashiers are not rushed and when there is no crowd with which to contend.

Nemolastik

(THE GUARANTEED)

Rubber Reducing Girdle

Months of intensive study and experiment were required to perfect and produce *NEMOLASTIK—the patented fabric used in the construction of the NEMOLASTIK Guaranteed Rubber Reducing Girdle. NEMOLASTIK is made from pure gum rubber, specially processed and covered on both sides with lustrous milanese silk of a delicate peach shade. This pliable and gently massaging fabric promotes figure reduction in a healthful way, whether worn next to the skin, or over an undergarment.

TEN REASONS WHY THE NEMOLASTIK GIRDLE DESERVES YOUR CONSIDERATION

1. It is guaranteed not to rip or tear.
2. It helps to make the figure permanently smaller and lighter in weight.
3. No rubber comes in contact with the body or undergarments.
4. It moulds the figure into graceful lines.
5. It is adjustable to the decreasing size of the figure.
6. It gives comfortable and gratifying support.
7. It can be washed with pure soap and water.
8. It doesn't chafe the skin or cause irritations.
9. It doesn't bulge over the abdomen.
10. It has no disagreeable odor to cause embarrassment.

The NEMOLASTIK Guaranteed Rubber Reducing Girdle is of the closed back, step-in or pull-over type; made with four garters, in a delightful lustrous peach shade. Sizes for all figures.

*Letters Patent Pending for Garment and Material.

Made in Canada by—
Kops Bros. Limited, Toronto

PITTSBURG AND NEW YORK LOSE

Grimes Broke Pirates' String of Nine Straight—Reds Win in 17 Innings.

CUBS BEAT BRAVES.

PITTSBURGH, August 18.—After winning nine straight games, four of them from the New York Giants, the Pirates went down to defeat to-day before the masterly pitching of Grimes of Brooklyn, the score being 7 to 4. The Dodger moundsman pitched carefully throughout and was in danger in only one inning, the second, when the Pirates batted in three runs. He allowed nine hits and also materially helped to win his own game by exceptional work at bat, hitting four safeties in four times at bat and driving in the two runs which put the visitors in the lead. Score:

Brooklyn ..... 020 111 020—7 15 1
Pittsburgh ....030 000 001—4 9 1

Grimes and Taylor; Meadows, Pfeffer, Stone and Gooch.

Aldridge Held Braves

CHICAGO, August 18. — Boston was unable to do much with Vic Aldridge to-day while Chicago hit Yeargin timely and won the first game of the series, 6 to 1. With a man on third base, Vogel captured Powell's long fly, and Padgett scored after the catch, saving the visitors from a shutout. Score:

Boston .. .... 100 000 4000—1 8 1
Chicago .... ..010 001 31x—6 10 1

Yeargin and Gibson; Aldridge and Hartnett.

Rallied in Ninth

ST. LOUIS, August 18.—Cy Williams 'home run with two on base gave the Phillies a start to-day and the visitors defeated the Cardinals 5 to 4. Fords' triple tied the score in the ninth and Wilson's double drove in the winning run. Score:

Philadelphia ..003 000 002—5 7 3
St. Louis .....002 200 000—4 11 1

Ring, Betts and Wilson; Sherdel and Gonzales.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.— (Canadian Press).—Cincinnati defeated New York, yesterday in longest game of the National League season, 8 to 7 in 17 innings. Carl Mays who was in an automobile accident, on his way to ball park was knocked out of box in two rounds. Sheehan pitched magnificantly for nearly 16 innings. Coming into seventh, six runs behind. Reds batted Dean out of box, scoring four runs on three hits and two passes, and tied it up off Nehf in ninth, on three hits and pass.

Neither side scored again until seventeenth when wild throw to Daubert in an attempt to force Kelly and sacrifice fly by Snyder, gave Giants a run. In last half of round, Sheehan led off with single, and reached third on two outs. Roush singled to right scoring him with ty ing run, and came home himself with the winning run by fast base running on Burns double to left center.

SOCCER NOTES.

Tonight, at the Oval, the trial game of Plenty Cup will be played. Referee, David MacGregor. Kick-off at 6.15 prompt. All players are requested to bring stockings and pants—sweaters will be provided.

The Thistle and G.W.V.A. meet in semi-final of the Peck Cup at King Edward Park on Saturday, August 23rd at 3.30 prompt. Referee, Alex Mitchell.

Quakers and Woollens play a league game at the Oval on Saturday, August 23rd at 2 o'clock prompt. Referee, Jack Clark.

The executive were notified that Monkman could not play owing to business, also Ross and Read, and the selection committee were given power to fill the vacancy for the Plenty trial game.

Foster who played at right half for the Woollens on Saturday last comes from Guelph as a junior. He played in the final of junior championship in Guelph also has considerable experience in U.S.

It was officially announced that the Great War Veterans will be Peterboro's representatives in the Ontario Cup proper. They will travel to Ottawa in the first round.

PIRATES' DASH IS SENSATION

From Almost Hopeless Position to Within Striking Place of Top.

REVIEW OF MAJORS.

NEW YORK, August 19. — The Pittsburgh club is still the sensation of the major league. Their remarkable spurt has carried the Pirates in the last 25 days from almost a hopeless position to within striking distance of the league lead. On July 23 the Pirates lost to the Robins and that night they were in fourth place, with 45 won and 41 lost, against 58 won and 30 lost for the Giants, and exactly 12 games in the rear of the league leaders. Since that date the Pirates have played 23 games and 20 have been credited to the winning side. The Giants have played the same number over the same stretch, but the record of the champions is 11 victories and 12 defeats. This represents a net loss for the Giants of 9 full games and the champions are now only three games in front.

The Pirates started their spurt on the afternoon of July 24, by beating Brooklyn in the final game of the series at home. They then came east made a clean sweep against the Braves, took three out of four from the Giants, broke even with the Robins, and made another sweep in Philadelphia. They then returned home and swept the series with the Giants. The Pirates have won their last nine, and are going strong. They face the Robins to-day, and also must must encounter Dazzy Vance, who has won his last nine games from them. But the Giants will be in Cincinnati and the Reds are primed for the series. So the National League race, instead of being a walk away for the Giants has developed into a real struggle that for the moment has taken the attention of the baseball world from the American League fight, which has been a race from the start with at least three teams always in the fight.

The Yankees, Tigers and Senators are the headliners in the American. The Yanks remained in the fight by taking the series from the Browns but will have to play with the Tigers in what should prove one of the thrilling series of the year. The Athletics have done much to keep the Tigers down, for in the last eight games the Philadelphians have held Detroit to an even break taking two out of four in Detroit and the same number in the recent series in Philadelphia. The senators remain within striking distance and while not flashing the form displayed while on their sensational spurt they have shown sufficient strength to bear watching. The Browns have been erratic but if they get more than an even break on the present Eastern trip they should gain ground when they return to their home field.

Babe Ruth's home run output has dropped temporarily but the Babe keeps up his constant hitting. He remains in the .400 division and continues to deliver his hits regardless of the generosity of the opposing pitchers in the way of bases on balls. Ruth has lost ground in his drive for a new home run record but he is likely to break out at any time in a renewed effort to supplant his 1921 record home run figures.

Washington .. 00 210 003x—6 13 3

Leonard, Holloway and Bassler; Zahniser, Mayberry, Russel and Ruel

Bunched Few Hits

NEW YORK, August 18. — Joe Busch held Chicago to four hits today and the Yankees made it three straight by bunching four of their five safeties in the first and sixth innings for a 2 to 0 score. Two walks and a single filled the bases for the White Sox in the ninth but Schalk flied to Ruth for the last out. Ruth walked three times. Score:

Chicago ..... 000 000 000—0 4 0
New York ....100 001 00x—2 5 0

Robertson, Connally and Schalk; Bush and Schang.

Pounded Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, August 18.—Cleveland hit freely the offerings of four Philadelphia pitchers to-day and by combining 16 base hits with twelve bases on balls, won, 13 to 3. Coveleskie held the Mackmen safe all the way but eased up in the last two innings. Score:

HIGH BROW RADIO PROGRAMS MAKE GERMAN FANS UNHAPPY

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—German radio fans are complaining of too much Wagner and other classical music, tedious lectures, camouflaged advertising and too much high brow stuff in singing.

Another general complaint is directed against the lecturers of the official broadcasting stations run by the postal authorities. When it comes to humorous stories they fail in intonation to bring out the joke, and professional humorists are demanded.

PAPA BEATS HIS BOY!

But Don't Get Excited. It Was in a Tennis Match for the South Dakota State Title.

LEFT, JOHN BARTON; RIGHT, HORACE BARTON

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 19.—John Barton, 47, one of the best known bankers in this community beat his young son, Horace, 17, the other night right out in public, And then laughed.

"You will get fresh with the old man," he chuckled.

It was in a tennis match, the finals for the championship of South Dakota.

The elder Barton and the youngster dominated the tournament from the start, and the day of the finals found them on opposite sides of the nets battling earnestly and enthusiastically for cup and title.

It was one of the few times in the history of tennis that father and son met in the finals for an important title.

Adding to the rarity of the situation was the sturdy youngster's defeat at the hands of his father, who has been a high ranking tenniser for 30 years.

NEWARK WINS ONE

BILLY EVANS SAYS

The baseball fan is with the underdog. His sympathies in a hectic struggle for the major league pennant are always with the club that has never tasted the sweets of victory.

The present battle for the leadership of the American League is a bitter one, just the kind to bring out the feelings of fandom.

Beat the Giants and the Yankees seems to be the slogan of the baseball world. It appears to be quite a task. Fandom, however, is pulling strongly for such a happening.

The Giants are being pushed hard by Pittsburgh in the fight for another pennant. It is doubtful if part of this year's world series will be staged in New York.

The Yankees are finding the going much harder in the American League.

The experts figured both clubs to win at the start of the season. While the Giants are the class of the Nationals, stand out, things are different in the Johnsonian organization.

With the season half over in the American, seven clubs still had a chance.

Now that it is more than two-thirds finished, four clubs are in the running, with a couple of dark horses still in the race.

Unquestionably the Washington club has been the hot favorite of the fans the country over in the present battle for American League honors.

The sensational spurt of the Nationals thrilled the baseball world, and caused the fans to pull for Manager Stanley Harris and his hustling club.

Washington, a club usually well down in the race, a city that has never boasted a pennant winner, at once became the popular choice of the fans.

New York has won for three successive years. Back in 1906, '07, '08 Detroit turned such a trick. Fandom figured a new champion would help baseball and at once transferred its loyalty to the Washington club.

The recent slump of the Nationals, and the spurt of the St. Louis Browns, has caused a majority of the baseball enthusiasts to start pulling for the success of either club.

Truly the path of a champion in any sport is filled with much woe, for ther eis always a desire to knock off the title holder.

For further particulars, we refer you to Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants and Miller Huggins of the Yankees.

REVERSE PROCESS HUMAN DIGESTION

Canadian Scientists Break New Ground at Convention.

TORONTO, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—New ground was broken in biochemistry at the British Association by Prof. Hardolph Wasteneys and Dr. Henry Borsook, of the University of Toronto, who told in the Physiology section, of experiments in which they have synthesized materials of the protein class, and have reversed the reaction which goes on in the human body when meat is digested. The discoveries of these investigators are a contribution to the knowledge of reactions which occur in the digestive organs when food materials are decomposed, and in the tissues when the broken-down substances are reorganized into the material of the body. Because of simple experiments which they have performed in the laboratory, it is no longer necessary to infer a complicated mechanism, as the complementary processes of hydrolysis and synthesis can be interpreted as a "reversible reaction," which, in chemical parlance, means that it goes in either one direction, or the other, according to the concentrations of the materials, the acidity, and temperature at which they are kept.

Prof. Wasteneys and Dr. Borsook conducted their experiments by first causing the digestion of a pure protein by an extract of one of the stomach secretions. By this means the protein was broken down into smaller molecules and no trace of the original protein remained in the resulting mixture. When this was treated with more of the enzyme, in the proper concentration and the correct acidity, protein material again appeared. This procedure simulates what takes place in the body, when the protein is broken down in the stomach and intestine into nitrogeneous acids, which are absorbed into the blood stream and carried to the tissues where the reverse process takes place, and the lumbering protine molecules are reformed, thereby permitting repair of broken down tissue or growth of new tissue.

"The maximum synthesis so far obtained has been 39 percent," Dr. Wasteneys told the physiologists. "Proof that the material synthesized is of the order of complexity of native protein is furnished by incontrovertible evidence, satisfying all criteria for protein."

The synthesizing action is possessed by at least two of the several juices which assist in the digestion of protein in the body. The most favorable conditions of acidity have been worked out for the more important enzymes, which are the pepsin secreted into and by the stomach, and the trypsin which is secreted by the pancreas into the intestine. The two accelerating agents have been found to prefer different reactions, the most suitable condition for the pepsin being the more acid, as might be expected.

In some of their experiments, these workers allowed complete breakdown of the protein to take place, which occurred at a known temperature, and it was then found that recombination of the original material could be accomplished in part at least, merely by changing this temperature.

"These effects of dilution and of temperature, and further experimental evidence of reversibility, are predictable from thermodynamical considerations," said Dr. Wasteneys, in showing that the observations could be placed on a mathematical basis.

"Addition of the synthesized protein, of egg albumin in varying amounts, to a solution in which synthesis is in progress, inhibits in simple direct proportionality the amount of the protein formed." This is in accordance with the usual conception of a reversible reaction, whereby the presence of the materials which are being formed, drugs the process and slows it up. This marks the first occasion when this principle has been applied to the activity of this type of enzyme, however, and the researches clear up many points in the behaviour of this class of substances, which have previously been puzzling biochemists.

"The enzyme responsible for synthesis was found to be inseparable, in every respect, from the enzyme effecting hydrolysis," said Dr. Wasteneys, in clinching his argument.

LEOPOLD LEARNS

forward the records of executions in Cook county dating back for eighty years to show that no person under twenty-one had been hanged on a plea of guilty.

Loeb was eighteen and Leopold just past nineteen when they kidnaped and killed Robert Franks last May. And they have both pleaded guilty. If Judge Caverly should sentence them to hang he would be setting a precedent.

Darrow is known to be collecting statistics to show that nowhere in the United States has a minor been executed after pleading guilty.

Leopold Curses Crowe.

Leopold is open in his hostility toward the State's Attorney. He has gone so far as to attempt physical violence. At every opportunity, in passing the State's Attorney, he jabs at him with his elbows. He has heaped imprecations on Mr. Crowe and sometimes his oaths have been heard about the court room.

Crowe served notice on Darrow Saturday that continuation of this conduct by Leopold would result in action being taken to stop it.

"Babe" Leopold is learning his sixteenth language in jail.

The erudite young college man who allowed a criminal plot and its execution to sidetrack him from his intellectual pursuits, has taken them up again in the confinement of his cell.

He is now learning Polish. He already reads and speaks French, German, Italian, Spanish, modern Greek, Hawaiian, Russian, Latin, Greek, Sanscrit, Oscan, Umbrian, "popular or vulgar Latin," Hellenistic Greek and English.

Wanted To Talk to Cellmate.

He began to learn Polish because at first he had a Polish cellmate and he wanted to converse with him. Besides, it was a language he had not yet attempted. At first he was content to learn a sentence at a time from his companion. Then his cellmate was taken to Joliet. So Leopold began to study a book of Polish phrases the jail library afforded. Later, he was permitted to have a Polish book brought in from "outside"—at his request.

At one stage of the trial Tony Minke testified. It was Tony who found the body of Bobby Franks, stuffed into the water-filled ditch. He tried to tell about it on the stand, but he couldn't understand State's Attorney Crowe's questions, and the lawyers and the court could not understand his statements. A Polish interpreter was procured and the trial progressed.

But Leopold, sitting beside Dick Loeb at the prisoners' table, knew what Tony was saying. And had be been permitted he could have served as interpreter at his own trial.

Trial Draws 24,000 Persons.

An interview with Thomas A. Brockmeyer, chief deputy sheriff at the Criminal court building, discloses that the Franks murder trial has drawn approximately 24,000 persons, about 5,000 of whom have effected an entrance into the court room of Judge Caverly, where the trial is being held.

They may have come from every State in the union, from France from China, from Alaska, from the Panama Canal, to stare at the back of "Dickie" Loeb's and "Babe" Leopold's sleek black heads and to hear the daily battle between law and physilogy.

Each day the court room is taxed to its capacity and about 230 individuals are accommodated. Deputy Sheriff Brockmeyer said:

"There are about 1,200 others who try to get in every day," said the deputy sheriff. "We are forced to turn them away, and we try to be as courteous as possible in doing so.

"Yesterday there was a professor of criminal law from Paris. He got in. A man from the Panama Canal zone did not. Neither did a man and his wife from Alaska.

Home Folks First.

"I tell them there are 4,000,000 residents of Cook county and a good portion of them are trying to get in, and they ought to have as much consideration, certainly, as the strangers."

The only trial that ever even approached the Franks case in popular interest was the baseball trial in 1920, according to Deputy Sheriff Brockmeyer—the trial of the "Black Sox," held before Judge Hugo M. Friend.

CHARGE AGAINST FIRPO.

NEW YORK, August 18. — The Rev. William Sheafe Chase, president of the New York Civic League which has been investigating the circumstances surrounding Luis Angel Firpo's admission to the country, to-day swore to a warrant for the Argentine boxer's arrest on a charge of perjury, according to an announcement by the clergyman's attorney, Bernard H. Sandler.

MAKING A RECORD

Phonograph Records Require No Padded Cell—Interesting Story of Common Article.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 —Another illusion shattered.

Yesterday I saw and heard a phonograph record made. I always thought it was necessary to conduct the operation in a padded cell-like, sound-proof room.

It isn't.

The studio is in a duplex apartment building in 57th street. Living above, beneath and adjoining are wealthy families. There is no furniture in the apartment and the room used for recording records—making the master—is the living room.

Horns porject from the kitchen of the apartment, where the wax plates in which the music is embedded are turned on a small machine, into the room where the record makers do their stuff.

Through the open windows come the gas fumes of bustling traffic in the crowded street below. The noise of the street is drowned out by the "um-pa-pa" of brass instruments. The musicians have doffed coats and collars.

There are three recording horns for this record. The big horn in the centre to catch the music of the orchestra. A small horn on either side in which two harmony boys sing. The violin player takes his station directly before the big recording horn. The louder instruments, graduated by sound volume, are in the rear.

"Ready!" An electric light flashes on. "One—two—three," whispers the orchestra leader. At "three" the music starts. The light goes out. The recording has started. After the vamp is played the first song bird steps to the horn and sings the verse. Then the second singer joins in the chorus. In three minutes it's all over.

Two test records are made. Then two master records.

One of the song birds, an actor, couldn't stand still. He wanted to dance, as well as sing. That's what he does in his show.

MEMORIAL TO MORAN.

CINCINNATI, August 18. — "A gentleman off and on the field," was the homage paid to Patrick J. Moran, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, to-day, by K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, at the unveiling of a tablet at Redland Field in memory of the veteran baseball player. Commissioner Landis extolled the character of Moran, and asserted that he was a credit to baseball.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, and Jake Daubert, captain of the Reds, delivered short talks, and a message was read from Ban Johnson, president of the American League.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. Can a base runner, after overrunning first base, turn to his left in fair territory and not be liable to be put out?—F.H.K.

2. Is it possible for a pitcehr to make a balk without any runners on the bases? If a pitcher delivers the ball to the batter without being properly on the rubber, with no one on the bases, how is it interpreted?—C.H.

3. Player is sent in to run for the catcher. Another batter is sent up to hit for the third baseman. The player who was used as pinch runner for the catcher is sent in to play third. Another catcher takes the place of the catcher in the field? How do these player bat?—H.A.R.

ANSWERS

1. A base runner, after overrunning first base, can turn in either fair or foul territory and return to the bag without being liable to be put out if he makes no attempt to go to second.

2. It is impossible for a pitcher to make a balk without any runners on the bases. Illegally delivering the ball to the batter is construed as a ball, if the batter makes no attempt to hit at it.

3. The player who is sent in to run for the catcher takes the batting position of the catcher in the lineup, even though sent in to play third. The substitute catcher bats in the place of the third baseman.

SCORED 332 RUNS

English Team Within Ten of South African's Cricket Score.

LONDON, August 18.— (Canadian Press).— Scoring 332 for six wickets in the final cricket test match between England and South Africa which is being played at the Oval, the English team to-day were within ten runs of the total compiled Saturday by their opponents from overseas. Rain again interfered with play, the match being abandoned for the day late in the afternoon when a heavy thunderstorm partly slubmerged the pitch.

Twenty thousand persons attended to-day's play. Interest in the test with South Africa has waned, England already having won the rubber by taking the first three games while the fourth was abandoned without one innings being completed.

GLACIER CAUSES FLOOD.

Boulders Many Tons in Weight Carried By Rushing Waters.

SACREMENTO, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—A veritable river of mud, boulders and ashes, extending in width from a few hundred yards to half a mile and in some places from 15 to 20 feet deep, is flowing from the mouth of Mud Creek Canyon, eight miles above McCloud, Siskyou County, on Said Slope of Mount Shasta into the McCloud river, said a despatch to the Sacremento Bee. Boulders, some of them many tons in weight, are being carried toward the river in the thick stream, the like of which has never been seen before in the McCloud section and whose origin is a mystery, the despatch adds. Old residents, students of Mount Shasta's formation "blame" the phenomena on the glacier, only one of the McCloud slope of Mount Shasta which is situated near the peak of an extinct volcano and which had been exposed to the sun because of the dearth of snow.

THE DOPE SHEET.

If All Goes Well This Will Likely Be the Schedule For the Lakeviews For the Next Few Weeks.

The Lakeviews, Junior City League Champions of this city, will motor to Belleville to play the second game of the semi-finals for the Ontario championship. The Lakeviews won handily from Belleville here, in their last game by the score of 8 to 0. Frank Whitehouse hurling a no hit, no run game for the Peterboro crew.

If the Lakeviews can do away with Belleville they will likely go to Oshawa next Saturday, while Oshawa will he here the following Wednesday. The winner of the Oshawa-Peterboro games will then likely play off with the winners of the T. A. B. A. Ottawa who were picked as likely winners over the Kingston Circle Six were put out of the running when the Kingston boys defeating them in Brockville on Saturday by the score of 8 to 3. Niagara Falls who won their group last year and who played the Lakeviews in the finals were successful in winning their group this year, but lost their first game to Hamilton by the score of 5 to 3. The Hamilton two in one team which defeated the Maple Leafs last year in the finals for the O. B. A. championship have amalgamated with another team and jumped to the junior ranks this year. This was the team that defeated the Niagara Falls boys in their first game of the play off this year.,

KLAN URGE HANGING.

Letter Signed K.K.K. Threatens Murderers' Lives If Court Don't Hang Them.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.— (Canadian Press).—Police are seeking the origin of a letter urging the hanging of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for the murder of Robert Franks, found last night on the steps of the home of a wealthy neighbour of Loeb, weighted down with a human leg bone resting between crossed arm bones with human skull above. The letter read "if court don't hang them we will and was signed "K.K.K."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

AN OPEN LETTER TO:

His Worship Mayor J. J. Turner; Fire Chief Gimblett and men: and Citizens of Peterboro::

Allow me to take the liberty of conveying to you on behalf of the members, delegates and officers of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, our sincere thanks and appreciation of the wonderful courtesies extended to us while sojourning in your wonderful city of Peterborough, while meeting in our Fifth Annual Convention.

Naturally when a convention meets in a municipality a certain amount of favor in shown to such a body irrespective as to who they may be, but in the case of our convention just completed in your city, it was not a case of being shown a certain amount of favour, but every door was thrown open and the Ontario Firemen were given courtesies that never been equalled in any of our past conventions. Our delegates and officers have gone home to their respective municipalities and it will take a long time for them to forget the treatment accorded them by Peterborough from August 13th to 15th, 1924.

We were favored with a most adequate convention hall, our business sessions were very successful, we were treated to motor tours that brought before us the scenery both in and about Peterborough and I am speaking the minds of those who visited with you, when I say that Peterborough is a city that the critizens of same have just cause to be proud of. It is clean, healthy and shows signs of business prosperity that is not so prevalent in many municipalities just at this time. Your business houses show that they respect the efforts of the Chief and Firemen in trying to keep all such places clean so that they will be less likely to be visited from the Demon Fire, and although, as it is in some other municipalities, some points in your fire service might be strengthened, we were advised by certain of the civic officials that Peterbrough is contemplating very seriously of adding to the present fire equipment with a Triple Combination Pumper, as well as considering an additional station in what is known as your East City.

The officers and firemen of Peterborough Department, and who are also members of the Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, did everything humanely possible to make this our 1924 convention successful and the fruits of their efforts may be best judged from the remarks of our newly elected President, J. J. O'Kelly, when he said that "in his experience and attendance at such conventions he has never saw the equal of the Peterborough convention."

Your fire department is one which shows its efficiency very effectively, and although at times one will hear critics say that the firemen are having nothing to do, it must be kept in mind that the efficient chief and fire department of to-day is the department who through efficient and practical means of fire prevention inspections of buildings, mercantile establishments, etc., can have removed such substances of non-resistive fire materials, including all oily wastes, gases, etc., to more safe quarters and thereby preventing the fire that would ultimately start. Citizens of municipalities save money through their insurance by not having fires and I cannot close without asking that the business men and citizens generally give their co-operative assistance to their chief in preventing the fire before it starts. Also, it is every citizen's duty to report to the officials the neighbor who keeps premises that are inviting fires, as this class of person or persons are nothing more or less than a criminal who is jeopardizing the lives and property of surrounding places by his carelessness. The fire insurance companies reimburse the individual for property destroyed by fire, but they do not pay the fire loss. They are merely the collectors and distributors of the fire tax, passing the hat, and making you contribute, willing or not. You pay, even though you insure no property, because concealed in the cost of everything you buy is a percentage to cover the accumulated insurance. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

In closing allow me to again express our thanks and appreciation for the courtesies extended to the Firemen's Convention.

I have the honour to remain,

Sincerely yours,

D. H. LAMB,

Secretatry-Treasurer,

Ontario Fire Fighters.

FRENCH APPROVE DELEGATES' WORK

Cabinet Heard Premier Herriot's Report This Morning at Session.

PARIS, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press).—The French cabinet to-day unanimously approved the work of the French delegation at the international conference in London and thanked it for the important results it had attained in the interests of France. The cabinet met this morning and after having listened attentively to the report by Premier Herriot on proceedings and results of the conference, gave its unqualified approval of accords which had been concluded at a lengthy meeting at the British capital. It was decided that Premier Herriot should read his declaration before the Senate and Chamber on Thursday giving a complete report of the work of the London conference to both bodies of the French legislature.

CONDITIONS MUCH BETTER THAN 1923

Ninetieth Convention of Merchants' Association Opened To-day.

OTTAWA, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Psers).—In comparing the conditions of trade in all lines throughout the Dominion this year with the conditions that prevailed last year, our association has no cause for complaint" declared J. A. Banfield, of Winnipeg, president of the retail merchants association of Canada, in his address delivered at the opening of the nineteenth annual convention of the association here this morning, "the retail trade is looked upon generally as thermometer of trade as it indicates and responds more quickly to both local and dominion condition than any other agency." Mr. Banfield continued. "The failures in retail trade during the year have not varied very much with those of last year although the sum total of last year was somewhat higher," Mr. Banfield said, "there was a tendency in Canada among the large producing and manufacturing industries to amalgamate and centralize their efforts similar to practice being followed in United States, this condition, in opinion of Mr. Banfield, was not favorable to retail merchant nor was it beneficial to the consumer. Large centralization of capital means larger centralization of labor and indivíduality of the workman is lost which in time destroys human element in both," Mr. Banfield said.

PRIEST ON FLIGHT.

Father Sullivan Will Visit the Parents of Aviators He Performed Burial Services For in War.

NEW YORK, N. Y. Aug. 19. — Father John J. Sullivan, left here today at four a.m. in a De Ravil-and plane piloted by Lieut. M. L. Elliot on the first lap of his transcontinental flight.

The plane was expected to reach Chicago at 11 a. m. after a stop at Cleveland for refuelling, between Chicago and San Francisco. The priest will visit the parents of the aviators killed in the world war for whom he performed burial services in France when he was attached to the American aviation corps, as a chaplain.

Father Sullivan is the rector of St. Augustines church in Boston and is chaplain of the veterans of Foreign Wars .He expects to spend three months on his present mission.

BETHANY TEAM PLAY MACKEYS

Large Crowds Will Flock to the Fair Grounds Tomorrow Night For the Battle.

Everything is set for the big game at the Exhibition Grounds on Wednesday evening when the Mackey Bread Company team and the Bethany aggregation clash in the first game of the semi-finals for the Ontario Intermediate championship.

Bob Mackey has Lefty Connors and Shiner Clark groomed up, but who he will use it is not yet known. Both twirlers are in the best of shape but Bob will give the Bethany nine the once over before he chooses his hurler. Bethany are a well pedigreed team and carry with their reputation a string of victories. They expect to add another one to their list on Wednesday night, but Bob Mackey will shove his strongest team on to the field to do as much damage as possible to the Bethany Junction team.

LIBERAL MEETING HELD IN CHATHAM

Affair Was the Biggest Ever Held in the County—Premier King Spoke.

CHATHAM, August 18. — (Canadian Press.) — Premier W. L. MacKenzie King, acompanied by Hon. G. P. Graham and Hon. James Murdock, arrived in the city at noon today, and was immediately driven by motor to the government park, Rondeau, where they addressed a big Liberal rally this afternoon.

They were met here by Senator A. B. McCoun and several other prominent Liberals of the country.

This affair was one of the biggest ever held in the county. The Liberal rally was being combined with the Howard farmers' picnic, an annual outing of a number of the fraternal societies of the Ridgetown district, and several other minor celebrations.

Great interest was being manifested in the speeches of statesmen.

A programme of sports, including a baseball game and other features, was also arranged for the event.

BOOTLEG.

A big submarine is reported to be landing German beer, Scotch whisky and French champagnes near Boston. New York has its rum-running airplanes.

The country is far from dry, but liquor is getting harder to get when the bootleg gentry have to resort to planes and submarines. These two inventions may shortly be the chief problems of the liquor sleuths. At any rate, you'll live to see police and criminals fight duels overhead in the air.

PATCH ASPHALT ON PORTION OF GEORGE STREET

City Council Authorizes Engineer To Expend $2,000 in Paving Repairs.

REJECT TARVIA.

Aylmer Street Will Not Provide Test For New Surface —Bithulithic Instead.

At a special meeting of the City Council last night to discuss paving and general business, it was finally decided to use Warren bitulithic paving on Aylmer street from Dublin to Murray, where it had previously been decided to lay Tarvia.

The enabling by-law was given its three readings and work is expected to start immediately.

It had been decided to test Tarvia on this stretch of roadway to decide as to its use as a paving for residential sections, but a request of the citizens and an offer of the Warren Company changed the council's plans at the last minute. It is said that the macadam roadway on Aylmer street will form a satisfactory base in view of the light traffic and it will not be necessary to lay a concrete base as on the other streets. The cost of the bitulithic surface, guaranteed for five years, is to be $1.70 a yard.

Some members of the council expressed dissatisfaction with the project, saying that if the macadam base is satisfactory on Aylmer street the city might have been saved the expense of laying a concrete base on Murray street and others.

City Engineer Parsons explained that, looking to the future, it was supposed that Murray street, being in the centre of the city, would develop a heavier traffic, and the concrete base would be necessary. It would be a mistake, he thought, to "take a chance" with a macadam base there.

Patching George Street.

The City Engineer reported that the patching of George street south from Charlotte street to the C.P.R. would cost $1087, whereas re-surfacing it would cost $10,000. To patch this section of George street and the stretch on the west side between Brock and Hunter, would total $1618.40.

Ald. Phelan advocated either leaving the roadway as it is or re-surfacing it. There would be no guarantee with the patching.

Mayor Turner remarked in reference to the paying of the cost of patching that only one item in the city's budget, the Charity Board, showed signs of running short of funds. He expected that the repair charges could be met out of a balance in current accounts left from other appropriations.

Alderman Jones thought that the patching of small holes would be unsatisfactory.

Ald. Morrison said he would support the proposal if the limit was removed so as to allow the engineer to do a good job; and Ald. Crowe expressed the opinion that the City Engineer should be held responsible for the success of the patching he advocated.

Mayor Turner: "I'll go fifty-fifty with him."

Ald. Crowe and Stocker moved that the work be done, and included other patching on Aylmer street, on Charlotte street and Water street, where conditions are very bad, the cost not to exceed $2000.

On the first question the vote tied with with Ald. Fife and Maher not voting, and after further discussion, in which Ald. McIntyre remarked that by spending $1087 on George St. South the council would provide paving that would last five years and cost $10,000 to relay, the vote remained tied.

Mayor Turner said he would cast the deciding vote, but before he had an opportunity to do so, Ald. Phelan capitulated, saying he did not wish to hold up the work, and a landslide followed, all members of the council voting in favor of the motion with the exception of Ald. Fife, who did not vote.

Ald. Maher mentioned other sections of the city that require attention to the streets, adding incidentally that if the roadways were of concrete these repairs could be made by the city staff.

May Pave Rubidge.

A suggestion brought forward by Ald. Maher that Rubidge street from St. Peter's Cathedral to Charlotte, and Simcoe street, from Rubidge to Aylmer, should be paved, met with general approval, but was left for discussion at a meeting of the Board of Works to take place on the ground.

Ald. Maher urged the paving to serve Trinity church, where, he said, conditions are bad in normal times, but exceptionally bad in wet weather.

Thanked Mr. Crowe.

Mayor Turner thanked Ald. Crowe for his services in attending as delegate at the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities at Windsor. Ald. Crowe will present his report at the regular meeting of the council in September.

There were present last night: His Worship Mayor Turner, Aldermen N. Phelan, R. N. Jones, J. O. Fife, W. Stocker, M. McIntyre, J. Crowe, R. Morrison and M. J. Maher.

LAUGHTER NIGHT AT ROYAL LARRY SEMON IN "WOW"

If laughter is a criterion then, last nights' audience at the Royal certainly had a good time. Everything on the long programme with one exception "Fast Steppers" is comedy. The opening novelty "Movie Dare Devils is a clever combination of cartoons and the real thing in thrills. A Christie Comedy "Savage Love", starts the laughter rolling and Larry Semon in the "Girl in the Limousine," had the audience screaming Having seen the original play we were interested in how they could adapt it for the screen and must say we were agreeably surprised. It is packed with laughs and thrills and is another example where the movie excells the stage version. It should be seen by everyonu who enjoys a hearty laugh.

HERE'S STORY FOR TIRED BUSINESS MEN AND WIVES

The too drastic reform idea gets a body blow in "The Town Scandal," a Universal attraction starring Gladys Walton which will be shown at the Royal theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The picture was adapted to the screen by Hugh Hoffman from the Cosmopolitan story, "The Chicken that Came Home to Roost," by Frederick Arnold Kummer, and has all of the flavor of the original. The picture was directed by King Baggot.

It is all about a pretty girl from a small town who gets a job in the chorus of a Broadway musical revue. She is promoted to the queen position of the chorus and is the hit of the show. In New York the business heads of the old home town lavished candy and flowers on the pretty little girl who danced, so daintly. But they snied when she came back during her summer vacation and asked for a position.

The matrons of the Purity League gave the chorus girl "the razz" just on general principles. She was a chorus girl, so she must be bad. And that was that. But when the matrons learned that their husbands had more than a business interest up in the city they swamped the local "general" store with orders for rolling pins.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Broadway after Dark," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week, is unusual and extremely interesting, combined with a presentation of the glitter and froth of New York society life, is the picture of the human impulse of good that underlies its artificial existence.

Entertaining from start to finish, the story scintillates with the white lights of the city. A modern version of the Cinderella story, set to syncopated time and with a background of luxurious living, "Broadway after Dark" tells the romance of Rose Dulaine, the poor girl who is hounded by a detective and the shadow of a jail term for petty thievery, and of Ralph Norton, a pampered son of wealth, surrounded by riches and luxury and besieged by women. Tiring of his glittering life, this present day prince goes adventuring in the down-and-out boarding home, where Rose toils as a slavey, and finally transplants her to exotic surroundings. Another of those curious insets of real life in a movie story that have become the fad of late is included in this picture where the Actors' Equity Association Ball is shown, with leading stars of the stage in attendance.

Glittering, extravagant, but with a tale of real emotion under its superficial exterior, "Broadway after Dark" is a fascinating production featuring the lovely stars, Carmel Myers and Anna Q. Nilsson, Norma Shearer, Willard Louis, Edward Burns and the inimitable Adolphe Menjou.

The comedy is a hilarious affair, showing the jazzy adventures of a masquerading gopernor in search of gilt-edged stock.

TWO KILLED BY FLOOD.

J. N. Schley and Claude Barrett Killed in Attempt To Rescue Herd.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press.)— At least two men were killed and the property damage running into millions of dollars, was caused early to-day by cloudbursts and cyclones which swept the four middle western States.

J. N. Schley and Claude Barrett, 19, were killed by the flood waters near Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where the storm struck the hardest. Schley and Barrett, both farmers, were drowned when they attempted to rescue a herd of cattle. In addition to other Iowa cities, portions of Wisconsin, Illinois and Nebraska were hit by the wind, hail and electrical storms.

IRISH FINE FRENCH FISHERMEN.

DUBLIN, Aug. 19.—French trawlers have been prosecuted and fined at Newport, County Mayo, for fishing within the three-mile limit. The trespassing boats were compelled to pay $50.

COAL.

Have you bought your winter supply of coal? Railroads have 170,000 surplus coal cars idle and accumulating rust on side tracks. As usual, only more so than ordinarily, the public is delaying its coal buying until the last minute. When the rush comes, prices skyrocket—even though only about a tenth of the total output of soft coal mines is burned in the homes.

SUB-CONSCIOUS MIND

TORONTO, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press)—"I have a feeling that I have gone through all this before." This common observation of having been subjected, if only subconsciously, to a set of circumstances identical with a succession of real events, was made the subject of an address to the psychology section of the British Association by Dr. J. T. MacCurdy, of Cambridge University. 'Deja vu', as the phenomenon is known to psychologists, is caused by the activation of an unconscious memory of a real event, a fantasy or a dream, which in some way resembles the coincident, conscious perception.

"This memory, although stimulated, does not enter into consciousness as such, but affects it only as an obsessive feeling of familiarity," Dr. Drever said. He has been able to shed further light on deja vu by his observation of the 'perplexity' type of insanity cases, which are characterized by a peculiar feeling analogous to the psychic experience of normal beings. In studying the pepleMin cases, the menta processes which result in the dubious attitude are easily discovered, and the mechanism of the production of deja vu is revealed at the same time. The results are important owing to the bearing which such factors have on the understanding of the nature of normal recognition.

FOOD AND HEALTH

By WINIFRED STUART GIBBS

FOOD FOR BOTH SEXES.

Now that woman suffrage is an achieved fact there is a growing tendency for men and women to work together as comrades with less discussion of differences between the burden bearing ability of the sexes. The human body, whether it be the body of a man or woman, is surprisingly similar in its composition and functioning. Omitting all discussion of psychological variations and viewing the matter simply as one of human uutrition, we find that the intake of food and the output of energy proceed along precisely the same lines in women as in men and that the laws which govern these processes are identical.

The main processes of the body, the intake of air, the circulation of the blood, the digestion of the food and the use of muscular tissues proceed in an orderly routine. Variations come chiefly because of the difference in the size of the body. Just as a large, powerful locomotive requires more fuel than does a tiny engine, so a large frame of a powerful man requires more than does the delicate body of a small woman.

On the other hand, men and women of the same height and weight, we are told, require practically the same amount of energy if they are resting. Under these conditions the greater muscular activity of the man is nor brought into comparison with the quietet occupation of the woman.

Similarly, if the type and amount of work done by the woman is the same as that accomplished by a man, she will require practically the same quantity of energy from her food.

All of which leads to the conclusion that the factor which must be consdered as the chief one in determining the quantity of food for an indi vidual has nothing to do with sex.

Both men and women require one-half a calorie of energy for each pound of body weight during the period of sleep.

Sedentary occupations, desk work, hand machine sewing, writing, will call for three-fifths of a calorie for each pound of body weight for either man or woman. If the individual is strong, he will need three-quarters of a calorie for each pound of body weight. At light exercises, which for the woman would mean ordinary housework and for the man ordinary moving about as director of work, requires one calorie for each pound of body weight; moderate exercises, one and one-quarter to one and one-half, and active exercises, one and three-quarters to two calories for each pound of body weight.

All of which is one more reason for frequent emphasis on the study of body weights. We are so accustomed to thinking of this merely in relation to the problem of boesity that we may lose sight of another equally important consideration.

It is desirable then to study the human engine as an individual proposition rather than as belonging to a man or to a woman.

APPLES AND AIRPLANES

Newton's Law of Gravitation Appealed to By Professor.

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (Canadian Press).—Forces comparable to the interaction which occurs between electromagnets and electric fields, have to be dealt with by those who would treat mathematically the reactions to which bodies moving in air currents are subject, according to the exposition of Prof. V. Bjerknes, of the department of dynamic meteorology of the Geophysics Institute, Bergen, Norway, who lectured on the "Forces which Lift Aeroplanes," in the Physics section of the British Association. "Now that aviation has become a reality, much work is being expended upon the investigation of the hydrodynamic forces which make flying possible," the scientist stated. "The result of these researches has been surprising; the forces are seen to belong to an extensive class which was investigated long before the period of aviation in connection with the totally different problem of action-at-a-distance."

Newton's law of universal gravitation, whereby all bodies in the universe attract all other bodies, is a branch of this theory; special phases are the interaction of electric fields upon one another, as in the case of dynamos and electric motors; or the response of a compass needle to the magnetic field of the earth. The application of the general theory to the movemeht of aircraft is based on the assumption that bodies moving in fluid streams, whether liquid or gases, react upon one another, although they are never necessarily in contact. Neutral bodies will take up induced oscillations from the fluid, Prof. Bjerknes said, analogously to the electric currents which can be induced in a coil of wire by the motion of a nearby magnet. That rotating cylinders do actually react on one another, like electric currents, was illustrated in an experiment by the lecturer. The reaction is, however, in the opposite direction in the case of the electrical analogy.

"The forces which act on these rotating cylinders are the same as those which carry the wings of an aeroplane," he said. "Theoretically, the simplest aeroplane should have rotating cylinders instead of rigid wings. The lift depends upon the circulation of air round the wing.

"We produce and regulate at will the required circulation by rotating the cylinders, while in the case of the common rigid wings we get it by a spontaneous process."

NEWSPAPER COMPETITION.

Is competition necessary to the keenness of the press in rendering service to the community?

The Methodist publicity man notices as an answer that the retiring president of the Hamilton Conference recently commended the Niagara Falls Review for "consistently and persistently" obtaining and publishing the news of conference while in session in Lundy's Lane Church of that city.

Niagara Falls is a one-paper city where formerly two papers battled for a precarious living.

Similarly, the London conference met in Windsor and received the fullest and most appreciative reporting in the one daily paper of that region, the Border Cities Star.

The facts speak for themselves.

SUPER WAR SHIPS ARRIVED TO-DAY

As High as $25 Has Been Offered Captains of River Crafts to Take Them Out to Meet the Ships.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press).— The Federal Government and minister of national defense will be represented at the reception for the British special service squadron that arrived here this afternoon by Major General MacBrien chief of the general staff at Ottawa, Minister of National Defence, Hon. E. M. MacDonald was to have represented the government but he was obliged to leave the city last night, in order to organize a dinner which is to be tendered to Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Field in Ottawa on Thursday evening, he was forced to change his plans because of the delay in the arrival of the squadron.

So intense was the interest taken in the expected arrival of war vessels that scores of people including many wealthy tourists from the United States are reported to have offered as high as $25 to the captains of the river crafts to take them around the point at St. Joseph's De Levis so that they might witness the approach of the super ships of the British Navy as they steamed up from the Lower traverse.

BOARD OF HEALTH WILL PROSECUTE

Defaulters, Who Regard Notices To Instal Improvements, as Mere Scraps of Paper.

Sewer connections have been made to seventy old houses in the City from January to July of this year, but there still remains in the neighbourhood of 900 dwellings in the Ctiy which have not the sanitary improvements.

Naturally the number is decreasing annually but Sanitary Inspector Stapleton, incensed at the manner in which parties delay and disobey the Board's notices to install improvements, at this morning's meeting of the Board of Health declared that it was a laughing stock with some offenders, whom he pointed although notified over a year ago to install sanitary improvements, their premises still remain in the same condition.

Chairman George Duncan was of opinion that there was nothing to do but bring a few of the delinquents into Police Court.

Among the communications was a letter which proved amusing to the members, in which a prominent real estate man of this city stated that he had been so busy with office and farm work that he had not time to comply with the Board's requests, re sewer connections.

Criminal Proceedings.
After a brief discussion in which it was opined that the Board should back the Sanitary Inspector in carrying out the Board's plans, a resolution was passed sponsored by Mayor Turner, providing that every person in default, having been notified by registered letter to comply within seven days to the Board's request, otherwise proceedings be taken. A further resolution was passed enabling the City Solicitor to draw from the City Treasury the necessary funds to prosecute these cases.

The members mean business and are determined to show offenders that their notices are not mere scraps of paper.

Milk Report.
The report is very good this month remarked Dr. T. W. H. Young, in presenting the monthly report. Out of the 33, there were 2 cases where a slight sediment was shown in the milk and another dealer who was slightly below the required 3 per cent of butter fat.

One milk vendor's test showed a percentage of 8 per cent of butter fat. This is a very high level in fact it is doubtful if that peak has been reached in any previous tests.

The three vendors whose tests indicated a slight sediment or a falling off in the butter fat will be notified and shall be required to bring in samples weekly, until the Medical Officer of Health is satisfied with the results.

Contaginous Diseases.
Queen Mary Hospital report for the month of July showed that only two patients were in the hospital during the month, one for scarlet fever and the other for measles.

At to-day's meeting two applications for sower connections were received and passed.

CRICKET NEWS.
On account of Lakefield being unable to raise an eleven for Thursday, August 21st, the match for that date is unavoidably postponed.

LAST WITNESS HEARD TO-DAY

Dr. Krohn Said He Explained Exaggerated Claims Made By Defence to Reporters.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Courtesy raised to high degree marked the cross examination to-day of Dr. William O. Krohn, state alienist and last witness in the judicial hearing which is to determine the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and murdering of Robert Franks, in contrast to yesterday's proceedings when expert and Benjamin Bacrach, of counsel for the defense shouted angry retorts back and forth, there were smiles and "please" exchanged today. Even thrusts at stands each of sides to case have taken failed to provoke sharp retorts. Dr. Krohn once found the occasion to dig the defense alienists theories explaining that he had given no formal opinion on mentalities of defendants since June 1 and that the newspaper interviews quoting him on that had resulted from his attempts to explain the "exaggerated claims made by the defense," "you mean that reporters told you these exaggerations were offered by the defense did you not," asked Mr Bacrach, "not entirely, anyway I tried to explain them for the boys," was the answer.

DOUBLE LIABILITY.

To-morrow is the Last Day For Home Bank Liquidators to Cash Up.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.— (Canadian Press).—To-morrow is the last day set by the liquidators of the Home Bank for the shareholders who reside in Ontario to make arrangements to meet their double liability, if they fail to do so by to-morrow, their accounts go into the sheriff's hand for collection and in any case the sheriff's costs will be added to their bill. The liquidators have set August 25, as last day for those resident in Canada and outside of Ontario.

LOCAL BOWLERS AT QUEEN CITY

Eliminated in Dominion and Ontario Trophy Contests Yesterday.

Peterboro is represented in the Dominion bowling tournament being held in Toronto all this week.

One rink skipped by Martin Chenhall is now in the Queen City and will take part in the three rink games. The Dominion tournament is an annual affair and regarded as the premier bowling event of the year.

The local rink members are Martin Chenhall (skip), Alex. Dick (vice skip), Robert French (second), and J. Jeffries (lead).

They are competing for the Dominion Cup and if eliminated will drop into the contest for the Ontario Cup, and if again eliminated will play for the Toronto Cup, the last in order of merit.

In yesterday's play the local rink were eliminated from the Dominion trophy contest in the preliminary round and were later defeated in the opening round for the Ontario Cup. They will play for the Toronto Cup to-day, which will give them a chance to make up for their previous defeats.

FARMERS START CUTTING GREAT MANITOBA CROP

Operations Reported From Two Sections of the Province as Week Opens.

BEST IN 30 YEARS

Weather Turns Favorable and Conditions Ideal for Ripening.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 20. — The first wheat cutting operations of the 1924 season were reported from two districts in Manitoba on Monday. C. S. Plowman, a farmer near Douglas, in the Brandon district started cutting on a fifty-acre field on Monady while Steve Hasko of Cromwell in north eastern Manitoba, reported cutting operations on his farm in full swing yesterday.

Both farmers agreed that the crops were the best in many years and that a large yield could be expected. "It is the finest crop I have seen in 30 years of farming in Manitoba," Mr. Hasko said.

Others Preparing.

Several other districts in Manitoba report that preparations are being made for cutting, which will likely be general throughout the province by the end of the month.

The weather in Manitoba has taken a favorable turn and with the exception of a few scattered points ideal ripening conditions are being enjoyed.

Heavy rain fell in the Brandon district on Monday night but no hail nor lightning damage was reported.

Cold Wave Passes.

Fear from frost damage to the western crop has been dispelled, at least temporarily, with higher temperatures prevailing throughout the three prairie provinces on Tuesday and indications pointing to even warmer weather.

The cold wave which held Manitoba in its grip for several days last week and brought frost to some districts, has passed on and the lowest mark registered yesterday in the province was at Russell with 51 degrees.

TARS POPULAR IN EVERY PORT

British Writer Accompanying Fleet on Empire Tour.

NAVAL TRADITION.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19. — The round the world cruise of the British special service squadron will not be forgotten as soon as it is completed, for the British admiralty has made arrangements to have a book written about the cruise and the writer is in Quebec to-day.

This is E. Scott O'Connor, a British writer.

Before the fleet started on its cruise last November Mr. O'Connor was requested by the British admiralty to be its guest on board H.M.S. Hood and to make the trip for the express purpose of writing a book about it and showing the people of the world something of life as it is lived in the navy and, through the visits to the various parts of the empire, the relation of the fleet to the empire as a whole.

"We will all be glad to get home," Mr. O'Connor said this morning as he was about to leave for the island of Orleans to watch the squadron round the point below St. Joseph de Levis. "The fleet has had a wonderful reception wherever it has gone, both in the empire and at the two American ports at which it stopped, Honolulu and San Francisco. What struck me most was the wonderful popularity of the ships and sailors. This popularity, I think, rests upon a long tradition within the empire and has contributed greatly toward establishing that bond of unity which keeps the empire together."

Mr. O'Connor left the Hood at Vancouver, preferring to spend some time in Canada rather than go through the Panama Canal with the war vessels. He has had an opportunity to study the Canadian reaction to the visit of the fleet and to go gather other facts which will aid him in writing his book. He will rejoin the Hood before she sails from Quebec on September 2.

GREY RETIRES

Viscout Grey of Fallodon resigns from leadership of Liberal Party in the House of Lords.

LIBERALS LOSE VISCOUNT GREY

Viscount of Fallodor Relinquishes Party Reins in House of Lords.

IN RETIREMENT.

LONDON, August 20. —Viscount Grey of Fallodon, whose retirement from the leadership of the Liberal Party in the House of Lords was announced Tuesday, has slipped out British public life as modestly as he entered it. His friends and political associates, knowing his state of health, were not surprised at the news from Fallodon, where the former secretary for foreign affairs is spending a holiday at his coutny seat which only last year was restored from the effects of a disastrous fire in 1916.

It is expected that Lord Grey will spend most of his time in the country, now that he will accept complete retirement until poor health forces him to do so, and it is believed that he will speak his mind whenever political issues appeal to him.

No political significance attaches to Lord Grey's retirement and the immediate appointment of his successor is not looked for. Among those mentioned as likely to take his place are the Earl of Beauchamp, Viscount Gladstone and Lord Buckmaster. Viscount Greys' surrender of the Liberal leadership in the Lords will probably not have any political effect, for the very fact that he was a member of the House of Lords, indicated his retirement from the more strenuous political activities.

HARVESTERS IDLE.

Several Thousands Reach Winnipeg Before Work Available.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 20. — Some thousands of harvesters from Eastern Canada are arriving in Winnipeg at least a week before there is work for them on Manitoba farms, and for lack of orders employment officials are unable to allocate them to farmers who will need them in a few days Cool, cloudy weather has delayed ripening of grain. Appeals to farmers to place orders for men at once are said to have proved unavailing and employment officials express the belief that incoming harvesters will go through to Saskatchewan and that labor in Manitoba may be scarce when it is needed.

"KICK" BROKE BOTTLE.

Windsor Magistrate Found "Hootch" Was Explosive.

WINDSOR, Ont., August 20 (Canadian Press). — When Police Magistrate Gundy shook a bottle of moonshine, the better to inhale its odour on Monday, he found it possessed an extra "kick," for the stuff foamed and bubbled, then exploded, blowing the bottle to pieces.

The Magistrate escaped injury.

The moonshine was part of an exhibit in the trial of Michael Boichuk, of Ford, charged with violating the dry law.

He was fined $200.00 and costs, for keping liquor for sale.

E. M. MACDONALD DENIES URGING NAVAL EXPENSE

Canadian Minister of Defence Says "Montreal Star" Interview Not Correct.

TAXES HIGH NOW.

Empire Policy Opposed To Contributions Towards Upkeep of British Fleet.

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.— (Canadian Press). —Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence on his return from Quebec yesterday denied the correctness of an interview with him on the relationship of the visit of the British Special Squadron to the speedy construction of a Canadian navy.

Mr. MacDonald said: "My attention has been called to the report of an alleged interview with me apearing in the Montreal Star in which I am made to say that the visit to our shores of the British squadron will create such a public sentiment as will in the future enable me to expend the necessary funds to build such a navy as will be a credit to Canada and also in the meantime we will do our best to create a sentiment, favorable to the creation of such a navy.

"I did not express any such hope,' said Mr. MacDonald. "I expressly pointed out that the expenses regarding naval expenditure was entirely a matter for the Canadian people and that in view of the present extreme burden of taxation I did not think a large expenditure for naval expenditures was desired by Canadians."

"I pointed out that a great many people in this country seem to think that contributions of money by the Dominions for the upkeep of the British navy was still the policy of the Empire. As a matter of fact the policy settled by the British authorities and all the Dominions was that any action on the part of any of the Dominions to provide naval defence should come from the people of the Dominions interested and should not be one of contributions."

The "Star" Interview.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—A Canadian navy for Canada. That is the ambition of Hon. E. M. MacDonald minister of defense— but such a navy must wait on Canadian public opinion, say a Montreal Star special from Quebec giving an interview with the minister. The interview continues:

"It is not the policy of Canada to contribute money to the upkeep of the British navy,' he said.

"We want a navy of our own—Australia has set the example in that respect and we want to follow it.

"Just at present we are not able to do so. Our railway constitutes too heavy a drain upon our resources to enable us to do so.

"It is our hope that the visit to our shores of the British squadron will create such a public sentiment as will in the future enable us to expend the necessary funds to build such a navy as will be a credit to Canada.

"We are now training men to man a navy through the volunteer naval reserve. Men from that reserve accompanied the special squadron from Vancouver to Halifax. We hope that the enthusiasm engendered by that trip will result in the creation of a public sentiment to support the necessary expense involved in the construtcion of a navy.

"We felt that the best way in which to create an interest throughout Canada in naval matters was to have our own navy. Mere contributions of money to Great Britain would not arouse the interest that would be aroused if we maintained a navy manned by Canadians.

"We hope to have such a navy whendever conditions make it possible for us to do so. In the meantime we do our best to create a sentiment favorable to the creation of such a navy."

GUARD WAS DRUNK.

Drove Automobile and Took Prisoner For Ride.

REGINA, Sask., August 20 (Canadian Press). — Gustave Adolph Blisner, night guard for prisoners working for the Provincial Public Works Department, at the Parliament Buildings, yesterday pleaded guilty to being drunk while driving an automobile, when arraigned in the City Police Court.

To a second count, illegal possession of liquor laid under the Saskatchewan Temperance Act, a remand for one day was requested by defence counsel and granted.

Blissner was also remanded for sentence on the first charge, the minimum penalty for which is seven days in jail.

Blissner was arrested on Monday night while driving around the streets. With him was one of the prisoners he was guarding, William Sherwin, who is serving a year hard labour. Sherwin was partially intoxicated.

Three Children Strayed Miles From Their Home

WINNIPEG, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Little the worse for their experience, John Pechorski and his brother Edward, four and two years old, respectively, were found Monday night by a farmer on the Rosser district, after wandering about the country for more than twenty-four hours. The children had wandered five miles from their home and when found were suffering from hunger and fatigue.

Stella Pechorski, aged 8, who with her two younger brothers wandered from home in Old Kildonan on Sunday night was yesterday in a bluff more than five miles away. She had taken an opposite direction to that of her brothers who were found late Monday night.

CAVERLY HEARS FIRST ADDRESS

Franks Slayers Deserve Death Declares State's Legal Expert at Outset.

TESTIMONY ENDED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. — Testimony was finished on Tuesday in the case of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed murderers of Roberts Franks. A final exchange of pleasantries between Dr. William O. Krohn, state alienist and attorneys for the defense marked the conclusion of this phase of the proceedings.

As both sides declared their cases complete the attorneys gathered before the bench and conferred as to procedure on arguments. Thomas Marshall, legal expert for the state's attorney, was announced as the opening orator for the prosecution. A five minute recess preceded the start of the arguments.

Judge Caverly asked for a complete copy of the confessions of the youthful slayers and for the records of certain medical testimony.

Kidnapping Charge.

The court announced that the testimony on the kidnapping charge would be given after the final arguments on the murder indictment. The attorneys agreed this should not last more than half an hour.

The judge stated that at that time he would announce the date upon which his decision would be given

Mr. Darrow proferred his request for procedure on argument at the start of the afternoon session but was over-ruled by Judge Caverly.

"I must hold that the state has the right to open and close the final arguments," said the court.

Marshall Begins.

"There is only one penalty applicable here," said Mr. Marshall at the start of his argument. "That penalty is death. The lower punishments apply only to lesser crimes."

If this case does not deserve death, then there has never been a case in Illinois that deserved that punishment."

ESCAPED DROWNING.

Windsor Boy's Foot Caught in Manhole, Saving Him.

WINDSOR, Ont., August 20 (Canadian Press). — The five-year-old son of Mrs. J. Dunlop, 1524 Marantette Avenue, narrowly escaped death by drowning in a sewer at Hanna Street and Giles Boulevard late on Monday night, when his foot became caught in the cover of a manhole.

According to a report made to the police by Mrs. Dunlop, the manhole top was broken and partly off.

As the boy fell, his foot became jammed by the cover, but was rescued before he fell through.

Two Chicken Thieves Sent To Reformatory

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Two men, self confessed members of an organized band of motor truck chicken thieves, were sentenced to two years less one day in the Guelph Reformatory while the third, a mere boy, was let off on suspended sentence by Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw presiding at county court here Tuesday.

Fred Hartsell and Frank Lowe, both of whom have previous prison records were the men sentenced while Earl McCormick, the third member of the gang was the one let off.

BERLIN DRAFTS LAWS PROVIDED BY DAWE'S PLAN

Establishment of Bank and Levy of Five Billion Gold Marks Begun.

CABINET ACTIVE.

Government Optimistic That Reichstag Will Ratify London Agreement.

BERLIN, August 20 (Canadian Press). — The Cabinet yesterday approved drafts of laws providing for the establishment of a bank of emission and for a levy of industrial debentures amounting to five billion gold marks.

Both measures will now be referred to the Federal Council and then will be put up to the Reichstag.

Drafts of the railway law, which will complete the trio of legislative measures provided by the Dawes report, will reach the Cabinet in the course of a few days.

The law providing for the issue of industrial bonds releases the German industrial, financial and commrcial organisations from all obligations to th rentenbank for whose benefit their various holdings are now partially hypothecated. The covering of the rentenbank, which will be liquidated according to the terms of the Dawes report ,will be assumed by the agricultural interests for the transition period.

With the dissolution of the micum agreement, which is expected to become effective on 1st October, further reorganisation of the Ruhr industry will be made possible through "the economic evacuation" of that area.

The German industrialists are convinced that the levy of 5,000,000,000 debentures will be effected in a manner which will not threaten the efficiency of the nation's productive agencies.

The Government yesterday conferred with the Premiers of the federated states on the agreements reached in London, and will discuss the results of the international conference with the Reichstag's committee on foreign relations to-day.

Official optimism in respect to the Government's ability to weather the Reichstag opposition is growing firmer because of the Government's statement that any failure to ratify the London pact and accord on the Ruhr evacuation would result in the nullification of the agreements.

ENGAGES LAWYER.

F. J. Smith, of Campbellford, Claims Prior Right to Water Front.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 20.—F. J. Smith, who broke two locks that were placed by Government officials when he refused to pay rent for his boat house, which stands on Trent Canal land at Crow Bay, has retained D. J. Lynch to take up the matter with the Department.

Mr. Smith's contention is that his boathouse was built with the permission of the Town Council before the Government ever acquired it from the municipality, and that when it was purchased the Department accepted it as it stood.

There are other boat house owners, including the six who have paid their rent for the past three years, who can set up the same claim as Mr. Smith, and if the latter wins they will be in a position to ask for a rebate of the $23.40 paid in.

The strip of land along the canal was purchased by the Government for a song. The ground on which the lockmaster's house at Crow Bay is held by the Department on a 99-year lease at a rental of $1.00 a year.

The Government charges the boat house owners $10.00 a year for a site about one-tenth as large as that on which their own building stands.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall for August so far already exceeds the total for July. The August total is now 3.09. Many have remarked the peculiar conditions that obtain this summer, it 'summer" is the right word to use, of which we have had little, at least of the old-fashioned kind. Yesterday's highest point was but 69 degrees, and already I have been told of cucumber vines being touched by the frigid fingers of Jack Frost.—W.P.

WAIST LINE.

There is a waist line that is almost normal on many of the fall dresses and the Directoire influence about the bodice and hat becomes more pronounced.

A single crow is known to have eaten 35 May beetles, 72 wireworms, or 123 grasshoppers within an hour.

GERMAN ENVOY AT PARLEY

Negotiations between allied countries and German representatives over evacution of the Rhur caused the gathering in London of many European premiers and statesmen. Here Dr. Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, is seen leaving the foreign office where the discussions were held.

BEER SHIPMENT HELD IN COURT

License Board Will Be Asked For License To Export It.

IS WORTH $9,000.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 20.— The Ontario license board will be asked in the course of the next eight days to permit the export of three carloads of beer and ale seized here on July 26 by license inspector Walter Bolton. The request will be made by W. H. Furlong, of Windsor, who acted as counsel for J. H. Jones, Niagara Falls, N. Y., liquor dealer, when confiscation proceedings were made before Magistrate Graydon yesterday. Judgment was reserved after lengthy evidence for eight days on the request of Mr. Furlong. The tone of the court was indicate of ultimate confiscation if the license board does not accede in the request.

The Niagara Falls liquor dealer said he had paid $9,000 for the shipment and was willing to have the export supervised by officers of the O. T. A. from any port in Ontario. He preferred Port Stanley, however, he said, since better arrangements could be made by him from there. Mr. Jones admitted that two firms in New York to whom the wet goods had been shipped by the American Canning company here were fictitions. Nothing is known of the latter concern.

The beer and ale was first shipped to Buffalo via Tillsonburg on the C. P. R. for Wabash delivery. The consignee at that time was J. H. Jones of Buffalo. It was returned to London five days later and while being transferred from C. P. R. to the C. N. R. three days later was seized.

DOLLAR AT PAR.

Canadian Exchange Touched Peak of Year Yesterday.

NEW YORK, August 20 (Canadian Press). — Canadian exchange yesterday touched par for the first time this year. The demand for Canadian dollars is said in banking circles to be due, in large measure, to the transfer of surplus funds from New York to Montreal and other Canadian cities for temporary employment there because of the higher interest rates across the border.

Heavy purchases of high-grade Canadian securities by United States investors also has been a contributing factor.

Wall Street also hears unconfirmed reports that persons engaged in illicit liquor traffic have been active purchasers of Canadian dollars.

The year's low in Montreal exchange was established on 11th March when the Canadian dollar was at a discount of 31-2 cents in the local market.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST M'COY

Grand Jury Indicts Ex-Pugilist on Two Other Counts —Shams Insanity ?

THIRTY WITNESSES.

LOS ANGELES, August 20 (Canadian Press). — The grand jury late yesterday indicted Kid McCoy, expugilist for the murder of Mrs. Theresa W. Mors, here on 12th August last. He was also indicted for assault with intent to commit murder and for robbing.

McCoy, once known as the trickiest fighter in the prize ring, is shamming insanity, according to two alienists who examined him yesterday. Apparently he became mentally unbalanced yesterday morning.

Mumbling and pacing nervously about his narrow quarters the former fighter stopped every few moments to paste bits of cardboard on the walls. When asked what he was doing he answered: "I'm making a trap for that rat Mors."

Further Examination.

When informed of McCoy's actions, District Attorney Asa Keyes said the three mental experts who on Monday asserted that the prisoner was sound in mind, would be sent back immediately to further observe him.

Thirty witnesses were subpoenaed to testify before the Grand Jury.

Among them was Albert A. Mors, former husband of the dead woman, and until their recent divorce her partner in the antique business; Mrs. Iva Martin, occupant of the apartment below that in which the shooting occurred, who insists she saw Mors leaving the building immediately after the ratal shot was fired; several detectives who insist she must have been mistaken; William G. Ross, who was wounded in an attempt to escape from the Mors antique shop after Kid McCoy entered on Wednesday morning, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Schapp, the other two victims of the shopping district affray, who says McCoy sought them out and shot them because they encouraged a reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. Mors.

Estate of $100,000.

Mrs. Mors' possessions were valued by Mors at $25,000, while her estate, including jewels, antiques, and furniture, was valued at approximately $100,000. It is said she had her life insured for $80,000 in favour of her divorced husband.

Kid McCoy's alleged confession of killing Mrs. Mors, reported yesterday, is said to have been made to a friend in Hollywood who met McCoy less than half an hour after Mrs. Mors was shot.

EXTENSION TO CHATEAU.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Work on a 280-room extension to Chateau, Lake Louise, in Rockies, will proceed at once, it was announced today by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Railway.

PREMIER'S PLEA ON EVACUATION EXCITED FRENCH

Lobbies Buzzed at Suggestion by MacDonald—Letter Published by Herriot.

LITTLE OPPOSITION

Members of Both Chambers Will Simply Record Their Attitudes.

PARIS, August 20 (Canadian Press). — The lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies were seething with irritation yesterday because of Premier MacDonald's letter to Premier Herriot urging an earlier evacuation of the Ruhr than agreed upon at the London conference.

The French Premier's supporters qualified the British Prime Minister's letter as a "back-handed trick," until they learned that it had been published with M. Herriot's consent.

The opposition, which normally would be eager to use the British document against Premier Herriot, apparently decided it would not be wise at this juncture. The chances are that the minority action in the forthcoming debate in the Chamber will be limited to the reading of a declaration of principles and criticisms which will put members on record before the country.

The only opposition is likely to come from the Communist deputy, M. Cachin, who is planning an interpellation on the recognition of the Soviet Government.

The reluctance of vacationing deputies, however, to give notice on interpellations—only one new one being reported yesterday, bringing the total to nine—gives Government supporters ample grounds for belief that the forthcoming passage at arms will be of short duration and will culminate in a satisfactory, though not overwhelming majority on a vote of confidence.

The Senate is not expected to be much more difficult for the Premier, as it is now understood M. Poincare's widely-heralded interpellation will be mainly for the purpose of getting on record, and will not be designed as an anti-government onslaught along the lines made famous by M. Clemenceau, known as the "overthrower of cabinets.

The probabilities now are for a short session of Parliament.

CORN BORER ON ONTARIO FARMS

Stringent Quarantine Declared By Government To Prevent Its Spread.

NOT IN PETERBORO.

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—The most stringent possible methods are being taken by the Dominion Department of Agriculture to prevent the spread of the European corn borer in Ontario. The quarantine applied to some districts, applies not only to growers and dealers but to campers and motorists. In the counties of Middlesex and Elgin, a double quraantine is in force forbidding the movement of corn even to other districts within the general quarantine. Except for these two counties, corn on the cob may be shipped to Toronto and Hamilton markets, but it may not be shipped north or eastward of the area under quarantine.

The area under quarantine from which it is illegal to ship corn is as follows:

"Brant county: Bruce county; Dufferin county; the Townships of Clark, Darlington and Hope in Durham county; Elgin county; Essex county; Grey county; Haldimand county; Halton county; Huron county; Kent county; Lambton county; Lincoln county; Middlesex county; Norfolk county; The townships of Pickering, Whitby East, and Whitby West in Ontario county; Oxford county; Peel county; Perth county; Waterloo county; Welland county; Wentworth; the townships of Etobicoke, Markham, Scarboro', Vaughan and York in York county and the Township of Brighton in Northumberland county.

STEAMER STONEY LAKE WILL RUN FOLLOWING TRIPS OUT OF PETERBORO WEEK COMMENCING AUGUST 18TH: THURSDAY AFTERNOON, AUG. 21ST, TO GORE'S LANDING; FRIDAY, AUG. 22ND, 8.30 A.M., TO GORE'S LANDING AND HARWOOD; SATURDAY, AUG. 23RD, OVER LIFT LOCK TO STONEY LAKE; MONDAY, AUG. 25TH, TO LINDSAY AND RETURN BY C.N.R. 1d41 3091

NEW SOURCES OF EMPLOYMENT

Harvesters' Excursion and Demand For Men in the Bush Lifting Local Depression.

DOMESTIC WORKERS.

Some of the farmers can expect to lose their help this week, according to Mr. Hugh Robertson, agent of the Ontario Employment Bureau here, who stated that a number working on farms locally would leave on the Harvesters' excursion for the West on Friday.

A good number are going from Peterboro, probably 200 in all, and more would go if they had the price, declared Mr. Robertson.

Applications for men to work on the farms in this district have been pretty well filled, but there are farmers looking for men who do not consult the Employment Bureau.

Lumber Camps.

Twelve men last week and seven this week obtained work in the bush through the local employment bureau. Most of them are experienced, and come from the surrounding centres, including Roseneath, Lakefield and Millbrook. The majority were sent to the Schroedar Company, at Parry Sound.

Wages this year for bush men are lower than last year, the prevailing price being $30 and $35 monthly with board, instead of $40, the current wage last year.

Domestic Help.

This is the first season since I have been here, remarked Mr. Robertson, that there has not been a scarcity of female factory workers. This summer there is a surplus, with the result that a number of the girl that heretofore worked in factories, are going in for domestic work. At the present time there is very little demand for domestic help, because of the fact that a lot of women are compelled to do their own work and because of the vacation season.

It is likely that the demand will become brisk in September, when people return from their cottages.

Local Conditions.

Other than small jobs, the city is dull.

Two of the largest factories in the city, one of which is closed at the present time, expect to pick up shortly. This will give employment to a large number of former employees, and extra help as well, which will relieve the present situation considerably.

BANDITS' RAID NETS $150,000

Daring Coup in Jewellery Store—Four Men Engaged in Well Planned Theft. ESCAPE IN CAR.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.— (Canadian Press).—Diamonds and jewelry valued at about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars were stolen by four men who held up the clerks in the store of Carl Skinner, diamond merchant here to-day.

One bandit remained in an automobile, two covered the three clerks with revolvers while a fourth picked up the jewelry which had been removed from the safe shortly after the store opened. They all escaped in the automobile.

The clerks stated that the real loss might prove much greater than $150,000. The jewelry included diamond bracelets and broaches and platinum goods.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Masons and Oddfellows Met in a Battle Royal on the Diamond.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20.—The Masons and Oddfellows met on the diamond yesterday afternoon in a long talked of game of soft ball in which more than one veteran had a chance to show that he was able to come back. One of these was J. D. Cumming who was a baseball star half a century ago, and who played right field for the Masons with all the agility and enthusiasm of a youngster. At first, on the bases or in the field he covered himself with glory and helped his side to victory which they won by a score of 9 to 8.

There was only one casualty to speak of, when Charlie Holmes, running in from third collided with Charlie Davidson who was catching There is a vast difference in the weight of the two men but speed had the best of it and the hetry manager of the Northumberland League team was laid out on the grass. The teams were composed as follows: Masons—Charlie Davidson, c and cf; J. C. Birmingham c and cf; Frank Bonny castle p; I. A. Humphries 1b; Tom O'Connor, 2b; Percy Denyes, 3b; Steve Twigg ss; J. D. Cummings, rf; P. Sherin, lf.

Oddfellows — Frank Menzie c; Charlie Holmes, p; R. Dunk 1b; D. Montgomery 2b; J. D. McEachern, 3b; Joe Poulton rf; Harry Anderson cf; James McMullen lf; F. Osborne ss.

Older Than Tutankhamen.

Egyptian Government To Seek Tombs of Three Ancient Pharaohs.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—(United Press).—Harold L. Kelsey, Chicago banker, returning from Egypt, says the Egyption government is planning the excavation of three pharaoh tombs said to be a thousand years older than that of Tutankhamen. The excavations are to be made next year and the government has hopes of finding ivory and gold furniture, Kelsey said.

"WALL STREET BISHOP" WEDS AT 76

Rev. William Wilkinson, the famous "Bishop of Wall street," is here shown leaving Trinity Church, New York, with his bride, Mrs. Pauline Travilla McNab. He is 76 and the bride 74. Rev. F. W. Goodman, at right, performed the ceremony. Rev. Wilkinson won his title of the "Wall Street Bishop" because of his daily noon service held in the heart of America's stock exchange centre and attended by brokers, office boys and traders.

MONEY SAVED BY DAY LABOR PLAN

Campbellford Sewer Constructed For $2,106 Under Estimate.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20—The sewer on Rear and River streets has been completed and the amount expended shows that the town has again saved money by the day labor plan rather that by letting a contract

The estimated cost of this work as made by the engineer was $14,167. There was an extra outlay of $1,060. for water pipe bringing the total up to $15,227.

The work actually cost the town $13,120.84 or $2,106.16 less than the estimate. The price of the compressor, which was purchased for $1,300 is charged to this sewer, although it is now being used in similar work on the west side. More pipe was purchased than was required but the total cost has been included in the expenditure. This surplus pipe is being used on Canrobert street.

There are citizens and at least one member of the Town Council, who have no faith in the day labor system for public works but in every venture of this kind made by the Council money has been saved the town. At least 30 laborers, who would probably have been idle, have been given steady employment all summer and this will last probably up to the end of the year.

Street Superintendent Fox has had general supervision of the work, his assistants being Bert Naylor and George Whitlaw.

On the West Side

The Canrobert street sewer on the west side has been completed as far as Inkerman street and the excavation as far as Sebastapol street is well under way. From the Junction of these two thoroughfares the sewers will be continued up the latter.

UNVEIL A TABLET HASTINGS SUNDAY

In Memory of Five Members of the Methodist Church Who Lost Their Lives.

HASTINGS, August 20. — A memorial service will be held in the Methodist Church, Hastings, on Sunday morning, 24th August, at 11 o'clock, in memory of the five young men from the Hastings Methodist Church circuit who lost their lives overseas.

A bronze tablet will be unveiled, which will bear the following names: Russell Scriver, Roy Richardson, Ernest Stevenson, M.C., Hugh McArthur, Edmund Longmuir.

The tablet will be unveiled by Mr. James Stevenson, Sr., who is in his ninety-second year, and is the oldest member of the church and oldest member of the official boards of the church.

Rev. George S. Hammond, minister in charge of the Presbyterian Church in Warkworth, and a war veteran, will preach the sermon and assist the pastor, Rev. M. L. Hinton, in the unveiling service.

Mr. Herbert C. Treneer, A.T.C.M., of Toronto, will assist in both the vocal and instrumental part of the service.

An invitation has been extended to the local war veterans, and it is expected that the Last Post will be sounded by a member of that organisation.

A Baseball Game.

The local baseball team journeyed to Keene on Monday evening for a friendly game, and came home the winners, the score being 6 to 4.

On Wednesday afternoon Orland play here with the locals in another schedule game. It is expected that the new baseball score board recently presented to the Hastings Amateur Athletic Association will be used for the first time. It is erected at the left hand side of the home plate, and will make the future games much more interesting to the spectators.

SUNSHINE ADDS TOUCH OF GOLD TO GRAIN CROP

"Fine Growing Weather" Is Password in Delighted Western Cities.

BADLY NEEDED.

Dejected Heads of Men and Crops Alike Lift to Yesterday's Saving Sunshine.

EDMONTON, Alta., August 20 (Canadian Press). — After a week or more of climatic vagaries—rain aplenty, cold winds, lack-lustre sunlight, and sharp threats of frost—Western Canada has revelled in the glories of real summer days.

Reflecting the geniality on nature's face, mankind smiles too, and the street corner password to intimacy with unknown Westerners is merely the magic phrase, "Fine growing weather."

On Monday night it rained and the night before, but yesterday the sun fairly drew to its bosom the millions of acres of half-dwarfed grain, fattening heads already well filled and tinting with the first golden flush of maturity the fields that were green too long.

Frost seems afar off. Last week's untimely threat is forgotten, the sky is clear, but not cold. The promise for the next few days is fair.

A few more days like yesterday, right now, will add millions to the worth of the unshorn wheat of the Prairies.

Shots Put a Startling Period To The Sermon Evangelist Preached On "Thou Shalt Not Kill"

HARLAND, Ky., August 20. — (Canadian Press.) — A small crowd of mountain folk trooped out of the frame church near Poor Fork, on Monday night, the words of the Evangelist ringing in their ears, "Thou shalt not kill."

Suddenly a shot split the evening quiet. One of the Halcomb brothers spun around, and dropped in the church doorway, mortally wounded. A fusilade of shots followed. With a cry the other Halcomb brother dropped dead and near his body fell that of Junior Davis aged 15. An old feud between the Davises and the Halcombs was ended.

STEALS FROM WIFE TO MARRY ANOTHER

Say Detectives of Man Arrested in Toronto—Charged With Bigamy.

TORONTO, August 20. — Canadian Press. — When police officers yesterday arested Vincent Mararworth on a warrant charging him with the theft of $210 from his wife, they claim they discovered that the accused was a bigamist. A second charge of bigamy was then made out against Maraworth.

Mararworth claims that he gave the police his right name but the detectives declared that his right name was Lewandowka.

Information received here from Kitchener is that the prisoner stole money from his wife and came to Toronto. Here the police believe he used his wife's money to pay for the marriage service with a woman he was found with when taken into custody.

NO WINTER WORK.

Toronto's Waterfront Viaduct Will Not Help Out Unemployment Situation.

TORONTO, August 20. — Work will not commence on the waterfront viaduct before the frost is out of the ground next spring, U. E. Killen of the Toronto Terminals Company, stated yesterday. He thinks it is not possible to start actual work this year. The Terminals C mpany will have charge of the work.

"When the work does commence there will not be a vast army of labor on the job," he said. "I think the statement has been made—and truthfully—that at no time will there be more than 500 men employed on the job."

The work will cover period of four years at least, and only Toronto workers will likely be employed.

DRAPERIES.

Fluttering draperies of lace or chiffon following the line from shoulder to hem are distinguishing features of fall dinner gowns.

BIG CROP SAVED IN ORLAND BARN

J. B. Moran's Threshing Interrupted By Outbreak of Fire—Machine Menaced.

ORLAND, August 20. —During threshing operations at J .B. Moran's barn about two miles north of here, fire was discovered issuing from the roof by Mrs. Moran.

She immediately gave the alarm which was responded to by the men who were successful in extinguishing the flames which had made good headway and chances looked slim to save the barn. contents and threshing machine.

After the fire was extinguished, threshing was resumed when the precaution was taken by moving the machine nearer to the front as the barn was of the leanto style and consequently had a wide floor.

When the job was finished, Mr. Moran had 620 bush of wheat and 255 bush of rye, this was for the first threshing and taking the full crop of hay and straw the loss would have been considerable.

Gives You a Delicious Layer Cake

THERE'S no need any more to fuss around with a lot of ingredients when mixing a cake — to spend twenty minutes or half an hour over a hot oven baking it.

Green's Sponge Mixture has changed all that! 10 minutes after you lift the mixing bowl from the pantry shelf you take the finished cake from the oven. A light, tempting cake, wholesome and appetizing. A cake you'll be proud to serve to anyone.

Green's Sponge Mixture has been famed in England for years as a product of the highest quality and the greatest time saver on busy bake days. Millions of packets are sold there yearly. With it, you simply whisk together two eggs, beat in the contents of a package of Green's Sponge Mixture and bake for about 8 minutes in a medium-sized tin. It's economical — because results are certain every time.

Green's Sponge Mixture is obtainable in six delicious flavours—Plain, Vanilla, Orange, Lemon, Almond and Maderia. Get a package from your grocer and try this modern method of cake-baking. Recipes are given on the back of every packet. 20c. a packet.

INVENTED BY WOMEN.

Did you ever know a woman to invent anything? American women have invented and patented nearly 1,400 devices.

A check-up shows that when women put their inventive ingenuity to work they usually turn out household appliances. Women have created washing machines, kitchen cabinets, holders for hot pans, carpet beaters, mattress turners, mouse traps and so on through a long list.

Next thing that makes them cudgel their brains is wearing apparel. All the way from hooks-and-eyes to artificial eyelashes.

Farm women have invented and patented many such things as incubators, churns, windmills, tractors and seed planters.

Business women have originated railroad equipment, office supplies, toys, musical instruments, road-building equipment and intricate machinery.

When old man Howe was trying to invent the sewing machine, he reached the point where he was stumped. His wife got tired of having him sit around in the way. She shoved him aside, sat down before his machine, gave it a few whirls and said: "Put the thread eyelet in the other end of the needle, down by the point."

In a flash she solved the problem that had baffled him for years. He got all the credit, of course.

Woman is quick to find a solution to problems. One invented a cow-tail holder to stop being swished during milking. Another devised a stronger chopping bowl after the one she was using split in two and spilled its contents in her lap. Still another invented a pie pan with a special lid to keep juices from boiling over into the oven.

The list is long, these things created and patented by women. It includes nearly every major form of human activity. Woman, whose place once was in the home in fact, is steadily branching out into an increasing multitude of industries.

All of which is not surprising to any man who has ever observed and marveled at the thousands of things women can do with that marvelous contraption, a bent hairpin.

TWO THOUSAND CHANCES.

There are 2,000 different lines of work that a boy or girl can follow when they strike out into the world for themselves. This figure is unearthed by Doris Maddow, the vocational guidance expert. Meaning, that she specializes at helping young people select the work they are best fitted for.

Two thousand different lines of work mean 2,000 different kinds of opportunity. For there is opportunity in every field, always leaders and plenty of room for more.

Success comes to relatively few. It depends on natural ability, concentration and luck or the law of chance.

Do you ever stop to think how much easier it is for a man to select an occupation with great possibilities, than it used to be?

Many now living can recall when a young fellow's choice of vocations was limited. He might become a farmer, a tradesman, lawyer, doctor, dentist, railroad man, keeper of a livery stable, carpenter, mason, blacksmith, machinist, Jack-of-all-trades.

That didn't complete the list. But his selection was not nearly as varied as today. Consider, for instance, the new forms of work created for millions of people by the auto—the various stages of manufacturing, selling, repairing and the great side-fields of gasoline and accessories.

Radio has created many entirely new vocations. So have the movies. So have airplanes, industrial chemistry and other new activities.

Choose your career as carefully as you would choose a life mate, Miss Maddow advises. She speaks words of wisdom. One can get rid of an uncongenial husband or wife easier than to change lines of work after years of training in one line have bred habit.

With 2,000 different ways of making a living to choose from, there is no excuse for anyone not finding work he loves.

Nature distributes our inclinations shrewdly. There are just enough "born mechanics" or "born doctors" to meet needs, and so with every activity. Many get into the wrong line—are misfits—and, discontented and half-hearted, fail.

Instinct will guide most of us to the right work.

Much failure is directly due to well-meaning but misguided parents who sway the child from his natural inclination and try to make, for instance, a lawyer out of a born mechanic or a mechanic out of a born lawyer.

He has to live with his job. Let him select it.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

It is the salutary principle of all commerce that men should receive from each other something tangible in return for products or services. The payment may be anticipated, and we call it credit. But something for something is the condition of life, and civilization justifies itself by the way in which it has broadened the field for giving and receiving. Not the most extreme communist, in his individual life, supposes anything else as a general condition. But the essence of every radical platform and every demagogue speech is the promise of something for nothing, the contention that labor can take out of the wage fund what it does not put in, that government can give people what they have not earned, by the simple process of feeding the dog with a piece cut off his own tail. Has not this doctrine of something for nothing been carried into our private life, our art, our literature, our system of education? Do we not start a child with a pretense of something for nothing, of education without effort?

What is jazz music but something for nothing, ignorant syncopation and noise? What is free verse but nothing for something, for the prize for which the real poet sweats blood? What is cubist and futurist painting but the buying of cheap reputation with something so devoid of composition, stern and faithful drawing, knowledge of color and of light, and of all these in combination, as to amount to nothing? Every business man comes across this delusion, when he finds himself obliged to teach his employee the rudiments of accuracy and intelligent observation, the simplest processes of memory, all of them things which should have been included in the high-school education and even certified in the college diploma. Every newspaper is pestered with volunteered contributions full of pretentious platitudes and unconscious imitation of bad models without one single tollsomely acquired fact or truth. What are we expecting from our legislators but something for nothing, legislative wisdom without study and above all without historical knowledge or background?

This is no place for mere moralizing, but the disease is far more general than we assume when we limit it to a few windy demagogues and their following of discontent.—Barron's Weekly.

MONEY TALKS.

Probably there has never been another case in the history of the criminal court of the United States so replete in unmitigated "bunk" and legal gymnastics as the Leopold-Loeb trial now drawing to a conclusion in Chicago. And we use the latter expression guardedly. In reality the trial of these vicious, pampered morons is but beginning, experience with other cases in which the sons of millionaires have been principals teaching that this trial in Chicago is but the first act, to be followed later by appeals and appeals from the decisions of appeal courts and all the rest of the legal bunkum that has made a farce of the criminal code which governs the deportment of our cousins across the lines. The catch-phrases of the council for the defense are becoming positively nauseating. "Loeb suffered from a split personality," we read. Or "Alienist thinks Leopold was friend's slave." An alienist on the payroll of the defense unblushingly stands in the witness box and deposes that "Childhood dreams, centreing on a king slave fantasy, made Nathan Leopold what he is today, the fantasy having been given impetus by the reading of the story of St. Christopher by his governess." And because the parents of these fiends who committed a dastardly murder for apparently no other reason than that ordinary vice had ceased to thrill them have inexhaustible resources, a learned judge sits on the bench and admits as evidence fantastical suppositions that no author would consider putting in a "tuppenny yellow." If Leopold and Loeb had been of poor families, the public would not have been let in on the secret of the king slave fantasy. Poor boys, it seems, also never suffer from "split personalities." But daily they are being electrocuted and hanged in the United States, apparently because they have not the wherewithal to engage high-priced spinners of fairy tales as counsel. The new twist that is being given the American criminal code has many possibilities. Maybe one of these days some imaginative prisoner, charged with the theft of a ham, will claim he was influenced by a perusal of the exploits of Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son. The era of Mother Goose criminals may be dawning. Parents should be doubly careful of the story books that fall into the hands of the young. It may yet be discovered that the governess who read the story of St. Christopher to Nathan Leopold was the real slayer of Benny Franks.—Hamilton Spectator.

ORATORS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Ambitious young men who take courses in rhetoric and public speaking by correspondence are always urged to study the speeches of great masters, such as Patrick Henry and the younger Pitt. These gentlemen, the correspondence schools tell their students, were supreme tongue waggers in their day, and their style should be followed as closely as possible.

Having this in mind, it comes as a shock, therefore, to encounter the definite claim that Patrick Henry was probably the poorest speaker that was ever booed off a platform, and that the younger Pitt's eloquence was nothing to boast of. It took an American called O'Malley to find this out. Writing in an American magazine, he callously blasts the reputation of Messrs. Pitt and Henry to bits. What is more, he appears to prove his case.

Those who were really responsible for much of the powerful eloquence of past times were persons commonly known as reporters. O'Malley submits evidence which shows that Patrick Henry, a lazy solicitor, who was ruined by strong drink, was fortuitously selected to give an address at the time when indignation in the American colonies against England was at fever heat. The speech was so poor that the reporter sent to cover it fell asleep. Before dropping off, however, he jotted down a few words which Henry used. Some of these were "plains of Boston," "chains and slavery" and "liberty and death."

Henry stuttered and stammered and made an exhibition of himself. When the reporter returned to his newspaper, however, he had to write something, so he made up a speech by linking up a few of Henry's catch words into presentable English. The famous address ascribed to Henry, O'Malley claims, is really the composition of a reporter named Potts.

The younger Pitt's reputation for silver-tongued oratory was attained in a somewhat similar way. During Pitt's term of office, old Dr. Johnson was Parliamentary correspondent for a London newspaper. The doctor used to take fragmentary notes, and would compose the speeches from these when he arrived at his office. Pitt was, apparently, a very indifferent speaker, but because Johnson wished to gain his goodwill he would take particular pains to report the statesman's addresses in beautiful and masterly language.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A sweater seems more appropriate for the bathing beach than the bathing suit these August evenings.

Perhaps the Dominion Government is depending on all the honorary colonels to do the fighting, and therefor cuts down the active militia.

The scientists say that smiling is not laughter. Then what in the world is just a common ordinary grin?

There is cheering news from the West. The wheat is coming through the trying period, and the prediction is that it will be $2. That means over $500,000,000 for the farmers, and should dispel all the blue ruin for a while.

It is to be hoped that the harvesters who turned North Bay upside down on their journey West will be equally energetic when they reach the wheat fields.

According to a report brought in some time ago by Chancellor Snowden, the amount of beer England drinks is now one-third less than in the year after the armistice. This estimate is made from the income tax returns. It shows a decided decrease.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Summer is half gone, so practically every elbow in the United States should be clean by this time.

Bad news from Germany to-day. New law lets brewers make beer as strong as they please. Who can pity Germany, poor Germany, now?

About 600 acres of wheat burned near Kimball, Neb., and it must have smelled something like a bride making biscuits.

When these round-the-world flyers find out how hot it is sitting still they may fly around the world again.

The public is so listless this summer; we have been discussing the same Chicago murder case for several weeks.

Dog days make people growl.

Fools dive in where good swimmers fear to tread.

Beer is being sent from New York to the rum fleet and the United States may start exporting liquor soon.

A wise bachelor never takes a girl riding on a moonlit night or pokes his finger into an electric fan.

Butchers will hold a convention in Chicago probably to discuss how they can make ends meet.

Practising on a saxophone is dangerous. You are liable to learn to play it.

Some towns are so lucky. In New Orleans, a robber, trying to get away, fell and broke his leg.

What is so rare as a breeze in August?

Los Angeles man, asking a divorce because she let other men kiss her, should have fed her on onions.

Hurry with your vacation. Soon as it is over you will have to start saving up for Christmas.

Iced tea seems to be the most popular summer resort.

A THOUGHT

There's a time to part and a time to meet,
There's a time to sleep and a time to eat,
There's a time to work and a time to play,
There's a time to sing and a time to pray,
There's a time that's glad and a time that's blue,
There's a time to plan and a time to do,
There's a time to grin and show your grit—
But there never was a time to quit!

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.—Trade in cash grain was again slow to-day. There was no feature in the flour market. A steady trade continues in millfeed and rolled oats. There is a firm feeling in baled hay. Egg prices are unchanged and there is a steady demand. Butter is in good demand and cheese showed an advance of 3-8 cents to 1-2 cents per pound. Beans are strong at $3 per bushel for 1 pound pickers.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—The wheat market was inclined to be erratic today with the general tendency downward. After the opening, which was 3-4 to 4c lower due to lower Liverpool cables, selling pressure from the "long" side came out which caused a break of about 1 1-2c during the first hour. Here the market ran into some good buying on orders from the seaboard which looked like export business, and caused prices to react to the high point of the day, when October touched $1.38 3-4. On this advance the buying power faded away and prices sank to new levels

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—Arrivals—1,462 cattle; 198 calves; 515 hogs and 20 sheep and lambs.

Trading on the cattle market opened this morning fairly steady with good butcher steers meeting an active demand from $5 to $5.50. Cows were selling slightly easier compared with last week, the best bringing from $3.75 to $3.25. Calves were well in line with yesterday's prices.

The hog market continued unchanged with thick smooths at $9.75 and select bacons $10.72 1-2.

Theres were no quotations on the sheep and lamb market.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—Market firm Country shippers paying extras 34, firsts 28, seconds 20. Some country merchants report these prices as unsatisfactory and many are placing their eggs in storage for a short time in a temperature of 35 degrees. One car of poultry is reported rolling New York from Manitoba.

Toronto firm, unchanged.

Montreal, strong, upward tendency jobbing extras 42 to 43, firsts 38, seconds 28.

Ottawa market firm. Retailing extras 45, firsts 38 to 40, seconds 32 to 35.

Winnipeg market prices advanced. Jobbing extras 33, firsts 31, seconds 35.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, August 18.—Attention to comparative dearth of export demand for United States wheat had much to do with a set back in prices both for wheat and corn today in the late dealings. Wheat closed weak 2 to 7-8 cents, net lower, September 1.27 7-8 to 1.28 and December 1.33 to 1 33 1-8, with corn 1-4 to 1 3-8 cents down, oats 1-8 to 3-8 cents up and provisions unchanged to 10 cents higher.

TRUE MAKER OF EMPIRE.

After fourteen years as missionary in malarial British Guiana, known as "the white man's grave," Rev. John Fawcett Denny was ordered to a more temperate climate and came to Prince Edward Island, where he has died in the midst of a promising pastorate. In his first winter in Canada, 1922, he rode a country circuit without a break but in the next winter he was smitten again with ague and malaria. Then he accepted a call to Summerside, a large town church, where once more he broke down and was sent to the country to recuperate. Last fall came a period of great activity as lecturer and special preacher thoughout the province. His wife's mental health had broken on the way to Canada and he was left with six young children to care for. One morning decently he was found dead in bed.

Such in brief outline is the story of an Englishman who, qualified as an engineer and jouralist, spent himself in forty-two dauntless years Born in Essex, England, in 1882, he was educated at Dumfries Academy, Scotlad, at Dowlar's Iron wordks, Glamorgan, and Didsbury College, Manchester, going out as Wesleyan Missionary to the negroes and East Indians of British Guiana serving as assistant editor of a daily paper in Georgetown, and finally dying as a pastor in Canadian Methodism.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND

Floating in River in Nova Scotia—Had Been Melancholy.

ELMSDALE, N.S., Aug. 20.—(By Canadian Press).—The lifeless body of Miss Florence Thompson, aged 22, was found floating in the Shubenacadie River, near here. The young woman, who is a native of this place, and has of late been depressed left her home Monday night and was not again seen alive. There has been no evidence of foul play and no inquest will be held.

Shorthand and typewriting are the most popular courses among the prisoners at Maidstone Prison, in England.

PREMIER EXCLUDED.

More Golf Club Maintains MacDonald Expulsion.

ELGIN, Scotland, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Ramsay MacDonald is stiff to be denied the use of the Moray Golf Club here from which he was expelled in 1916 on account of his attitude toward the war with Germany.

A motion to rescind the expulsion was actually carried at a meeting of the committee of 55 votes to 47 but as the rules of the club require a two-thirds majority the original decision stands.

DEATH PENALTY INSISTED UPON

Leopold and Loeb Were Unmoved as State Attorney Demanded They Be Hanged.

RIDICULES DEFENCE.

CHICAGO, Ills., August 20 (Canadian Press). — Two of the three high crimes for which Illinois provides the death penalty — murder, rape, and kidnapping were committed by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, in a manner justifying nothing less than death on the gallows, Thomas Marshall, Assistant States Attorney, told Judge Caverley to-day.

He urged the extreme penalty in an argument based upon the phraseology of the Illinois laws, and the formal charges connected with the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks to which the defendants have pleaded guilty.

The accused gave no visible signs that the repeated demands for the death penalty had been heard by them, and seemed more interested in the notes made by the counsel for the defence.

Mr. Marshall ridiculed the defence attempt to show mitigation of punishment by the testimony of mental experts.

"No philosophy is an excuse for crime," he said, as he drew parallels between Leopold's and Loeb's belief in their own powers and the philosophies of anarchists, Communists, and Mormons, who were convicted of violating the law despite reliance upon their beliefs as justification for their acts.

NO FOUNDATION FOR THE RISE IN SUGAR

Canadian Refineries Well Stocked and No Cause For Alarm in Market Fluctuations.

Notice that sugar has taken a sudden rise of 15 cents per hundred in the larger centres should give no cause for alarm according to the opinion one of Peterboro's prominent merchants, who keeps constantly in touch with the markets.

The Canadian refineries have plenty of sugar on hand at the present time and for that reason the problem of supply should not affect the retail prices, although a sudden rise in the price of raw sugar might.

This spring the refineries suffered enormous losses due to the sudden fall in the market at a time when they had large quantities of raw sugar in stock, which was purchased at the advanced price.

Whether or not the object of the refineries is to regain this loss by advancing the price when the opportunity permits, hinges the reason for the fluctuations in the market Sometimes high levels are purposely made and as a rule, fluctuations in the sugar market can be expected, without bearing significance. At the present time there is no fundamental cause for alarm and although sugar may increase it will be more or less gradual.

The current wholesale price is $8.64 per cwt. at the present time.

American Sugar

Any American sugar reaching this country is of good quality, as the Government will only permit American shipments of a high order to enter at the border.

The slight lowering in the tariff by the Hon. W. S. Fielding in his budget of 1922 did much to keep the price of sugar down and to keep the markets more staple.

Canadian Refineries have had to keep their prices equal to or below the cost at which American sugar could be obtained in this country. The lowering of the tariff has not affected the quantities of American sugar imported. Before 1922 considerable sugar from the other side reached Canada and the quantities imported since have remained about the same.

GETS THREE YEARS.

Lindsay Man Sent Down For Theft of a Car.

LINDSAY, August 20. — Three years in the Kingston Penitentiary for the theft of an automobile was the sentence handed out on Tuesday to Fred Elliott, a Lindsay young man, by Police Magistrate Bradford.

Elliott, who has been working in Bobcaygeon, stole a sedan, the property of Miss Marjorie Carry, of New York, a tourist, on Sunday, and started out on a joy ride.

Provincial Officer Storey had been notified of the theft, and placed Elliott under arrest on Monday.

Damage amounting to about $40.00 had been done the car.

Elliott has a Court record dating from his thirteenth year.

American Husbands Treat Their Wives as Dolls While Englishmen Treat Theirs As Companions

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Englishmen make better husbands than Americans, because they treat their wives as companions, and not as American husbands treat theirs, as dolls, spoiling them with presents, furs and jewels, says Mary Borden, novelist, who has returned to the United States for a visit, after an absence of eleven years. She is the wife of Gen. E. L. Spears, who has been a member of Parliament for three years.

"English husbands don't nag," continued Mrs. Spears. "A wife to an Englishman is a pal and their life is more normal than over here. Englishmen do everything men do and so they do not have so much time for bridge and clothes. Consequently they are not as good dressers as American women."

CABLE CROSSED OCEAN QUICKLY

Fifteen Minutes After Despatch Reply Came Back From England.

NEW SERVICE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 19. — "Distance as far as telegraph communication is concerned," said Mr. J. MacMillan, general manager of C. P.R. Telegraph yesterday, has for some time been measured only by the number of relay stations between two given telegraph offices. Montreal is now as close to London, England, as is Manchester."

Following the exhaustive tests of last Wednesday and Thursday, when the final adjustments were made, the new direct line was regularly placed in service and operation from 9 a.m. yesterday and is now open to public business. The first message over the wire was addressed by R. L. Barclay, chairman of the council of the London Chamber of Commerce to H. B. Mackenzie, President of the Montreal Board of Trade. The message was filed in the London office at 3 p.m. Greenwich or 10.00 a.m. eastern standard time, receipted for in Montreal in about one minute and replied to within fifteen. The message was as follows:

"The President of the Montreal Board of Trade, as chairman of the Council of the London Chamber of Commerce I welcome the opportunity afforded by the inauguration this day by the Commercial Cable Company of direct communication between London and Montreal to express to the Montreal Board of Trade hearty good wishes for its future prosperity. I trust this new means of communication may assist in the development of the trade relations between your two cities.

"R. L. Barclay."

Mr. H. B. Mackenzie replied:

"On behalf of the Montreal Board of Trade I thank the London Chamber of Commerce for its good wishes, which are most heartily reciprocated. The direct cable service between your city and ours inaugurated this day is full of promise for the development of a greater trade between the port and city of London and the port and city of Montreal, and will be an instrument in the promotion of that Inter-Imperial trade so earnestly desired by all the delegates to the Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire recently held in your city and towards the realization of which your chamber had so largely contributed. H. B. Mackenzie, president, the Montreal Board of Trade."

The second message which will share historical honors with the first, was one of greeting,, addressed to the Montreal office of the Bank of Montreal by the London office of the same organization. This message was also filed in London at 3 p.m. Greenwich or 10.00 a.m. eastern standard time. Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, replying for the head office of the bank, cabled:

"Your message received here ten fifteen a.m. Greetings heartily reciprocated. Improvement in service gratifying and should lead to still closer relations."

Mr. MacMillan stated that the new direct wire is 3,629 miles long. Of this 918 miles is carried overland while 2,711 miles consists of sea cable. Signals are despatched and received almost instantaneously he said, the receiving machine recording on a tape at the moment despatched.

DO NOT PLACE PARCELS ON STREET LETTER BOXES

When enquiry is made for a lost parcel, one of the first questions asked the sender is where it was posted and very often the answer is that the parcel was placed on top of a street letter box.

Special boxes have been provided by the Post Office to cover points throughout the larger cities and, therefore, a parcel should never be placed on a street letter box, where it is at the mercy of the weather, any dishonest person, or mischievous child. If the postman delivered your parcel in a careless way you would not like it, and yet it is just as illogical for you to place a parcel on top of a letter box as it would be for the postman to hang your parcel on a post near your home.

The next time you mail a parcel, see that it is placed in a parcel receptacle or posted at the main post office or at a sub office.

Give your mail the care you expect to to receive.

FATAL AUTO SMASH ON HAMILTON ROAD

One Killed and Three Injured When Cars Crash—Inquest To-day.

HAMILTON, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—One man was killed and several injured in a smash-up on Dundas street highway, a short distance from Port Nelson, at two o'clock this morning, when cars from Niagara Falls and Toronto collided.

George Bowerman, of Toronto, was almost instantly killed. Charles Thoronto, Edward Jacobs, George McGillivray and Don Goodman were also in the Toronto car. Thoronto suffered a severe gash in his head and his side was crushed. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital.

James Cole, driver of the Niagara Falls car, was badly injured. His ribs are broken and he is hurt internally. Harry Heath, of Niagara Falls, is in St. Joseph's Hospital, but not seriously hurt.

Dr. Peart, of Burlington, will open an inquest to-day. Chief of Police Smith, of Burlington, was on the scene shortly after the smash.

MASON BACK HOME.

Placed Himself at Disposal of Authorities This Morning.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.— L. C. Mason, step son-in-law of Charles Matthews, former deputy Provincial Treasurer, placed himself at disposal of Provincial authorities shortly before noon to-day to answer any questions he may be asked in connection with Provincial bond scandals in which he, his step-father-in-law and others may be implicated He surrendered himself to deputy Commissioner Cuddy of Provincial Police following his promise yesterday afternoon to tell what he knew. It is known that he made his statement to Deputy Cuddy but its purport was not given out. Attorney General Nickle is out of the city to-day. Mason arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Cleveland where he has been employed and living since he left Toronto on March 24th last. He was immune from deportation on charge of illegal entry into United States having fulfilled requirements of laws in crossing border. His wife and two children remained in Toronto for two months after he left and then went to Detroit wherethey met him and proceeded to Cleveland. Provincial authorities knew where Mason worked and lived in Cleveland.

It was stated here this morning that Provincial Officer A. Boyd left yesterday afternoon for Cleveland in order to bring Mason back but that latter had passed him on his way to Toronto.

There was no further developments in connection with effort being made to obtain release of Charles Matthews on bail.

When he placed himself at the disposal of the authorities in the offices of the Provincial Police to-day, Mason was placed under arrest by Deputy Commissioner of Provincial Police Alfred Cuddy, and charged with an offence under the Secret Commissions Act.

Mason was still in custody this afternoon, and it is not known whether bail will be allowed.

Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, is in Kingston to-day, and the law officers here will not take it upon themselves to decide the question of bail, it is said.

FINAL GAMES OF CENTRAL ONTARIO LAWN TENNIS ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, August 23 the final scheduled games of the Central Ontario Association will be played.

Cobourg plays Peterboro in Peterboro and Oshawa plays in Port Hope

The standing of the league at present is:

	Won.	Lost.	To play
Peterboro	19	11	6
Cobourg	19	11	6
Oshawa	17	13	6
Port Hope	5	25	6

Peterboro and Cobourg are tied, but Oshawa may win 5 or even 6 events from Port Hope. There is a chance of a three-cornered tie.

There will be some hard fought battles on Saturday and tennis fans should not miss this match.

Peterboro must win three events to stay in the running and four events to have a chance of winning out on Saturday.

Port Hope club will phone in the results of their match and if received in time they will be announced at the Monaghan Road Courts.

The cups which were so kindly donated by Mr. H. A. Morrow for competition in the Central Ontario Lawn Tennis Association will probably be on exhibition at the courts on Saturday.

The winning club will receive the large cup which is to be held for a year and also a miniature which is an exact duplicate of the large cup, as a permanent trophy.

The Peterboro club will do their best to keep the cups in the city.

AGO.

How the ancient Egytians managed to move the huge stones they used in their pyramids and other monuments that have endured through the ages, has long puzzled scientists as much as tourists.

Old records discovered, reveal that man-power was the way, rather than gigantic wooden machinery since crumbled to dust. Six thousand slaves, tugging at strong ropes moved a stone 137 feet long, tapered to a base 14 feet across, weighing 1,168 tons.

Machinery has released us from that kind of slavery—and given us another kind. We've just changed taskmasters.

OWNERS ARE NOT GUESTS.

Liquor Charge Brings Out Point in Hotel Cases.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Hotel proprietors and employees are not at any time to be considered as guests at the hotel, according to a ruling of Magistrate Sanders in police court, Tuesday, in handing down his decision in the case of T. R. Stone, of the King Edward Hotel, who was charged with having liquor in a part of the hotel other than a guest's room. It was the first case of its kind ever before the local magistrate and Stone was fined $50 and costs.

Insane Passenger on Railway Train Mortally Wounds Six Persons.

GOMEZ PALACICCIO, Mexico, August 20 (Canadian Press). — On his way to his old home at Puerandiro, Mexico, Eusebio Parra, of Oakland, California, suddenly went insane from smoking a cigarette of marihuana wood, and drawing two pistols from his pockets he began firing into a car of passengers on the El Paso-Mexico city express train near here.

He mortally wounded six persons and injured several others.

CANADA HAS A NAVY.

Rainbow and Niobe, Premier King Says, Forms Nucleus.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 20 — (Canadian Press).—Premier King, interviewed here last night, practically confirmed the statement attributed to the minister of defense MacDonold, in an interview by the Montreal Star as to the government's policy on the naval question. Mr. MacDonald, he said should be able to speak authitatively for the government. Already Canada had the nucleus of a navy in the Rainbow and Niobe.

Scientists Still Speculating on the Unknown Planet.

BERLIN, Aug. 20. — (United Press).—There may be oceans on Mars, German scientists say. Professor Graff, director of the Bergedorf Observatory, declares he has discovered dark spots on the planet which are indicative of the presence of large water bodies. The announcement was made after Professor Graff had been viewing Mars as it moved toward the earth for its closest visit in 2,000 years.

KILLED BY TRAIN

HAMILTON, Aug. 20.— (Canadian Press).— David Harrison, 65 years of age, was instantly killed by C.N.R. train at level crossing here at 9.40 o'clock this morning. Gates were down but Harrison, misjudging speed of train, tried to cross and was knocked fifty feet. He was a former resident of Hamilton and leaves wife and seven children.

CANADA'S RELATIONS WILL BE DISCUSSED

OTTAWA, Aug. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Canada's relations with imperial government are certain to come before Dominion cabinet for discussion when it meets to-morrow and Friday after an adjournment of nearly two weeks. Hon. P. C. Larkin Canadian High Commissioner in London is expected in Ottawa to-morrow. In fact is not unlikely they will join Premier Mackenzie King who is returning from western Ontario at Toronto and travel with him to the capital. The prime minister is expected here to-morrow morning.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE MODERATION LEAGUE.

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—It is rumored that a branch of the Moderation League is to open here for the registration of anti-prohibitionist voters. That is if it is well enough, but the name is a bad one and will lose a vast number of votes. "Moderation" is a word that refers exclusively to whiskey, etc., and has no reference whatever to principle. It means "quantity." As such I am sure thousands like myself will not cheer for it, and will take no interest in it. It is one thing to cheer for a great principle such as the freedom of a decent citizen in his own house which is fundamental and world-shaking, but quite another to drop that name for a glass of liquor. Take my advice and cut that name out.

J. H. BURNHAM.

MODERN LIFE.

Husband and Wife.

As one looks abroad on the literature of the present day, and takes note of the divorce evil, the unlawful, selfish loves of men and women, one cannot help but feel that the very foundation of righteous life is giving way, and that the very vitals of the nations are being eaten away.

There is a CURE for sin and selfishness, but men and women decline to be treated by the Great Physician, preferring the WAGES OF SIN, which we are told is Death; and we cannot pick up a daily paper without having proof that that statement IS TRUE, even as REGARDS THIS LIFE, murder and suicide being a common ending to the kind of life mentioned.

This letter is intended chiefly for men, as they claim to be, and should be, the head of the house, and they will be HELD CHIEFLY RESPONSIBLE for the condition of their homes. The Apostle Paul in one of his letters to the churches, says: "Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it," also he said: "He that loveth his wife loveth himself." He also adds: "And ye women see that you reverence your husbands."

It is a sad fact that there are not many noble men to-day who are worthy of the reverence of their wives; selfishly they go their way, leading a double life; some other woman has entered their life; in some instances a mere girl, who was in her cradle or not born in the days when that same man wooed his wife, but whoever she be she provides a new thrill for his selfish nature. Meanwhile his lawful wife goes her narrow round of cooking meals, washing his clothes, bearing him children, perhasp, WITHOUT THAT LOVE which is so VITAL to her life and NECESSARY for her health. She needs your love, man, now far more than in the days when you said sweet things and made fair promises, but at the end of a few years you have entirely forgotten or persuaded your self you never loved her.

Oh, men, I would appeal on behalf of many suffering women, be noble; let your better self prevail by accepting into your life the spirit of Him who died to save you FROM SIN; then will your double life be ended, and you will be rewarded by peace of mind, the blessing of God, a happy, loving wife, and a Home worthy of the name. —M. B.

KING AT WOODSTOCK.

Political Meeting and Picnic Was Largely Attended.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Premier W. L. Mackenzie King arrived here at noon to-day, accompanied by Hon. George Graham and Hon. James Murdock. He was met on his arrival by Dr. Rankin, M.P. for North Perth; J. Forester, M.P. South Perth; James Malcolm, M.P. North Bruce, and Dr. Sinclair, M.P. for North Oxford. The party at once motored to South Side Park, where a great crowd attended the political meeting and picnic under auspices of district Liberals. Large delegations were present from Middlesex, Perth, Norfolk, Brant, South Waterloo, Ingersoll, Tillsonburg and London. Delegations from the latter three places assembled at Ingersoll and headed by the Ingersoll band, marched to Woodstock.

HIGH POWER WILL SOLVE PAY PUZZLE

Who Is To Pay For Broadcasting Soon Will Answer For Itself.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The question, "Who is to pay for broadcasting?" promises soon to answer itself.

The answer may come with the erection of a dozen or so super-power stations, blanketing the country, and gradually forcing the 550-odd stations out of business.

This sudden change in radio is suggested from two sources:

1. The Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies who at their Atlantic City convention recently, proposed the erection of ten giant stations to replace those now broadcasting and to be paid for by two per cent. of the radio receipts.

2. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which announces the completion of a 5,000-watt apparatus for broadcasting.

Law and Protest.

Against this definite trend toward limited super-power broadcasting stand two obstructions.

One is the present law which limits Class B broadcasters to between 500 and 1,000 watts. Only on special permit have broadcasters been permitted to transmit on more than one kilowatt, and then only for experimental purposes. The actual perfection of larger apparatus by the biggest company in the field, however, is an almost certain sign of a change in the limitations.

The other big obstruction is super-power transmission, for the present, is an increased opposition to the scheme from various interested sources, headed by the American Radio Association.

Hard to Escape.

"While it is stated that such a broadcasting system would not interfere with local stations which take care of local needs," says Alfred M. Caddell, secretary of the association, "experience has shown that unless exceptionally selective receivers are used, it is impossible to tune out stations using a carrier wave of high power.

"The radio business has been built largely on the thrill of getting distance, and if this thrill (and therefore other stations) is destroyed by blanketing the country steadily with high power, it might lead to serious consequences in the radio world."

According to Pierre Boucheron of the Radio Corporation of America, however, we have too many broadcasting stations. Cutting them down to ten high power broadcasters would be not only more efficacious but more economical, he adds.

Only the more wealthy and profitable firms would be able to take up broadcasting of the super-power variety. For the cost of an installation is figured between $40,000 and $50,000, and its operation would be much higher than the Class B 500-watt stations of today.

WATCH YOUR STEP.

Fashions Worn by Women Are Exceedingly Neat.

The fashions to-day are exceedingly neat, and especially those worn by the women. How striking the gowns that they wear on the street and the suits that they don when in swimmin'.

The sandal-like shoes are attractive to me and the silk that goes in 'em looks nice. They say that the girls wear 'em rolled at the knee, but I never have stopped to look twice.

The newspaper ads show the flimsy affairs, but they're only for women, I guess. I know what the everyday gentleman wears, but I'm stumped as to how women dress.

There's one thing that's certain; I've made up my mind that the thinnest of gowns, as a rule, are the prettiest ones that in summer you'll find 'cause they give you that essence of cool.

So here's to the women folks, heavy or lean, whose dresses in thin goods are done. But, if they're as thin as some gowns I have seen, take a tip and keep out of the sun.

NEW YORK STARTS OWN BROADCASTING

Finds Way To Overcome Interference of Tall Steel Buildings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—New York is ready to broadcast concerts, lectures and other entertainment from its own station.

According to a letter from Grover A. Whalen, commissioner of plants and structures, to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, applying for a license and call letters, the new municipal station will be the largest of its kind in the world.

Some time ago, New York experimented with a radio broadcasting station atop the Municipal Tower, 560 feet above ground, but found so many interfering difficulties that the station had to be abandoned. Further experimenting by New York's engineers finally have resulted in a way out.

The engineers have found that the tall structure itself has a natural wave length of about 400 meters. If New York, they decided, could get a higher wave length assigned to it, broadcasting could be effected despite the interference of surrounding tall steel buildings.

Whalen has, therefore, asked for a wave length of 525 meters, which would also be well out of range of other Class B stations. The call letters may be WCNY, the first letter being the designating initial for United States stations, and the last three being the initials of the City of New York.

"This station will have a distinct governmental function to perform," says Whalen, "in the protection of the lives and property of its citizens through its fire and police departments, and the promotion of the health, education and welfare of the community at large.

"Elaborate plans are nearing completion to enable the citizens of this city to hear addresses by the leading authorities broadcast by radio on education, religion, health, finance, government and so on, because, after all, this municipality can secure the services of these men with greater ease than a private, commercially operated station."

MAY SPAN PACIFIC.

Amateurs Are Planning For the Greatest Enterprise in Short Wave Wireless.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 20. — Amateurs of America and Australia are planning for the greatest enterprise in short-wave wirleess they have ever attempted.

It is a two-way transmission and reception test between this country and Australia, across the Pacific.

Successful in their two-way transmission work between American and Europe, the "hams" of the United States and Canada have arranged with those of Australia to try this longer step. It means spanning a distance ranging from 5,000 to 8,000 miles or more.

The test is being arranged by the American Radio Relay League, with headquarters here, at the request of C. D. Maclurcan, president of the Australian Radio Relay League. It will take place from August 10 to 20, and then from Sept. 7 to 16, and will be conducted on short waves of about 100 meters.

While transmission on 100 meters is somewhat restricted for U. S. amateurs, it is hoped there will be enough of the special licensed amateurs on the air to make the tests successful. Many American amateurs are already being heard in Australia on short waves.

VERY SMART.

Velvets, plain and printed, will be exceedingly smart for fall. Satin charmeuse and satinfaced crepes are also much exploited.

DEATH EYES OF U. S.

These Are a New Terror To Political Enemies.

DAYTON, August 20. — The "death eyes" of the United States army are a new terror to potential enemies.

Eyes that can see anything; eyes that record instantly and permanently their objects; eyes that bring death within their glance!

Secret researches by army engineers are making the eyes the 22 photographic sections of the air service—the most efficient and one of the most effecitve pieces of war machinery.

These sections are perhaps the most mobile units in the army.

Should a national emergency arise these 22 sections could be stripped for action and on the move within 12 hours.

And here is how the eyes can bring death and destruction as proved by recent tests:

A big gun was aimed at a concealed target six miles away. Army photographers in an airplane took pictures of the target as the shots hit. The films were droped to the ground.

The air service below developed them and in three minutes the big gun commander saw pictures and corected his range. The fourth shot demolished the target.

In another test a photographic section plane flew at a given altitude directly above the target. The plane was above the range of the possible enemy guns. Directly over the target it gave a signal. By triangulation the ground forces were able to compute the location exactly.

And now experiments are being made to devise a paper that will make pictures instanteously.

From an airplane a picture will be taken the instant the first shot hits and a second later a photograph of the target dropped to the commander, enabling him another second later to send a true shot.

Each of the 22 sections consists of a commander, 21 men, two photographic airplanes and two trucks carrying all equipment, including a developing room.

THEIR GARDENS BEST.

Winners in Boys' and Girls' Competition Held in the County.

The results of the boys and girls' home garden competition, conducted under the direction of F. C. McRae, agricultural representative at Norwood, have been announced:

These contests comprised 25 gardens in the boys competition and 25 gardens in the girls competition. The age of the competitors being from 12 to 18 years. AUTUMN CHILL CHEMONG PARK

Not Much Activity at the Park—Few New Visitors Arrive.

(By Staff Reporter.)

CHEMONG PARK, August 19.—The Park is rather quiet just now. The autumn chill in the air keeps the summer residents indoors and also keeps them out of the lake, where the blue waters ripple peacefully under a mild sun. Already a hint of closing up is in the atmosphere, although people are still renting a cottage here and there for a week or a fortnight.

Visitors at the Pavilion boarding-house during the week were a group of youths, with Messrs. H. W. Kinnear and J. L. Burns in charge. The group included J. Cosgrave W. B. Macdonald, L. Morrison, P. Davidge, F. S. Robertson, A. Duncanson, D. Hunter, and L. Nicholson, all of Toronto, and G. M. Stewart of Philadelphia.

Professor Bull and the Halpine family were expected to arrive from New York yesterday to open up their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. McDermott and children, of Oakville, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Sullivan.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Ingram and children have returned from the Park.

The cottage formerly owned by Dr. T. W. H. Young, then sold to Mr. G. H. Duncan, has been purchased recently by Mr. James Long.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Walton are in Mr. D. Sullivan's small cottage on the main road.

Rev. W. J. and Mrs. Munford, of Welland, have taken Mr. Harry Long's cottage for a time.

Mrs. Pearson and Miss Pearson, of Toronto, are occupying the Roper cottage.

A group of young girls from the Canadian General Electric Company went out to the Park last night in the Comet bus for a jolly corn roast.

Mr. J. G. Belleghem of Chicago, has returned, home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belleghem at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Spratt and baby were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hughes during the past week.

Miss Daisy Davidson has returned from a week's stay at Stoney Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Brown and baby have been staying at Mr. Andrew Brown's cottage.

Mr. Paul Seager of Toronto spent the week-end at Chemong.

Dr. M. McClelland has been the guest of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. McPherson at their cottage.

Guests at Mr. and Mrs. Roy's cottage recently were Mrs. (Dr.) Frank, of Picton, Miss Ola Cavanagh, and Mr. G. B. Hutchings.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and family of Buffalo are in Mrs. A. Elliott's cottage at the Park.

BEAD ORNAMENTS.

Red beads and white bandings make distinctive ornamentation for a black organdie frock.

WASHING BRUSHES.

Brushes of any kind should never be soaked for a long time, or put into very hot water because the heat and moisture dissolve the glue used to fasten the bristles. Immerse them only for a short time in ammonia or borax water.

SCOURING BALL.

A good scouring ball to use for spots may be made of a strong suds of white castile soap mixed with enough fuller's earth to make a fairly stiff paste. Work it into smooth balls.

CRYSTAL NECKLACE.

A necklace of large crystals, cub cut, has a small amber bead, rectangiar in shape, between.

BLACK ORGANDIE.

A most unusual frock from Paris is of black organdie over silvereloth with embroidery in white and silver and touches of flame-colored ribbon.

DO PETERBORO GIRLS SMOKE?

Can Name a Number of Society Girls Who Use Cigarettes, Says Tobacconist.

HABIT INCREASING

Despite the warnings of medical experts that cigarettes dull milady's cheeks, takes away the appetite and ruins digestion according to one George street tobacconist the insidious habit has assumed alarming proportions among the fair sex.

"Lots of women buy cigarettes, particularly young married women" he told the Examiner. He was opinion that the sale of cigarettes to feminine purchasers had increased 500 per cent. during the last five years.

Another George street tobacconist when approached stated that while he had a large trade with women, one cannot tell whether they are buying them for their brothers or husbands. But later he admitted that he did sell a considerable quantity of cigarettes to youug women for their own personal use.

Displaying several brands of perfumed cigarettes made especially for feminine smokers he said 'I sometimes have young men come into the store with their sweethearts and say to the young ladies, 'What kind of cigarette do you like.' Why, I can name you a number of women that smoke. It is the higher class, those who travel in the better society."

Many young women today smoke a great deal more than is good either for their health or for their complexions. It is not a question of serious heart affections the occurrence of which from tobacco smoking was rightly described as over-estimated at the recent British Medical Association meeting.

The troubles which accompanies the constant cigarette is less serious, writes the medical correspondent of the London Daily Express, but as it is more insidious it is more likely to prevail.

The young woman finds her energies gradually waning, her digestion beginning to cause trouble, and her skin, hitherto clear and bright, becoming muddy or spotted.

She is apt to attribute her altered state to anything but the cigarette, This has become so much a part of her daily existence that she does not realize the important position it has assumed in her bodily economy.

She smokes before she dresses, with her morning cup of tea. She smokes in the bathroom. She lights a cigarette before she has finished the slight meal that suffices for her breakfast. The courses of her lunch are interspersed with cigarettes. These accompany her tea and interrupt her dinner. Between meals she is seldom without a long holder in her mouth, and in the holder is the inevitable cigarette.

No digestion will stand all this interference. What happens is that without experiencing any actual pain she gradually loses her natural appetite. Her desire to be as thin as present fashions decree causes her craving for food. Her sustenance grows less and less, her smoking more and more

Only when her nerves begin to give way and she finds herself a prey to restlessness and insomnia does she know that something is wrong.

Then, when she seeks advice, her stained fingers, her dulled expression, her wilted figure tell the doctor at a glance where the trouble lies. One more case of oversmoking, he realizes, and is glad to think that at any rate the disorder is a very curable one.

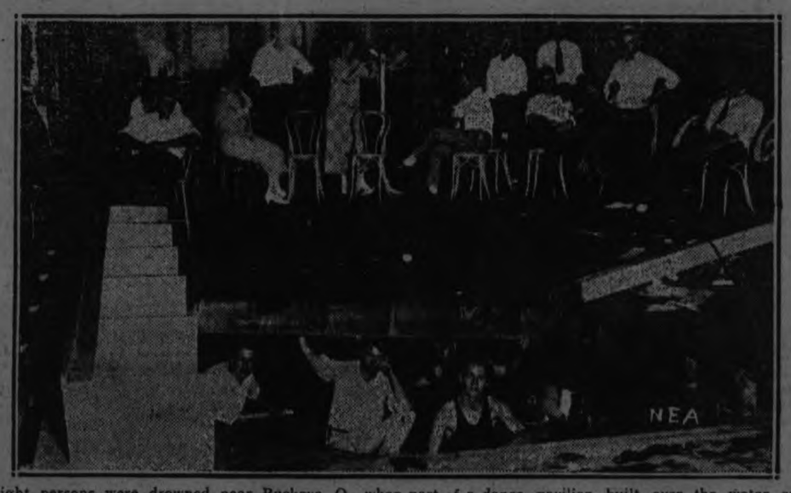
A little strength of mind and moderation will soon effect a complete change.

Women in their clubs nowadays do not limit their smoking to cigarettes. Small cigars and little pipes are often to be seen in use there. Excess, however, is almost entirely confined to cigarette consumption.

A cigarette after meals, a cigarette or two when a woman is worried or fatigued, these are not only not reprehensible, but they are valuable aids to health in town life as it is lived today.

Too many cigarettes, though, are worse than none.

EIGHT DROWN WHEN DANCE FLOOR COLLAPSED



Eight persons were drowned near Buckeye, O., when part of a dance pavilion built over the water collapsed. The accident was caused by a beam under the floor breaking when the floor was crowded. Thirty persons fell through the floor into the water. In the picture men in a boat may be seen hunting for bodies

CAR NARROWLY MISSED TRAIN

Swerved Into Ditch Avoiding C.N.R. Freight on the Burnbrae Road.

ESCAPED BY INCHES.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 20. — W. Maybee and E. Hines, young men from Wellman's Corners, will probably never forget their experience of yesterday morning when not more than a second of time separated them from a violent death.

The young men came to town to have some farm machinery repaired, Maybee driving the car in which they rode. On their way home by the Burnbrae Road, and while driving at a high rate of speed the front wheels of their car were within an inch of the crossing when a freight train from Belleville came around the curve. It was almost upon the car, when Hines jumped, but Maybee swerved the auto to one side, and it rolled clear of the train over a steep embankment, coming to a stop right side up. Neither of the men or the car received any injury. The train was brought to a standstill as the crew evidently believed that there had been a tragedy.

The escape was miraculous. The presence of mind of Maybee saved his life and that of his companion. The freight train was preparing to take the Rathbun siding, and was slowing down, otherwise a collision would have been inevitable.

Maybee and Hines got a farmer to pull their auto out of the ditch with a team of horses, and proceeded on their way homeward.

COOLIDGES' RADIO.

Coolidge Family Is All Hooked Up and Tuned In.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The Coolidge family is all hooked up and tuned in.

President Cal, Mrs. President, John and Cal Jr. are spending their evenings listening over one of the most individual—and at the same time most efficient—radio receiving sets ever constructed.

It was designed by Lieut. Com. E. D. Langworthy of the Naval Bureau of Engineering radio section.

The set is mounted on a serving table. The table is mounted on wheels.

It's Movable.

If the members of the Coolidge menage crave to hear the weather reports, or find out what the stock market is doing, or listen to a kiddies' bedtime story, they simply wheel the table into the room, take the folding aerial out of its mahogany case, turn on the juice, and learn that it's going to be fair and warmer in Chicago, that Mexican Pete jumped two points sideways, or that the fuzzy little rabbit chased the nasty-mean old wolf all over the big, green cow pasture.

The loud-speaker horn is concealed by a woven screen; the dials and controls are behind built-in doors; the batteries are on a hidden shelf; the whole affair is an attractive piece of furniture.

The cabinet work was done in the Washington navy yard. The set was installed by naval engineering experts under Langworthy's direction.

Nine Small Tubes.

"The set is of the super-heterodyne type," says Langworthy. "The main receiver has six tubes and the push-pull amplifier has three—nine tubes in all, but all of them very small. The circuit is not grounded, the special folding aerial making this unnecessary."

FARNUM GRANTED DIVORCE

Movie Star and Wife have been Separated for 12 Years.

RENO, Nevada, August 19. — Charging desertion, Dustin Farnum, a screen star, was granted a divorce decree in the district court here yesterday from Mary Elizabeth Farnum to whom he was married in November, 1904, at Chicago.

Mrs. Farnum did not contest the decree except to answer the complaint and make a general denial of the charges. The Farnums have been separated for 12 years, the actor tetified.

WHAT BABY GIRL DID.

The Word of 7 Year Old Baby Sent Slayer To Pen.

MERIDIAN, Tex., Aug. 20.—On the word of a little 7-year-old girl Mrs. Nora Bosche is serving a 20-year term in prison for murder.

The child is Winifred Kellersberger.

She and her mother, Mrs. Edna S. Kellersberger, were staying at the home of Philip Bosche, 65, millionaire ranch owner. Bosche was the father of Mrs. Kellersberger. Nora, 35 years his junior, was his second wife.

Mrs. Kellersbegrer was shot to death.

Mrs. Bosche was arrested. She declared she had killed Mrs. Kellersberger in self-defense, insisting her step-daughter had approached her with a butcher knife.

Her defense seemed impregnable, until Winifred was put on the stand.

"Mother was in the kitchen getting breakfast," she testified, "when this woman came in and said, 'I'm going to kill you.'

"Mother tried to explain. But the woman fired, hitting her on the hand.

"The woman—there she sits—walked into the hall and mother followed, still asking to let her explain. I heard another shot and I found my mother on the floor—dead.

"My mother had no butcher knife."

The jury heard and convicted.

The prosecution contended that Mrs. Bosche blamed Mrs. Kellersberger for trouble between the wealthy farmer and Mrs. Bosche.

NEWS OF MARMORA

Crop of Mushrooms in the Potato Patch—Personal Mention.

MARMORA, August 20. — Some very nice mushrooms sprang up in the potato patch and another section of the garden of Mr. Abe Smith. This is the first time for wholesome fungi to shoot up in this particular garden throughout its fairly lengthy history.

The marriage is announced of Mr. Sidney Brampton Cheeseman, of Deloro, to Miss Myrtle Johnson, of Toronto, formerly of Marmora.

More Gasoline.

The consumption of gasoline has so increased locally as to justify the installation of a larger tank by two of Marmora's tradesmen.

The effects of Mr. Ed. Flynn come under the auctioneer's hammer at his residence next Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Robert Parker, of Deloro, is spending his holidays at Watertown, New York.

Mr. Walter Wiggins, of Bancroft, was in town on Monday on business.

Mrs. Edith Howes and Miss Margaret McCoy paid a visit to Campbellford friends on Monday.

Mr. R. A. Elliott and family are back at Deloro from their holidays. Mr. G. Elliott of Woodstock accompanied them.

GOOD FISHING.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Detlor and daughters, Virginia and Bernadine, from Marietta, Ohio, are spending the summer months in and around Peterborough. They report the fishing good, having landed as many as sixty in a single day. They will take in the Toronto Exposition before returning home.

Dr. Lillian Grady, of Ogdensburg, N.Y., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Grady, Water street.

Miss Lillian Morden, R.N., of Hamilton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Roy.

Dr. and Mrs. Franks, of Picton, are visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. S. E. Cavanah, 198 London street.

CONDENSED MILK.

Evaporated or unsweetened condensed milk should be removed from the can on opening and kept on the ice.

CAVAN INSTITUTE MEETING FRIDAY

Will Be Held at the Home of Mrs. R. S. Staples.

CAVAN, Aug. 18. — The Cavan Women's Institute will hold their August meeting at the home of Mrs. R. S. Staples on Friday afternoon.

As the July meeting was withdrawn, the president requests a full attendance.

Mr. Clifford Carr, Detroit, is at his home in Cavan.

Mr. Garside and family, Millbrook, attended Church in Cavan on Sunday evening.

News has been received in Cavan, recently of the death of a former resident of Millbrook, Charles S. Guy, who died January 21st in Brandon, Manitoba.

Miss Muriel Howson returned on Saturday from a two week's visit, with her cousin, Mrs. Nelson, Peterboro, bringing home with her Miss Irene Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Elliott of Cavan, had as house guests for the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thomas of Grand Rapids, Michigan, Mrs. Thomas' brother Mr. Albert Guy, of Chicago and his son Albert Guy, Jr., of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McGill and children, Janetville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pudsey on Sunday; also Mr. and Mrs. I. Patton and two children of Zion Line.

Mr. A. Ferguson, Peterboro, spent a couple of days of last week visiting Mr. Wm. Pudsy.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples spent the week end at Oakwood. Norma and Ruth returned with them from a visit at Washbourne Island and Oakwood.

Mr. Archie Matchett and Miss Muriel Matchett spent the week end visiting friends at Janetville. Their cousin, Miss Edna Wilson, returned with them and will remain for a visit

AFTER JERSEY RECORDS

Massachusetts boasts of holding three all-America records. Groff's Constance has the national mature record with a production of 1130 pounds of butter-fat. Owl interest Superb holds the yearling class ten-months' old record. Now the high-production record in a ten-months' test for junior two-year-olds is held by Golden Princess Judith, owned by Mrs. Mary J. Harris of Deerfield, with 10,073 pounds of milk, 638.77 pounds butter fat.

Bon Ami —makes windows crystal-clear!

Cleaning windows loses its drudgery when you use Bon Ami!

Just apply a thin lather of Bon Ami with a damp cloth. Wait until the white film dries. Then whisk it off with a dry cloth. Not a streak, smear or fingerprint remains! The window is so clear you have to poke it to make sure it's still there! A window a minute is an average record with Bon Ami.

And this housewife's "good friend" is just as wonderful a cleaner for a host of other things — white woodwork, enamel, nickel, brass, tiling, etc. And no matter how much you use it, it never roughens your hands.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE LAST OF THE PARK

Mister Zip Painted a New Sign.

Mister Zip painted a new sign. It said: "Happy Go Lucky Park. Every one free! Come one, come all and have a good time."

And from that minute on he started to make his fortune, for everybody came and everybody spent money to have a good time.

The twins were as busy as ants in a sugar barrel. They helped with everything — the merry-go-round, the lemonade, peanut, popcorn stand, and the roller coaster.

The Fairy Queen smiled when she got a letter from Mister Zip one day which went this way:

"Dear Queen: "I am sure you will be much obliged to know that the Twins have been a wonderful help to me.

"They have worked like everything and I am sure that I never could have made my fortune if they had not been here to help. As it is, my fortune is made all except about $2.69. When this is made I shall close up Happy Go Lucky Park, for this season at least, and go on my vacation.

"I shall leave the magic shoes you sent for the Twins beside the big stone under the chestnut tree. If it isn't too much trouble will you please send Silver Wing or Nimble Toes to come and get them?

"The Twins said to tell you that if you have anything else for them to do, to please send back the magic shoes and a letter. They'll be glad to do anything you say.

"Your humble servant,

"Mister Zip."

So now you know just how much help the Twins were.

It was the last day of Happy Go Lucky Park and Mister Zip had made his fortune all but about 19 cents, when something happened.

Everybody from the green woods was there.

And everybody from the meadow land was there.

And even some of the water people, like Granddaddy Frog and old Mosey Mud Turtle and young Mosey Mud Turtle, were there.

So I know it's true, as so many people saw it.

Somebody left the bars of the fence down and who should get out of the sweet clover field but old Gray Tail, the horse.

Old Gray Tail didn't know there was such a place as Happy Go Lucky Park in the world. Or if he did, it just went in one ear and out of the other. He had heard Mrs. Yellowbill Duck talking to Mister Cockadoodle about having a good time somewhere or other, but he hadn't paid much attention.

And all at once didn't he almost step on it—Happy Go Lucky Park, I mean.

"Hello, here!" said old Gray Tail. "What's all this about And what are those good smells I smell?"

With that he dipped down his big nose and ate up everything on the popcorn, peanut, ice cream cone stand!

"Oh, oh, oh!" shrieked all the visitors. "Go away, Gray Tail! You aren't allowed to have things without money."

"Excuse me," said Gray Tail. "I didn't know that. I thought you got them for nothing. I haven't any money. But I can't give them back. I'll go away now, though, and not bother you any more."

That was the end of Happy Go Lucky Park. There wasn't any use of staying any longer.

Nancy and Nick helped Mister Zip put up the sign.

"Closed till next year."

I don't know where Mister Zip spent his vacation.

PREPARING THE ZR3 FOR TRANS-ATLANTIC TRIP

Giant Airship Being Built in Germany, Will Have Its Trial Trip in August.

MAY DELAY TRIP.

Builders of the Huge Plane Seek a Perfect Job.

THE ZR3 IN FIGURES.

LENGTH—656 feet.
DIAMETER—90.66 feet.
HEIGHT—101.68 feet.
WEIGHT—88,190 pounds.
TOTAL LIFT—180,000 pounds.
GAS CAPACITY—2,472,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas.
PASSENGER CAPACITY — Will carry at least 20 passengers, with a liberal cargo allowance.
POWER—Equipped with 4 power cars, each with a 12-cylinder, 400-horsepower, specially designed, Maybach motor.
CONSTRUCTION—Chiefly duralumin, with some steel.
WIRELESS—The wireless station on the ZR3 has a radius of 1,560 miles for telegraph and 315 miles for telephone.
PASSENGER ACCOMMODATION—Main cabin close to the hull, underneath the bow. Divided into two sections, the smaller being the control car. The larger division is for passengers, and is divided into five compartments. Each a cross between a railway coach and steamer. Each compartment has sleeping accommodations for four persons. Kitchen and pantries are provided for serving meals.

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (United Press).—The trans-ocean flight of the new Zeppelin ZR3 may be delayed until next year.

American naval men at the moment are quite uncertain whether the giant ship can be taken across this season. The trials of the ZR3 are scheduled for August 15, but there have been so many delays and postponements that not even this date stands with any certainty. The Zeppelin builders are doing their utmost to hold this date, but they are proceeding in a slow, methodical manner that may make even this date impossible.

However, according to American naval men there is no attempt to delay intentionally. It has been whispered about that the Zeppelin people were anxious to string this job as far as possible since under the peace treaty they must close their plant when the ZR3 is done.

Men assigned to supervising the work for the American government, however, say that there is not the slightest sign of such a spirit on the part of the Zeppelin outfit.

Seek Perfect Airship.

They are, however, being extremely careful that this latest product of German science shall have no flaws. They have remodeled somewhat, in view of experiences taught by the ill-fated Dixmuide. And they have accepted other suggestions gleaned by American and German experts, so that there shall be no "blamage" for the Zeppelin builders subsequently.

The latest delay was caused by the necessity for altering the crank cases. The builders found that a new composition metal would serve their purposes better. And, at the risk of delay and despite added expense, the designers decreed that the change must be made. Further changes may appear necessary at the last moment.

Moreover, it is by no means certain what test flights will develop. Hence, the American observers are not certain that the actual transatlantic flights can be undertaken before next year.

They hope, with the Zeppelin concern, however, that the flight can be made. September is about the last favorable month for the trip, as nobody desires to gamble with the fickleness of Atlantic weather in the winter.

The German crew which pilots the ZR3 across the Atlantic will know all the tricks Atlantic weather has been able to turn out in the last t25 years.

Thanks to the thorough-going meteorological service of the Zeppelin concern, the pilots of America's new craft will have at their fingers' tips all data about high winds, low winds, cross winds, cyclones and fair weather.

Charter Atlantic Weather

Some years back when the Zeppelin concern was piling up money at a high rate, it decided to devote some funds to a meteorological service, unique in the history of scientific research. The service collected ships' logs of all Atlantic carriers, and painstakingly charted the ups and downs of winds and waves and weather over a period of a quarter of a century.

From this survey, the Zeppeliners know what to expect off the banks, in mid-ocean, in the English channel and indeed, over any spot of the great ocean at a given time of year.

With this data, Zeppelin pilots long have been put through a course of theoretical training in what to do under varying conditions. The pilot would be locked in a room, representing a Zeppelin cabin, and with the data before him, would be asked to work out the problem of guiding the craft safely across. He marked on his log amounts of gas outlet, ballast lightening, motor-power and so on for his theoretical trip across the great dike.

He could have beer and sandwiches during his "trip", but otherwise he stuck to the "cabin" just as though he were actually battling with the winds over the 3,000-mile stretch.

While theory and practice are vastly different, the men who will take the ZR3 across are all experienced Zeppelin-ers, trained in the dangerous and daring schools of war-times.

Doctor Eckener, chief of the expedition, will be accompanied by Captain Steele, U. S. N., and Commander Kraus. Steele takes over the craft after it lands in Lakehurst, N. J.

The Tear Behind the Laugh

Being the Story of the Domestic Debacle of Frank Tinney, Jokesmith, as Revealed Through His Wife and Son, Victims of His Clown Complex ABOVE, MRS. FRANK TINNEY TELLS FRANK, JR., THE SORT OF MAN SHE WANTS HIM TO BE; AT THE LEFT YOU SEE THEM IN A JOYFUL MOMENT IN THE BOY'S PRIVATE PLAYGROUND; BELOW IS THE TINNEY HOME ON THE 35-ACRE ESTATE AT BALDWIN, LONG ISLAND.

By GENE COHN.

BALDWIN, N.Y., Aug. 20.—To millions of people he was one of the funniest men in the world.

But Frank Tinney, the famed comedian, made the mistake of carrying buffoonery over the footlights and into life.

Playing the clown became so important a part of his psychology, it would seem, that he applied the slapstick to a woman's heart, and to love and marriage.

Thus he overstepped the narrow line that separates comedy from serious drama, from tragedy.

Such was the picture drawn by his wife, Edna Davenport Tinney, as she sought to explain the sensational series of episodes which began with Tinney's arrest on a charge of beating Imogene Wilson, "the most beautiful girl on Broadway," and reached a climax when the comedian sailed for London with notice of a suit for separation in his pocket, and with the lovely Imogene weeping on the pier.

Within a few hours Imogene received a second blow in the shape of notice that her services with the Ziegfeld Follies were at an end.

It was in keeping with the psychology outlined by Mrs. Tinney that he turned these situations into a jest as he sailed. "All we need to do now," he said, "is to hit an iceberg ten miles out and it will be the end of a perfect day."

As impromptu jester of the stage it was necessary for Tinny to train his mind to leap with agility at a quip It was his stock in-trade to lift jokes out of the audience. He would hunt down the latest in slang; he would pass gags as he walked or while he ate —a knack acquired during the years that have passed since Tinney left a job as undertaker's assistant in an inland town.

* * *

"That is the trouble with Frank. He would never take anything seriously. Everything was a joke with him. He made a wise-crack out of anything and everything," his wife explained as she sat on the sun-porch of the Tinney country place here, looking out upon the rolling acres of heavy hanging maples and oaks that carried their leaves stiffly on the warm, windless afternoon.

"I have known a lot of comedians who kept their fun on the stage and were serious in their home life. But Frank wasn't one of them.

"You could scarcely ever get a serious answer out of him, and he wouldn't look seriously at a thing. Life, family matters—everything became a joke to him.

"Yes—there were a lot of women in his life. I'm not naming anybody in my suit for separation. I wouldn't know whom to name first. And yet, while you stand it as long as you can, a person can't really feel bitter toward such a man. I think I always would feel like his best friend."

* * *

This life as a "wise-cracker's" wife has left its reaction upon Mrs. Tinney.

Frank, Jr., a six-year-old sun-bronzed replica of his father, is guarded from slang and "swear words."

The lad came running up from a nearby swamp carrying a great bunch of cat-tails and tiger lilies. He was given a present.

"What do you say?" he was reminded.

"Oh—thanks!"

And there is more than a bit of wistfulness in the pride with which she exhibits the decorating of the summer home, and the plans for a porch lounging room.

Through the house floats the crooning of an old darkey "mammy," singing negro spirituals as she works. The great lawn rolls away to a 35-acre estate.

It is hardly a place for endless jesting at love and life.

"I'm as funny as the next guy," Mrs. Tinney continues, dropping into slang when her son is at a safe distance. "But you can't use a postage stamp more than once, and that's me."

No, you can't apply a slapstick to a woman's heart forever.

LAZINESS.

A motor operated by waves and tides is far enough developed by the Bulgarian engineer, Vodenitcharoff, that his government is financing his further work. It's too complicated to explain or read about in warm weather.

But it's a forerunner of future devices that will generate millions of horsepower to free men from the slavery of toil. Going o waste in falling water is an enormous amount of power, and in sunlight an enormous amount of fuel.

Our greatest natural resources are falling water, winds, sunlight and electricity. Later we'll master them. A small start has been made, very small.

Lift the cover partly from the pan when cooking fresh beans and peas so that they wil lnot overcook.

FARM NEWS

AYRSHIRE BREEDERS' CLUB OF SEYMOUR HEARD EXPERTS TELL OF THE MOST MODERN METHODS IN THE CATTLE RAISING INDUSTRY IN CANADA

Home of Charles Macoun, Near Trent River, Was Rallying Place.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

G. C. Muir of Ottawa Tells Guests That Calves Should Have Pasteurized Milk.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20—The breeders of thoroughbred stock in this district listened to experts in the business discuss not only the raising of cattle, but the best means of getting them to market, at the field day held last Friday at the home of Charles Macoun, near Trent River, under the auspices of the Ayrshire Breeders' Club of Seymour, the first of its kind ever organized in Canada under Dominion auspices. The beautiful lawn on which the 500 or more visitors gathered, and the entire setting of the farm was an ideal place for such a meeting.

The Macoun farm, one of the oldest in the county, is modern in all its appointments, and is the birthplace of a family all of whom have attained distinction in their chosen vocations, whether professional or agricultural. There is a herd of 40 pure bred Ayrshires on the premises, and all the buildings are illuminated with 38 electric lights, supplied by the Dominion plant, which also furnishes power for operating the farm machinery.

Mr. Macoun also specializes in the breeding of hogs, Tamworths being his favorite type. These animals are housed in a modern pen and are kept perfectly clean, being fitted out with sleeping apartments that are elevated above the main floor. In one corner of the pen there is a large boiler, in which the feed for the pigs is heated during the cold weather.

Mr. Macoun does not send the milk from his herd to the cheese factory, but separates the cream, which he disposes of to the Trent Valley Creamery in Campbellford, a truck calling for it daily. One advantage of this plan is that it leaves him the skim milk for use on the farm.

The Meeting.

John Locke is president of the Club, and F. M. Rutherford, of Bonar Law, is secretary. President Locke, in a short address, welcomed the visitors, and Alex. Hume, one of the pioneers in the breeding of Ayrshires, was voted into the chair.

One of the leading speakers was G. C. Muir, from the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, who dealt with matters of interest to all stock raisers, irrespective of the breed in which they specialize. Mr. Muir believes that the real object of consignment sales should be not to make money so much as to secure publicity. Getting high type cattle into other parts of the country is the best kind of advertisement for the man who raises them, and for this reason, only first class animals should be sent to such sales, even if they are disposed of at sacrifice prices.

The Ayrshires shown at the last Winter Fair in Ottawa, Mr. Muir said, were not up to the mark, and he hoped to see improvement in this respect. He dealt with some of the features of the prize list at the coming Ottawa Exhibition, including the county competition, and the valuable prizes that are offered to boys under 21 for heifer calves that are cared for by them.

Herd sires, the speaker believes, should be secured regardless of price, as this is the only way in which the standard can be maintained. Good sires should be kept until they are aged, even if they are hard to handle.

Raising Calves.

In reply to a question by Charles Wilson on the best method of raising calves, Mr. Muir said that they should be given pasteurized milk, and the first year should be kept in the stable during the day as they cannot stand heat and flies. It is possible to make or break them during the first year. If they are turned out of the stable for exercise, this should be done at night. Alfalfa hay is the best roughage for them, and they should not be fed ensilage until they are taken off a milk diet. After the calves are a year old they can take care of themselves on rough feed.

A Speaker from Quebec.

Stephane Boily, of the Dominion Live Stock Branch at Sherbrooke, Que., explained the work that is being carried on in that province in organizing boys clubs so as to encourage the rising generation to take an interest in farm work. Mr. Boily spoke highly of the Ayrshires that have been raised in this district and sold to Quebec owners.

A two-year-old heifer "Carisbrooke Primrose," purchased from F. M. Rutherford of Bonar Law, had produced 40 pounds of milk a day for 190 days. Another two-year old, "Carisbrooks Perfect Lady," purchased from Mr. Rutherford, gave milk of so high a quality that it was sold for 40 cents a gallon. This heifer, in one year, yielded her Quebec owner a clear profit of $100 over and above not only the cost of her maintenance, but the $100 which was paid Mr. Rutherford for her. Sixteen heifers in all have been purchased from this district for the boys' clubs in Quebec, and all have done well, these coming from the herds of John Locke, Charles Macoun and Fred Howes.

The Western Market.

David Hunter, Dominion Field man, whose home is in Grimsby, and who has recently returned from a trip to the West, undertaken to promote the demand for Ontario cattle, said that the prairie provinces had far too long been made the dumping ground for the inferior stock from other parts of Canada. The western farmers are no longer willing to pay big prices and high freight rates for culls. They have been taken in so often that they are suspicious, and now some different system of marketing must be found, for the farmer out West will renew their efforts to have the duty on dairy stock removed so that they can buy their cattle across the line.

Ayrshires the Favorites.

The Ayrshire, being a rugged animal, suitable for life on the prairie, is the favorite in the West. The heel fly, one of the pests of the prairie, does not worry the Ayrshire as much as it does the Holstein. Western farmers insist on size in dairy animals, one that can be turned into beef when its usefulness as a milker is gone.

Other speakers were Richard Honey, a leading breeder of Holsteins; District Representatives Walter Smith, of Northumberland, and Ray Atkin, of Hastings County.

After the speeches, Mr. Hunter conducted a class in stock judging, showing the fine points in a number of the dairy cattle from Mr. Macoun's stables.

Women's Institute.

The women of the district, who were out in force, had a field day of their own. The Ryestone W.I. members were the guests of those of the West Seymour branch, and a joint meeting was held—Mrs. George Van Volkenburg, president of the West Seymour branch, presiding.

The speaker at this gathering was Miss Emily Guest, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, who spoke on the subject, "Digging for Gold." There is gold in everything, she claimed, and by searching for it, it may be found. There is gold in the land and we should dig for it, gold in the disposition of every person and we should look for it.

Miss Guest advised all women to use the franchise, the best means available for breaking up the Prussianism, or monopoly, which is making headway in Canada.

Prizes for Wild Flowers.

The Institute offered four prizes for the best collection of wild flowers picked during the week by children under 12. The winners, in order of merit, were as follows:—Gordon Cleugh, Herbert Stillman, Ruby Dunham and Franklin Dunham.

West Seymour, 16; Ryestone, 8

West Seymour defeated Ryestone in a game of baseball by a score of 16-8. The following were the players on each side:—

Seymour—C. MacArthur, Atkinson, Orser, Wood, Anderson, McEwan, McCullough, M. MacArthur, Brown.

Ryestone—Bateman, T. Fry, Kerr, Burkitt, Roy Fry, W. Dunk, Ray Fry, Swanger, Barnum.

Umpires—Rev. D. C. Danniels on balls and strikers John Rannie on bases.

Refreshments were served by the ladies before the gathering broke up.

Manitoba Growers Adopt Mixed Farming System After Old Ontario Style And Success Follows

Not only are there prospects for a big wheat crop this year in Manitoba, despite the rust scare, but, what is perhaps more important, there are other crops, which, in some districts at least, insure reasonable prosperity in any event. The following is from a letter written from the Deloraine district to A. B. Fisher, manager of the Central Loan and Savings Co., president of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association; it reads as though it were describing a rich farming area in Ontario rather than on the "wheat-growing" prairies:

At the present time we have the brightest prospects we have had for years. Some are trying to start the rust scare, but so far there is very little indication, and with continued cool weather I think we are quite safe. Even if the rust does hit us we have so much barley, oats, flax, durum wheat, sweet clover and corn that the farmers have considerable to fall back on, which is a change from the past, and has been brought about a great deal by our District Builders' Movement.

We are beginning to adopt a better system of agriculture. One farmer used to be a big wheat farmer, and now he says that on his land every acre of summerfallow must be sown with sweet clover the year previous.

Mixed farming in the Deloraine district is the result of effective educational work. This spring the town council was persuaded to make an appropriation to hold an agricultural conference to talk over the situation which was very blue. Sixteen of the farmers who attended, announced their determination of throwing up the sponge and moving out. All were induced to stay and to try mixed farming. Now the prospects are that one crop will put them on their feet again. That is evidence of what mixed farming will do for the West.

POSSESSION

Month after month, with slow monotony,
I did the stupid tasks of every day;
With scorn and pity that the world should be
Full of unending duties, dull and gray.
While all my heart was wild for wondering,
I dusted, scoured and swept with listless hands;
Was this, I thought, the best that life could bring
To youth's commands?

But now I sing all day, as to and fro
From tiny parlor to the kitchen bright,
With sparkling suds and crisp new brooms I go
A shining path behind me. What delight
To pour the scarlet jelly into molds!
I love to make the slender glasses shine,
Because this little house with all it holds
Is yours and mine!

EASTERN BUSINESS MEN TO SEE WEST

Merchants, Manufacturers and Financiers Take Up Diversion.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 20.—The revival of what in pre-war days was a popular diversion on the prairies during the harvest season—business mens' tours of the West—has been announced by a Winnipeg board of trade. A party, expected to number 125, left this city on August 18 and will journey by the C.P.R. to Edmonton. From the latter city they will take the Canadian National to Jasper Park. The return will include visits to Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Calgary, Red Deer, North Battleford, Saskatoon, Yorkton, Brandon, and a large number of other points.

Invitations have been sent to the members of the boards of trade of Toronto and Montreal, as well as to members of the boards of trade of leading mid-western American cities. The foreign consuls of Winnipeg have also been invited to make the tour.

The pre-war trips of this character are recognized as having been a big factor in developing the esprit de corps among Western business men, as well as in revealing the resources and trade possibilities of the prairies. The hope is expressed here that the trip this year will be the beginning of annual enterprises of this kind.

BETHANY CROPS GOOD

Heartening Report of Threshed Grain—Root Crop—Corn and Pasture.

BETHANY, Aug. 20.—Grain cutting in this vicinity is practically completed, and threshing has commenced in order to get the harvest in. According to reports, all grain is a good crop. The corn and root crop is growing nicely and will be a good yield. The recent rains have improved the pasture and the herds are giving a good normal milk supply.

BONUS INDUSTRIES

Australia Will Subsidize Businesses That Are in a Depressed Condition.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 20.—For the financial year just closed (June 30th) it is estimated that the Commonwealth of Australia's surplus of revenue over expenditure will be between £6,000,000 and £8,000,000, which has mainly been derived from larger customs collections than were expected.

It is anticipated that the surplus will now enable the government to proceed with its declared intention of subsidizing such primary industries as meat and fruit, which are in a very depressed condition owing to the lack of overseas markets. Certain manufacturing industries, which it is claimed are not receiving sufficient protection under the existing customs duties to enable them to compete with importations, are also to receive some measure of assistance.

WANT ELEVATORS NOW

CALGARY, Aug. 20.—Some Alberta wheat pool members are dissatisfied because the pool's officials are not providing elevators. They want some portion of the receipts placed asid eo form a nucleus for such a fund. H. W. Wood, chairman of the board of trustees, said that it had been the desire of the board to make as good a showing as possible in the marketing in order to increase the membership of the pool.

LARGER HERDS CARRIED OVER IN S. ALBERTA

Material Increase in Cattle and Sheep on Southern Ranges.

GRAZING IMPROVED

Wheat Harvest General This Week, With Yield Half of Last Year.

LETHBRIDGE, Aug. 20.—Southern Alberta livestock men are now making preparations for their feeding operations this winter. More cattle and sheep than ever will be fed this season. Feeder cattle are plentiful, and thousands of sheep will go to the feeding corrals late this fall. With one of the best alfalfa crops in years, farmers are preparing to put it into cattle and lambs. There is only one cause for concern, and that is the limited stock of screenings that will be available. In this connection there is a determined campaign being waged for the establishment of a government internal storage elevator with cleaning facilities. With such a plant, this valuable cheap feed would be obtainable by local feeders. As it is, much money is lost annually in bringing in cleaning, on which Southern Alberta farmers have already paid freight to the terminals.

The livestock industry in Southern Alberta is in a healthy condition, and stock will go into the winter in good shape. The range is green again, following general and copious rains, and all kinds of stock are looking sleek and thrifty. Regular shipments of hogs and cattle are leaving the local stockyards for Seattle and Tacoma, the Pacific coast market being now an attractive one for finished stuff. There is a demand for feeder and breeder sheep, as many irrigation farmers are putting small herds on their farms. Dairying is showing steady growth, with good prices for butter fat prevailing. One local dairy has now over 600 shippers, the increase being 300 per cent. the last three years. This is only one indication of the slow transition being made from wheat farming to mixed farming.

Wheat Harvest.

The wheat harvest will be general this week. Later estimates of the yield on the Lethbridge rail division place the amount at from 18,000,000 to 23,000,000 bushels, slightly over half the total production last year. Continued drought in some sections of the south withered the growing fields, rendering the grain even unfit for feed. Good summerfallow withstood the drought remarkably well, and some bumper yields will be recorded in the area lying south and west of this city.

EUROPE WANTS CANADA WHEAT

Shortage Abroad Means Demand of 10,000,000 Bushels a Week for Season.

YIELD IS SMALLER

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—The North American crop situation at the end of July indicated a state of affairs much less favorable to Canada than that of a month previous. A month ago prospects in the United States pointed to a reduction of 93,000,000 bushels from last year's wheat yield while the outlook in Canada was favorable. At the end of July, crop conditions south of the border had improved and the indicated reduction from last year's crop was only 46,000,000. In Canada, the first government estimate of 318,000,000 bushels had to be lowered to 282,042,000, which is 40 per cent. below last year's yield. There is a general feeling in the West that the figure will be in the neighborhood of 300,000,000. Conditions in other wheat-growing countries are rather unfavorable. According to the present estimate, countries which last year produced about 50 per cent. of the world output, Russia excepted, will produce 1,555,000,000 bushels as against 1,671,000,000 last year. Again excluding Russia, the wheat yield of the world will be 10 per cent. smaller than that of last year, judging from the present outlook.

As a consequence of this shortage of supplies abroad, a grain expert has estimated that foreign buyers will take 10,000,000 a week for the greater part of the season. The United States now has an available surplus of 268,000,000, bringing her total supply for the season to 918,000,000 bushels. According to present indications the Canadian export surplus will not be much more than 175,000,000 bushels against a surplus of 319,000,000 bushels last year. The present outlook, therefore, is for a well sustained and increasing demand from Europe.

Detailed Crop Report.

The state of the wheat crop in the province of Manitoba is decidedly better than in either of the other two prairie provinces. During the last week in July and the first days of August general rains provided sufficient moisture to carry the crops to maturity. There are only slight indications of rust, and the very mild touch of frost this week caused no damage. The present outlook is for a yield of something in the neighborhood of 35,000,000 bushels as against 32,000,000 last year.

GOOD PIG FEED

The basis of all pig feeding is grain—corn, ground wheat or barley—supplemented with a small percentage of a protein feed such as tankage, fish meal and skim milk.

EUROPEAN PACT TO FACILITATE TRADE REVIVIAL

Industry Will Recover Only Gradually and By Hard Work.

AFFECTS THE WORLD

Far-flung Results of Accord Will Touch Even Canadian Farmer.

Judging from the recent action of the security and exchange markets, business in general has taken a very sanguine view of the European outlook. It seems to be the accepted opinion in certain business circles that the success of the London conference is destined to make possible a speedy recovery in central Europe with resulting good effects all over the world.

The plan of action which was agreed upon by the allied representatives, and accepted by Germany, was largely that advocated in the Dawes report. The centre of the Dawes plan is the financial rehabilitation of Germany. This is to be accomplished through the establishment of a new German bank of issue which will provide a stable currency and enable Germany to collect her taxes in a currency which will not depreciate in value. It will also enable her to balance her budget and contribute to reparations in proportion as she recovers industrially and commercially. The establishment of the bank of issue is to be made possible by the floating abroad of a $200,000,000 loan. In order to provide for current reparations payments, bonds will be issued against German railways and industries. The maximum amount to be collected from each source is stipulated, and a rough estimate is made of the total to be paid from all sources. This removes what is generally recognized as a defect in the Versailles Treaty. Reparations payments are to be made in gold and placed at the new German bank to the credit of the Reparations Commission.

While business generally takes a hopeful view of the outlook, there is also a tendency in business circles to "wait and see." It is felt by many that it is easy to over-estimate the importance of conferences. The opinion expressed by a prominent business leader that conferences have their place but that a revival in industry is Europe's primary need, is probably a fairly general view. Undoubtedly the success of the London conference has made recovery possible, but it is generally conceded that this is only a beginning, and that the real recovery of Europe will be a long process, and will come only as a result of hard work and the gradual revival of industry and commerce.

WEEDS INDICATE NEED FOR HELP

Farms Deserted by Growing-Up Sons Revert to Waste Land.

CRISIS IS NEAR

By GERALD E. STAPLES, Cavan.

Evidence of the scarcity of farm help is seen in driving through the country, in the abundance and variety of weeds growing along the roadsides.

Along one line in Cavan, Scotch thistles were seen growing almost as high as a person's head.

That pernicious weed, blue-devil, is seen in many places with Sweet clover, rag weed, and plenty of other kinds.

In past years, when there were more men on each farm, after the statute labor was done in June, the weeds were all mown as a part of the work. This was good for the adjacent farms, as it prevented the weed-seeds from maturing and in different ways being carried onto the farms. The wind and birds are responsible for carrying many of these seeds.

Now that cars and trucks are so much used on the country roads, more road work is required to be done, in order to keep the roads fit for traffic, hence each man has his allotted time in before the road is in proper shape. Often this is supplemented by labor paid for by a grant from the council, thus the cutting of the weeds seems to be neglected—which is a pity.

Farms Deserted.

On the majority of farms, the head of the house—often getting up in years—and younger boys, if there be any, are left to run the farm, while the older boys are either being educated or have taken jobs elsewhere to earn money. Very often it is the purpose to do the same with the younger boys as they grow up. It is a question: Who will work the farms in the years to come?—the boys gone to the cities and towns and the father becoming too old to work.

Boys are not satisfied to work long hours for merely what they eat and wear, with a very little pocket money thrown in. They prefer to try a job in town with shorter hours, more sport, and regular wages. On the farm, when a crop is sown, no one can foretell what the harvest will be; and even if it weathers adverse storms, no one can tell what will be realized when it is marketed.

Boys and young men have not the patience to stay with a job when it has proved to be unprofitable for more than one or two seasons.

Fields Show Effect.

The result of this exodus from the farms is seen in the fields as well as along the roadsides. Weeds seem to be getting well established in many farms.

The seasons, of late, have been so short and the help so scarce, that very few farms receive a second ploughing, excepting an odd field. This causes the weed crop to gain a firmer hold. Of course, in many cases, those on the farm could get some kind of help, but usually of an inefficient kind.

Just now, the tendency seems to do what can be accomplished with the least outlay. When the farmer does not see where he can raise the money to pay any extra expense, he farms on as small a scale as possible.

Hogs Sold at Loss.

Hogs have been sold all last year at either a loss or merely getting the cost of their feed. Good cattle have been shipped this summer off the grass at a price that leaves no profit, even when sold co-operatively.

If there is not a change soon, farmers wonder when—and how— the climax will come, because present conditions cannot long continue.

FLIES AFFECT BUTTER PRICE

Winged Pests Tease Cows Who Spend Time in Wielding Swatter.

NO TIME TO EAT

Flies and the price of butter may not seem to be connected but the truth of the matter is that they have a rather indirect but, nevertheless, intimate relation.

House wives who visit the markets learn, to their chagrin, that butter has jumped two cents, and demand the reason why. "I don't believe you even know why the price is gone up yourself," one lady, rather perturbed, said to a farmer. "Butter is always plentiful this time of year. . . . I think I am being cheated."

"Madame," the farmer told her, "you are mistaken, butter is scarce, because milk and cream are scarce, because the cows are so busy chasing away the flies, that they have no time to eat, and consequently cannot give any milk."

It was pitiful state of affairs, the farmer had never known the flies to be so plentiful, nor his cows so restless. If the flies did not stop teasing them, he said, the price of milk and milk products would continue to rise and rise and rise.

Farmers are anxious over the present weather conditions and the effect on the crops. For this time of year the low temperatures at night are most unusual. The heavy dew will, perhaps, develop into frost before next week, and if it does, tomatoes, melons, and other things will suffer badly. While frost is needed to bring certain crops, such as turnips, parsnips and cabbage, to maturity, it seldom, if ever, comes before September 1.

CANADIAN CHEESE IN MEXICO MARKET

Conditions Which Govern Development of Export Trade From Cadada

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—A number of inquiries have recently been received at the offices of the trade commissioner in Mexico city in regard to the possibilities of introducing Canadian cheese into Mexico. The following information is therefore provided for the guidance of prospective exporters, in the hope that it may be of assistance to them in opening a new market, which offers distinct opportunities of a satisfactory trade.

The price paid by the retailers in Mexico City to the importer for cheese of the character referred to above are from $1.40 to $1.60 Mexican currency per kilo, equal to from 32 to 36¼ cents per pound Canadian currency. The cost of delivery, handling, freight, custom charges and importer's profit between Vera Cruz and Mexico City amounts to about 8 cents Canadian currency, per pound, so that in order to enter the market with fair prospects of success it would be necessary for the Canadian exporter to quote a price of from 24 to 28¼ cents per pound, delivered c.i.f. Vera Cruz. It is possible that a high quality of cheese could obtain a better price, but this can only be ascertained by experience; in any case, no higher price can be expected for the first consignment than that paid for the average grades supplied by competitors.

The Mexican tariff on cheese is ten centavos per legal kilo, plus 12 per cent. surcharge; this is equal to 2¼ cents Canadian currency, per pound, and does not include the 5 per cent. consular fee mentioned above.

SHOWERS RETARD WORK

CAVAN, Aug. 20.—The showery weather makes it very hard to get the grain harvested in good condition. There has been a great deal of bleached hay and darkened straw.

A rust is noticed on the green beans, due, no doubt, to too much moisture.

LONG INSURANCE AIDS SHIPPING

Hon. P. C. Larkin Secures Concessions to Help the Grain Trade.

ADDS A MONTH

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Imperial Shipping Committee has announced that underwriters' warranties are to be extended from May 1 to Oct. 31, instead of from May 5 to Oct. 1, as was formerly the case. This will be a material benefit in the shipping of Canadian grain on the St. Lawrence as not only is the period extended an additional half month but a whole month is added at a time when it will do the most good.

This is being pointed to as an evidence of the benefit of having a business man at the head of Canada's affairs in London.

Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canada's High Commissioner, is said to have secured this concession by quiet negotiation with the insurance companies. He was also successful in getting Halifax placed on a parity with other Atlantic seaports. This is a material concession, and the next move will be to get St. John on the same footing.

Thos. Robb, manager of the Shipping Federation of Canada, doubts if the change of season will benefit much, but his figure would belie this. He says the extra rate charged during the summer season is 20s. per cent. and after that period an additional 20s. per cent. The warranties would work out as follows;—Original warranty of 1899—April 1 to September 1; September 2 to March 31; warranties to be cancelled on payment of 20s. per cent. and 40s. per cent. respectively.

This was amended some years ago to read:—May 1 to October 1; October 2 to April 30; warranties to be cancelled on payment of 20s. per cent. and 40s. per cent. respectively. The latest modification is:—May 15 to October 31; November 1 to May 14; warranties to be cancelled on payment of 20s. per cent. and 40s. per cent. respectively.

It was pointed out by Mr. Robb that between the opening of navigation and May 15 of last year there were only fifty-five boats entered at Montreal and in the month of October there were 144 ships. This year, between opening of navigation and May 15, eighty-one vessels came into the port.

WHEAT AND CHAFF

The slop barrel—dirty, stinking and fly-attracting—is still found on too many farms. Not only is it an eyesore, but it is unhealthy for the hogs. The slop, all of which is never removed, sours and brews, especially in summer-time, until it is almost as bad as bootleg whiskey. It loses its food value and becomes unfit for consumption. Slop should be fed fresh or not at all.

POTATOES GOOD

East Emily Farmers Find Rust on Spring Grain—Alsike Threshed.

EAST EMILY, Aug. 20.—The harvest is pretty well on in this district, as some of the farmers have their spring wheat cut and rye and the earlier grains.

It is reported by some of the farmers there is quite a lot of rust on the wheat. Some have already threshed their alsike.

The potato crop is reported as being most abundant, and the price is running from $1.75 to $2.00 per bag.

Less than 2 per cent of the arid and semi-arid areas of the United States is irrigated.

About 12 per cent of the total annual production of eggs in the United States is stored.

BUSINESS TAKES SANER VIEW OF CROP PROSPECTS

Even at Present Estimate the 1924 Wheat Yield Will Be Normal.

MAKES BETTER TRADE

Prices Are Up and Farmer Stands to Gain—Habit of Expecting More.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—A very significant factor in the influence of the crop conditions and outlook upon business in general is that a series of disappointing crop reports have brought the business community to a saner view as to what sort of harvest to expect. Business, accordingly, is adjusting its plans to a wheat yield somewhat in the neighborhood of 300,000,000 bushels at an aggregate value close to that of last year. Earlier hopes and forecasts disregarded the fact that last year's yield and probably also that of 1922, were abnormally large. We cannot hope to add 87,000,000 bushels to our annual output every year as we did, on the average, for the last two years. Yet this is what we formed the habit of expecting. The present estimate is at least as great as the average for the past six years, even including last year's bumper crop. In other words, the yield will be at least normal. This refutes the views which are even now being expressed by a section of the press, particularly in the United States, which refers to the situation in terms such as "the Canadian grain disaster." Such a term is distinctly misleading. As it is, the farmer will have a larger margin of profit out of this crop even at the present estimate than from last, a situation which is of greater value to business as a whole than a bumper crop at low prices. Last year, the average price received by the Canadian farmer for wheat was 67 cents per bushel. This left the farmer an extremely small margin of profit, and, even with a bumper yield, the agricultural section of the community was unable to better itself materially. With a gain so far of nearly 40 cents per bushel there is a chance for the farmer to get back on his feet.

The European Situation.

If the European situation should prove to be as favorable as the security and exchange markets seem to indicate, there can be no doubt but that world affairs are due for a vast improvement. A stabilization of Europe, such as the Dawes plan contemplates, would be of inestimable importance as an incentive to Canadian business as well as that of other countries. Revival of business and industry in Europe would mean increased purchasing power over a large area, and this would involve a large increase in demand for Canadian and American raw materials and foods, a situation which could not but bring with it general commercial and industrial improvement in Canada.

While the much needed incentive of European recovery is decidedly a possibility, there is a feeling on the part of a large and responsible section of the community that more than conferences are necessary to accomplish the economic recovery of so large a section of the world. It is felt that even with the most singular success of the conference, a long period would elapse before Europe's recovery was an actual fact.

General Trade Conditions.

In the main, retail and wholesale business conditions are as they have been for some weeks. A slight strengthening has taken place in wholesale prices. The wholesale price index prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics rose from 152.2 in June to 153.3 in July. This was due to a rise of 47 commodities out of 236 studied. It is yet too early to tell whether or not this is the beginning of an upward movement. There are reports of better buying in a fairly large number of rural sections, principally in Ontario and Quebec. This is attributed, in part, at least, to the sale of the fruit and hay crops. The hay yield has compared very favorably with that of last year, taking the country as a whole. Last year's total revenue from this source, including alfalfa, was $175,000,000 as great or greater return from this year's crop. A considerable number of creameries throughout Quebec and Eastern Ontario are selling their supply of sweet cream in the American market at considerable advantage.

According to developments since the beginning of the year in the fishing industry, there would appear to be better things in sight for the fisherman. A distinct improvement has been in evidence since the very beginning of the year, and during the first quarter the output was 56 per cent. above that for the same period last year. This increase has been well maintained right up to the end of July, and a total revenue for the year exceeding $50,000,000 is in prospect, in comparison with a recent annual average of less than $40,000,000. Currently, the canned salmon industry in British Columbia is quite busy and the British market is showing active demand.

The insolvency statement for the Dominion of Canada during July shows a further decrease in the number of failures. According to R. G. Dun & Company, last month's failures numbered 173 in comparison with 263 for July last year.

DAIRY BUREAU STARTED

A bureau of dairying has been established in the United States Department of Agriculture to take over and enlarge upon the work of the dairy division in the bureau of animal industry. Dr. C. W. Larson, head of the old dairy division, will be in charge of the new bureau.

SWANSTON LEADS REGULARS WITH SEASON'S BATTING AVERAGE .337

Heckman, Legon and Harrison Finish Central League Race in .300 Class.

LEGON SCORED MOST

Harrison Hit for 41 Bases, Including Four Triples.

The complete averages of the 24 regular scheduled games of the local Central Ontario League team, leaves Max Swanston at the top of the heap, the Petes' back stop having the handsome average of .337 in twenty-four games. Al Heckman, Red Legon and Hap. Harrison also finished the schedule over the .300 mark. Harrison led in batting, in runs, and in total bases, his string including three doubles, four triples and a home run, while Legon had a big ..argin in run getting, the left fielder crossing the plate 24 times, an average of one run a game throughout the season, while he also led in stolen bases with sixteen successful thefts.

The leaders and runners up in the various departments for the complete regular season are as follows:

Most hits—Swanston 30, Legon 29.
Most runs—Legon 24, Swanston 15.
Stolen bases—Legon 16, Holyman 8
Sacrifice hits—Johnston 14, Legon and Swanston 7 each.
Total bases—Harrison 41, Legon 38.
Most bases on balls—Swanston, Legon, Johnston, 10 each.
Batting in runs—Harrison 20, Heckman 16.
Most doubles—Legon 9, Swanston 6
Most triples—Harrison 4.

FANS EAGER FOR SATURDAY'S GAME

Biggest Crowd of Season Expected at Riverside.

The biggest crowd of the year is certain for Riverside Park on Saturday when the Kingston Ponies and the Petes will meet in the second game of the home and home series to decide the championship of the Central Ontario League. The two teams hook up at Kingston in the first game this afternoon and whatever the result today may be Saturday's game will be fought to the last ditch for defeat then would mean that the loser of the battle at Kingston would be eliminated.

Fans from all over the district will be here to see the final clash for League honors. Every centre is sending a large delegation and prominent O.B.A.A. officials will be among the notables present.

The Ponies and Petes have clashed eight times this season and the Solomon crew have emerged triumphant on five occasions. The Petes finished up the second half seven games up on their Eastern rivals and on the season's play have a lead of three games, the Petes record being 14 wins and 10 losses as against 11 wins and 13 losses for the Ponies.

The Kingston team have been practicing at top speed under the keen eye of Coach Knotty Lee and despite their poor showing during the second half race the Limestone City outfit must not be under estimated. They have a well balanced team and may be expected to put up a desperate battle for the honors. Heckman is slated to pitch both games for the Petes while Kelly and Gallagher will both get a chance for Kingston, the former likely drawing the assignment in today's game.

Both teams are expected to be at full strength. Tommy Holyman who twisted his knee in the Civic Holiday game with Oshawa will be back in line today.

TENNIS TALKS.

Young Players Are Urged Against Killing the Ball.

What most beginners in tennis want to develop first is a terrific service. The whole idea of the game seems to be based on speed and more speed. They seem to think that if they can learn to smash the ball hard enough to drive it through the other fellow, nothing else matters.

In a sense they are right. Many of our great stars owe their success, partially at least, to their cyclonic service. But they have ACCURACY as well. And they didn't come by their great speed without long hours of tedious training and practice.

This is a point that the youngster seems to have a hard time comprehending. Right off the bat he wants to be a Babe Ruth on the courts. In my teaching I gently suggest that more points might be earned by using less speed.

The young pupil answers, "Well, it's harder for my opponent to return a swift ball, isn't it?" It is if it is a good ball, because a greater demand is placed on timing and precision. But so seldom is the swiftly driven ball good!

The beginner in tennis, like the beginner in any other competitive sport, should start out taking things easily. He should strive for accuracy as against violent speed, for moderation instead of wild muscular exertions. Tennis is a game of delicate placings and nice shadings of generalship rather than one of powerful drives and physical force.

One hard-hit ball that stays in the courts is worth a flock of terrifically driven ones that make ghastly dents in the wire nettings. Overhitting is the outgrowth of temptation. Learn not to expect an ace on every shot and this temptation to kill the ball all the time will disappear.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. There is a runner on first base. Second baseman hides the ball. Pitcher gets on the rubber without having the ball in his possession. Runner on first takes big lead and is caught by a snap throw from the second baseman. What is the ruling on this play? —J. H. G.

2. What are the plays that require an appeal to the umpire before a decision is given — H. G. S.

3. Base runner on first steals second. On the next pitch he runs back to first, desirous of drawing a throw so that the runner on third might have a chance to try to score. How can runner be retired who, after stealing second, runs back to first?—W. G. R.

ANSWERS

1. The pitcher has no right to get on the rubber without having the ball in his possession. It is a balk and runner on first should be advanced to second.

2. The following plays require an appeal to the umpire for a decision: Failure to touch a base by a runner; advancing on a fly ball before it is caught, that is, not holding the base until the ball strikes the hands of the fielder, and batting out of order.

3. The base runner can be retired by being touched with the ball, even though he is standing on first base, or by holding the ball on second, the base to which he was entitled.

TRAINED MUSCLES MAKE YDE A PITCHING STAR

Pittsburgh's Hurling Phenom is a Product of Physical Culture School.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—Will baseball players of tomorrow attend special colleges to learn the game—become graduate Bachelors or Doctors of Baseball?

A Nordic baseball prodigy, Emil Yde of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has raised this question.

Yde's record of spending only one year in minor league baseball and leading the National League pitchers at least through the mid-season of his first year, has given impetus to the discussion.

Yde was trained for an athletic career in a Wisconsin school of physical culture. The major courses there trended toward physical direction in athletic clubs and schools. But not for Yde.

PRONOUNCE IT E-D, FANS!

The name of Pittsburgh's new hurling star is a tongue-twister but the fans must know how to pronounce the Nord's name correctly, so here it is:

YDE—Just drop the Y and reverse the DE, making E-D. Yes, that's just exactly the way. Emil as a first name.

Baseball was his game, his first love and chosen profession.

As each muscle in his sturdy body was limbered or strengthened by special exercise Yde visualized its application to baseball.

Western League Phenom.

At 20 Yde was graduated. He pitched a few semi-pro games in Wisconsin and was picked up by Jack Holland of the Oklahoma City Western League team.

The result of Yde's physical education was shown from the start. The young recruit bore the brunt of the hardest campaign ever waged for a Western League pennant.

Yde, this first season in organized baseball, won 28 games while losing only 12. In 339 innings pitched he allowed only 330 hits. He pitched in only 47 games and was credited with a win or loss in 38 of them, showing his stability in the box.

Yde was also the team's regular pinch hitter. It was one of the few instances of organized baseball where a pitcher was the regular pinch hitter. His average for 93 games was .389.

Small wonder that the scouts beat a path to Oklahoma City, among them Eddie Hess of Detroit.

Passed Up by Tygers.

Owner Jack Holland wired President Navin of the Tygers that Yde was a likely major leaguer. Hess was sent to look him over and made an adverse report. Holland had previously sent Navin Lil Stoner, one of his chief pitching stars.

After long argument and much quibbling Yde was sold to the Pirates. Pittsburgh says the price was $30,000 but Holland, while not stating the exact figure, says "he wishes it was that much." Authentic report says the Pirates got Yde for $5000.

A TEAM DEFEATED B TEAM 5 TO 3

Plenty Cup Trial Game Played Throughout the Rain.

A small band of soccer fans faced the elements at the Oval last evening fitted out in sou' westers, raincoats and all kinds of paraphrenalia to combat the rain that continued to pour during the whole period of the trial game for the Plenty Cup series. A team won 5 to 3.

First Half.

The players were dilatory in making their appearance but it was not long until two complete elevens were chasing the ball over the field. After 10 minutes play, Richmond accepted a running centre from Clark. The centre-forward trapped quickly, evaded Cridland to give Curtis no chance to save. Play was confined to mid-field with an occasional raid by B team until Williams manouvered for position, slipped the ball back to Mitchell who tapped it past Griffine for the equalizer. No sooner did this happen, than Craig, at inside left, went down his own to score on a rising shot that A team goal-keeper never saw. Just before half-time Mitchell evened up the score. Half time—two goals each.

Half-Time.

The boys seemed to be anxious to keep the play going because they turned around and resumed with greater pep than ever. A team forwards were working the combination pefectly and it was interesting to witness a short passing style than revert to long swinging passes that Clarke and Burgess were displaying very much to the defense dissatisfaction. Foster, the new-comer at righ half, had his work cut out for him in watching the elusive left wing—Craig and Burgess. His clean cut style of attacking his opponents and his accurate passing along the wing to his forwards put him in the class worthy of recognition. From several raids, thereafter, Richmond added three more for his team. While Joe Mayette beat Charlie Griffin all the way from the touch-line with a fast ground shot that he failed to grasp right, for the third goal. Darkness set in fast just before the final whistle announced A team winners by five goals to three. Curtiss had the most work to do and Griffine was never really tested hard.

RUSSELL OF COLUMBUS

Reb Russell, former White Sox and Pittsburg star, is playing a good game with Columbus. At present he is out in front in home runs and stands well up in hitting. Russell for some reason or other, rates as a stellar performe in Double A competition but falters when up against big league pitching as was evidenced last season when he was a member of the Pirates.

EVERS GETS ROOKIE.

The White Sox have obtained an understudy to Eddie Collins in Ray Morehart, brilliant second baseman of the Flint team, Michigan-Ontario League. Morehart comes well recommended. He is said to be a fair hitter, stellar fielder and one of the fastest men in minor league play. This is his third year in professional baseball.

BROOKLYN ACE BEAT PIRATES

Vance Delivered the Dodgers While Giants Beat the Reds.

LUQUE WAS LOSER.

PITTSBURGH, August 20 (Canadian Press). — Brown's home run with one man on base decided a hard fought game here yesterday, enabling the Brooklyn team to win its second game of a three-game series, from Pittsburgh, 4 to 3. Vance, who has not been defeated by the Pirates in two years, was on the mound for the visitors, and had a trifle the better of a duel with Cooper, allowing seven hits, while Pittsburgh's star southpaw was touched for eleven safeties. The score:

Brooklyn ..... 001000030—4 11 2
Pittsburgh ..... 010002000—3 7 1

Vance and Deberry; Cooper and Schmidt.

Giants Bunched 'Em.

CINCINNATI, August 20 (Canadian Press.) — New York bunched hits on Luque in the early innings yesterday and won an easy victory from Cincinnati, 6 to 2. McQuillan was hit safely in every inning but one, but kept the safeties well scattered and was never in serious danger. Pinelli had a perfect record of four hits in four times up. The score:

New York ..... 310100010—6 9 1
Cincinnati ..... 010000001—2 11 0

McQuillan and Snyder; Luque and Hargrave.

AUSTRALIANS AND YANKS IN FINALS

French Doubles Defeated By Americans in Tennis Tourney.

BROOKLINE, Mass., August 20 (Canadian Press). — The national lawn tennis doubles championship lies between teams of this country and Australia. France went down fighting on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club at dusk last night when Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste were defeated in a five-set match with the Pacific Coast players, Harvey Snodgrass and Walter Wesbrook, 12-10, 6-2, 4-6, 2-6, 8-6.

This result completed the repulse of the representatives of four other nations who sought to capture this country's championship.

Norman E. Brookes and R. Schlesinger of Australia, eliminated their fellow-countryman, Frederick Kalms, and the Canadian, Willard Crocker of Montreal, in the third round, 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

With the tournament narrowed down to eight teams by the completion of the round, these two Australians, with Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, stand as the threats to United States doubles supremacy. The old combination of R. Norris Williams 2nd, and Watson Washburn, moved up to meet Patterson and Wood to-day by putting out in straight sets, William T. Tilden 2nd, who won this title a year ago with B.I.C. Norton, and Young A. L. Wiener.

The scores were 6-3, 9-7, 6-4.

On the lower side of the draw, the Olympic and Wimbledon champions, Vincent Richards and F. T. Hunter, winning two easy matches, advanced to become the opponents of the veteran Brookes and Schlesinger in the fourth round.

BOY WAS RESCUED.

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—A seven year old boy named Thibideau had a narrow escape from drowning in McGregor's Creek here yesterday afternoon. While playing around the Tecumseh Park breakwater he fell into the creek. His cries were heard by Lawrence Hasson and Captain Soodley, of the Salvation Army Hostel. The former plunged into the water full clothed and brought the boy to shore where he was pulled out by the Captain.

CURLERS GRAB ANOTHER GAME

Played Five Innings in the Mud and Blanked Opposition.

Curlers proved good muddlers in the first game of the City Juvenile championship series last night, winning 4 to 0. The game was played in a steady downpour of rain, and was finally called in the second half of the fifth, with the Curlers at bat and one out. The second game will be played on Friday evening.

Curlers got some timely hits off Bradley, but the Leafs could do but little with Wood's offerings. Franks started the Curlers away in the second by fumbling Wood's easy grounder. Ash tripled to right to score Wood, and completed the circuit on McDonald's grounder to Corbett. Bradley then fanned the next three.

Wood doubled in the fourth, Ash flew out to Gillespie, and McDonald scored Wood with a double.

In the fifth Delahaye failed to hold the third strike on McLeish and threw wild to first. Franks held the runner by going over behind the bag and capturing the ball. Hits by Hall and Barry and a wild pitch scored McLeish, after which game was called.

FIRPO BAILED UNTIL SEPT. 20

Charged With Perjury By Canon Chase, of New York Civic League.

FIGHTS ON SEPT. 11.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. — Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight boxer, will still carry perjury charges upon his shoulders when he faces Harry Wills in a Jersey City ring on September 11.

United States Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday held him in $2,000 bail for hearing on September 20 on complaint brought by Canon William Sheafe Chase, president of the New York Civic League. Can on Chase charged that the boxer made false statements to the immigration authorities regarding his acquaintance with Senorita Blanca Lourdes Picart, on the steamer which brought Firpo back from South American.

This second round in the "Wild Bulls" joust with the federal authorities went to him on points and in the afternoon he returned to Saratoga Springs to continue training.

"We are down but we will be up at the bell," said Canon Chase when the postponement had been announced. "We have not been attempting to prevent the fight. We have been wroking for clean administration of government and laws, for clean sport and a clean, single standard of morality for men and women. No, I hardly think I will attend the bout. I don't think I would be wanted."

Denial by Both.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine fighter, met Blanchа Pickart, Cuban and Brazilina manicurist, only casually once in the United States and again in Brazil, before the two took the same ship from South America to this country, according to the statement Firpo made to immigration officals as a result of his detention with the woman when they landed in New York.

The immigration bureau has declined to make public the record of Firpo's statement, but it was learned yesterday that both the fighter and Miss Pickart denied in emphatic terms that she had ever been in Firpo's stateroom on the ship in which the two travelled to the United States.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

"Take your time."

In recent years that has become a big league slogan, particularly as to pitching.

A majority of major league managers have been working on the theory that the pitcher who works slowly is certain to be the more successful.

Yet it is an easy matter to offer proof directly to the contrary.

The theory of the "take-your-time" system on the part of the pitcher is that the delay upsets the batter, throws him off his stride.

Working on the batter through dilatory methods is possible in many ways.

First the pitcher, after rubbing the ball with his hands, walks around the rubber before getting on same, preliminary to receiving the signals.

After the pitcher gets on the rubber the catcher gets in his "dirty work" by being very tardy in giving the signal for the pitch.

In the meantime the batsman, standing in the box, is in anything but a pleasant state of mind. He fusses over the delay, which is the very thought of the tardy methods.

In adopting such tactics the managers have entirely overlooked the feelings of the public.

The baseball fans like action and never have approved of dilatory methods on the ball field.

In the American League, games were dragging to such an extent that President Johnson took the matter into his own hands.

American League pitchers must now take the signals while standing on the rubber, in a position to deliver the ball to the batsman.

This eliminates the many minutes lost through the pitcher parading around the rubber between each pitch. Incidentally he cannot go the ground and soil the ball.

Failure of the pitcher to observe such a system calls for his expulsion from the game.

Since President Johnson put his lutimatum into effect American League games have been speeded up from 15 to 20 minutes.

Managers, in an effort to throw the batter off his stride by slow tactics, seem to have overlooked the fact such methods have the same effect on his fielders.

It is a well-known fact that the fielding is invariably better back of a fast-working pitcher. The fielders seem to absorb the "pepper" of the pitcher.

One need only to look over the records to get the proof that the greatest pitchers are almost always fast working twirlers.

The great Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, in fact a great majority of the outstanding pitchers of the game, are fast-working.

Looks as if the managers have been "booting" one from several angles with the "take-your-time" theory.

BANTAM GAME.

Young Cops Meet Byersville Sluggers Thursday Night in League Fixture.

Jack Deannard will send his Young Cops up against Walter Byers' proteges, parading themselves under the name of Byersville Sluggers, on Thursday night at the Exhibition Grounds.

It will be a league fixture in the Bantam League and barring Methodist picnics Jack Deanard expects to win. On one other occasion, when an important game was called, the Young Cops' manager discovered that seven on his line-up, including pitcher and catcher were up the lakes on a Methodist picnic. Since then, he considers the religion of his recruits an important aspect in the choice of a player.

SEPARATISTS IN INDIAN COUNCIL OF SIX NATIONS

Royal Commission Finds Chiefs Spurn Canadian Law—Not British Subjects.

IGNORE OTTAWA.

People Live Together as Man and Wife Without Marriage Contract.

OTTAWA August 20 (Canadian Press). "I am fully convinced that the present council undoubtedly have been guilty of serious usurpation of power with regard to the Government of Canada, on the one hand, and the people of the Six Nations Indians on the other, and that for a considerable time they have been acting very much as a law unto themselves," says Col. Andrew T. Thompson, K.C., of Ottawa, who comprised the Royal Commission appointed by the Dominion Government to inquire into the conditions among the Indians on the Six Nations Reserve at Ohsweken, near Brantford, last fall.

It is clear from the evidence submitted by a number of witnesses at the inquiry, proceeds Col. Thompson, in that part of his report dealing with the powers assumed by the council, "that the Council of Chiefs, in several instances, have undertaken to deal with the property of the Six Nations quite independently of the Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs at Ottawa.

"The Separatist party, if I may so describe it, is exceptionally strong in the Council of Chiefs; in fact, completely dominant there. Its members maintain, and it is a logical sequence from the position, that not being British subjects, they are not bound by the Canadian law," the report says.

"On the question of morality on the Reserve," Col. Thompson says: "The people live together as man and wife without ever having contracted marital relations with any one."

Lacrosse games held on the Reserve on Sunday for profit come in for censure from Col. Thompson.

Should Elect Council.

In dealing with the methods of electing chiefs, the report says that those advocating a change in the system of government have fully established their contention, and that an elective system should be inaugurated at the earliest possible date. The franchise should be given to all male Indians of the band 21 years of age or over. The consensus of opinion was that for the time being the franchise should not be extended to women.

As to the composition of the Council, Col. Thompson says that a council of 14, with a chairman corresponding to the Reeve of a rural municipality, 15 in all, would not be excessive.

TO MEET FARMERS.

Agricultural Advisory Committee To Meet Farmers of Peterboro County Here Sept. 26.

W. H. Bradburn, M. P. P., informed the Examiner to-day that the Government Agricultural Advisory Committee will meet the representatives of Agricultural organizations of the county here, on September 26.

The meeting will be held at the Court House and Agricultural problems and matters in reference to Government assistance will be discussed.

Honorable Dr. Jamieson, former Speaker of the House is chairman of the committee.

GOSH, WHAT A FUNNY LOOKING BOTTLE!

If tiny Marion Lawson thinks she's going to get milk through the rubber tube she's greatly mistaken. She's going to get a nice mouthful of gas for a bad cold. She was the first baby in Georgia to take the chlorine gas treatment from a machine made for infants, and Miss Gladys Whittaker, nurse at Grady Hospital, Atlanta, is shown administering it.

A Cousin of the Prince of Wales is a Clerk In National Ameri can Bank in New York City

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(United Press).—"Good morning Mr. Dimitri," is the greeting a quiet, unassuming young man receives each morning as he enters the National American Bank, where he is employed as a clerk in the foreign exchange department. But a few short years ago this same young man was addressed as "Your Royal Highness," and was surrounded by a small army of servivors who wait at his beck and call.

Then he was the Prince Dimitri, son of Grand Duke Alexander and the Grand Duchess Xenia, nephew of the Czar and cousin of the Prince of Wales whom he has often visited at Buckingham Palace. The war came, and the upheaval of Russia which resulted in the termination of the rule of the Romanoffs and scattered the royal family throughout Europe.

Prince Dimitri escaped to France with his father and grand-mother where he made his home with them in Paris until a few months ago then he came to America.

He is the only member of his family in the United States, where he expects to take any advantage his birth might bring him.

BUILDING PERMITS INDICATE DECLINE

Seasonal Trend is Downward —This Year 11.5 Per Cent. Less Than Last.

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—A substantial decrease occurred in the building permits issued by 56 Canadian cities last month, according to statements received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The value of the permits issued, following the usual seasonal trend, declined from $13,373,987 in June to $11,090,760 in July, This was a reduction of 19.1 per cent. As compared with the same month of 1923 there was a falling off of 11.5 per cent.

In 49 cities, 1,200 permits for dwellings valued at $4,900,000 were issued, and 2,700 for other buildings valued at more than $6,000,000. The value of authorized buildings in Montreal was greater than in the preceding month and greater than in July, 1923. In Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver there were declines both from the previous month and the same month last year. Of the other cities, St. John, Kingston, Niagara Falls, Stratford, Sault Ste. Marie, Calgary and Prince Rupert registered increases in projected buildings as compared with both June, 1924, and July, 1923.

PROHIBITION FIGHT.

Drys Plan a Campaign With Dr. Albert Moore as Leader.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).— Rev. J. Bailey, secretary, announces that the Ontario Prohibition Union is shaping its plan for conducting a campaign in connection with coming plebiscite. A committee representing the prohibition organizations of the Province has already been at work.

The campaign committee has secured as leader of the plebicite committee Rev. T. A. Albert Moore, of the social service department of the Methodist church. The Methodist board of social service has consented to Dr. Moore's aceptance of the position.

The campaign will be under the direction of a representative Provincial committee—the Prohibtion Union.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

LARRY SEMON LEAVES TO-NIGHT

Patrons who have not seen "The Girl in the Limousine" Larry Semons first feature length comedy, should by all means, see its last local screening to-night at the Royal. Here is a comedy too good to be missed.

"THE TOWN SCANDAL" DELIGHTFUL COMEDY AT ROYAL, THUR. FRI. SAT.

Gladys Walton, the dainty little star who so closely resembles Mary Pickford, is to be seen again at the Royal Thursday. Miss Walton excells in flapper roles and in "the Town Scandal" has the part of a slangy chorus girl who stirs up the old home town.

An expose of a small town Purity League by a chorus girl gives food for action. In "The Town Scandal", there's an element of humor that extends from behind the footlights of a Broadway theatre to a small town newspaper office. The chorus girl writes a series of stories of her experiences which involves several of the leading citizens in a near scandal She doesn't mention any names, but tramps heavily on the toes of the old boys and the resulting action is a riot.

CANDY MATINEES AT ROYAL

Thursday, Friday Saturday at 2.30

LIBERAL POLICY IS LOWERING OF COST OF LIVING

Premier King Enunciates the Principles For Which His Party Stands—at Chatham.

TAXATION BURDEN.

Hon. James Murdock Says Men Should Take the Class of Work Offered Them.

CHATHAM, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—The policy of the Liberal party as laid down by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King at the Liberal picnic at Rondeau Park yesterday afternoon, is to consider first the home and its need, to so shape the finances of the country that the public debt will be reduced, the deficit on the National Railways reduced, immigration encouraged and the cost of living brought down by reduced taxation. He claimed that during the short time the Government had been in power they had reduced the public debt, reduced expenditures, increased revenue, increased trade and reduced the taxes of the people.

While a large amount of expenditure is fixed, he stated, the different department heads of the Government were practicing vigorous economy, as instanced by the fact that they had reduced the civil servants of the country by 4,000. When asked by a voice in the audience why the Government had not also reduced the indemnity of members of the House of Commons by $1,500, the Premier replied that public men had many calls made upon them and if representatives of the people were not given a sufficient eolument for their services only wealthy men would be able to run for Parliament.

Taxation is a Burden.

The aim of the government, he stated, was to reduce the duty on implements needed in the basic industries of the country, to reduce production costs and thereby reduce the cost of living.

While he favored certain forms of protection when it made the cost of manufacture higher, and also the cost of production of natural products more expensive, protection, he said, was taxation, and taxation was not a blessing—it was a burden.

Hon. James Murdock stated that the question of unemployment would not be as acute in Canada to-day if every man would take the work that is offered him. Some men, he stated, were too particular regarding the style of job they demanded.

Hon. George P. Graham spoke at length on the Canadian National Railways problem, lauding the efforts of Sir Henry Thornton. He predicted that Canada is on the eve of better times.

TO PICNICKERS

Careless picnickers. Well, who can deny to the words?

It matters not if the potato salad does get saturated with the juice of the squashed berry pie or even if the boiled eggs are flavored with waxed paper. No, it doesn't matter so long as there is enough, for in the new environment conventions are forgotten and the picnickers find relief from the monotony of the daily routine, in the departure from the usual run of things.

On some grassy knoll, by a singing brook, or the great quiet waters of a lake, to the merry picnickers the battered lunch seems more appetizing than a dainty spread of delicacies in an inclusive cafe chantant. In the presence of a glowing fire, exhilarated by the fresh air and glorious sunshine of God's great open space, at the picnic lunch, the pernickety become hearty and the salubrious ravenous.

Along the banks of the Otonabee and here and there about the shores of Chemong, Rice and other lakes in the county, numerous pork and bean cans, egg shells, lunch boxes and the like mark the scenes of many picnic parties and indicate the chosen and favourite spots.

There is no necessity for Peterborough folks to travel many miles in vain search of suitable picnic grounds. The locality abounds in them. Within handy distance of the city there are literally hundreds of ideal sights on the water's edge. The thousands of tourists and many visiting cruisers that come from all parts of the continent to experience the unsurpassed beauty of the Kawartha lakes, bear testimony to this.

Even bordering the city limits, within a few yards of the street car line, there is a tempting place for a family picnic. Jackson Park affords an ideal setting with its pine groves and winding brooklet. Its rangy slopes provide a haven for frolicksome children and one might travel miles in fruitless search to find the equal to the beautiful verdure and scenery of Jackson park.

Then, within twenty minutes to an hour's run by motor, there are multifarious places for picnickers. Too numerous to mention are the splendid sights along the Otonabee to the north and to the south of the city, as well as the many bays and little peninsulas that indent Chemong, Little Mud and Rice Lakes. For the auto owner who desires to take his family or friends for a picnic of an evening, or an afternoon, there is a diversified choice.

For those nature loving citizens who enjoy a picnic lunch, the vicinity of Peterborough offers a rare opportunity, an opportunity that is only conceived by others less fortunate.

A prophet is without honour in his own country. So, perhaps, it is with the wonders of nature, or does nearness of position merely result in a passive appreciation?

At any rate, accessible to Peterborough picnickers are waters of historic importance. The same waters over which Champlain and his party passed, the same waters, whose beauty and splendour annually attract thousands of American tourists.

THOSE WHO WALK ALONE

Women there are on earth, most sweet and high,
Who lost their own and walk bereft and lonely,
Loving that one lost heart until they die,
Loving it only.

And so they never see beside them grow
Children, whose coming is like breath of flowers;
Consoled by subtler loves the angels know
Through childless hours.

God deeds they do; they comfort and they bless
In duties others put off till the morrow;
Their look is balm, their touch is tenderness
To all in sorrow.

Betimes the world smiles at them as 'twere shame,
This maiden guise, long after youth's departed;
But in God's Book they bear another name—
"The faithful-hearted."

Faithful in life and faithful unto death,
Such souls, in sooth, illume with lustre splendid
That glimpsed, glad land wherein the Vision saith,
Earth's wrongs are ended.

OF NOBLE DESCENT

Mlle. Helen Roy, daughter of M. Phillippe Roy, commissioner-general for Canada in France, and great grand-daughter of Rev. George McDougall, pioneer Methodist missionary to the Indians of Alberta, has been married in Paris to Philippe Moleux, who won the Croix de Guerre in the Great War. Dr. McDougall gave his life for the prairie Indians in a time of famine, dying in a blizzard while seeking food for them.

TRUE TO HER VOWS.

Miss Jessie I. Sweetman, for twelve years the deaconess who gave aid to travellers at the Toronto Union Station, is going to her new duties at Simcoe Street Methodist Church, Hamilton, after the first holiday she has taken for many years. Her departure from Toronto was made the signal for an outburst of enthusiasm among the sob sisters of the city newspapers. She was also the subject of the leading editorial of the day in the Toronto Star, which undertook to express to her the thanks of the city.

But that is not the story of Jessie Sweetman. Her work was everything to her. She was on the job fifteen hours regularly every day. Yet she left it on the call of duty as expressed in the action of the stationing committee of the Methodist Deaconess Society. Faithful to her ordination vow, she accepted what meant complete defeat in a long fight to keep the blue uniform of her Order in the station. In future the Travellers' Aid workers wear ordinary clothes. That is the story.

KINGSTON GAME WAS CALLED OFF

Wet Grounds Responsible—Game Here Saturday.

KINGSTON, Ont., August 20 (Special to The Examiner). — The heavy rain of this morning left the Kingston ball field a sea of mud and water, and as a result the first game of the Central Ontario League play-off between the Kingston Ponies and the Petes had to be called off.

The Petes arrived in town at 1.45 o'clock, ready for the battle, but play was impossible.

The game will be played in Kingston on Wednesday of next week, so that the Ponies-Petes fixture at Peterborough on Saturday will be the first game of the series.

BELLEVILLE STORE HAS BEEN LOOTED

Goods to the Value of $1,000 Taken—Slight Clues Were Left.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 20 — The Ritchie Co., Ltd., store, 266 274 Front street, was entered last night, and goods valued at $1,000 taken. After entering the Ritchie store, the burglars also gained an entrance to the A. W. Vermilyea and Son shoe store, next door south in the building, where they stole six club bags and two suits cases, as well as eight pairs of boots and shoes for men and women and a few pair for children.

Investigation showed that entrance had been effected by climbing a telephone pole and swinging over bars and a steel barred door which was securely locked with a Yale lock, which they pulled off.

The only clue left is a pair of shoe rubbers, badly worn, which it is believed were used in scaling the pole, and a pair of dark brown spats.

LIBERAL WOMEN MEET COMPLETING PLANS

Have Organized To Assist in Welcome to Premier Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King on Aug. 28.

The meeting of the Liberal Women's Organization held last evening in connection with the picnic to be held on Thursday, August 28th in honour of Rt. Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King and his colleagues was one of the most enthusiastic ever held by this organization.

Like the men's organization they are sincerely bent on making this event the largest jolliest and most enthusiastic ever witnessed in the Province of Ontario. Everything possible is being arranged to prove to the Premier that the people of Peterborough and vicinity are delighted to do honour to Canada's public men.

President J. J. Hartley and a number of committee chairmen were also present and the greatest of co-operation exists. It was pointed out that Peterborough was in earnest in doing honour to Mr. King as Premier of the Dominion of Canada.

The street decorations, automobile parade, band concerts and the programme of sports, consisting of all the girls' soft ball teams of this section, half a dozen baseball teams, and the tug-of-war contest, all of which will be given suitable prizes, the fireworks and the social evening, to say nothing of the interesting speeches will be something long to be remembered by those who attend.

Arrangements are under consideration whereby all the children who attend will be presented with a souvenir of the occasion.

Further meetings are being arranged and the details will be complete and reported in a few days.

WEDDING BELLS.

WARD—HOAR.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Beverly Street Baptist Church, Toronto, on August 6th by the Rev. Mr. Forde, when Minnie Beatrice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Hoar of Salem Avenue, Toronto, was united in marriage to Percy Mason aWrd, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Ward of McClennan Street, Peterboro. The bride, attired in her travelling suit of navy blue, entered the church, which was prettily decorated on the arm of her father. Miss Marion Powell of Peterboro acted as bridesmaid. The groom was assisted by his brother Mr. Jack Ward of Peterbroro.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served to a large number of guests, after which the bride and groom left by motor for London and points west. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside at 122 Yorkville Avenue, Toronto.

COWARD—SMALLEY.

On Tuesday, August 12th, at Simpson, Sask., a pretty but quiet wedding took place, when Miss Gertrude Mary Smalley, sister of Mr. Harry Smalley, became the bride of Mr. Thomas James Christopher Coward, of Renown, Sask, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coward, of Otonabee Township, Ont.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Henry Moore, minister of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Simpson.

The bride who entered the room on the arm of her brother, was becomingly attired in a gown of blue silk crepe trimmed with a delicate shade of pink. She wore a black lace hat with ostrich feather, and carried a bouquet of sweet heart roses, carnations and gypsophila. Linum, carnations, sweet peas and alyssum decorated the rooms and the bride's table.

After the signing of the register the wedding luncheon was served.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pretty fur choker, the matron of honor receiving a diamond bar pin, and the groomsman a pearl and ruby scarf pin.

The bride's going away costume was a neatly tailored navy blue twill with hat to match. Following a short honeymoon in Saskatoon, Mr. and Mrs. Coward will make their home in Renown, Sask.

CALDWELL—INGALL.

At the home of the bride's parents, prettily decorated with summer flowers, the wedding took place on Tuesday, August the 19th, of Effie Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Ingall, of Peterborough, and Dr. William E. Salem Caldwell, of Detroit, son of Mr. J. Y. Caldwell of Ottawa. The ceremony was performed by the Rev W. Harold Young, pastor of George Street Methodist Church. The groom was supported by his brother, Dr. Ernest Caldwell.

The bride who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of ivory flat crepe, embroidered with pearls; with train of Spanish lace lined with white georgette. She wore a coronet of real lace, the tulle veil being caught at the sides with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond bar pin, the gift of the groom, and her bouquet was a shower of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Her only attendant was her sister Miss Vera Ingall, becomingly gowned in buttercup yellow georgette, with gold shoes and stockings and wearing a gold bandeau on her hair.

Soft music was played throughout the ceremony by Miss Muriel Bontei and during the signing of the register Mrs. J. E. Middleton, sang "O Perfect Love."

Later Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell left for a trip to Duluth, the bride, wearing a suit of wet sand shade, with hat and shoes to match, and georgette scarf trimmed with ostrich.

Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell will reside in Detroit.

YOUNG—FOY.

Early this afternoon a wedding took place at 515 King Street, when Hilda Foy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Card, of Peterborough, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Howard Young, son of Field-Major and Mrs. Young, of England, by Commandant Smith of the Salvation Army. The parents of the bridegroom are both officers of the Army.

The young couple left on the 3.45 train for Toronto, and upon their return will reside in the city.

DALTON—MORAN

St. Leo's Church, Detroit, Mich., on Tuesday morning, August 12th was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding when Dorothy (Dot) Moran of Uxbridge, Ont., became the wife of Percy Dalton of Peterboro, Ont. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Father Coughlin. The bride looked charming, dressed in a white silk canton crepe beaded dress with a white hat and shoes to match. She carried a corsage of white roses. She was attended by her bridesmaid, Miss Fanny Lansfield, Fenelon Falls Ont., attired in a light blue silk canton crepe beaded dress with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was attended by his nephew, Mr. Leonard Leahy of Peterboro, Ont. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Leahy, Euclid avenue, where a sumptuous dinner was served to their immediate friends. They will reside in Detroit.

FRANCE PREPARES TO WITHDRAW HER THOUSANDS FROM THE RUHR

Railway Men and Economic Staffs of French and Belgian Officials.

CIVILIAN FORCES

Economic Evacuation Will Not Begin Until London Pact is Signed.

PARIS, August 21 (Canadian Press). — The first step towards actually putting the Dawes plan into operation probably will be taken at the Cabinet meeting to-day, when there will be appointed some of the various officials who will represent France in the Dawes plan organisation, or at least the members of the committee of French experts who will co-operate with the Germans in putting the final touches to the plan for the economic evacuation of the Ruhr.

This evacuation will not begin until after the London agreements have been signed, which ceremony has been set for 30th August.

As there are many thousands of French and Belgian railroad men and large economic staffs who are comfortably settled in Germany, there will be quite a task to unscramble all of the affairs in which the civilian forces of occupation have taken part during the last year and a half.

Reports that the economic evacuation had begun, which were circulated early yesterday, were denied by the Foreign Office and the Ministry of Public Works.

ENDORSED BY BELGIUM.

BRUSSELS, August 21 (Canadian Press). — After listening yesterday to a detailed account of the recent reparation conference in London, the Belgian Cabinet unanimously endorsed the conduct of affairs by Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hymans and congratulated them on the agreements reached.

The Cabinet appointed Louis De Brouckere as Belgium's third delegate to the League of Nations. He will take the place of Baron Beyens, who requested that he be permitted to relinquish the post.

REDUCTION OF DEBTS?

ROME, August 21 (Canadian Press). — The Minister of Finance, Professor De Stefani, and the Minister of Economy, Signor De Nava, Referring to the question of interviews published in Rome newspapers on their return rom the London conference.

They regard as of the utmost importance the adoption by the conference of the principle of arbitration which safeguards Europe from precipitate action.

Signor De Nava asserted that Italy was the only nation represented at the conference which did not find it necessary to modify its line of conduct.

Reerring to the question of interallied debts, he contended that, having regard for the fact that the Dawes plan represents a diminution in the claims all around it could not be thought of that America and Great Britain would not release their claims.

POLITICS HUM OVER THE LONDON AGREEMENT.

PARIS, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Parliamentary groups yesterday were actively generating enthusiasm or depression, according to their political complexion, but even Premier Herriot's worst enemies would not predict his fall when he faced the Legislature to-day. His friends say that the approval of the London accord is certain, while his adversaries expect merely to give him a few disagreeable hours and get themselves on the record.

The Premier's opponents are downcast because they think they have excellent material to attack the Government, particularly on Premier MacDonald's letter which they interpret as showing that Great Britain is not a friend of France, and as a proof that the bankers will try and drive the French from the Ruhr before the time agreed upon at the international conference.

Enemies Are Wary.

The trouble is that M. Herriot's political enemies do not dare to attempt an overthrow of the Government now that an apparent solution of the reparations question has been reached.

M. Poincare's course is still unknown, but it is believed he will make a bitter analysis of the Premier's negotiations in London.

Former Finance Minister Klotz has become the spokesman for a group that insists that Parliament ought not to be asked to act without discussion the complete text drafted in London. Others suggest that the Senate can go home after hearing M. Herriot to-day, and discuss the plan later.

There are many who believe the Dawes plan alters or replaces the Treaty of Versailles, and therefore must be ratified by Parliament after it is signed.

CONVENTION OF INSURANCE MEN

Professor Swanson of the University of Saskatchewan Confident of Canada.

HER DAY TO COME

WINNIPEG, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Success in the insurance business and in every other business should come only when the people really got down to hard work, declared Prof. Swanson, of the University of Saskatchewan, in addressing the opening session of the annual convention of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada here yesterday.

The afternoon session was held at Winnipeg Beach.

J. H. O'Connor, president of the local branch of the Association, formally opened the convention, which is being attended by delegates from all parts of Canada.

Edward Morwick, of Hamilton, National president of the association, in his address, outlined the principal events of the past year, and emphasised the necessity for staunch support from every man engaged in the business, and pointed out some of the benefits already accomplished by the Dominion-wide organisation.

Reviewed Year's Work.

Briefly reviewing the "high spots" of the year's activities, Mr. Morwick told of the efforts of the association which had been successful in pointing out to the Alberta Government

Deputy to Geneva From Governor of Carolina

GENEVA, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Philip S. Henry, bearing a signed and sealed document from Governor Cameron Morrison of North Carolina, appointing Mr. Henry a special commissioner from North Carolina, arrived in Geneva yesterday. League of Nations officials are somewhat puzzled over how to receive him.

Mr. Henry has not yet presented his credentials, but it was said the League officials were going to welcome him as a representative American, anxious to learn about the league, and particularly as the governor's impressive document concludes with the words, "I do hereby confer on him all rights, privileges and powers useful and necessary to the just and proper discharge of duties to his appointment."

STATE DEMANDS EYE FOR AN EYE

Smiles Fade From Faces of Leopold and Loeb as They Hear Plea.

BUT ONE VERDICT.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Formal demand for the lives of Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard A. Loeb at the end of a hangman's rope in return for the life they took when they kidnapped little Bobby Franks and beat his head in with a cold chisel rang through Judge John R. Caverly's court Tuesday afternoon, signalizing the beginning of the end of the most sensational criminal case in American jurisprudence.

The State's first demand for the death penalty was voiced by Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Marshall, who led off a week of final argument over the fate of the two young slayers. Said Marshall:

"There is but one question before this court, and that is:

"What punishment is proportionate to this crime?

"It is the prosecution's contention that there can be but one rightful verdict—the death penalty."

The smiles and smirks that have characterized the manner of "Dicky" and "Babe" most of the time during the five weeks of the trial faded completely away as Marshall swung into his opening plea for the noose.

They listened attentively, they leaned over and whispered occasionally to their attorneys, but they did not laugh as they have laughed during the most solemn moments of the trial.

There are three verdicts possible in this case, Marshall pointed out—a sentence of fourteen years, a life sentence, and—death. He reminded Judge Caverly that the laws of the State and the decisions of the Supreme Court have always demanded that the punishment be proportionate to the crime. The limit in crimes should merit the limit in punishment.

No Ordinary Crime

This was no ordinary crime, committed in the heat of an overwhelming passion, Marshall declared. He added:

"It was deliberate, cold blooded murder of a little schoolboy, carried out fiendishly after months of careful planning."

Therefore—the death penalty.

From this line of reasoning Marshall soon branched off into precedents and authorities in which he is particularly well versed. He plunged into a whole library full of lawbooks and decisions—spread out on a desk in front of him. He read from them at length, always and ever recurrent being the precept that "the punishment must be proportionate to the moral turpitude of the crime."

Responsibility, Mr. Marshall maintained, was not a matter of degree, but in the sight of the law, a fixed standard.

"A man is either wholly responsible, in a legal sense, or he is not responsible at all," he said. "If these defendants knew that they were doing wrong, if they realized that what they were doing would subject them to justice, then they are to be punished according to the law."

The Assistant State's Attorney told Judge Caverly that the Court

PRINCE SEEKING REST ON RANCH SAILS SATURDAY

Weary of Continued Round of Formal Functions—Can't Accept Invitations.

LANDS AT NEW YORK.

Official Visit to President Coolidge and Will See Polo Games.

LONDON, August 21. — "The greatest service the American press can do for the Prince of Wales is to try to convince their readers that he is a tired young man who looks on his trip to the United States and Canada in the light of a long-sought and much-needed holiday."

This statement was made at St. James's Palace by one of the Prince's equerries.

The Prince has no public engagement of any kind during the brief period which remains before his departure on the Berengaria on Saturday, August 23. His Royal Highness and staff were kept busy yesterday making preparations for the tour and doubtless they will be kept so while they are in London.

"The moment the Berengaria arrives at quarantine the Prince will go over the side, board a waiting steam yacht, and proceed to Oyster Bay.

"Those of us upon whom the burden rests to convince the American people that it is truly the wish of the Prince to get away from everything suggesting formality, fervently hope that this manner of entry into the United States may result the way we anticipate.

Prince Tired Out.

"After all, the American people are primarily kindly, considerate and understanding, and here is a young man who wants, and needs, a respite from from formal functions.

"The Prince is including the United States in his visit to his Canadian ranch solely because he wants to see the British polo team beat the cup defenders.

"He is tired out from a most strenuous year and wants to be allowed to roam around like an ordinary human being."

Although it has been made known that the trip is unofficial, and in the nature of a recreative holiday, the prince has had umerous invitations from different parts of Canada to attend functions of various kinds. Some of these it would be impossible to accept in point of date, apart from other considerations. No formal programme of actual dates has yet been arranged and thus great uncertainty prevails as to when the royal traveller will be at particular places.

Dates Uncertain.

Some of the larger eastern cities will certainly be visited on the way from the west but the dates are still too uncertan to make acceptance of invitations to definitely fixed functions practicable. The Prince will have a suite of three only apart from the servants.

They will leave London Saturday morning, proceeding by boat express to Southampton, there embarking on the Berengaria for New York.

The meeting of the Prince of Wales and President Coolidge of the United States is a definite fixture but it will be stripped as far as possible of all formality.

Sale of Beer in Small Quebec Hotels Proposed

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—A movement to ask the legislature to amend the Quebec liquor act so as to allow small hotels to sell beer and wine has been started by tourists, and it was stated yesterday that at the next session it was altogether likely that the provincial authorities would be asked to remove the present restrictions in this regard.

The tourists complain that while camping out in the smaller towns and taking their meals in small boats they are unable to secure beer or wine.

MARS SWINGS NEAREST THE EARTH ON FRIDAY

Above are two telescopic views of Mars made from an observatory in France. The picture on the left shows the planet as it appeared last October. The dark long oblong within the light area is the Solix Lacus and the smaller dark spot is L. Phoenicis.

To the right is a view of Mars taken five days later. The canal Ganges, which is seen running down to the left darkest dot, was very faint.

Below is an astronomical chart showing the relative positions of the Earth, Sun and Mars on Aug. 22. Mars will be 35 million miles from the earth, while at the other extreme of their orbits the two planets are over 200,000,000 miles apart.

Mars, the brilliant red planet that dominates the southern sky these evenings will be at its nearest opposition to the earth in all time on Friday, August 22.

It will come within 35 million miles of the earth and astronomers and other scientists are inclined to believe that sensational information of the planet will be available.

Efforts to signal the planet; to determine whether the planet is inhabited will be made.

BROKEN PLANE AT VANCOUVER

British Airman Returns From North Pacific, Where His Hopes Were Shattered.

HAMPERED BY FOG.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 21.—To be first around the world by air—that ambition which launched Major A. Stuart MacLaren and his party on the globe-encircling flight five months ago—is still the goal at which the daring aviator aims.

"Of course, it all depends on the Americans," he commented as H.M.S. Thiepval dropped anchor off the Jericho Air Station yesterday. "If they get around it is all up. The thing has to be done."

Trawler's Trip Ends.

When the little trawler let her anchor drop she ended a cruise which began on March 1. Within a few minutes under the direction of Pilot W. H. Plenderleith, the crew of the vessel assisted by men from Jericho were at work lowering the hull of the ill-fated flying boat from its perch on the after-deck of the trawler into the water. The engine which never missed a beat in the fourteen thousand miles of flying was deposited in a dory and the remains of the tiny craft which met its doom in the storm waters of the Northern Pacific were taken ashore to await shipment to England.

It was a great test for the plane, declared Major MacLaren. Flying every day for months on end and without the opportunity of having the craft gone over thoroughly, was much more of a test than daily flights of regular commercial planes overhauled at the end of each trip. Also the world fliers flew from seven to nine hours daily.

Dogged By Fog.

Major MacLaren stated that he had never in his life experienced such continued bad weather. Almost continuously adverse conditions were met with from the very start. Along the China coast they flew through rain so dense that it was as bad as for for visibility. They made nine jumps in the Northern Pacific after they left Japan and every day was through solid fog.

"We flew above the fog at times, but that did not make much difference," he said. "We had to come down some time and landing in a fog is dangerous business. Even above the fog we could not see anything. It was always a question whether we should go further in the fog than would allow us to return to our starting point for more fuel. Several times we went ahead so far that we could not have got back with the fuel we had. If we had not been able to find our next depot the jig would have been up.

"If our accident had happened at Dutch Harbor or some better frequented port we could have had another plane shipped to us from Montreal and continued, but only for the Thiepval we should have had to wait for a whole year to get away from Nikolski and we could not get our new boat out there any sooner.

SOVIET CONCESSION.

Mining Rights Bought By English Company For $100,000.

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.— A mining concession of zinc, silver, lead and copper at Tyutinkha Bay, in the Priamur district, has been granted by the Council of Commissars to the Vladivostok firm of Briner and Company, in which the Becos Engineering Corporation of England has an interest.

The concessionaires paid the government $100,000 for ore lying on the surface of the earth and has undertaken to spend $150,000 in five years in exploration work and building smelting and other plants. The concession is to run for a period of 35 years and the government has reserved to itself the sole right to purchase the entire output of the mines for market.

In the days before the war the mines in this vicinity were successfully worked. In 1911 the output was 25,000 tons of zinc, 4,500 tons of silver and lead ore, 72 tons of copper ore. The mines were owned by Germans.

SAXONY BANS OLD SONGS.

DRESDEN, Germany, Aug. 21.—"Silent Night Holy Night" and all other religious songs, as well as "The Watch on the Rhine" and numerous other patriotic airs, have been eliminated from the school song books of Saxony. This action is a result of the pressure brought to bear on the authorities by the Communists.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The body of a woman, thought to be Bertha Lapointe, one of the six victims of the rowboat tragedy of last Sunday, was recovered yesterday on one of the islands opposite Contrecoeur near here.

NEW SCHEME TO HELP SETTLERS

Hon. J. A. Robb Signs Agreement in London For Settlers Coming to Canada.

DETAILS NOT KNOWN

LONDON, Aug. 21.— (Canadian Press Cable.)— Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Immigration for Canada, yesterday signed a new agreement with the British Government providing for financial assistance to British land settlers in Canada.

HELP IN ESTABLISHMENT.

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Officials of the Immigration Department here are not as yet in possession of the complete details of the new agreement between Canada and Great Britain regarding financial assistance for British settlers.

It was intimtaed here that the scheme upon which Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Immigration has been working provides that the British Government will render financial assistance for people leaving the British Isles not only in respect to transportation but in the actual establishment of the settlers in agriculture in Canada. Under the scheme the Canadian Department of Immigration would lend its machinery to carry on the administrative work of settling the new arrivals and to make the necessary collections which would be refunded to the home Government. Mr. Robb has been in negotiation with the British Overseas Settlement Board in London for some weeks past.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN ITALY

SOME DISTRESS IN WEST WHERE CROP WITHERED

Saskatchewan Economic Board Favors Financial Survey in Prairie Provinces.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Situation Series in Some Sections—75 Municipalities Affected.

REGINA, Sask., August 21 (Canadian Press). — Discussion of measures of relief other than debt adjustment for Saskatchewan farmers in districts hard hit by the crop failure occupied the time of the permanent Saskatchewan Economic Board meeting here yesterday.

Following a lengthy debate, during which it was suggested that the banks furnish averages of financial dealings with the farmers, a resolution was adopted favouring an investigation of the financial conditions throughout the Western Provinces.

A committee of five under the direction of Urof. Swanson, of the University of Saskatchewan, will be appointed to carry out the survey.

Hon. C.M. Hamilton, Minister of Agriculture, told the gathering that the Government already had the matter of relief under advisement, and intended to hold conferences with the retailers, as one of the big creditors class, and representatives of other organisations interested.

Cheaper money and cheaper production costs generally, was the solution of the farmers' troubles, Mr. Hamilton said.

"I don't think that we should conceal the situation. It would be better to say that we had some distress, but that we are taking steps to see that it is relieved than to have it come out that much was not relieved," Mr. Hamilton concluded.

Delegates estimated that there would be distress of some sort or another in about 25 municipalities this winter. In some districts the situation was very grave; in others, not quite so serious.

GERMANS FEAR A PEASANT REVOLT

Peasants Threaten to Rise in Protest Against High Taxes and H. C. L.

MUNICH, Aug. 21.—(Associated Press.)—The peasants of Germany are threatening to revolt. It is no fun, they assert, being a farmer in this country where there are so many high taxes of one kind or another, to say nothing of the high cost of living.

At a meeting of the Bavarian Christian Farmers' Union the situation confronting the small land owners, as brought about mainly by the attitude of the government, was discussed for two entire days.

Dr. Schlittenbauer, the general secretary of the union, and a dirt farmer himself, called attention to the precarious conditions with which present have to contend, and said that there was not only the danger of communism looming in the background, but also a social revolution as well. Taxes were generally unsatisfactory and altogether too high, he said.

If the present policy of the Berlin government continues for another seven or eight months the danger will be acute indeed, asserted Dr. Schlittenbauer. Granting credits to the farmers on the one hand and imposing exorbitant taxes on the other, would in the end lead to an explosion in the farmers' revolution, declared the secretary, and most of the union members nodded their approval.

GRAFTED BONE OFF LEG TO THE SPINE

One of the Most Remarkable Operations in History Completed.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 21—(Canadian Press).—Surgeons at Johns Hopkins hospital have performed what they believe to be the most remarkable bone grafting operation in history of the institution. They transplanted a piece of shin bone from the lower right leg to the spinal column of Forrest Wieford, aged 38, of Newport, W. Va. In 1921 Wieford suffered a dislocation of the vertebrae in an auto accident. After more than three years complications set in which necessitated the removal of the vertebrae.

It was not possible to shorten the spine and it was finally decided to take the required amount of bone from the man's right leg.

Physicians and surgeons passed hours at the operating table shaping a piece of shinbone into a vertebra and inserting it in a weakened part of Wieford's back. The operation ended by placing the patient in a cast from his neck to his ankles. It has been pronounced successful.

BEAUTY VERDICT.

Thelma Hill Wins Prize For Ideal Bathing Girl at Palm Beach.

(By A. H. Frederick.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21.— Now is the season of forecasting—complacent, nervous or varying, according to individual temperament.

Those who guide the destinies of the studios listen, ear close to the ground, or strut erect with the security of "inside information."

Consequently it is the season when Mack Sennett, undisputed dean of West Coast judges of feminine beauty, announces the style in girls for the 1924-25 season.

He has done so, palm going to Miss Thelma Hill as the ideal bathing girl of the times. Palm branches, incidentally, may extend as far eastward as Emporia, Kas., for it is from there that Miss Hill comes.

"The boyish figure remains the ideal toward which misses and matrons will strive," is the announcement from the Sennett lot.

"Pronounced curves, no. Waspwaists, also no. Slight and lithe, grace in slender motion, more 'stream line' than otherwise—this is the coming style."

Miss Hill is a member of the famous Sennett Bathing Girl brigade. Honor achieved by her may be conceived when it is considered that 1000 (estimated) young ladies a year seek entrance thereto.

The measurements which won the crown for the Emporia miss are:

Height, 5 feet 3 1-2 inches.
Weight, 112 pounds.
Neck, 12 1-2 inches.
Bust, 34 inches.
Waist, 24 inches.
Hips, 35 inches.
Calf, 13 inches.
Ankle, 7 1-2 inches.
Forearm, 9 inches.
Wrist, 5 1-2 inches.
Upper arm, 10 inches.
Thigh, 21 inches.

FOR PEWTER

Clean pewter dishes with powdered rotten stone applied on flannel wet with linseed oil and turpentine. Then wash in hot soapsuds and dry with a soft chamois or flannel.

MAN SET FIRES TO SEE FLAMES

Youth of 26 Admits Setting Over 100 Fires in the Last Few Months.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press.) — Self-styled "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"—an unassuming youth of 26—blandly confessed to the police yesterday that he had caused over 100 incendiary fires on Manhattan Island in the last few months—"just to see the fire engines in action." "It was a lot of fun," he explained with a smile, "to stand in front of the burning house and know that the people running from the place so madly did not know that the one who had made all the excitement was right there looking at them."

Prisoner George C. Gustow, former bank clerk, and son of Patent Attorney, was held for examination by the Lunacy Commission. It was to his "dual personality" that Gustow credited his fearsome mania for the sight of blazing buildings. Ordinarily he led the usual existence of a youth of his age. But when his second personality took possession of him he declared, he became another person— a fiend who prowled the streets looking for houses to burn.

USE A BRUSH

Corn silk may be removed from ears of corn more quickly with a whisk broom or a vegetable brush than by hand.

SOAP SPOTS

Badly soiled garments should have the dirtiest parts dipped in water, well soaped and tightly rolled up before they are put in the tub to soak.

WHIPPED CREAM APPEARS AGAIN

Germans Were Deprived For Years of Luxury—Ban Now Lifted.

DEMAND IS BIG.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—The people of Berlin are today revelling in whipped cream. During the war, and for a long time thereafter, this luxury of the table was unknown in Germany, so much so that the young generation did not know what the words meant.

But recently it was found that there was enough milk and honey to satisfy a revived demand, so all restrictions were removed at the request of the confectioners.

The demand for the frothy, white delicacy has exceeded even the fondest hopes of the most optimistic dealers. The German dairies have not been able to supply the wants of their customers, and as a consequence great quantities of cream are shipped in daily, chiefly for Berlin, from Holland and some of the Scandinavian countries.

Whipped cream sells in this city for about 50 cents a cake.

WIDENING ROAD.

Marmora Workmen Join Forces at Devine's Corners.

MARMORA, Aug. 21.—The County road gang under the supervision of Mr. William Meboy has moved to Devine's Corners to co-operate with Mr. Frank Berry's gang in the widening and resurfacing operations of the road at that point. This is undoubtedly one of the greatest road improvements the district has seen.

At the usual fortnightly shipping by the Farmer's Club on Tuesday $10 per hundred was paid for hogs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Grant have returned from their tour of the northern limits of Hastings County. They tell of huckleberries being quite plentiful on the McGarry Flats.

WELL NOT A GUSHER.

Production of 500 Barrels a Day Expected From Alberta Well.

EDMONTON, Alta. Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Reports of an oil gusher struck in No. 3 British Petroleum wells in the Wainwright field, were exploded by Newton W. Emmense, field superintendent of the company, on his arrival here yesterday after attending the annual meeting of shareholders at Vancouver last week. The well has not been brought in as a producer as yet and it will likely be two weeks before it can be proved to be a producer.

"The report to the shareholders at Vancouver was misquoted," declared Mr. Emmense today. "But, there is every reason to believe that the well will have a productive capacity of five hundred barrels a day."

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

Minister Returns From Trip to the Old Country—Real Estate News.

COBOURG, August 20. — On Sunday the services among the members and adherents of the Congregational and Methodist Churches here were an earnest of what may be expected later on when union has been accomplished. Rev. James Pedley, a prominent retired Congregational minister, who recently returned from a trip to the Old Country with the Canadian bowlers, preached at the morning service in the Methodist Church, delivering a fine message. This is the first time that Dr. Pedley has preached since returning from his trip abroad. In the evening the pulpit of the Methodist Church was occupied by Rev. A. F. Pollock, pastor of the First Congregational Church at Ottawa, who also gave a fine sermon.

Rev. Finlay Mathieson, of Stratford, preached at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and Rev. J. N. Norton took his own work at the Baptist Church, and Rev. F. J. Sawers at St. Peter's Church.

Real Estate Transfers.

Wiliam Summers has sold to John G. Dennison a property at Gore's Landing.

Mr. A. L. Jex has sold to Frederick W. Bentley a house on Bagot Street, Cobourg.

Sale of Horse.

Moonlight, owned by Mr. Stafford, Montreal ,which won the high jumping event at the Cobourg Horse Show, clearing the ground at 6 feet, and that in a pouring rain, was sold by its owner after the show to Sir Clifford Sifton, and will now become one of Sir Clifford's famous string under the care of Jack Hamilton at the farm near Toronto.

Held Picnic Here.

The scholars, officers, and teachers of the Vernonville Presbyterian Sunday School in Haldimand Township assembled at Victoria Park here to-day for their annual picnic and spent a very happy time. They came early and had dinner at the park, after which there were sports of different kinds. Rain came on late in the afternoon, but not early enough to interfere with the success of the outing.

W.I. Was Active.

The Cobourg Women's Institute showed they were an active and progressive band of ladies by opening a booth at the Horse Show Park during the five days of the big show. They sold hot dogs, and also all of the refreshments that go to make a place of that kind attractive, and had success in their undertaking.

Position at Hamilton.

Mr. Jack Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Allen, of town, and well known in Peterborough, has taken a position at Hamilton with Wood, Alexander & James, wholesale hardware men of that place.

Mrs. W. J. Parsons, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. L. Cruse, Fort Francis, is now going out to Rice Lake, and with Mrs. Niven, will open up the Cruse summer home at Tic Island.

FINE FOREST BURNED.

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C.—Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Forest fires have burned over three square miles near Alice Arm, destroying one of the finest stands of timber in the district. The outbreak was reported yesterday under control. Every available man has been fighting the blaze for several days.

WAR MINISTER TOOK MEAL WITH PRIVATE

Shocks Generals and Staff, But Depreciates Action.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 21.—Mr. Rasmussen, the labor minister for defence drove to some army maneuvers recently and on the way felt the need of a cup of coffee. He asked his chauffeur, a private, to pull up at the nearest country inn. Arriving there, he invited the chauffeur to sit at his table and share the refreshment.

On arrival at the maneuvers the minister soon learned that scouts had already informed the general staff of the incident, and it was gently brought home to him that discipline would suffer if the head of the army made it a practice to take his meals with privates. Minister Rasmussen replied:

"Bless your soul, general, the fellow who drove for me is a working engineer in private life and I am a linotyper, so you see we belong to the same class. Just fancy if you, general, had been my chauffeur, then I do not know how the dickens I should ever have been able to get a cup of coffee."

MATTEOTTI BURIED.

ROME, Aug. 21.— (Canadian Press).The body of Giacomo Matteotti, which was found five miles outside of Rome last Saturday, was taken to his late home in Evetta, Polesine yesterday and placed in a chapelle in the presence of many of his former colleagues in the Socialist party. The body was buried today.

REMEMBER PIUS X.

Roman Throngs Honor Memory of Pope Who Died Ten Years Ago.

ROME, August 21.—Large numbers of candles were lighted and masses of flowers scattered before the tomb of Pius X, in the crypt of St. Peter's yesterday in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the pontiff's death. Throughout the day there was a continuous stream of people attending masses or remaining in private prayer. The Roman populace believes that "Pius the Good" still interests himself in its welfare.

Among the numerous prelates who aided in the celebration of the mass at the tomb were Monsignor Canale Oberti, Auxiliary Bishop of Santa Fe; Abbot Pierari, Postuate General for the Beautification of the tomb; Monsignor Parolin, a nephew, the aged sisters of Pius X, who still live in a humble house near the Vatican where they resided when their brother was Pope, were present.

MIRROR NEVER LIES

Conditions are never any better nor any worse than the average of the public. Economic, moral, ethical, religious and political institutions and conditions are mirrors reflecting the majority of the public.

The poor, forinstance, hate the rich and condemn the system that permits a few to have the lion's share of the world's wealth. This is true in our generation. It has always been true—since the most physically powerful prehistoric man made the weak pay tribute to him.

The poor tolerate the existence of gigantic fortunes because deep in their hearts they nurse the hope that some day they, too, will be in the rich class. They don't want to destroy the goal they aspire to. As long as there's a chance for the poverty-stricken man to become wealthy, the rich need have no fear of being seriously disturbed.

People do not burn down a house they hope to inherit.

A newspaper is a mirror of its readers. The man who reads a conservative paper is a conservative at heart. The man who devours radical publications is a dyed-in-the-wool radical—whether he has the courage of his convictions or not.

You can discover the character, emotional balance and mental state of a man or woman by observing what they read. You will also discover their suppressed functions—as when a weakling reads a physical culture magazine or a timid man submerges himself in virile stories of the great open spaces. Suppressed function is the thing we yearn for without power to obtain it.

Graft on a big scale is a mirror reflecting petty dishonesty among the public. Dishonesty is not just a matter of theft; it exists wherever a man fails to give a fair return for what he gets, either in commodities or service.

The merchant reading his scales a bit in his favor is the genesis of graft by some large corporations. The consumer who snitches a ripe plum when the grocer isn't watching, or who fails to pay his fare when the conductor overlooks him, is a contributor to the system of big plunder.

In politics, too. Government is just as good or just as bad as the average of the people governed. When public ethics are lax, watch for graft in high places. When—as in the last presidential election of the United States—nearly half the eligible voters fail to go to the polls, it reveals an indifference as to whether government is honest or crooked.

The people are the tree; conspicuous conditions, the fruit.

WHEN AIRPLANES SWARM.

Henry Ford is building an aviation field near his tractor plant at Dearborn, Mich. He will experiment. Possibly he contemplates producing cheap airplanes by the millions.

The time is almost ripe for that.

Ford in business imagines nothing but facts. In a recent interview in Collier's Weekly he said: "Airplanes can be commercially developed as soon as they are taken up in a commercial way. As soon as we know as much about them as we do about automobiles—and that will not be long—then they can be built by the thousands or by the millions."

Henry apparently realizes that the airplane industry is on the wrong track. Its main goals are speed and long flights.

For that reason, the airplane is not being developed and brought into popular use a hundredth part as fast as if the main objects were safety and cheap manufacturing.

People will buy airplanes when they are safe and fool-proof.

They will buy airplanes when planes give cheaper service than autos.

Ford has uncannily far vision in his particular industry. Does he sense that the number of autos in use in America has about reached the saturation point or possible limit—and that the time is ripe for another means of transportation?

Primitive man could move about only by his own legs.

Then he tamed the horse and camel and elephant to carry him.

Next came the steam railroad and electric street car, then the auto. These did not displace the horse, as was the early fear. Time demonstrates that we need as many horses as ever. The job of transportation simply got too big for the hors ealone. He needed help.

Similarly, the jo b is getting too big for the auto. Traffic congestion is becoming unbearably acute in cities, where autos are needed most. The airplane is the logical solution. Its "street" is not curbed by sidewalks and blocks or buildings. Where autos are limited to roads, planes have the entire atmosphere—and many levels. Also, no roads to pave and repair.

Experts say that saturation point of auto sales is far from being reached. The number of passenger autos and trucks registered in the United States July 1 was 15,469,840. This was a gain of only about 375,000 in six months, compared with an increase of more than two millions in the preceding half-year.

Dull business conditions account considerably for the falling off in car purchases. Maybe, too, an exceptionally large number of cars went to the junkman the first six months this year.

Some experts place the ultimate auto saturation point as high as 25 million cars. Meantime, airplanes will develop fast.

WELLAND CANAL'S TOLL.

No great human endeavor has ever been consummated without big sacrifice. The construction of the Welland Ship Canal is truly taking a toll of valuable life. Last week three men were killed in the performance of their work, which is being carried out for the good of Canada. These employes were popular with their fellows and esteemed by all with whom they came in contact. Safeguard and surround hazardous undertakings as much as engineering science may, the inevitable always seems to happen. There is no elimination of human fallibility.

When the first and original Welland Canal was built, there was considerable loss of life. We have not improved things much in a hundred years. The Panama Canal when constructed took a huge toll of mankind by disease and accident. All the great achievements have to be paid for. The Chippawa power development was no exception to the rule.

Man, however, still goes forth to conquer, never regarding the price. Considerable advancement may still be made, however, in protecting the workers. By no means have we reached the ultimate in safety.—St. Catharines Standard.

INSANITY AND ABNORMALITY.

Modern psychiatrists hesitate to use the term "insanity." In their textbooks as in their testimony in court they say that while that familiar word may mean something to lawyers and laymen, it has no meaning to the scientific student of the human mind.

The psychiatrist speaks of normal and abnormal beings, of well-balanced and ill-balanced persons, of the adjusted and the maladjusted. When asked if any person is really normal, the psychiatrist's answer is, "Perhaps not." But there are degrees of abnormality. Some persons are very "sick in the head"—a favorite phrase—and others are not quite well.

While reviewing certain expert testimony in cases that present the issue of abnormality many a reader has paused to reflect on his own actions, lapses and temptations, and to wonder whether he, too, is abnormal.

In the name of science all manner of pseudo ideas and half-baked notions have been solemnly put forward and for a time vigorously pressed on society—only to be abandoned or forgotten. But that does not alter the fact that there is a science of the mind, and that certain of its theories gradually gain wide recognition and affect legislation and the judicial application of law.

In the long run science and common sense manage to agree. After all, in the well-known words of Huxley, science is only organized common sense making use of all available data in a given sphere. The average layman has a right to be skeptical and to remind men of science that they make mistakes and frame generalizations which new facts discredit or modify. But the average layman will also bear in mind that prejudice, habit and fixed ideas are often serious obstacles to progress, and that an open mind is as essential in the social as in the physical and exact sciences.

If science is valuable and even indispensable in industry, communication and transportation, it is valuable in jurisprudence and in the treatment of abnormality, mental and moral.—Chicago News.

THE GAME—NOT THE PRIZE.

The whole aim and effort of a civic playground is summed up in the slogan of the chief supervisor, Jerry Goodman, "Play Cricket," says the London Advertiser.

"Let's have sportsmanship at all times," says the supervisor. "Not win at any cost, but play with all your might all the time, win or lose, that's the spirit we wish to inculcate amongst the children in our civic playgrounds."

If the playgrounds of a city did nothing more than to give this spirit life and effect, they would amply pay for their upkeep. Since the war particularly there has been a tendency throughout the English-speaking world—the world that has always prided itself on being the world of sportsmanship—to pay homage more to the spirit of aggression and success than to the older ideal of fair play. The prize has usurped the play. The applause greeting the winner has not been extended in the same way to the losers, with a few exceptions. "To lose," say the go-getters, "is to fail. To fail is to lose caste. Therefore, win."

"Play cricket" was before the war the universal exhortation in England of the sportsmen to competitors. It applied to all sports, of course, and simply meant "play fair." Along with several other items of behavior it formed the code of the gentleman, and was as much observed in every-day life as on the playing fields. It forbade any unfair advantage of opponents, any recrimination of the referee, or the other team if the game was lost. It put the team before the individual, the cause of the whole before the glory of any single member, the victory of the side before the brilliance of even the star of the team. Any man who played in a match in order to show off his good points at the expense of the side committed a breach of good form, and was accordingly ostracized.

The war, with its insistence on gain and its imperative need for victory, killed this ideal, and the awakening has been slow.

Recreation Commissioner Brewer of Detroit told the Union of Canadian Municipalities last week that the age of criminals in the States had fallen from forty to twenty years in the last decade, and he laid the blame on the shoulders of their elders, who had never taught the children how to play.

"The children of today," he said, "don't know how to play. They are bad winners. They have never been taught how to play for the sake of playing. Their attitude on the playing field is that of the business man in his office. They seek a win as he seeks a profit."

He told the convention frankly that the solution of this admittedly serious state of affairs lay in properly supervised civic playgrounds.

It is essential that this ideal of decent, clean manhood should be taught to the children, so that when they grow up and take their place in the affairs of their community they will carry this benefit of practical Christianity with them and put it into practice. It's not an easy thing to do, and it's not work for the incompetent. No man can have imbued too deeply in him the realization that success at any cost is not the only justification of the game of life.

When Chief Supervisor Goodman tells his charges to play cricket, he is showing them the way of all future happiness and formulating a creed that no preacher need be ashamed of. If his teaching bears good fruit, as it should, the next generation will see fewer "pot hunters" in sports, and even the affairs of business will gain by the lesson learned on the civic playground.

A THOUGHT

Seest thou a man that is hasty in his words? There is more hope of a fool than of him.—Prov. 29:20.

He that will be angry for anything will be angry for nothing.—Sallust.

PACKED.

Senator Copeland says: "In my city of New York is a square mile where live 500,000 persons. Just think of it—a half-million in one square mile! Nowhere else on earth—not in India or China—is there anything like it. I can take you to thousands of houses in which 12 persons live in three rooms, where four sleep in the kitchen every night. In hundreds of those so-called homes they live in inside rooms without the outside light or outside air."

The worst part is that this situation is the logical outcome of all civilisation—if continued on the present mechanical basis. Civilisation is a system by which man walls himself into a prison.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, August 21. — There will be no cattle of consequence left over at the Union Stock Yards this week. Steers were bought yesterday at $6.95 to $7.25 a cwt.; heifers, $6.75 to $6.85; and a few heavy choice cows at $5.00 to 5.25 a cwt.

Some bulls for export are being taken at around $3.40 a cwt. In the butchering line the main inquiry is for baby beeves, and good ones are selling at $9.00 to $10.50 a cwt.

Good butchers are selling at $6.35 a cwt., and Frank Hunnisett paid $7.00 a cwt. for a number of the rejected 1,250-pound export steers.

Butchers' cows are just steady. Choice fat cows for export and for kosher killing are $5.00 to $5.50, but the average good cows sell at $4.35, and good mediums at $3.50 to $3.75.

Bulls are easy, and those coming in are mainly bolognas and will go a $2.50 to scarcely $3.00 a cwt.

With calves making 12 1-2 cent tops in Buffalo there has been room for arbitrage between here and that market, and this has pulled up local prices to over a dollar a cwt. for the week. Choice calves sold at 10 to 10 1-2 cents a pound, and good mediums up to near 9 cents. Common calves are 5 to 6 cents a pound.

Lambs were firmer yesterday, with the bulk of ewes 13 to 13 1-2 cents. John Calvert sold one choice package at 13 3-4 cents. Yearlings are fetching 9 cents and choice 140-pound sheep 7 cents.

Hogs are quoted unchanged at $10.50 a cwt. bid f.o.b. and $11.10 fed and watered. Sellers are asking 25 cents a cwt. higher and getting it in some cases.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20. — There was no change in the local cash oats to-day. The flour market was without developments. The millfeed market in unchanged. A very firm feeling prevails in the rolled oats market. The tone of the market for old crop hay remains firm. There was no important change in the egg situation. Demand for butter is good. The cheese market is fairly active. The last of the old crop of beans is being cleared off the market and prices are firm at $3 per bushel for one pound pickers.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 20. —Arrivals 2,945; 255 calves, 1,647 hogs; 408 sheep and lambs.

Listless trading featured the cattle market this morning, all classes showing an easier tendency with the exception of choice killings stuff which remained steady. Stockers and feedtrs were about 25 cents lower compared with last week.

The hog market opened unsettled Prospects are that thick smooths will sell from $9.75 to $9.85.

Trading on the sheep and lamb market continued draggy and prospects are that lambs will sell at lower prices with the week's decline.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 20.— Indications of at least several days of hot weather over a large section of the main part of the corn belt had much to do with bringing about lower prices to-day for all grain. The corn market closed weak at 3-4c to 1 3-4c net decline, December 1.15 7-8 to 1.16. Wheat finished easy, 1-2c to 3-4 down, September 1.27 1-4 to 1.27 3-8 and December 1.33 3-8 to 1.33 1-2 with oats 1-8 to 1-2 off and provisions varying from 10c loss to a rise of 2c.

With a temperature at 100 degrees prevailing in Kansas and with corn territory elsewhere warming up, persistent selling pressure developed in the corn market and in other grain as well. Adverse reports about the condition of the corn crop especially in Iowa, gave the corn market considerable strength shortly after the opening but the likelihood of a wheat wave proved to be much more than a counter balance later.

Possibilities of competition by Argentine corn attracted further notice to-day. In this connection, reports were current that Canada was proposing to bar corn imports from Argentina. It was estimated that so far six million bushels of Argentine corn had been purchased to come to the United States.

STEALER OF FLOWERS MUST TELL OF CRIME

Park Police Prod Thieves Into Shouting Out Confession.

TSINGTAO, China, Aug. 21.—The park police here demonstrated a new and effective mode of punishment for vandals recently when two men were caught stealing flowers.

The officers took the culprits to the main boulevard and made them kneel. To the prodding of police rifles they were made to shout to all passers by why they were being thus treated.

For 15 minutes they were compelled to shout: "I took what did not belong to me and promise never to do it again," while they were made to hold the stolen flowers aloft.

Stop!

WITHIN a split second the wheels are locked in the implacable grip of the brake and your tires scrape and grind into the road, taking every ounce of strain required to check the impetus of your car.

This terrific strain is not taken merely on the treads—it pulls on every cord and layer of rubber in the inner construction of the tire.

The Web Cord process, by eliminating cross threads, enables the cords to lie flat and even in the layers, thus giving each cord maximum resistance to strain and imparting to the tire body greatly increased strength to resist the pull of the car when the brakes are applied.

Sprayed Rubber used in the Dominion Cord Tires adds strength and resilience to the walls and treads.

These improved processes are used exclusively in Canada in Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires.

They are extra values in Dominion Cord Tires which cost you nothing extra.

Petite Dancer Tells of Rapid Fire Courtship and Quick Separation.

ROMANCE TURNS JOKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—"I married thinking I was to have a beautiful home. It turned out to be nothing but a beautiful castle in Spain."

Frances Aileen Milner, eighteen-year-old dancer, said that with a vivacious laugh when asked concerning the whirlwind courtship of Harry Parker Lessard, scion of a wealthy Portland, Maine, family. She spoke of her elopement, her immediate disillusionment, and why she is preparing a suit to have the marriage annulled.

Miss Milner, who bears a striking resemblance to Irene Castle, was seated in her attractive apartment, No. 157 West Eightieth Street, with her mother, Mrs. Aileen Hanrahan.

Romance a Joke.

Her's is a romance of the stage, and of the briefest duration. So brief, in fact, that she humorously speaks of is as:

"My marriage consisted of being hitched by a Justice of the Peace in Grand Rapids, Mich., a kiss, a taxi ride to the hotel for mother's blessing, and then permanent separation."

Miss Milner said that the romance started last January in Portland, Me., when the Little Nellie Kelly company of which she was a featured dancer, was playing a week's engagement. She went on:

"We were stopping at the Victoria Hotel, and while there I met the son of the proprietor, Henry Parker Lessard. He was a typical gilded youth, wore good clothes, was an excellent dancer, had a car and just threw money around. He took me and several other girls out in his machine and for a week he showed us an awfully good time.

Followed Her West.

"When the show left on a Western tour, Harry followed. I soon learned that I was the reason. He just tacked himself on, and in two months he was considered a fixture in the company.

"His attention to me displeased mother, and time and again she begged him to return home, even threatened to inform his father of his infatuation."

The lithe, svelt dancer jumped up from the deep divan in which she had been sitting, walked to a window and looked out a minute, then turned and continued:

"Harry got my consent to an elopement through fraud. He said that he would have a large fortune some day, that he was receiving an income of a thousand dollars a week, and that I could have a home—everything I wanted! if only I would marry him.

"He finally got me when I was in the dumps. My spirits were at ebb that morning in Grand Rapids. You know when you awake and the world in general looks gray and miserable. Well, Harry telephoned me at the hotel, and asked if he could take me for a drive. I went.

Others Urged Her.

"I found him with two other companions. They immediately began urging me to marry Harry. I honestly don't know why I did it, but I finally consented. Right at that minute a home of my own looked so much better than trouping on one-night stands and my hard work.

"We got a license, were married in the next room, and then went to tell mother.

"Oh, boy, she sure read the riot act. And in less than half-an-hour she had my husband admit that he was solely dependent upon an allowance from his father. Incidentally, this allowance was stopped when his father learned of his marriage. Harry stormed, of course, but it did not do any good. My two-hour marriage was at an end."

Miss Milner's mother, through her attorneys, Johnson & Stillman, No. 1540 Broadway, was appointed her guardian ad litem last week, preparatory to an annulment suit.

BAMBOOZLED.

How honest is the average person? Chapman and Bower, ticket sellers at the North Station in Boston, have lent $1,000 apiece of their personal funds to stranded strangers. Of course, every one of the borrowers was profuse with thanks and fervent in promises to repay.

The net result? Chapman and Bower say they have gotten back only 5 cents on the dollar. But this doesn't prove that the average person is dishonest. The two ticket sellers lent to only a few out of the great travelling public. Public averages honcat.

BODY.

Not as puzzling as it seems: New York State finds that, out of every 100 of its children, 48 are physically normal in cities and only 27 in rural districts. Others have defects.

The city lad, denied the fresh air and big playgrounds and peace of the country, maybe is healthier than his country cousin because he has better medical and physical attention in youth, especially babyhood.

But he also has what's a good deal worse than physical ailments—more nervous maladies than the farm boy. They "get" him later in life.

OUTDOORS.

Doctors, who run the great Health Industry, quite naturally would hope to find city children averaging healthier than rural youngsters. There are many ways of measuring health and physical fitness. And possibly the M.D. unconsciously uses the yardstick that shows the best results.

Common sense is superior to investigations and statistics. And commonsense tells you that the country is a far healthier environment than the city, despite the latter's advantages in the way of physical training and corrective medical aid. You can prove anything with "figgers."

TEN-HOUR DAY IN POLAND

WARSAW, Aug. 21.—The cabinet has introduced a 10-hour working day for three months in the metal and iron industry in Upper Silesia, after a series of conferences with representatives of labor unions and industrials. The labor unions made this concession as a means of enabling Poland to produce more cheaply and compete on better terms with foreign industry.

SIMPLER SHOE STYLES.

You Might As Well Start and Wear Out All Your Pumps.

By Marian Hale

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 — You might as well start in now and wear out all your pumps with the fancy openwork section and the designs in fancy leather.

For styles authorities say we are going to revert to the plainest of shoe styles, and that the oxford, long despised, is to be with us again.

This may be part of the propaganda to force gowns to be more elaborate. Recently we have worn fancy shoes, largely because dresses were so very plain and simple. Any elaboration could only come in the footwear because hats and dresses would have none of it.

More Subdued

With elaborate gowns, however, footwear must be subdued. Therefore for fall we find the tailored strapped or buttoned oxford of kid for wear with tailored costumes and the opera colonial, or the one-strap pump for dress wear.

Suede is said to be less fashionable than it has been, patent leather is holding its own, but soft kid is coming to the front as the most popular leather. It is liked not only in brown and black, but in bronze and the beige tones.

With plainer pumps there is also to be a return to more conservative hosiery. The burnt orange and flesh tints that have been so common will give way to gun metal, brown and very sheer black.

No Exaggeration

The vamp is neither long nor short The whole idea is to keep the foot in proportion to the body. Heels on oxfords may be low or a modified Spanish and those on pumps may be low or French, but there are no exaggeratedly high heels, or extremely curved ones.

Shoe dealers are going to inaugurate a campaign for appropriateness in shoes. They hope to impress upon women the desirability of keeping satin and fabric models strictly, for evening or dress wear and to make kid or patent leather the only correct thing for street.

BELLS MADE OF ALUMINUM

COLOGNE, Aug. 21—(Associated Press).—The village of Allraht near here boasts of the first churchbells made of an alloy of aluminum and copper. Their weight being only one-third of the traditional bronze bells, the superstructures of the steeples may be built more lightly and inexpensively. Futhermore, there is no danger of the bursting or rusting of bell made of aluminum.

PEACE WITH MOSCOW

JERUSALEM, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—King Hussein of Hedjas concluded a peace treaty establishing diplomatic and commercial relations between Hedjas and Soviet Russia, according to information received here yesterday from Mecca. Hakim Khan was appointed minister of Soviet Russia in Mecca.

SAILORS TO VISIT "EX."

QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Eighteen officers and two hundred men of the British Special Service Squadron will leave here at 1.40 Friday afternoon for Montreal, Toronto and Niagara Falls. They will have supper at Montreal and will spend Saturday at the Toronto Exhibition, going to Niagara Falls on Sunday.

MERCHANTS WOULD TAX ALL SELLING

Eastern Ontario Retailers Propose Change in the Traders' Act.

OTTAWA, Aug. 21. — Stewart McClenaghan of Ottawa, was yesterday, unanimously elected president of the Eastern Ontario and Ottawa District Retail Merchants' Association, at the sixth annual convention and the old slate of officers was re-elected by acclamation. He succeeds the late Mayor Henry Watters of Ottawa.

The convention dealt with fifteen resolutions including one which recommends the amending of the transient traders and peddler's act to provide that all merchandise sold in a municipality shall bear a share in the taxation of that municipality.

An effort wil also be made to have the retail trades represented upon the Railway Freight Classification Board, if public bodies are to be represented.

By a small majority another resolution carried asking that the Ontario Provinical Board of the Retail Merchants' Association endeavor to secure an amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act, whereby sales of flavoring extracts in lesser quantities than two and one-half ounces will not have to be recorded. The discussion brought out forceably the widespread trade in extracts and flavoring that has developed since the introduction of the O. T. A. Several delegates testified to the excellance of certain extracts as a beverage and was stated that some contained as high as 90 per cent. alcohol. The chief opponent to the resolution was Lorne Rochester, local druggist, who thought he could make a fortune out of sales of extracts if such an amendment were passed.

GERMAN COUPLE HAVE 100 OR MORE CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN

REUTTE, Germany, Aug. 21.—Daniel Falger and wife possess 37 children between them. Daniel, 62 years old, was a widower with 21 children when his eyes fell upon the widow Hedwig Poschl, who is the mother of 16 youngsters and six years older than Daniel.

When the wedding breakfast was served and noses were counted, it was found that the immediate family of children and grandchildren numbered over 100.

CONVENTION OF INSURANCE MEN

the illegalities of the numerous "assessment societies" operating in the Province.

The Alberta Government, Mr. Morwick added, had decided that the charters of these societies would not be renewed in 1925 unless they conformed to the Act, which would bring them in line with other companies.

The president referred also to the Assurance Savings Company, Limited, which had operated in Ontario and which had been working in conjunction with the Ontario Savings Bank and made to appear as a Government institution. The license of this concern had been cancelled within the past week, he stated, and the company given three days to straighten out its affairs.

He mentioned that in Alberta, insurance earmarked for the payment of succession duties was itself free from this tax, and it was hoped to bring similar legislation about in other Provinces.

Make It a Profession.

Professor Swanson asserted that unethical systems of business must be supplanted by a sincere and a broader idea, having for its keynote service to humanity, not merely the amassing of money. He pointed out the great waste and added cost of insurance through the employment of untrained men.

The only way to make the insurance business a profession, Professor Swanson believed, would be to establish a school for the training of underwriters. "I had cherished the hope," he remarked, "that in the University of Saskatchewan I might have been the first to conduct such a class."

Unwarranted pessimism prevailed in Canada, the speaker said, but contrasting the migration from farms in the United States with that in the Dominion, there was every reason to be gratified and hopeful.

"Our day has not yet come," he continued, "but I am confident it will. A country which produces 90 per cent. of the world's cobalt; 80 per cent. of asbestos; 85 per cent. of nickel ;a large percentage of the cereals pulp, and lumber, in addition to other exports, could scarcely be otherwise than successful, ultimately," he declared.

Professor Swanson predicted that the United States would come to recognise the injustice of the Fordney Tariff, or else Canada would do business with some other country.

TOMATO GROWERS

Members of the Victoria Hothouse Association and other shippers were deliberately misled as to the price their products were bringing through the agency of the Mutual (Vancouver) Limited, and certain sums amounting in aggregate to a considerable total were withheld from them in the years 1923 and 1924 by the company, according to a printed report of the Duncan Commission, which is investigating an alleged fruit combine in British Columbia.

Commissioner Lewis Duncan, of Toronto, stated in his report that not only were moneys withheld from the growers, but that, in addition, the usual 5 per cent commission on all sales was taken out by the Mutual (Vancouver) Limited.

It is stated that the amount due to the growers has not been verified by or on the behalf of the Commission.

Statement Recorded.

G. H. Snow, manager of the company, has volunteered to repay the growers, according to the report.

Whether or not legal action will follow the disclosure, is not known, but Commissioner Duncan states that he has recorded Mr. Snow's statement and adds, "It is clear that this statement and anything done thereunder will not affect possible later action against those involved."

This report, according to Mr. Duncan, is only the result of the first phase of his investigation. He stated that he will proceed to delve into conditions surrounding the alleged "fruit combine" and also investigate the marketing of the berry, apple and other fruit crops.

The following is the text of the report made public by Commissioner Duncan:

"In the course of the investigation of the Commission, it has been ascertained that certain sums, amounting in the aggregate to a considerable total were withheld in the years 1923 and 1924 from the members of the Victoria Hothouse Association and other shippers by Mutual (Vancouver) Limited. After this had been discovered, Mr. G. H. Snow, manager of the company, volunteered an assurance to the Commission that those sums would be repaid forthwith. The Commission has recorded Mr. Snow's statement. It is clear that this statement and anything done thereunder will not affect possible later action against those involved.

"The Commission will be leaving Vancouver, and it is considered advisable to state that the total of the sum due to the growers has not been verified by or on behalf of the Commission. But it may be here stated for the information of those concerned that the following would appear to be the situation:

Contract Stated.

"(1) Under the 1923 and 1924 contracts between the Victoria Hothouse Association and Mutual (Vancouver) Limited, the company (which is one company operating offices at Vancouver and Victoria) was to act as agent and broker and was to receive a brokerage of 5 per cent on the f.o.b. warehouse Victoria price. These contracts were prepared by Mr. Snow.

"(2) In both years, the 5 per cent. commission on all sales was properly taken by the Victoria office.

"(3) In 1923, the company, through the Vancouver office, took an additional 25 cents a crate on sales made through that office. It is now said that this was to cover freight and cartage between Victoria and others, and blessed with a much more equable climate than is the Vancouver offices, and to allow 10 cents a crate to the Vancouver office for the cost of handling the goods there.

"(4) In 1923, in many cases, the Vancouver office retained further sums in excess of that permitted by the contract. On Nos. 1 and 2 tomatoes as much as 50 cents a crate was retained, while in the case of No. 3 tomatoes as much as $1.50 a crate was withheld. In several cases, sales of No. 3 were made at $3.00 a crate, the growers being paid on the basis of $1.25. Some of these retainers are said to have been made to recoup the company for a $605.00 loss said to have been sustained on the sale by Mutual Brokers of Regina of the third car of tomatoes shipped to the prairies in June, 1923, and also to cover the loss of $288 on a most unsatisfactory Seattle transaction. Even if the company had the right to recover $605 and $288 from the growers whose goods were in the shipments concerned, as to which no opinion is expressed, it would appear to have had no right to deduct the moneys from shipments of other growers, nor is the explanation of a recoupment applicable to deductions made before the loss took place.

"(5) In 1924, Vancouver office took on Vancouver sales not only the 25 cents a crate referred to in (3) above, but also took a commission of five per cent.

"(6) In 1924, on sales of cucumbers made by the Vancouver office, that office took a five per cent. commission."

BUTCHERS.

Again, we are urged to buy the cheaper cuts of meat, which require more chewing, but are as nourishing as the fancy cuts. The butchers' national association, meeting in Chicago, claimed the trouble is that housewives have forgotten how to cook the cheaper cuts and make them tasty.

Trouble is: If the consuming public started a rush for the cheaper cuts (now virtually a "drug on the market"), the prices would respond to demand and go sky-high. Round stead would cost as much as tender-loin, if everyone clamored for round steak. The system gets the consumer coming or going.

FITTING THE CRIME?

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 21.—(United Press).—Speeders here, if found guilty of violating the traffic laws, are in danger of having to write the state traffic code of 130,000 words in longhand.

Several speeders have been given a week to turn in a neat, hand-written copy of the traffic code.

STATE DEMANDS

was bound to foHow the law and consider only his three principal subjects in fixing punishment for "an atrocious murder."

"The lesser punishment of fourteen years in the penitentiary, or imprisonment for life are for lesser crimes," he argued. "They do not fit this case.

"The defense is here in an untenable position. They ask you to consider a degree of responsibility as mitigation of punishment but the law recognizes no such degree of mentality and says that if a man can distinguish between right and wrong he is sane. Furthermore, insanity can be offered only as a defense, and not in mitigation of degrees of guilt.

"When there is no responsibility, when the defendant can not distinguish between right and wrong, there can be no punishment.

"But in this case the defendants have admitted their responsibility by their pleas of guilty."

Disregard "Phantasies."

Mr. Marshall said that since responsibility had been thus admitted by the defense, all testimony as to childish phantasies and delusions offered by the defense should be disregarded.

"Bear this in mind," he admonished the Court, "that a helpless little boy was lured into an automobile by these men and done to death with a chisel, purchased and prepared for that purpose. And for what? Their own demand was for $10,000 in old bills, to be thrown from a train at a designated place. There is no mitigation offered for these facts."

The attorney reinforced his point with frequent citations from decisions by the Supreme Courts of Illinois, Oregon, Texas, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Mr. Marshall stood directly in front of the Judge while making his plea. He referred to a bulky brief case crammed with typed excerpts from decisions.

Judge Caverly heard the first of the argument leaning back in his big upholstered swivel chair. Occasionally he made a note of a citation until Mr. Marshall said he would give the Judge and defense attorneys a full list of these.

GERMANS STOP RADIO SERMONS.

BRESLAU, Aug. 21.— Sermons and church services broadcast over the radio have been forbidden by order of the consistory of the Evangelical Church of Prussia.

When news reached the ecclesiastical body that a pastor of this city had delivered such sermons with much success, but without asking permission at Berlin, the prohibitive order was decreed, and will become effective throughout all Germany.

A Florida man recently announced his desire to bequeath his skin to his friends for the purpose of bookbinding.

BARE KNEES O.K. IN KILT, POLICE VERDICT

A Kilt's a Kilt in Scotland or U. S.—Girls Go Free.

"When is a kilt not a kilt?" or rather "Is a kilt a kilt as long as it is a kilt," Chief of Police James P. Cole of Flint was placed in the unique position of deciding this momentous question, and that dignitary's absolute ignorance as to the Scotch national "panthem" was the more appalling as the wearers were two young misses of some twenty years.

The chief is said to have looked the girls over and to have admitted that he was no judge of the proper lengths of kilts, and evidently decided that a kilt was just a kilt whether in Glasgow or Flint.

Chief Cole was placed in the role of "kiltie" inspector after two young women were brought to his office, charged with attracting too much attention on the streets. Several women are said to have complained to police officers.

The young women under the supervision of a manager were distributing butterscotch candy samples for a Milwaukee candy company, when haled into police headquarters. The manager explained to police that his little company had never been molested in any other cities where they had distributed their wares. The facts of the case were that the girls were dressed in Scotch costume as an advertising scheme and as the manager queried "what self respecting Scot would wear stockings?"

NEWS FROM MADOC.

Well Known Resident Died Yesterday—Oddfellows' Picnic.

MADOC, Aug. 20.—There passed away to-day one of the oldest and best-known residents of Madoc, Mrs James Whytock. Mrs. Whytock was born in Scotland eighty-seven years ago. When little more than an infant she came with her family to this country. Her father, Mr. Miller, settled on a farm north of Madoc, and the Whytock family, took a farm on the same road.

The members of these pioneer families proved themselves loyal and worthy citizens in every way. Mr. James Whytock, who predeceased his wife by about fifteen years was one of the most successful and widely-recognized business men in this part of the country. A large share of the honor is due to the late Mrs. Whytock who was a faithful and devoted wife and mother, and highly respected in the community. She was a generous supporter and life-long member of the Presbyterian church.

During her long life-time Mrs. Whytock has had very little illness and was in remarkably good health until about two weeks ago. She leaves a large family to mourn her loss Eleven of her twelve children are living. These are Mr. James Whytock, Mr. Chas. Whytock and Mr. Walter Whytock Reeve, of Madoc, Mr. David Whytock of Boston! Mrs. Chas. Miller, Toronto, Mrs. Harry Connor, Marmora; Mrs. Fox, Picton Mrs. McCaffery, Madoc; Mrs. Shrigley, Windsor, (formerly of Peterboro), Mrs. McGregor, Napanee and Mrs. W. J. Hill of Madoc.

It is expected that the funeral will take place on Friday afternoon but definite arrangements will be announced later.

Oddfellow's Picnic

The Rebekahs' and Oddfellows' Lodges to-day celebrated the half-holiday by holding a picnic at Mr. W. H. McBain's cottage at Moira Lake. On account of the inclement weather not as large a crowd attended as was expected, but all who braved the elements felt well repaid for their courage, especially when the sun decided to shine shortly after four o'clock.

A pleasant afternoon was spent with sports and boating. The Lean Women's Race was won by Mrs. Clarence Embury; the Fat Women's Race by Mrs. W. H. McBain; Girl's Race by Muriel Rousehorn; Men's Race by Mrs. J. B. Hough; Wee Tot's Race by Warren Hill and a Bean Contest by Mrs. Morrison.

Refreshments were served on the verandah and the evening spent in cards and dancing. A splendid bonfire by the water's edge delighted the hearts of both children and grown-ups.

All those present report a most enjoyable time, and express much gratitude for the kindness shown by Mr. and Mrs. McBain who helped to make the day such a success.

House Purchased

The house occupied by Mrs. T. Nickle and owned by Mr. Wm. Cross has been purchased by Mrs. Archie Thompson.

Miss Jennie Wright and Miss Alice Sinclair have gone on a motor trip to Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. S. McGuire and little son of Belleville are the guests of Mr and Mrs. John McDonald.

Miss Pearl Crawford is visiting Miss Lillian Hart at Salmon Lake.

SOL GETS MEASLES AS CYCLE PASSES

Every Eleven Years the Sun Shows Minimum Number of Spots.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — Old Sol's getting the "measles" again.

Between February and August of last year the sun had a minimum of spots, Professor George H. Peters of the United States Naval Observatory here has observed. The number of spots now is increasing and will increase for a number of years. The sun spot cycle occurs every 11.1 years, says Professor Peters, and has just passed the minimum, with the next minimum in prospect for 1934.

For a number of days during the middle of 1923 no spots were seen on the sun's disc. Just where the zero point for sun spots is gives rise to a difference of opinion.

During the period of sunspot maxima the intensity of the northern lights in the lower latitudes, gives evidence of intense magnetic conditions. Some spots do not produce marked northern lights, while others do. Just which spots cause probable increase in the rainbow-colored aurora is a problem which Professor Peters is working on now.

Each clear day of the year at noon, Professor Peters photographs the sun. A photoheliograph with five inches aperture and 40 feet focal length is used. The image of the sun is taken on a plate four and a half inches in diameter. The light is thrown into the camera from the surface of an unsilvered mirror.

Professor Peters has been in charge of this work for 25 years.

LAKEFIELD MAN WON IN DETROIT

George Morin First Home in Two Mile Swimming Race at Belle Isle.

NINETEEN ENTRIES.

The following paragraph from a Detroit paper refers to George Morin, eldest son of Capt. and Mrs. Frank Morin of the village. George was born in Lakefield and is another old Lakefield boy to carry off honors in acquatic sports.

In one of the most remarkable sprints yet seen in the annual Y. M. C. A. two mile swim held at Belle Isle, George Morin nosed out Pete Lisburg. A large crowd waited at the Detroit Boat club dock to greet the winner.

Don McClellan, who was picked as one of the possible winners, was forced to drop out, due to cramps. He was right on Morin's heels when he gave up. The time was fast considering the roughness of the water. Morin's time being 42 minutes, 19 seconds. Lisking was clocked three seconds later."

Nineteen entered the race and ten finished, among the entries Lisking and McClellan were former winners of this competition. The sketch includes a picture of George Morin, taken as he came out of the water.

At Warsaw Concert.

Among those from Lakefield who attended the splendid concert in Warsaw on Wednesday evening in aid of St. Marks' church were: Rev. and Mrs. W. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Marling. Mr and Mrs O. A. Langley, Mrs. Lawrence Grahame, Mrs. W. M. Grahame, the Misses Ray and Lumsden, Mrs. W. J. Stuart, Misses Nelson and McKibbin, Mr. W. H. Casement, Miss Majorie Burtchall, Miss Betty Atwood, Miss Graham.

Misses Rose and Winnifred Brooker, Mary Rinta, Nora Clarke, and Lorraine Slater of Cleveland are spending a few weeks at Mr. Johnson's cottage, opposite Third Island.

Miss Betty Atwood is visiting friends in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Muir, who were guests of Rev. and Mrs. W. Cox, have returned to Toronto.

Mrs. (Dr.) Armour and Mrs. Burgoyne of St .Catherines were visiting friends in the village this week.

Mr. W. L. Ianson of "Viamede" was in the village on Tuesday.

Presentation and Address To Mrs. G. Brown—A Wedding.

TWEED, August 21. — Mrs. W. S. Gordon invited the members of the W.M.S. of the Methodist church to meet Miss Mary Dallyn, returned missionary from China. Miss Dallyn told of her trip to Chentu, in Inland China, and of her struggles with the language. It is difficult work and many funny mistakes are made.

Mrs. Huycke gave an address of farewell to Mrs. G. Brown, who is leaving Tweed very soon, and Mrs. Wager presented her with a beautiful electric table lamp, on behalf of the W. M S. Mrs. Brown expressed her appreciation. She was just seated when Mr. Connor voiced the appreciation felt by the choir for her work, and presented her with a purse. After some music refreshments were served and the rest of the evening spent in visiting. Mrs. Fred Houston played during lunch.

Gehan—Ferry.

On Monday, August 18, at 10 o'clock, at St. Carthagh church, a wedding took place, when Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Feeney, was united in marriage to Desmond Gehan, son of Mr. and Mrs J. Gehan of Marmora. The Rev. Father Jonas Feeney, brother of the bride, officiated, assisted by Rev. Fathers Hanley and O'Farrell. An Ave Maria was rendered by Miss Grant, of Cobourg.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marion Feeney, and the best man was the groom's brother, Mr. Donald Gehan. The bride looked charming in platinum georgette, with hat to match, and carried American Beauty roses. The bridesmaid wore mauve georgette with a chic mauve hat, and carried mauve sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Gehan left by motor for a week's visit in the States. They will on their return reside in Cobourg.

GORILLAS.

Our distant relative, the gorilla, is in danger of extinction. Jungle explorers say there's only one big herd of these hairy monsters left, numbering not more than 100.

Why worry about it? They wouldn't be vanishing if such were not nature's plan. Like the buffalo and passenger pigeon and dinosaur, the gorilla had his function in creations. That function is unknown, but apparently it's no longer needed. Nature destroys the unnecessary, as ruthlessly as he strikes down those who fail to do as she intended.

FULL SKIRTS

Some very full skirts are seen on the newest gowns, and the waistline has returned to a location that is almost normal.

ODDFELLOWS' ORDER DEVELOPED FROM BAND OF GOOD FELLOWS TO MOST USEFUL ORGANIZATION

First Lodge in America Was Instituted in Baltimore on April 26, 1819.

1,500,000 MEMBERS.

Steeped In Antiquity, the Beginnings of Oddfellowship Show Results To-day.

The antiquity of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows has furnished a theme for many gifted writers in preparing articles on one of the grandest fraternal institutions that was ever devised for the uplifting and betterment of the human race. Some have gone back into the archives of remote ages to trace its origin as an established institution of past centuries, but beyond the fact that at almost every period of the world's history there are evidences of fraternal bonds having existed between men who were bound together by the ties of a common friendship there is no certainty that Odd Fellowship, as we know it, had an organized existence previous to the seventeenth century. In that epoch there existed in the City of London, England, a society known as "The Ancient Order of Odd Fellows," which was organized by a number of workmen for the purpose of social enjoyment. Beyond that, the promoters had no definite purpose other than to induce "every good fellow to be an Odd Fellow." It was a very informal association of kindred spirits, without any clearly defined objects, except convivial enjoyment and social pleasure. But the name lived as the years rolled on, and gradually the institution was brought from its chaotic state into a system of fraternal benevolence and reciprocal aid, which proved useful and beneficial to its members. Then the Order began to grow, and lodges were formed throughout England which became popular, although, strange to say, they had no uniform system of work. It needed the hand of a master moulder to get the institution into concrete form, for there were divisions and dissensions among men in those days as now, with consequent envies and jealousies. In England during the eighteenth century, there existed three different organization bearing the name "Odd Fellows," which were known as the Union Order, the London or Ancient Order, and finally the Manchester Unity. These elements, each with a different ritual, could not harmonize, and the institution dragged along without any great progress being made, until the seeds of Odd Fellowship were planted on American soil on the 26th of April, 1818, by Thomas Widley, who may rightly be termed the Father and Founder of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows as we enjoy it today.

About the year 1804, Father Widley had been initiated into an Odd Fellows' Lodge in the city of London, at the age of 22, and became active in the work of the Order, until his removal to America in 1817. Settling in Baltimore, he met another Englishman named John Welch, who had also been a member of the Order in the Old Country. The two friends conceived the idea of forming a lodge of Odd Fellows in their new American home, and by the aid of an advertisement inserted in a Baltimore newspaper, were fortunate enough to discover two more members of the fraternity, namely, John Duncan and Henry Cheetham. These four brothers, having satisfied themselves that each was a genuine English Odd Fellow, resolved to discover one more, as it required five members to form a lodge under ancient usage. They accordingly inserted another notice in the "Baltimore American" on the 27th of March, 1818, which Richard Rushworth answered the call as "the fifth link" and the magic number was complete.

It was then decided to form a lodge forthwith, and in a room in the "Seven Stars" Hotel, on Second street, in the city of Baltimore, on the 26th of April, 1819, the five brothers met and after obligating each other in due form solemnly instituted and opened the first lodge of Odd Fellows organized in America, which they named "Washington Lodge, No. 1. Thomas Wildey was installed as Noble Grand and John Welch as Vice-Grand. "Thus with all due formality and dignity," as related by our lamented brother, James L. Ridgley, "was the first stone laid in the foundation of American Odd Fellowship."

From this beginning— the planting of this small acorn—the sturdy oak of Odd Fellowship has grown and flourished on this continent until its branches at the present day shelter over a million and a half of our brethren who owe allegiance to the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

Minutes of the Institution Of the Grand Encampment of Ontario.

The following is an accurate transcrips of the proceedings of the institution of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, at Hamilton, August 6th, 1869, as taken from our original records. The flowery titles given to Grand Officers were then in vogue, but some years later were abolished.

John A. Macdonald, Grand Scribe,
Hall of Excelsior Lodge,
No. 441, I.O.O.F.,
Hamilton, Aug. 6th. 1869.

Patriarch James Woodyatt, D.D.G. Sire, with a constitutional number of Grand Encampment members, consisting of F. M. Foster, Grand High Priest; John Sprague, Grand Senior Warden; Isaac Sides, Grand Sentinel, and Henry McAfee, Grand Scribe, proceeded to institute a Grand Encampment, as authorized by the Dispensation of the Most Worthy Grand Sire, attested by the seal and signature of the Right Worthy Grand Corresponding and Recording Secretary of the Grand Lodge of the United States. James Ridgley.

The following named Patriarchs, who were petitioners for the Charter for this Grand Encampment, were then duly instructed in the Grand Encampment degree, viz: Patriarchs S. G. Dolson, Henry McAfee, James Smith, John Gibson, George H. Marlatt and A. D. Clement, after which proclamation was made that the Grand Encampment was duly instituted.

The following Past Chief Patriarchs and Past High Priests of the Encampments named were then introduced and instructed in the Grand Encampment Degree, viz.: Union No. 1, Patriarch Adam Purves; Frontier, No. 2, Patriarchs Alfred Hay, John Batty, Thomas Cowley and Caleb Knight; Harmony No. 3, Patriarchs M. D. Dawson, Edmund Beltz, George Powell, Sr., John Hunter, Robert Kirkpatrick and R. J. C. Dawson; Brant, No. 4, Patriarch Josiah B. King; and Beaver, No. 6, Patriarch Robert Barbour.

D.D.G. Sire James Woodyatt, Past Chief Patriarch, became a member of this Grand Eahcampment by unanimous consent.

Nomination and Election of Officers.

The D.D. Garnd Sire, appointed Patriarchs Foster and Sprague as scrutineers.

The following Patriarchs were then nominated for the office of Grand Patriarch, viz.: Patriarchs H. McAfee, S. G. Dolson and James Woodyatt.

Patriarch James Woodyatt was declared duly elected at Grand Patriarch.

Patriarch S. G. Dolson was declared duly elected as Grand Patriarch.

Patriarch E. Beltz was, on the third ballot, duly elected Grand Warden.

Patriarch M. D. Dawson was elected Grand Scribe by acclamation.

On the second ballot, Patriarch Geo. Irwin was declared duly elected Grand Treasurer.

The introduction of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows into Canada occurred at Montreal on August 10th, 1843, when the Prince of Wales Lodge No. 1, was formally instituted by Bro. Alfred Moore (P.D.D.G.M. of Troy, N.Y., who was appointed by the Grand Sire as a Special Deputy for that purpose. The sponsors for the new lodge were John H. Hardie and George Mathers, two zealous New York Odd Fellows who had removed to Montreal, and were so desirous of getting the Order established on this side of the line that they got three other citizens of Montreal interested in the movement, namely: Wetherill Taylor, Jos. Kirkup, and William Rodden, and these three gentlemen agreed to join a lodge in New York State for the purposes of becoming qualified as applicants for the Canadian Charter. This being accomplished the five brothers made formal application to the Grand Lodge of the United States for a charter, which was duly received, and the career of Odd Fellowship in Canada was launched in a garrett over the hardware store of Bro. Wm. Rodden on St. Paul street, Montreal at three o'clock in the afternoon of the date mentioned. Within the first week eighteen gentlemen of influence and good standing in the community were admitted, and the new Society rapidly grew in strength and favor with the public. It made such a rapid progress that on the 10th of December of the same year a second lodge (Queen's, No. 2,) was instituted in Montreal, which also prospered. In 1844 another lodge was instituted at St. John's under the title of St. John's under the title of Prince Albert, No. 3, and the prospects of the growth of Odd Fellowship on Canadian soil became so bright that the Grand Lodge of the United States granted a petition to issue a charter to the "Grand Lodge of Canada," which was duly instituted on November 16th, 1844, by Special Deputy Grand Sire Case. The first Grand Master was a bright young barrister of Montreal named William M. B. Hartley, and his co-laborers in building up the Order were drawn from the very best classes of society. Such great progress was made by their combined efforts that the Order was extended to the ancient city of Quebec, where Albion Lodge No. 4, was instituted on November 20th, 1844, and in December of the same year Commercial Lodge, No. 5, Montreal, was added to the roll.

In the summer of 1845 the first lodge in what is now called the Province of Ontario was instituted at Belleville, being christened Victoria, No. 6. The Western Province seemed fruitful ground, and as many influential people who resided in this section had "taken the degrees," while in Montreal attending to parliamentary duties and commercial business, and were desirous of having lodges established in "Canada West," the Grand Lodge decided to send a deputation westward on a 'missionary tour." The brethern chosen for this duty were Thomas Hardie Deputy Grand Master, and Past Grands George P. Dickson and Hon. Edmund Murney of Belleville. The missionaries were all well qualified for their work, and were invested with the most complete powers. The Grand Lodge empowered them to make "Odd Fellows" at sight, receive petitions, grant dispensations, institute lodges, and go and perform all other acts and things which might become necessary to carry out their purposes. They had an absolutely free rein. The deputation left Montreal on March 4th, 1846, for a trip of more than 800 miles, mainly by stage coach, over very rough roads and in very inclement weather. But their hearts were warm in the work, and their zeal exceedingly keen. The first point visited for work was Brockville, where they instituted Brock Lodge, No. 9, which is still flourishing today, and is the oldest and one of the most active lodges in the jurisdiction of Ontario. Kingston was the next place visited by the missoinaires. Here they met Bro. John A. Macdonald (who in later years became one of Canada famous statesmen) and through his efforts a large number of prominent Kingston citizens were initiated in the order when Cataraqui Lodge, No. 10, was instituted, Bro. John A. Macdonald being installed as the first Noble Grand. The missionairies then moved on to Picton, where Prince Edward Lodge, No. 11, was instituted, with Bro. Henry Corby as Noble Grand. Cobourg, Peterborough, Port Hope, Toronto, St. Catherine Hamilton and Cornwall were successively visited by the deputation, and in each of these towns lodges were instituted, some of which are alive and thriving today. The missionairies reached their homes after a month's absence, during which period they had had a very successful tour, and the Order was thoroughly planted in "Upper Canada," or what is now designated as the Province of Ontario.

The Patriarchs Militant.

The first enactment for a uniform public appearance in dress by the Order was by the adoption in 1870 of a law permitting Subordinate Encampments to wear such style of head-dress as might be approved by the Grand Patriarch of the jurisdiction. This small concession followed several efforts for a uniform, but strongly resisted, made at different times on and after 1866. With the use of the head-dress thus authorized in some jurisdictions were added other articles and receiving such information, in February, 1871, Grand Sire Stuart proclaimed the use of swords and belts inadmissable and improper. In 1872, however, Encampments were authorized to wear such uniforms as might be approved by their Grand Encampments. Thus came into existence uniformed degree camps which ran along with more or less of a precarious existence and embarrassment to the Sovereign Grand Lodge. The friends of a strictly military degree and display had remained unceasingly active, and September 24th 1885, the Patriarchs Militant Degree was adopted as it is now had, having passed but one revision since its adoption, and that appertaining more to the method of administration than to the character representation of the degree.

The Rebekah Assembly.

Instituted at Stratford on August 12th, 1891, the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario was the result of a grand convention of members of the Degree of Rebekah which assembled there on that date. Bro. Dr. C. T. Campbell (Acting Grand Sire), presided, and in due form organized the Assembly and installed the officers who had been chosen by the delegates, as follows: President, Sister J. Bowden of Windsor; Vice-President, Sister E. Cook, of Toronto; Secretary, Sister Maggie Waddell of St. Thomas; Treasurer, Sister Helen Crozier, of Gananoque; Warden, Sister M. G. Saunders, of London; Chaplain, Sister G. J. Brill, of Guelph; Guardian, Sister E. Seels, of Toronto. There were only eighteen delegates present, representing nine lodges, but all were imbued with the true spirit of the Order, and manifested enthusiastic zeal in their endeavors to extend the work of the Rebekah Branch.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

MIKEY MOLE'S TUNNEL

"What are you going to buy today, Flop-"

"Sh!" said Nick to Nancy. "Don't make any noise."

The Twins were standing very still under a burdock leaf near the place where Flop Field Mouse lived. Having their magic shoes on they were so little you would have had to look twice to see them yourself.

By and by the front door opened and out came Flop all dressed up in a nice starched shirt and red necktie.

"Now do keep yourself clean Flop,' said his mother. "Every day I start you off to Happy Go Lucky Park clean from the skin out, and you come home looking as though you had been digging in a coal mine."

Flop looked kind of queer when she said that, but all he said was, "All right, Mammy, I'll be careful."

And away he went jingling his 10 pennies in his pocket and whistling. But catching sight of old Mister Owl looking out of his window, he quit and hurried away into the woods.

The Twins went after him, still going as quietly as they knew how, and they saw Flop stop under the hazel bush where Mikey Mole lived and knocked on Mikey's door.

"Hello, Flop," said Mikey, coming out and closing the door behind him. "I'm ready."

Away went the two chums arm in arm through the woods toward Happy Go Lucky Park.

Nancy and Nick were behind them. They were not eavesdropping, but they couldn't help hearing what the friends said, for they were talking right out loud.

"What are you going to buy today, Flop?" asked Mikey.

"I think I'll get a pink lemonade and ride on the merry-go-round," said Flop. "Mebbe I'll get the ring and get a free ride."

"That's what I'm going to do," said Mikey.

"Copy cat!" cried Flop. "You don't need to do everything I do. Besides if I get the brass ring mebbe I'll keep it for a keepsake and then you can't get it and have a free ride."

"All right," said Mikey. "All right Mister Smarty Longtail. "Do as you like. But if I don't dig a tunnel for you to crawl through and get into the park for nothing, you'll have to pay your way at the gate and you won't have any money left for either lemonades or merry-go-rounds. So now."

"Oh, I can get through one of our old tunnels," said Flop airily.

"No, you can't!" said Mikey. "The ground's soft and they've all caved in. Besides we always fill them up partly so Mister Zip doesn't see them."

"I was only fooling, anyway," said Flop. "I didn't mean it. Come on Here's a good place to dig. Right outside the fence."

And almost before you could say boo the little mole boy began to scratch and dig with his little shovel paws, and disappeared, hide, hair and all, right down into the ground! It didn't take Flop Field Mouse long to follow. The last the Twins saw of him was his long tail. Finally that disappeared, too.

When Flop and Mikey poked their noses out into the daylight again under the roller coaster in the park, there stood Mister Zip waiting for them.

"Ten cents apiece, please," he grinned, holding out his hand.

Flop and Mikey looked sheepish, but they paid it without a word.

All their quarrel for nothing, mind you!

Most quarrels are.

LARGE CROWDS HEAR PREMIER

Mackenzie King Welcomed at Woodstock by Mayor Rea, a Conservative.

A JOINT PICNIC.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—After bidding farewell yesterday to the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada, and suggesting certain problems to which the Prime Minister gave answer in his speech, Mayor Rea, who is a Conservative in politics, left for Stratford by motor car and arrived in time to listen to the speech of Conservative leader, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen. Meanwhile in Stratford, Mayor Thomas Brown, who is a Liberal in politics, gave an official welcome to the Conservative leader. Then he, too, entered his motor car and came to Woodstock, arriving in time to hear the Premier's speech.

In a fighting speech, delivered to between four and five thousand people at South Side Park, Woodstock, yesterday, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada, issued a call to Progressives who were of like minds with Liberals to join forces with the government and to those who were inclined toward the side of special interests, to join the ranks of the Conservatives. Then he said, there could be open battle between those who stood for the best interests of the whole people of Canada and those who were standing for the interests of the few who enjoyed special privileges. It was an open invitation he said.

The event at which the Premier spoke was a joint picnic held under the auspices of the Liberal Associations of Oxford, Brant, Middlesex, Perth and South Waterloo and large delegations came by motor from all parts of the counties.

Mayor Rea, who is a Conservative in politics, cordially welcomed the Premier, and in his speech put forward some questions which influenced a trend of Premier King's remarks.

SILVER COINS ARE DISPLACING PAPER

Metal Reappears in European Countries After a Long Absence.

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—(Associated Press.)— The long reign of paper money in a number of European countries is coming to an end with the reappearance of the metal coinages which various governments have introduced within the last few months. France led the way with a new franc, and a little later introduced smaller coins of nickel.

Germany some time ago issued one, two and three renten mark pieces in silver, as well as pfennigs of nickel, while Austria several months ago began the coinage of one shilling pieces of silver, worth about ten cents each, as well as nickel coins of various denominations.

Russia too is planning to put silver into use, and some weeks ago placed an order for a new coinage with the royal mint in London, the first of which will soon be completed and sent to Moscow for distribution to the principal banks.

The Free State of Danzig, Poland and Czechoslovakia are also planning issues of metal coins within the next few months.

EYES.

Two million American school children are backward in their studies because of defective eyesight, claims an organisation with a name as long as the number of German marks in circulation.

Proper spectacles, furnished free, would correct this defect. Wisely cities are realising that brains cannot be trained to function at their best unless expert care is devoted to pupils' eyes, teeth, diet and other physical factors.

Mrs. L. MacMillan Tells How Cuticura Healed Eruptions

"I was troubled many months with an itching, burning, painful feeling practically all over my face. A number of pimples broke out on my forehead which caused me to scratch and also caused eruptions. The pimples spread down the sides of my face and caused disfigurement.

"I tried several remedies without any benefit. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. L. MacMillan, Box 521, Kenora, Ontario.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Baseball Games Postponed on Account of the Weather—Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 21. — The playoff between the Roseneaths and Delora baseball teams, scheduled for yesterday was postponed on account of rain. The teams will play at Roseneath Saturday afternoon.

Houses are Scarce

A real estate dealer said yesterday that to his knowledge there is at present only one vacant house in town and that has already been bespoken by a tenant. Several families are looking for other quarters but none are to be found. Although a number of new houses are being erected these are not for rent.

The midway that is operating here this week under the auspices of the Percy Agricultural Society, is proving a bonanza for the children and not a few of their elders. There is a merry-go-round, a "whip", a Ferris wheel and the usual side shows and refreshment booths. The show which is well conducted, is crowded every afternoon and evening.

The Society engaged a Midway Show for the last fall fair but the company failed to keep its agreement, failure proving a disappointment to the younger generation. By way of amends the directors of the Fair have brought to town the company now giving the exhibition.

Wedding Bells.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meiklejohn was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding on Thursday, August 14th, when their youngest daughter, Gladys, was married to Mr. Thomas Chaplin, principal of the public school at Hastings.

About 11 a.m., the ceremony was performed by Rev. Neil Campbell of Barrie, uncle of the bride. The bride and groom were unattended. Mrs. Victor Taylor, sister of the bride, played the wedding march, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Charles Milne sang "O Perfect Love." Just the immediate relatives were present. The bride was dressed in peach canton crepe and wore sunburst roses. Her travelling suit was navy with grey hat and grey fu

The young couple left on the 1.30 train for Toronto and Niagara Falls. They will reside in Hastings.

The bride will be missed in St. Andrew's church where she was a member of the choir and the Young Ladies' Mission Circle and was interested in all the different departments of the church.

ALWAYS AN EDITOR

David W. Johnston, snowy-haired and benign, after fifty years of preaching with voice and pen, has corrected his last page proofs as editor of the Wesleyan, eastern Canada's Methodist paper, and proposes to try to stay retired. The coming year he will spend in writing up the history of his church in eastern British North America. At the request of the maritime conferences he will take up this task where an earlier historian, the late Dr. T. Watson Smith laid it down and will reside for some months beside the library of Mount Allison University in order to have access to the archives of the conferences. As the university is located at Saskville, where the Wesleyan is published, any veteran editor can predict what is going to happen. His successor, Dr. H. E. Thomas, will hear some morning that "the old Doctor" has been in during the night to see the weekly run start and read a copy of the old paper before the ink could dry.

Rev. Dr. Johnson was 33 years in the pastorate and then 17 years in the editorial chair, besides being delegate to the Canadian general conferences and to the last world conference of Methodism, held in London in 1921.

CLOVER HONEY ALMOST FAILURE

Only 40 P.C. Crop Expected in Ontario, With Peterboro Below Average.

This has been decidedly a lean year for apiaristsr, especially in this district where only a third of an ordinary year's crop is expected.

According to the local field representative for the Ontario Honey Producers, whose territory includes Peterbrough county and parts of Hastings and Victoria Counties, only a 40 per cent yeild of clover honey is expected throughout the Province, with Peterboro below the average.

Asked for the reason of his opinion, declared that the cold weather was at the root of the trouble. The long and cold spring prevented the bees from building up and considerable of the clover and alsac had been killed out.

Bees cannot work in cool and windy weather and even though this distsrict's acreage of buckwheat is unusually high and everything points to a good crop, it does not ensure a good yield of honey, unless there is an immediate change to warm weather. On cold days the bees cannot work as the flowers will not yield nectar and in windy weather the little honey makers do little flying.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT TRENT RIVER

Large Barns, With Crop and Machinery, Goes Up In Smoke.

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 21 — The large up-to-date barns and appurtenances, including underground stables, driving shed, henhouse, with this year's crop of hay and considerable grain and all machinery on the farm of Thomas Bannon, nearly two miles east of Havelock on the Cordova Road went up in flames last night about 9.30.

Bursting from the roof, the flames soon enveloped the entire structure and despite the many who came to assist, the fire was beyond control.

Fortunately, with the exception of the hens which had to be scared out, all the live stock was in the fields. It was said to-day that part of the loss is covered by insurance.

Threshing.

On Wednesday, James Longmuir, on the Havelock Road had six hours threshing, turning out between 600 and 700 bushels of oats and rye. The oats were remarkabel, coming through the machine at the rate of 6 bushels to the minute.

A physician's formula for excessive perspiration

SOMETIMES Nature's wisest provisions become a source of keen distress. Perspiration, for instance—a wonderful means of regulating the body temperature.

Yet it is a very common thing, even in the healthiest persons, for this function to become so extreme in certain parts of the body as to cause great discomfort and embarrassment. This is due to a local irregularity of the sweat glands which physicians call Hyperidrosis.

Medical authorities agree that this condition should be corrected by local application.

For this very purpose Odorono was first formulated years ago by a physician. It has been brought to scientific perfection by years of laboratory research and study of abnormal perspiration. Physicians and nurses recognize its value and use it in hospitals as a safe, scientific corrective.

The regular use of this clear, antiseptic liquid just twice a week gives complete relief from the discomfort of excessive moisture; keeping your clothing fresh, dry and unstained. And, most of all, you may have absolute assurance that you will never offend with that unpardonable lapse of personal daintiness—underarm odor!

3,000,000 people now depend upon Odorono as their one safeguard against disagreeable perspiration moisture and odor. You may enjoy perfect relief in this harmless way which physicians recommend. Odorono is obtainable at all toilet counters, 35c, 60c and $1, or sent by mail postpaid. Address The Odorono Company, Ltd., 107 Duke Street, Toronto.

BRITAIN UNCHANGED AFTER LABOR'S SIX MONTHS

Government Washing Its Hands of Socialism—MacDonald Kept in Office By Tolerance of Liberals—His Diplomacy Broadly Approved.

By P. W. WILSON.

It is now over six months since a Labor Government, the first of its kind, was installed in Britain. By so startling a change in British traditions the world was deeply stirred and in every country the prophets indulged in hypothesis and speculation. The aims of British Labor had been fully stated, and the question was how far the new Government would carry them out. The facts by which we may answer that question are now before us.

To begin with, it must be borne in mind that Macdonald took office without power. He announced, therefore, at the outset that he would not resign on a defeat in the House unless the issue were one of confidence. On various minor issues he has been defeated, which mishaps he had ignored, but up to the present the House has refrained from dealing a final blow. In most divisions the Conservatives vote against Labor as a matter of course. MacDonald depends, therefore, on the tolerance of the Liberals. If, however, Liberals are still behind him, it is due mainly to the cautious and disinterested leadership of former Prime Minister Asquith, whose mind is swayed by various considerations—for instance, the hope of a settlement in Europe, the wisdom of allowing fair play to the workers when, for the first time, many of them hold portfolios in Downing Street, and last, but not least, the dislike of all parties for a third dissolution of Parliament in two years.

Even the Conservatives are afraid that at a general election MacDonald would, here and now, win a majority, not for his party as such, but on his personal prestige as Foreign Secretary. Multitudes of voters who care nothing for Labor think that his influence is helping in many ways to settle affairs in Europe and promote disarmament and peace. If, then, nothing further is here said of MacDonald's diplomacy, the reason is simply that it is approved broadly by all parties and is not distinctive of the present Government. For instance, Liberals wanted free trade rather than preferential tariffs, and also to give up Singapore. And the conference over reparations only resumes the conference at Genoa, which was interrupted by Poincare's Premiership.

MacDonald Sees End of Liberals.

For their support of the Government it cannot be said that the Liberals have received any thanks. In the constituencies Labor still puts up candidates against sitting Liberal members and at Westminster MacDonald resolutely avoids a working agreement. Evidently he believes that the Liberal Party has had its day and will soon cease to be. He therefore treats Asquith and Lloyd George as captives bound to his chariot wheels, and reserves his courtesies for the Conservative leaders, who genially jeer at the Liberals as "patient oxen" whose function it is to toil for others and then die.

Against this humiliation David Lloyd George is in open revolt, and it is only respect for Asquith that holds back Liberals from following the younger, less trusted, but more daring leader.

With three parties at Westminster, instead of two, the House of Commons has gained—some would say regained—much of the independent authority exercised by the Congress of the United States. During the past fifty years, successive Governments had forced the House to acquiesce in many unwelcome decisions by threatening to resign unless there were a majority in the Ministerial lobby. The Labor Government has had to leave such issues to the unfettered vote of the House, which is thus, at the moment, the arena of much spontaneous debate. The relaxation of discipline, however, has led to a considerable sacrifice of efficiency. The usual output of a session has not been maintained. And it is abundantly clear that Labor Ministers, by refusing the genuine offers of help from experienced Parliamentarians of other parties, have lost many opportunities of achieving legislative success.

A mistaken pride of position has prevented them asking for advice which would have been readily given, and several measures would have passed without difficulty if there had been the usual consultation in advance. The Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is also Foreign Secretary, and it is only on an emergency that he can attend the House of Commons, where his interventions over matters of detail have not always been convincing. And, of course, he is never present on the committees upstairs, where the fate of many bills is decided. It cannot be said that there has been any general obstruction of business—nothing, at least, that Americans would recognize as a filibuster. What has happened is that Parliamentary inexperience, aggravated by a blend of timidity and bluff, has lost much valuable time; and Parliament, without dealing with one large question in a large way—at any rate, up to the present—and with a virtually agreed budget, will have to sit through the autumn to clear up arrears of routine.

Not that the nation is greatly perturbed over the technicalities of such procedure. As the late Lord Salisbury used to put it, the average person does not mind what fine things the politician says on the platform provided that afterward he is let alone to live his own life. MacDonald knows that the number of people who read the debates at Westminster, except in abbreviated paragraphs, is infinitesimal.

Labor Must Face Strong Attack.

Still, it had been assumed that a Labor Government would aim not at a stalemate, but at reform of abuses. Fearing that their party would be baulked of any real progress, many Labor men tried to dissuade MacDonald from taking office until the country had given him a clear majority in the House of Commons. MacDonald himself acted on the other view, and, with fewer than one-third of the House supporting him, he continues to preside over the Cabinet. In due course, then, Labor must face a strong attack, both by Liberal and Conservatives, on the apparent inconsistency of its record. Judged by its past platform and professions, it has, to quote the Prayer Book, left undone those things which it ought to have done, and done those things which it ought not to have done, and without a blush many Cabinet Ministers admit it. MacDonald explains that before the election he and his followers were a bit innocent, while J. H. Thomas declares that the members of his party, having faced responsibility, "can never again be the indifferent propagandists that they were in the past." Labor has thus lost the oratorical advantages of irresponsibility. Hitherto the party has only attacked. It must now defend. Among its supporters it will be estimated not by its promises but by its performances.

It is here that curiously enough, the apologists for the government, and Winston Churchill, the would-be champion of the alarmed capitalists, agree. Both of them strongly protest that Premier MacDonald, in minority, is only biding his time until the great day comes when MacDonald will be in a majority. And here arises a very interesting question. It is one thing for the country to acquiesce in Labor Government which the other parties hold in leash. It is quite another thing to accept a Labor Government which has a free hand. Evidently MacDonald himself is sensible of the distinction, for he appears to be swinging prudently from the extreme left to the extreme right. In a sentence, Labor is now trying to wash its hands of socialism.

It is true that socialism as a creed has never been made a formal test in the Labor Party. But as recently as a year ago, Philip Snowden moved in the House of Commons a resolution in favor of socialism, and Sidney Webb published a volume violently attacking the capitalist system. These typical declarations were generally accepted as the position of the party, certainly of MacDonald. Snowden is Chancellor of the Exchequer. Webb is President of the Board of Trade. And MacDonald is Prime Minister. But there has been no move of any kind in the direction of State socialism and, apparently, no no preparation to make such a move in the future. Snowden's Budget has merely used the surplus of his predecessor in order to reduce taxation. And Sydney Webb, with a great reputation, has not survived the acid-test of the House of Commons. As for MacDonald, he had addressed the I. L. P., or Socialist nucleus within the Labor Party, and has peremptorily advised that somewhat astonished organization to drop the word socialism altogether, because it smacks of books, not life. The slogan for the future is to be merely "Labor."

Labor's About? Face.

How startling is this somersault, we may best realize from a brief quotation. On Jan. 7, 1924, John Wheatley, of Glasgow, the proprietor of Forward, the Labor newspaper, of that city, said:

> There is no fear, however, that the Labor Party will waste its time in a fruitless effort to carry on the capitalist system of society.

John Wheatley is now President of the Ministry of Health, and, in that office, a considerable parliamentary success. But he is, obviously—to recall his own warning—engaged "in a fruitless effort to carry on the capitalist system of society."

Translated into legislative terms, MacDonald's abandonment of socialism means, first, that the idea of a levy on capital has been dropped. Indeed, we have here the piquant fact that Asquith is pressing upon a reluctant Snowden a proposal for a voluntary levy on capital. By this is meant a provision in the Budget whereby holders of the national debt may surrender the same for cancellation, receiving an equivalent remission of their income tax for the next two years. Whether Snowden will accept this suggestion remains to be seen. The fact, however, that it should have come from the Liberal benches is amusing and significant.

The railways in Britain are now consolidated into half a dozen large systems, from which competition has been eliminated. Fares, freight rates, the rules of safety, the extension of track, and many other matters are regulated by the State. It would be, then, a comparatively simple operation in bookkeeping to exchange the various kinds of railway capital issued by the companies, for the equivalent holdings of national debt.

In many countries, not classed as Socialist, there are such State railways, and in Britain the post office includes telephones and telegraphs. Here, then, a beginning might have been made in nationalization. But it is enough to say that Labor has let the railways severely alone, except in one particular. Members of Parliament have voted themselves first-class passes for thirty-three journeys a year between London and their constituencies. The cost is $350,000, and in this grant members of all parties concurred.

Labor's Position on the Mines.

If railways are not to be nationalized, neither are mines. But here the House of Commons has had a real taste of what might happen if Labor were unrestrained in its policy. A bill to nationalize mines was drafted by the Solicitor-General in the Government, Sir H. H. Slesser, K.C., and was introduced, somewhat irregularly, by a private member. During debate, it received the approval of the Labor Administration, and, although for the moment the measure disappeared under the criticisms of Lloyd George, it stands as a detailed statement of the Labor position. Briefly, it places the entire mining industry under the control of the Miners' Federation and other organizations of Labor. Hours, wages, prices and all other matters are to be determined by a body on which Labor has a permanent and decisive majority over the representatives of Parliament and the public. All profits are to be used within the industry. All losses are to be borne by the taxpayer. For the mines, themselves, the State is to pay a fair price, but royalties are to be confiscated. The miners, moreover, are to retain the right of striking against their own representatives on the Council, and if a representative gets himself disliked he can be dismissed by the miners, although it is in the King's name that he acts. The bill in set terms places the Crown and the trade unions on an equality, the phrase being, "His Majesty or the Miners' Federation, as the case may be." The measure was rejected by 264 votes to 168.

A further test case is housing. It is estimated that Britain is to-day short of 1,000,000 dwellings. Yet the trade unions, by insisting upon the apprenticeship system, have reduced the number of artisans in the building trade by one-half, and have actually insisted that four years' training is needed for this learned profession of laying bricks or fixing a window frame. The Labor Government has hitherto failed to handle this situation. The building industry has been invited to present a report which means that the State will guarantee the construction of 2,500,000 houses in the next fifteen years. Over a long term the amount of State subsidy will be anything up to $150,000,000 a year. In fact, it is only in a secret document that the industry has submitted its estimate of costs. MacDonald's own suggestion is that a house will be available for what would amount to $2,500. It will then be let for nine shillings a week, or about $125 a year, representing 5 per cent. on the outlay. To cover interest on capital, depreciation, repairs cost of management and the periods when the dwelling is unoccupied, the rental on such property should be at least 12 per cent. of the capital invested. It is thus safe to say that the housing policy of the Government consists in a surrender to trade union restrictions and a supply of homes at half price, the loss, as in the case of mines, to fall on the taxpayer.

In the meantime, a question has arisen whether unemployed persons can be evicted from their homes. A Labor bill gave them permission to live rent free in whatever house they might happen to be occupying. This meant that the owner of a house would lose at once his rent and the right to dismiss his tenant if the tenant happened to be out of work. This bill had to be dropped and a measure drafted by Liberals substituted for it. The point at issue is, after all, fundamental to society. If rent is to be cancelled, why should the particular person who happens to own the house be penalized? MacDonald here sustained a serious defeat in the House. He and his colleagues resorted to proposals that the State should reimburse the landlord, either out of the national or local taxes.

1,000,000 Still Out of Work.

It will thus be seen that the Labor Government has advanced no proposals, whether for the mines or for housing, except subsidies from the State, virtually to the trade unions concerned. Over unemployment nothing has been done or even attempted beyond minor adjustments of doles. About 1,000,000 persons are still out of work. And the Government has taken the view that the remedy is—not socialism, as hitherto maintained—but an improvement in trade, and especially in exports, which has always been the strictly capitalist contention.

In view of the propaganda against capitalism, to which the Labor Party resorted as a means of winning votes, it was assumed that, on taking office, the Government would inaugurate a period of social simplicity. What, however, has happened is best expressed in the accurate terms here following:

Growing Up With The Telephone

CHARLES J. LESLIE, of Toronto.

The celebration in Brantford a few days ago of the 50th anniversary of the birth of the telephone reminded Charles J. Leslie, of Toronto, of an interesting incident in his own career.

As a boy of ten, Charlie Leslie was visiting in Brantford in the autumn of 1876, when Alexander Graham Bell was carrying on his epoch-marking experiments. One morning Leslie watched the work of stringing a telephone line from the Bell homestead to the telegraph office. He even volunteered to carry the lineman's tools, and when the railway was reached, he was elected to carry the line through a culvert beneath the rails. When he emerged with the line, Professor Melville Bell, father of the great inventor, showed his appreciation by brushing the dust from young Leslie's clothes.

Perhaps it was as a result of this early experience that Mr. Leslie decided to be a telephone man. He has made the business his lifework. He is now Division Plant Supervisor for the Bell Telephone Company.

Stuffed Tomato Salad (Individual)

One medium-sized tomato, 2 tablespoons chopped cooked spinach, 1 tablespoon chopped cold boiled tongue, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 2 or 3 leaves of lettuce, salt and pepper.

Peel tomato and cut a thin slice from the stem end. Scoop out the center and drain the juice from the seeds. Sprinkle the inside of the tomato with salt and chill, upside down, in the ice box. Combine spinach, tongue and celery with tomato juice, season with salt and pepper and fill tomato with mixture. Serve on a bed of lettuce.

Total calories, 129. Protein, 35; fat, 63; carbohydrate, 31. Iron, .0012 gram.

Mince green pepper, minced radish, minced onion, minced parsley and minced celery are added to lemon juice seasoned with salt and pepper to make the dressing for the head lettuce.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Breakfast—One-half cup stewed rhubarb, 1 salt codfish and potato puff, 2 half and half muffins, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup cocoa.

Mid-morning lunch—One cup whole milk, 2 brown bread sandwiches.

Luncheon—One stuffed tomato salad, 2 slices graham bread, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons apple tapioca pudding with 2 tablespoons whipped cream.

Afternoon tea—One large glass tea punch with 2 date-cheese and nut sandwiches.

Dinner—Two broiled lamb's kidneys with bacon, 1 large baked potato, 4 tablespoons boiled turnips mashed with butter, 1 head lettuce with 4 tablespoons French dressing with minced vegetables, 1 cup berries with 1 cup vanilla ice cream, 1 large piece sponge cake, 1 tablespoon butter.

Bedtime—One cup whole milk.

Total calories, 3975. Protein, 464; fat, 1592; carbohydrate, 1919. Iron, .0191 gram.

This stuffed tomato salad is masked with mayonnaise, adding about 200 calories to the dish.

No bread is planned for the dinner menu, but it may, of course, be added if desired.

The same minced vegetables mentioned in the reducing menu are added to French dressing for this diet. This is known as a "chiffonade" dressing.

The position of Labor is not that royal and aristrocratic display should be abolished or restricted, but that Labor should be included therein on equal terms. What we see is not the adoption by Lady Parmoor and Viscountess Chelmsford of the inexpensive wardrobe of Mrs. Snowden and Mrs. Thomas, but the adoption by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Snowden of the not inexpensive wardrobe of Viscountess Chelmsford and Lady Parmoor.

The political and social results of this surrender to fashions, hitherto denounced by the Labor Party, may be variously regarded. The Court of King George V. is, doubtless, much relieved. The hereditary peerage is also complacent. But at the other end of the ladder there is to be found the Communist Party, affiliated with the Third Internationale at Moscow. In numbers the British Communists may not be formidable, but in the Labor movement they are playing much the same part that MacDonald played in earlier days. It was a Communist who fought the Kelvinside by-election in Glasgow a few weeks ago, as the official Labor candidate. And the recent Communist Congress, held at Salford in Lancashire, passed the following resolution:

> The Communist Party considers it is its duty to enter the ranks of the is its duty to enter the ranks of the Labor Party in order to strengthen the militant and fighting elements in the labor movement, and to unmask the treacherous elements in the Labor Party and free the workers from their influence.

The Communist Platform.

The programme of the Communist Party, adopted on May 19 this year, is as follows:

Nationalization, without compensation, of mines and railways.

Control of industries by the workers' organizations.

A capital levy.

Cancellation of the national debt, with compensation only for small depositors.

State control of banks, control of foreign trade, and State regulation of internal prices.

Old-age pensions at 60 years.

Political rights for soldiers and sailors.

A minimum wage.

Raising the school age to 16 years.

The abolition of child labor.

There is the interesting postscript that the programme must be submitted to the Communist Internationale—which means to Moscow—before it becomes effective. It is this programme, advanced among his supporters, that MacDonald has to face.

That there have been sudden and political strikes is, perhaps, no wonder. To the Government they are embarrassing, as one clear-cut illustration will show. In 1919 there had been a strike among the London police. At the election of 1922 these men put to candidates the question whether they might expect reinstatement on the force. It was a situation that recalls the police strike in Boston with which Govern On reinstatement, MacDonald answered, "Yes, with all my heart," while Arthur Henderson replied "in the affirmative."

As Home Secretary, however, Henderson says that his "answer is in the negative," and that "it is not a departmental decision; it is a Government decision." The "yes" became "no," and it was the House of Commons that insisted on the Government granting "an inquiry."

How long the Labor Government will last nobody can say. It depends entirely on circumstances. There is, obviously, no acceptance by the nation of Socialist principles. And it is this fact which makes MacDonald so nervous of the word socialism and its use against him in the press. As long as the Government marks time, avoids mistakes that matter and plays a useful part in Europe it will go on from month to month. But by the Conservatives, at any rate, it is only regarded as an unwelcome yet indispensable caretaker.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

Interesting Event at Stoney Lake—A New Cottage Going Up.

STONEY LAKE, August 21.—While we are all wearing raincoats and carrying umbrellas, and dodging heavy showers, if we have failed to provide what are really necessities this season, let us look back one year when the country was menaced by the worst forest fires which have been known for ten years. Fires in Burleigh, Anstruther, in Dummer and Methuen, sending their clouds of smoke to the skies, had a depressing effect on the more serious minded who had gathered for the festivities of gala week. This year has been a contrast in everything but merry making, because, in spite of the rain, everyone is cheery.

An even more than usually generous shower prevented the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association from putting on the illuminated flotilla which was billed for Friday night, but it has been announced by Mr. Gouinlock, the secretary, that it will be held on Thursday, August 14. It is hoped and expected that the success of last year will at least be duplicated and, if possible, excelled.

The popularity of the land events on the McCracken's Landing regatta programme, which has increased each year, and the fact that Kawartha Park has made a special feature of their land sports with a very large number of entries in each event, indicates that land sports are as popular as the water sports and foreshadows a time when the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association will put a field day on their programme for gala week. While suitable places for land sports are not numerous, there are several places which could well be used.

Dr. Cole is erecting a very attractive bungalow on the west end of Otter Island, just opposite Juniper. When completed it will be one of the prettiest cottages on the lake and one with a magnificent view.

More than a hundred of the Stoney Lake summer colony made the trip via the steamer "Empress" to the Chemong regatta on Thursday, and spent a happy day. A number of the Stoney Lake athletes entered the various events and carried home several prizes.

It is the irony of fate that the wettest summer in many years should also feature as a popular song, "It Ain't Going to Rain No More." Its popularity remains, which shows an optimistic spirit on the part of the singers.

Rev. H. J. Pritchard of Toronto is the preacher at the services at Juniper Island for the month of August. On Sunday last the musical part of the service was enriched by solos from Mrs. J. H. Renwick of Peterboro', and Mr. E. L. Crawford of Toronto. The attendance was very large.

Rev. T. A. Nind, of Toronto, has been in charge of the services in St. Peter's for the past month.

The number of motor craft which were seen at Juniper Regatta on Monday ranged from the stately cruiser, "Wanderer," to the humble punt with an outboard motor. Many motorboats of the type built for comfort were seen and were enjoyed as private stands for the races. Mr. Dodworth still holds the speed record with "Elizabeth I."

The personnel of the young men and girls who have been the winners of the various races at the regattas is somewhat changed this season, probably more gaps in the ranks than any year since the war, and the cause is "work." The are now playing the game of life seriously with success as their aim, and as one looks back at the clean sporting spirit shown by practically every one of these young folks, one feels assured of their ultimate success in the greater race which lies before them.

Mr. T. H. D. Denne celebrated his birthday recently by a very jolly picnic, at which his guests, Misses Stephenson and Curry, of Omemee, and a number of his neighbors were present. The party returned home in ample time for the masquerade in the evening.

A two-inch white band on the edges of the dock at Juniper will, without doubt, prevent accidents from people failing to notice the proximity of the lake and gently walking off. This is an improvement and might well be imitated on every dock on the lake.

FRENCH APPROVE TERMS.

Parliamentary Groups Held Preliminary Meeting This Morning.

PARIS, Aug. 21. — (Canadian Press).— The French cabinet met this morning and approved the terms of the declaration on the results of the London conference which Premier Herriot is to read in both Chambers this afternoon.

Parliamentary groups held preliminary meetings this morning. Those belonging to the governmental majority decided to vote solidly against any motion that might be introduced in opposition to the Premier. The opposition group decided to abstain from voting.

A SEVERE STORM.

Melville Districts in Saskatchewan Hit Hard By Cyclonic Storm.

SASKATOON, Sask., August 21 (Canadian Press). — A storm of cyclonic violence swept over Melville and Kamsack districts last night, according to meagre reports received here.

At Melville the Canadian National yards are said to have borne the brunt of the storm.

Long lines of telegraph poles were blown down, a number of buildings were damaged at Kamsack, but no estimate of the loss has yet been obtained.

DEPLETE FORESTS IN THIRTY YEARS

Botanists Tell Scientists That Virgin Forests Are Failing.

TORONTO, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press) —"At the present rate of depletion, the virgin forests of Canada and the United States will not last more than 25 or 30 years," said R. D. Craig and F. Storey, in the botany section of the British Association, in issuing a plea for the protection, conservation, and extension of timber resources.

"Apart from fuel, usually obtained from hardwoods, an overwhelming proportion of the timber required for industrial purposes is produced by coniferous species, such as pine and spruce, which with few exceptions, are limited in distribution to the North American continent, Northern Europe, and Siberia.

"These regions cannot be relied upon permanently as sources of supply. The position in Europe is unfavorable because timber consumption each year far exceeds forest growth.

"Siberian resources are to a large extent unexplored, but as in Northern Russia, large areas of forest are likely to remain undeveloped owing to the difficulty and expense of extracting the timber."

The United States consumes nearly one half the world's production of timber, the speakers said, in pointing out that a limit will be reached to present resources within 30 years, unless preventive measures are taken.

"In view of failing supplies a slow growth of trees, there is urgent need of reforestation of devastated areas, the protection of young growth, and the conservation of such original forests as still remain," the scientists concluded.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid" indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Whenever the Mann youngsters would get a little "gas on the stomach,55 Mr. Mann of Anytown would run to the family cupboard for some of that good old-fashioned remedy: baking soda and water.

This was one of grandma's remedies for a stomach ache.

It also served for all uncomfortable feelings in the stomach.

In these times, stomach acidity is being blamed for most such conditions. And much of the blame is being passed to the eating of too highly refined foods, with too many sweets and not enough vegetables, whole wheat bread. Too much meat is also blamed by some.

Now baking soda, when the condition appears, is all right. It will help to sweeten the stomach and disposition.

But it's a good idea to start in after that to correct the condition; to keep the digestive tract sweet.

And to do this, eat more green vegetables, whole wheat bread and ripe fruits each day.

THIEVES.

To-day's dream is to-morrow's accomplishment — just as surely now as when men first dreamed of flying with artificial wings.

A big scientific dream is transmission of electric power by radio. Collecting payment from consumers would be difficult, next to impossible. The cost will have to be paid by Government from tax funds. One instance of many, that we are headed toward a Socialistic condition whether we approve or not.

WHEAT KING IS ABOUT TO QUIT LOSING MARKET

James Carruthers Sold Canadian Grain for Fifty-Four Years.

ORGANIZED SHIPS

Was Lover of Turf and Owner of Some Fast Horses in Day.

By FLOYD S. CHALMERS.

"International affairs are not likely to be normal in my time. Why should I go on losing money year after year when I could retire and be further ahead for doing so," says James Carruthers, of Montreal. Mr. Carruthers is winding up his grain exporting business. In his action there disappears from the stage of Canadian business a concern and a personality that have counted for much in the development of the country. Before the war, Mr. Carruthers was known everywhere as "the wheat king of Canada." His company was the largest or second largest grain exporting organization in a country of grain exporters.

It is fifty-four years since James Carruthers started in the grain business. He went into the service of a Toronto grain house when he was 18 and worked with various companies for a few years before becoming a partner in one of them. Then he started his own grain exporting company, opened offices in Montreal and Winnipeg and eventually moved his head office to Montreal.

Organized Lake Shipping.

Early in his grain shipping career he saw the need for a well organized transport service on the Great Lakes to handle grain and organized several companies that built fleets of boats to carry grain from the head of the lakes to the ports at the lower termini of lake steamers. He was president of several of these companies and was president of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation company before the war. Along with a few financial friends and promotors who knew a little about shipping and a lot about finance he organized the Canada Steamships Lines and became the first president of that company.

In 1913 it was said of him that he had done more to extend the grain trade of Canada than any other man. Newspapers published articles about "the wheat king of Canada" and Carruthers was a picturesque and striking figure in the business world of the country.

Owned Some Able Ponies.

His love for the turf made him widely known. He had a couple of horses in his string that were the envy of their day. Advance Guard was the fastest horse on the race tracks when Carruthers had him and a sporting club was not complete without a chromo of Advance Guard on its walls. Ben Crockett was a steeplechaser that felt disgraced if it could not win a race by five lengths. To-day, James Carruthers' office in Montreal, the office that he is vacating next month, is filled with pictures of grain elevators, steamships and race horses, the three loves of Carruthers' life.

Carruthers always looked far ahead in judging the future of Canadas, wheat trade He showed his foresight in building up boat lines of boats on the lakes. He indicated the possession of some prophetic vision when he said in 1912, "The outlet of a large proportion of grain in future years is destined to be by way of the Pacific Coast." This prophecy is now coming true in the diversion of increasing millions of bushels of wheat to Europe by way of Vancouver.

Over Hundred Million Bushels.

During the war Carruthers became a buyer and seller of grain on a colossal scale. He bought 25,000,000 bushels of grain for the Italian government from one crop. In the grain year 1915-1916, his firm handled no less than 112,000,000 bushels of grain.

Most wealthy men give to charity. Carruthers has a picturesque way of making his donations. He usually makes up his mind on the spur of the moment and hands out $100,000 in one lump to some worthy cause. He gave $100,000 to the Montreal General Hospital when that organization needed money badly. He gave another $100,000 to the government when the war broke out and told them to equip a machine gun unit with it. He gave aeroplanes as well.

It Is a Losing Business.

Now he is retiring from business. He likes the grain business, but it is a losing business now and may be for a long time. Carruthers feels that he is entitled to retire and the uncertainty of the present situation gives him his excuse.

The outlook is too uncertain for a man of his age to continue in the business. Both in Montreal and New York the trade is practically demoralized, due to foreign competition.

One day recently Mr. Carruthers received from London a quotation for grain that was six cents a bushel less than the actual cost of buying wheat in Canada and taking it over to Liverpool. It was easy money in the war days, shipping grain, but the story is different to-day. And so the "wheat king of Canada" is going to take the rest that he has earned.

Ants Milk Plant Louse As Humans Milk Cattle

The plant louse is very small but often does great injury to plants. It is one of the most prolific of all insects. During the summer the young are born alive, but toward fall eggs are resorted to for the production of young. The individuals that hatch from eggs differ from those born alive in that they have wings and can move more rapidly from place to place.

The plant louse gives off a sweetish fluid of which some ants are very fond. You may often see the ants stroking these lice to induce them to give a more copious flow of the 'honey-dew." This is really a method of milking. However friendly and useful these "cows" may be to the ant, they are enemies to man. Sometimes plants are almost wholly covered with these lice. They are sucking insects and therefore poisons do not avail. They may be killed by spraying, kerosene emulsion being in the common form of treatment.

BURNBRAE MAN FARMS IN WEST

Bert Potts Has 1,500 Acres of Wheat—Thomas Walker Will Help.

AT TORONTO FAIR

BURNBRAE, Aug. 21. — Thomas Walker, of Hoard's Station left on Friday for Saskatchewan to help Bert Potts, a former neighbor, who has been many years in the West, to harvest his crop of wheat. Mr. Potts owns 2,000 acres of land near Saskatoon and has 1500 acres of wheat, which he hopes will average 15 bushels to the acre. The crop is uniform and stands about waist high.

Mr. Walker has spent three years on Mr. Pott's farm. During the cutting season he drives a binder and operates a stook loader when threshing begins. This machine is drawn by four horses and will load a wagon in from two to four minutes. Mr. Potts owns his own threshing outfit.

At Toronto Exhibition.

This district and the County of Northumberland generally will be well represented by pure bred stock at the Toronto Exhibition. Alex. Hume and Son of Burnbrae will on Friday ship 11 head of the best animals in their large herd of Ayrshires, all prize winners in former years.

The Menie District Ayrshire Breeders' Club have entered a herd in the county competition at Toronto. Six animals must be entered in this class, a senior and a junior bull, two senior and two junior females, not more than two to be entered by any one breeder. The animals selected are two from the herd of R. H. Little, one from that of E. McCook, both of these breeders being from near Campbellford. Two, including the famous $2,000 sire from the herd of Alex. Hume and Son, and one from the herd of T. J. Hume of Cobourg, a son of Alex. Hume. The latter took a prominent part in making the selection so that, as his judgment in such matters is excellent, Northumberland will be well represented at the big fair.

William Hume, of Alex. Hume and Son, will have charge of these exhibits at Toronto. While so engaged he will be unable to fill his place as right fielder in the Campbellford baseball team.

WHEAT AND CHAFF

The cheapest way to cultivate a crop is to prevent weeds and grass from rooting, not to wait to destroy them after they are well-rooted. The garden rake in the garden and the fine, peg-toothed harrow in the field will do the trick.

FARMER CANNOT PRODUCE CROPS WITHOUT PROFIT

Suicidal Progress of Past Few Years Shows Disaster Ahead.

SELLING AT LOSS

Products Farmer Buys Are Now on Downward Trend —Receipts Go Up

By C. W. B.

It is always a good thing to take a survey of a situation after the facts are available. Doing so enables one to plan for the next step. Certainly also when one knows what was the cause of a loss of a failure, or what contributed to a gain, he is in a position to work to better advantage and to keep moving on the safest road. The study that farmers are making in regard to cost of crop production is one of the most hopeful signs I know that agriculture is going to be returned to a profitable basis. The terrible gulf through which many farmers have passed since the war have left their marks, but we are now getting again on better ground.

Conditions Improve.

This has been shown in recent tendencies toward better crop prices due in some part to a diversification of crops, to putting crop production more in correct movement with consumption, and to a better understanding by urban people of the problems that have confronted farmers. A farmer's income is what he and his family receives for labor after his many costs have been paid. Some of these are costs over which he has no control, such as taxes, interest charges, labor, and what he purchases.

Last year, according to reports obtained by Government agents, it was found that the cost of production wheat on 7,852 farms was $1.24 a bushel, whereas the sales value of the wheat averaged only 99 cents a bushel .Here is a loss of 25 cents a bushel . No wonder wheat farmers have been discouraged.

Corn cost 68 cents a bushel on 11,238 farms. The sales value of the corn was 81 cents—a profit to corn growers and this explains why prosperity is showing up in corn producing states.

Cats Sold at a Loss.

Oats on 8,481 farms cost 52 cents a bushel to produce and sold for 49 cents, a slight loss. Even with this low average yield cotton farmers made some profit. Potato growers in different sections of the country showed margins between average cost and average selling price of from $1.42 to $86.23 an acre.

Farmers' Dollar Moving Upward.

And prices are tending to higher levels on many other products that farmers sell. Fluid milk producers are having their trouble in certain sections because of over production, but there are rays of daylight showing here. One thing is certain—many of the products that farmers buy are on the downward scale and this means, in another form, better prices for what farmers sell. It means the farmers' purchasing power is increasing. After all, an equitable exchange of country and city products is the goal to be attained. In recent years this exchange has been to the farmers' disadvantage—and that has been the trouble!

RUNNING A FARM BY CLOCK-WORK

Punctuality and a Little Thought Lighten the Day's Burden a Lot.

By MICHAEL K. BOYER

Early in life I was taught the importance of being punctual, living up to my promises, and never overestimating my capacity. This knowledge helped me over many obstacles and won for me much credit. As I grew older I found that efficiency and system were factors that made work more easy, and enabled me to accomplish feats which seemed almost impossible for one man to do in a given time.

I sooned learned that by keeping my mind on my work, and going ahead in regular order each day, beginning at a stated hour and adopting a regular system, I took much of the hardship out of labor. I planned to do my work easily and save steps. I never permitted my mind to wander, for fear I might overlook some duty or waste energy by going back and forth unnecessarily, due to my forgetfulness. I found that labor becomes lighter when one puts love into it. I made the job a study because I liked it. I aimed to accomplish my task with the least friction. I tried to overlook nothing.

By keeping both hands at work when possible, I more quickly finished my work. For example, instead of carrying one pail at a time, I carried a pail in each hand, and thus saved steps. Being regular in all things, even to the hour for retiring at night, getting up in the morning, and eating my meals, I kept in the best physical condition, did not waste any energy, and never felt overworked. I carefully studied every assignment and devised a method by which I could save both time and money.

Housecleaning Method

My wife taught me system. She never had what is known as a "spring housecleaning," tearing every room from garret to cellar at one time, and having the whole house in a topsy-turvy condition. Instead, each week she cleaned one room and no more, thus making her work easier, and there was very little confusion. She was regular in all things, as I have learned to be.

THE WEST IS NOT A DUMPING GROUND

By ALEX. McGREGOR.

Another business problem has arisen to confront the farmers of Ontario. For some time breeders of pure bred cattle have been trying to secure a market for their surplus stock in the West, and David Hunter of Grimsby has been selected as the representative to work up sales.

Mr. Hunter told the farmers and stock breeders some plain truths at the field day held on the farm of Charles Macoun, near Trent River. Unless they cease regarding the West as a convenient dumping ground for their culls they are in danger of being shut out of that market altogether.

Solution In The West.

Mixed farming is being carried on more and more extensively in the West. The prairie provinces are admirably suited to the dairy business. High grade stock of this strain is in demand, and as a rule, the prairie farmers are ambitious to raise herds of pure breds.

But these farmers have been victimized until they have become suspicious. One instance in point is the case of a farmer out West who sent to Ontario for a pure bred sire for which he paid $100, on the word of the owner that it was up to standard. The freight on the animal cost the purchaser $68, and when the shipment reached him he realized that he had been flim-flammed. Mr. Hunter is authority for the statement, that no Ontario stock man who knew his business would give $25 for the animal that cost the Western farmer $168. Naturally when the latter wishes to purchase cattle in the future he will look elsewhere.

Where Pure Breds Count.

The man who owns a herd of grade cattle of any standard breed is likely to receive as large a monthly cheque from the cheese factory or creamery, cow for cow, as is his neighbor who keeps nothing but pure breds. It is only when he comes to sell his cows or their progeny that he is at a disadvantage. A market for cattle is essential to the success of the pure bred stock industry. That market, logically, is in the West where the dairy business is growing. It can be secured for all time if the game is played fairly and it can be just as permanently lost for the farmers of the West, an almost political unit as they are, have the matter in their own hands.

A Question of Tariff.

When the tariff was revised by the Dominion Parliament last Spring the agricultural bloc in the House at first stood out solidly for the abolition of the duty on dairy cattle brought in from the United States. They almost carried their point but finally abandoned their demands when other concessions were allowed them. The fight for free trade in cattle has only been given up temporarily. It will be renewed at the next session of Parliament, and a group that really holds the balance of power is likely to prevail. Once that duty is abolished the hope of the eastern stock raiser for a lucrative market in the West vanishes. The question of freight charges alone is sufficient to turn the attention of the Western men to the pure bred herds of the owner across the border.

A Remedy Possible.

Mr. Hunter did not pose as a calamity howler. He diagnosed a serious case but presented a remedy. The Western farmer must not be buncoed if his good will and money are to be secured. One way to accomplish this is to have cattle sold by an independent individual or commission, every animal disposed of to be guaranteed as represented, and the price fixed at its real value as nearly as possible. In this way business confidence can be established between the two sections of the Dominion to their mutual financial advantage.

BEES WILL STEAL IF GIVEN CHANCE

Robbers Give Themselves Away by Nervous Actions When Thieving.

Bees, like some people, if given the opportunity will steal from one another rather than work. This, however, happens usually only in times of scarcity.

A robber bee is characterized by its nervous actions. It will fly cautiously up to the entrance of a hive, and when it sees a bee coming towards it, it will quickly dodge back, or it will search the walls of a hive in the hope of finding some unguarded crack through which it can crawl. An old offender has a shiny appearance, the result of crawling through cracks or being roughly handled by the guards. On leaving the robbed hive, it has a plump look and unlike the inmates which come out leisurely, it is in a hurry and takes wing with difficulty owng to its load.

It is the beekeeper's duty, therefore, to prevent his bees acquiring such dishonest habits by seeing that no sweets are left exposed at any time; that all cracks and openings in the walls of the hive are closed with mud or clay; that when the hives are opened the work be done speedily; that feeding, if any, be done in the evening; and that entrances be consistent in size with the strength of the colony. Should diseases be present, these measures are doubly necessary to prevent not only robbing and its disastrous results, but also what is infinitely worse, the spreading of the disease.

Should robbing start, prompt action is necessary. Contract the entrance so that but two or three bees can entre abreast; then strew a handful of coarse grass over it and sprinkle with a dipperful of water. This puts the robbers at a disadvantage, as the bees of the colony will attack them as they crawl through the wet grass.

Should the robbed colony, however, stand in danger of being overcome, carry it down into the cellar and leave it there until the uproar subsides. Coat oil wiped over all junctions of the hives acts as an excellent repellant.

ABNORMAL EGGS LAID BY HENS

Simple Explanations of Some Freaks That Have Excited Wonder.

MANY KINDS

By DR. G. H. CONN.

Why the freak or abnormal eggs which we see at times—eggs of odd sizes and shapes, and some containing foreign bodies and the like?

All this is due to the condition of the oviduct at the time the eggs are laid. Some of them have excited much wonder and comment, but when we know the reason it is very simple indeed.

Stale Eggs Just Laid.

It sometimes happens that eggs are stale, although they have just been laid. Eggs are retained in the shell-forming part of the oviduct from twelve to twenty-four hours, but occasionally the egg is retained much longer, and as the body temperature is the best temperature for the development, the egg will undergo important changes very rapidly. Cases are on record where eggs have been removed from hens on post-mortem where the skin and feathers have already formed, showing that the egg had been retained many days. It is not at all likely that a hen could lay an egg after it has been retained for such a length of time.

Soft-Shelled Eggs.

Soft-shelled eggs, or eggs without shells, are the result of the lack of shell-forming material or inflammation of the shell forming part of the oviduct. It is said that fright will cause the expulsion of eggs before the shell has formed. If the cause is due to inflammation, the laying of the soft-shelled egg only adds to the condition, as they are much harder to lay than a normal egg.

Egg Within An Egg.

Due to some irritation of the central portion of the oviduct, albumen is formed without the normal stimulus of the yolk and it then is forced downward where a shell is formed upon it and, as it is small, sometimes this produces irregular contractions which force the egg upward, where it encounters another egg in the process of development and becomes imbedded in it; then a shell is formed around the whole mass. These eggs are usually of normal size.

Double Yolked Eggs.

This is the result of two ovarian capsules or two ovums rupturing at the same time and finding their way into the oviduct at the same time, where they are both included in the same capsule or shell. They are usually larger than ordinary eggs and may produce injury to the oviduct. If such eggs are incubated, they usually produce monstrosities or twins or a double chick.

Incomplete or Small Eggs.

This is commonly spoken of as the lucky egg among the children. It is often as small as a marble or pigeon egg. Usually it contains albumen only, and is caused by irritation of the central portion of the oviduct when the albumen is formed without the normal stimulus of the yolk, and it then passes downward to the shell-forming portion, where it is enclosed in a shell and is then expelled as a normal egg would be.

ALBERTA STEER GOES TO FEED HUNGRY JAPAN

New Market is Found as Natives Learn to Eat Meat.

TRIAL SHIPMENT

Kobe Beef is Specialized in, But is Excelled by Canadian.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 21.—A report is to hand concerning the shipment of 28 head of cattle and two horses from Alberta, via Vancouver, in April to Japan.

This was a trail shipment for the purpose of testing the Japanese market for Alberta live stock. H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of agriculture, Alberta, accompanied the shipment and made some investigations respecting the Japanese market. Mr. Craig has recently returned and is of the opinion that a substantial trade in cattle can be developed in that country. He says:

"About 25 persons interested in the meat trade from various parts of Japan watched the cattle from the time of landing until slaughtered. They were pleased with the quality of the cattle on foot and with the quality of the beef. Japan imports about 40,000 head of Chin Tow cattle from China. These are poorly bred animals and thinly fleshed, and range in age from six to eight years. The Japanese raise a considerable amount of beef themselves. It is high class beef known as Kobe beef and is of superior quality. It has better quality than Canadian beef but cannot compare with the Canadian beef for flavor.

Becoming a Meat-Eating Country.

Japan is becoming a great meat-eating country, and I am satisfied that a substantial trade will develop with Canada. The future trade depends on two things: the rate of exchange between Canada and Japan, and the cost of ocean space. The yen is worth 50 cents in normal times. At present it is worth only 42 cents. The Japanese seem quite confident that it will soon return to normal. The rate for ocean space is $75 per head at present; in addition the stalls on the boat cost $20 per head to erect. The shipping companies have decided to reduce the shipping costs very materially so that possibly cattle shipments may be made to Japan on a profitable basis.

"The Japanese want cattle weighing about 1,200 lbs. and well finished. They would just as soon have fat cows as prime steers and will pay as much for them. They want a steady supply except in the hot months of June, July and August."

In speaking of the prices obtained for beef in Japan, Mr. Craig remarked that the best meat retailed as high as 44 cents a pound and that some of the Alberta cattle were sold by the wholesalers at as much as $330 per head. He figured that the Japanese market should be able to net Alberta famrers 4 to 4+ cents for fat cows. With the reduced shipping rates proposed, the cost of shipping from Alberta to Japan should not be more than $15 or $20 above the cost of shipping from Alberta to the Old Country.

Make It aReal One

A farmer brought some produce to town and sold it. Thought he, "I will surprise my wife." He bought a suit of clothes, a hat and a pair of shoes and put them under the back seat. On the way home he stopped at the river, took off all his old clothes and threw them in. Then he looked under the seat for the new outfit. They were gone. Finally he got into the buggy and said: "Gidap, Maud—we'll surprise her anyhow."

CORN YIELD SLUMPS TO RECORD LOWEST

This Year Has Seen Smallest Crop Ever Harvested in United States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—This year has seen the lowest corn production ever reported for the United States on July 1.

According to the Department of Agriculture, the crop on that date was 72 per cent below normal, the lowest ever reportaed for that date. Only once before, 1903, has the corn yield fallen below 80 per cent of normal.

"The low condition is due to the fact that an unusually cold May in the whole country east of the Rocky Mountains was followed during June by excessive rainfall in the central corn belt, with continued cool weather in the northern portion of the belt," reads the department's report.

"On account of the unfavorable start, it is estimated that with average weather during the remainder of the season and with frost at about the usual date, the yield of corn per acre will be only about 23.8 bushels. This would be the lowest yield per acre since 1913, and, with the exception of that year, the lowest since 1901."

The cool, rainy weather during June, which is unfavorable to corn, however, brought improvement in oats, barley and spring wheat, the department reports. From 7 to 10 per cent increase is forecast for July from the months previous.

Farmers Should Employ Hands For Entire Year

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 21—The one thing in Western Canada that would relieve the always acute winter unemployment question is for more farmers to take on men for the whole year, instead of for only the summer months, said Hon. James Murdock, federal minister of labor, during an interview.

Mr. Murdock was of the opinion that mixed farming would be an aid in giving men steady employment on the farms.

Discussing unemployment doles, Mr. Murdock said he favored a scheme which the Rt. Hon. Montagu Darlow, minister of labor in the Bonar Law cabinet, had advocated. It embraced the subsidizing of industry—the state becoming a partner with the employer, aiding employment and expansion of trade.

"It struck me such a scheme would guarantee some return on the money spent. At any rate the present system as far as trade expansion is concerned, means an absolute loss of money," said Mr. Murdock.

MENIE FARMERS IN PRIZE RING

Toronto Exhibition Will See Some Splendid Cattle From This District.

ACCREDITED HERDS

BURNBRAE, Aug. 21.—On Friday of this week Mr. Will Hume, junior partner of the firm of Alex Hume & Co., Menie, leaves with the show herd of Ayrshires for Toronto Exhibition. Mr. Hume is sending twelve head while Mr. Robert Little sends two, Mr. Ernest McCook one and Mr. Thomas Hume of Cobourg three. It is the intention of these men to enter six of these animals in the great county herd exhibit and they are bound to bring credit to Northumberland.

Mr. Hume has been in the dairy and show business for a long term of years and Mr. Hume is now recognized as one of the leading authorities on Ayrshire cattle and dairy matters in the Dominion, while his herd holds a wide reputation for performance, both in the showing and in the dairy. Hume & Co. were among the first in this district to enter the accredited herd plan, and while some losses were suffered, due largely to their coming in contact with unclean herds at showing time, they now have a clean herd fit to rank with any on the continent. Mr Hume's two sons, Thomas and Will, are both following in his footsteps. Thomas has a fine farm near Cobourg where he is building up an excellent herd on Humeshaugh foundation while Will is helping to carry on the good work of maintaining the orignal herd at their high standard.

DO NOT FENCE POULTRY YARD

First Rule for Progressive Flock is Allow Abundance of Range.

SOMETIMES NEEDED

The first rule for fencing poultry is not to fence it at all, if you can get as good results by fencing the garden and lawn. Fowls on range will remain in a more healthy condition and also gather considerable feed that would otherwise be wasted.

But if they insist upon visiting the neighbor's garden, or range too much upon a public road, it will be necessary to fence them. In that case, one must be sure to allow them enough room. For a flock of 100 layers, a square lot of 100 feet on a side is as small as is considered safe. If double yarding is practised, from one-half to one-fourth as much may be sufficient, but where land is not too expensive, single yarding will probably prove more satisfactory.

Poultry netting should be stretched on posts about twelve feet apart. For the heavier breeds, this fence may be about five feet high, but for Leghorns, it should be as high as seven or even eight feet.

It will be easier to keep chickens in a yard where shade, feed, and water are always available. But if the flying habit starts, it must be curbed at once. When one flies out of the pen, others are likely to follow. You will find that certain chickens are the worst offenders at flying out, and in certain cases, it may be necessary to resort to cropping of wings. Of course, chickens immediately begin to grow new feathers, and use nutrients that should be expended for growth or eggs. Crop only one wing on each fowl.

For fences six feet or more in height, a neater job can usually be had by using two strips of netting. If the smaller size mesh is used at the bottom, the fence will turn little chickens at the minimum expense.

DIG SOIL DEEP FOR ROOT CROP AND FERTILIZE

Mangels and All Roots Require Room and Ease for Spread.

NOW IS THE TIME

Sod Must Be Broken Well—Spring Ploughed Land is a Failure.

One of the chief causes of comparative crop failure is insufficient preparation of the soil before the crop is planted. On a great many farms, roots are sown on timothy sod land and precede grain. Too often in the cultivation of such land, the requirements of the crop are lost sight of, with the result that the roots are sown on spring-ploughed sod, where it is next to impossible to secure a proper seed bed.

Soil Must Be Worked.

For their proper growth and development, root crops require a deep, mellow, fertile seed bed, free from weeds. This is especially true of mangels, which have a strong tap root and require their nourishment farther down in the soil than swedes. Roots will not thrive on weedy ground and efforts made to control the weeds while the plants are small often result in as much damage to the crop itself as to the weeds. It is well, therefore, to control them before the crop is planted, and the best time for this work is during the summer or fall previous to sowing. This is especially true of the land intended for mangels, which require to be sown early in May, thus leaving little time for spring cultivation.

Plow Now.

For the best results, sod land intended for roots should be ploughed in July or August, as soon as the hay is removed. It should be top-worked at intervals until fall to control grass and weeds. For couchy ground the spring-tooth harrow or duckfoot cultivator are very useful in bringing the root stalks to the surface of the soil, when they may be gathered and burned. For the best results, this work should be done during hot, dry weather.

All root crops are heavy feeders and require plenty of plant food in the soil. They may be grown on light or heavy soils with good results, provided they receive proper fertilizing and care. Splendid crops may be grown with barnyard manure alone, applied at the rate of 18 or 20 tons per acre. If the manure is available it should be spread in the fall and ploughed deep into the soil. Ploughing the manure down, in the fall, gives it a chance to rot and prevents loss of fertility. On the average farm, however, there is seldom manure enough available at that time of the year and the farmer has to depend on what is produced during the winter, which may be applied on the snow or, better still, it may be stacked and applied in the spring. Fresh green manure is not a suitable fertilizer for roots, therefore the manure for this crop should be piled up or applied as early in the winter as possible. This should be ploughed down in the spring to a depth of 6 or 7 inches in order to secure a deep mellow seed bed.

Fertilizers.

Commercial fertilizers may be used profitably if manure is scarce. Basic slag is a useful fertilizer for turnips and should be applied in the fall or early spring. Where club root is troublesome, experiments have shown that quicklime applied in the fall at the rate of one-half ton per acre is beneficial. However, seed from a strain proven resistant to club root should always be used in such cases. Such strains have been produced on the experimental farms. If no manure is available, an application of 150 pounds nitrate of soda, 400 pounds acid phosphate and 75 pounds of muriate of potash per acre will give good results, where the land is fertile. Poor or light soils will require a heavier application. This should be broadcast after the ground is disked in the spring and should be harrowed in with a smoothing harrow. If part of the nitrate of soda is reserved and applied later on, when the plants are three or four inches high, it will help to stimulate growth. It should be applied on a rainy day, as otherwise it is apt to cause burning of the young, tender plants.

Hen With Rooster Head Lays Five Eggs a Week

A full grown hen with a rooster head is the freak possession of Harry Harris, of Pennsylvania. The hen, a Rhode Island Red, has a perfectly formed rooster head, does not crow, but lays five eggs a week.

Mr. Harris' attention was called to this freak recently when he saw what he thought was a rooster fly off the nest, and there lay a new, warm egg. Not believing his own eyes that a rooster could lay an egg, he kept close tabs and found that this freak was laying five eggs a week, and not crowing about it, either. This hen-rooster celebrated her—or his—first birthday in May.

PETES MOBBED BY BELLEVILLE FANS AT GAME

Lakeviews Lose Game 5 To 4, After Free-For-All in Eighth Inning.

GAME FINISHED.

Belleville Pitcher Appeared To Be Using the Bean Ball on Young Petes.

With black eyes and sore heads the Lakeview Junior team returned from Belleville last night, after taking the short end of a five to four score and being mobbed by the Belleville fans, who rushed onto the field in the eighth inning and started a free-for-all. Umbrellas, clubs and fists branded in great style, while the Peterboro crew fought bravely to keep the enraged crowd from cuttting them to pieces.

The fight was caused by Ross, the centre fielder for Belleville, when a few innings before the real battle started he attempted to spike the Petes first baseman, and also drove his elbow into the baseman's ribs when he was going past. He was warned by the Umpire to watch himself but he talked back to the Umpire as well as to any other player on the field. A couple of ruffians rushed onto the field with fire in their eyes but they were chased off after a few minutes.

Gerow who was doing the hurling for Belleville was pinning the boys right and left while the second baseman was bothering "give him the bean ball," and sure enough something representing the bean ball came every time. Some of the Petes were lucky enough to get out of the road of the first ball for the head while others took the consequeneces.

Jimmy Johnston was the first man to be hit. He took a hard one in the chest in the seventh inning. —ohnny Marchen in the same inning took one on the back of the head. Louie LeBarr was the next man to take one in the head but Marchen was the unlucky one when Gerow hit him in the same place as the time before raising a nice bump Marchen told the Pitcher to watch where he was throwing them and it was then the fight started.

Crowds tore from the bleachers and cut loose on the Petes. The fight lasted for, about ten minutes before it was stopped, some of the Petes being lugged off the field. The game finished but the tieing run could not be pushed across the plate and a third game will be played in Cobourg on Monday afternoon.

The Lakeviews were far from being up to their standard and the razzing they got from the fans did not help any. Whitehouse did the hurling, but he was not as good as he was in his last three or four games He was a trifle wild and did not seem to be able to put them across. Although he held the Belleville crew to five scattered hits, they managed to manufacture five runs out of them and this was enough to win the game. The Lakeviews touched up Gerow for seven safeties but they got their's in the wrong time and when a hit that would have won the game several times was needed the Petes fell down on the job.

It was a hard game to loose as the Lakeviews were confident of taking away Belleville's chances for the Ontario Championship yesterday.

Lou LeBarr's boys had the score two to nothing in their own favor until the sixth inning when Belleville got to Whitehouse for two hits and a walk, piling up fur runs. The Lakeviews full of fighting spirit, came back in the next frame and tied up the score. The score stood this way until the eighth inning when Belleville collected two hits and the winning run. The Petes went back in the ninth to pull the game out of the first but after the fight they all fell to pieces and couldnt' hit a balloon. Post at second base for Belleville was the outstanding helder of the game. He accepted six hard chances without a slip and also came through with a timely hit that accounted for Belleville's first counter Whitehouse and Whitlow did the heavy hitting for the Petes, each getting a pair of hits in four trips to the plate. While Ash got the longest hit of the game when he drove the ball far into the left field. The Petes infield were off colour and none of them did anything out of the ordinary.

SURRENDERS TITLE.

Johnny Dundee, Unable To Make Featherweight Limit of 126 Pounds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—After holding the world's featherweight title for thirteen months, Johnny Dundel, veteran Italian battler, yesterday notified the State Athletic Commission he had decided to relinquish it as he cannot make the 126 pound limit without jeopardizing his fighting ability.

After accepting Dundee's withdrawal and granting his request that it take temporary charge of the crown, the commission announced it would authorize a tournament to determine a new featherweight king.

Kid Kaplan, Meriden Conn., boxer, who has persistently challenged Dundee for a title match and posted forfeit money with the commission, heads a list of contenders which also includes Babe Herman, Benny Valger and Sammy Mandell.

Cards Win Two

ST. LOUIS, August 20—St. Louis took both games of a double header from Philadelphia to-day 3 to 1 and 13 to 10. Excellent pitching by Dickerman supported by bunched hits in the first inning of the first game gave the Cardinals a victory. Philadelphia's only score was a home run by Cy Williams. There were six double plays, two by Bottomley, unassisted. The second game developed into a slugging match in which both teams used three pitchers.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

If you want the final decision on any baseball dispute write Billy Evans, NEA Service, 1200 W. Third street, Cleveland, O.

QUESTIONS

1. First base is occupied. The batsman grounds to the first baseman, who steps on the bag and throws to catch the runner going to second. Is the runner forced or must he be touched with the ball?—L. L. S.

2. Why doesn't the infield rule apply with only first base occupied and less than two out?—G. B. M.

3. Can a balk be made by the pitcher while not standing on the rubber? For example, with a runner on first, the pitcher takes a position about a foot in back of the rubber, starts his windup and then snaps the ball to first, catching the runner napping.—R. H. M.

ANSWERS

1. The moment the first baseman fields the ground ball and touches first base, retiring the batsman, he removes the force. That makes it necessary to touch the runner at second. Mere touching of the bag ahead of the runner does not complete the out.

2. The infield fly rule was made to protect the baserunner and prevent double plays. If a batsman with only first occupied runs out his infield fly hit, there is never a chance to make a double play. If he fails to do so he should suffer a penalty. For that reason the infield rule does not apply with only first occupied and less than two out.

3. It is a balk. The pitcher has no right to start his delivery unless on the rubber in a position to pitch.

DISPUTE ENDED BETHANY'S GAME WITH BREADMEN

East Durham League Champions Forfeited First Playoff When Catcher Quit.

MACKEY'S WON 5-4

Game Was Delayed Half an Hour by Squabble Over Umpires.

What in the first frame had all the earmarks of a massacre of the East Peterborough League champions by the champions of the East Durham loop was turned into a victory for Mackey's over Bethany at Exhibition Park last evening by the score of 5 to 4. The visitors opened strong scoring three runs in the first frame. Mackey's got one back in their half. Bethany increased their counters to four in the fourth and the locals got within hailing distance in their half and won out in the sixth, with one out.

There were thrills galore at the finish. Charlie Staples who had turned in a fine hurling performance up to the fifth became unsteady. Darkness was rapidly overtaking the teams and big Tom Staples behind the bat was finding it difficult to see the spalding. Mackey's, batting in the sixth, were getting the 'breaks" and finally, when the locals put over the run that put them in the lead the Bethany backstop left his position and retired to the bench, refusing to play further in the darkness.

Delayed By Argument.

The game was scheduled to start at 5.30 o'clock but the teams did not get away until thirty minutes later, due to the managers being unable to agree on umpires. Mackey's manager had several days ago, given notice of two choices from which to select one of the two officials to handle the game, Bethany to take similar action. In the meantime, the local representative of the O.B.A.A. appointed A. C. Kay and Ed. LeBarr to officiate, and according to Mackey's end of the argument said nothing to the local club. Mackeys had Bob Ross on hand to start the game on time and the O.B.A.A. appointees also were on the job. Bethany objected to Ross going behind the plate because of his being a member of the C.G.E. team against which Bethany might be pitted later. Manager Mackey was willing to compromise and give Bethany their choice of an umpire at the plate and use Ross on the bases. But the argument continued without the managers solving the problem. Finally Manager Mackey gave up and the game went on with the O.B.A.A. appointees in charge.

As the visiting team, Bethany as it later turned out, got the worst of the deal. Neither team was to blame for the late start and Manager Mackey had nothing to do with the contest being finished in darkness.

Bethany Hits Hard.

Bethany opened the game with three runs. Singles by Sisson, T. Staples, R. Staples and Ryley's triple, and errors by Collins, Hardill and Taylor going for a brace of counters. The third counter came from a passed ball allowing Ryley to score. The visitors appeared dangerous and the fans settle back to view the slaughter.

Collins leading off for Mackey's doubled and stole third, scoring on Dugan's single. The next three went out in a row.

Connors settled down in the second, Johnston, G. Staples and Dawe going out at first on infield grounders.

Mackey's also succumbed to the cunning of Staples without getting a runner to first.

In the third, Sisson popped to Collins, T. Staples was safe when Jobbitt came in and dropped his fly. On R. Staples grounder, Collins threw to Dugan and got Staples. Ryley fanned.

Mackey's failed to do anything with Staples' slants, Connors being retired by R. Staples while Collins and Dugan fanned.

Bethany Opens Again.

The visitors threatened to break loose in the fourth, Price shooting a single through short and C. Staples putting one over second. Johnston struck out. C. Staples shot a hot one at Collins who got Price going into third and Connors took a roller from Dawe to end the rally.

Mackeys put three on in their half but failed to register. The visitors moved back for Hardill and he sent up a fly down third that fell safe. He stole second. Dawe came in and took Prosser's fly. Taylor was deadheaded. The runners made a double steal. Thorndyke lined down first Ryley getting Hardill at the plate. Lundy was thrown out by R. Staples.

After two were down, in the fifth, a pass to R. Staples was converted into another Bethany run. Ryley's double doing the trick. Price was fanned. Taylor damaged his hand in this frame and had to retire. Jobbitt took his job and Clarke went to centre.

Mackey's made the game exciting by putting a pair of counters across. Connors waited for four wide ones and took second on a wild pitch. He stole third and went home on a passed ball. Collins fanned and Dugan was passed. Dugan stole and was hit home by Hardill. Hardill took second and went out trying for third. Prosser flew out to Price.

In the sixth with C. Staples and Johnston disposed of on infield clouts, C. Staples singled to left. Connors made a nice stop of Dawe's drive and retired the runner.

Clarke opened the eventful second half by missing three. Staples dropped the last one and had to throw to first. Jobbitt took his time and drew a walk. He stole second and made third on a passed ball, scoring when Staples threw wild to first after losing the last strike on Thorndyke. Ryley threw badly to second to get Thorndyke the runner making third. Lundy cricketed a roller down to short which Sisson fumbled in the gloom, allowing Thorndyke to score and Lundy to reach first. The Bethany catcher then walked to the bench, refusing to play in the darkness. The usual scene followed and the game was called.

WASHINGTON IS YANKEE THREAT

Huggins Picks Them as the Team to Beat in Closing Stage of Race.

TYGERS WEAKENED

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—"Watch Washington."

This was the warning sounded by Manager Miller Huggins of the world's champion Yankees, as he laid out his plans for battle against the Detroit Tigers who open a three-game series at the Bronx Stadium on Friday.

"The unfortunate injury to Lou Blue which will undoubtedly keep this efficient firstsacker out of the game for a week or more, will certainly handicap the Tigers greatly," continued the little Miller. His loss has already had its effect in the series just completed between the Senators and Ty Cobb's team.

"Furthermore, Cobb's young pitchers who had been showing up so well all season are losing a lot of their effectiveness. In contrast to this condition on the Detroit Club the Senators' twirling staff, led by the wonderful Walter Johnson, appear to be getting stronger as the campaign wanes.

Mogridge Going Good.

"George Mogridge, for example, who has been losing consistently by a run or two, is now turning in victories and I figure that Johnson will be sent to the mound in at least ten more games. He will probably face us twice in our four-game tussle, which starts on August 28.

"We have always been rather successful in hitting Johnson, but in my opinion he is going better now than in several seasons past. Then Griff has Zahniser, Martina and Ogden, all experience boxmen, along with the promising Marberry.

"I really believe it will be the Senators that we will have to beat to win another flag."

Robbie To Rescue.

The Giants have been downed in five straight games out west and had it not been for the sterling pitching of Burleigh Grimes who beat the Pirates on Monday and also Dazzy Vance- Bill McKechnie's lads would be right on the New Yorkers' heels.

From faraway Des Moines in the Western League comes the news that our old friend "Ping" Bodie is knocking 'em over the fences in game after game and that to ancient Pingus all pitchers look the same.

Close pennant races seem to be the fashion. Out on the Pacific Coast, San Francisco, Oakland and Seattle are in a death grapple while in the American Association, St. Paul, Indianapolis and Louisville are running neck and neck.

CENTRAL FLAG AT STAKE WHEN WINNERS CLASH

Kingston Ponies Play Here Saturday in First Game of Big Series.

YESTERDAY'S FIZZLE.

Rain Prevented Central Clash and Petes Had Long Trip For Nothing.

The raining out of the first game of the Central Ontario League playoff between Kingston Ponies and th Petes scheduled for Kingston yesterday was a big disappointment not only to both clubs but to hundreds of fans in Kingston and throughout the district. There is little doubt that the largest crowd that ever saw a game in iKngston would have been in attendance for hundreds were coming from Gananoque Brockville and other points for the battle. As it was scores braved the morning rain in the hope of seeing the big game. Peterboro was represented by a number of fans who made the trip on the morning train and by others who motored to Kingston, to have the long journey for nothing.

Peterboro will as a result of the postponement have the chance of seeing the first game of the series at Riverside Park on Saturday and if the weather conditons are at all favorable, a new attendance record should be set up. Never was there so much interest throughout the district in a baseball game and Lindsay, Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg and Belleville fans will all be along to see the first clash for the Central Ontario League title and the right to enter the play-off for the Ontario Senior Championship. It is up to Peterboro fans to show equal enthusasm and to support the Petes in a style worthy of the record they have set up in running the last ball of the League face.

The game is called for 3 o'clock and will be in charge of Umpires Hallinan and Benson of Toronto and Dell of Oshawa. It should be the most memorable diamond clash of the year.

MONTREAL RUGBY SQUAD UNDER WAY

Light Practices of M.A.A.A. Candidates Started Last Night.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.— First active steps in preparing for the opening of the Inter-provincial Rugby Football Union's fall schedule were taken by the leaders of the Montreal Rugby Football Club last evening when Coach Major Greenwood had a small squad out for a light workout at the M. A. A. A. gridiron. Light drills will be held to-night, and Friday evening, after which there will be a rest until Tuesday when the serious work of the pro-season training camp will be started, equipment will be issued and work of developing a strong contending squad initiated.

Several newcomers to the M. A. A. A., squad were out this evening including Felstein, formerly with the Toronto Argonouts, Gil McKelvey, Kingston, brother of that renowned gridiron warrior "Red" McKelvey, star of the champion Queen's University twelve, Fisher, a former English rugby star, and Anderson last year at outside with McGill University, and Davidson, a recent arrival in the city.

Members of last year's winged wheel team in the Big Four who were on hand for the limbering up were: Paen Bennett, Weir Wright, Bert Ryan, Clary Foran and McDonnell, Frank McGill, president of the club joined the squad and gave a hand in the first instructional work. Work was confined to light passing bouts and punting. Handling the ball cleanly was the big lesson taught by Coach Greenwood last night and his advice in this connection indicated that a safe pair of hands would be one of the main objects to be aimed at by the new mentor of the winged wheelers.

Evans, the youthful half-back who made such a steller showing with the Hamilton Tigers when the Bengals went through to the Big Four title last season will be among the back division candidates.

CLEVELAND LOSE.

Flagstead's All Round Play Featured Red Sox Victory.

BOSTON, August 20. — Boston scored a 5 to 4 victory over Cleveland today. Flagstead was the hero of the game. LEAFS DIVIDED DOUBLE-HEADER

Final Series at Toronto Opened With Tail-End Skeeters.

REYNOLDS WOBBLED

TORONTO, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Toronto opened the final home stand of the season yesterday, breaking even in a double-header with Jersey City. The Leafs took advantage of some weird fielding on the part of the Skeeters, and won the final game 9 to 5.

They had a five-run lead in the second, but Reynolds faltered in the fifth inning, five hits including a home run by Holt with two on base, giving the visitors five runs and the game 6 to 5. Holt and Bader hit homers in the first game, while Sullivan of the Leafs and Holt clouted for the circuit in the second affair. The Leafs fielded brilliantly. The score:

Jersey City	0001500	6	10	2
Toronto	0230000	5	9	0

Zellers and Konnick; Reynolds and Sullivan.

BISONS BEAT BEARS.

BUFFALO, August 21 (Canadian Press). — The Bisons, playing at home yesterday for the first time under their new manager, Billy Webb, defeated the Newark Bears by a score of 7 to 2, Lepard keeping the hits well scattered, while the locals bunched singles off Mohart, five in the eighth inning for three runs. Anderson hit a home run and two singles, in three times to bat. The score:

Newark	0001010	0	2	7
Buffalo	1020001	3x	7	10

Mohart and Dougherty; Lepard and McAvoy.

BLACK HAND IS GIVING ORDERS IN MOTOR TOWN

Fruit Dealer Is Ordered To Leave Town By the Organization.

CLOSING STORES.

Sam Savino Is In Fear of His Life Because of Alleged Threat in 1920.

OSHAWA, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Developments in the case of Sam Savino, local Italian fruit dealer, who has been ordered to leave Oshawa by some mysterious organization believed to be a black hand, revealed the fact that Savino is in fear of his life because of an alleged threat made by a compatriot who was sentenced to a seven year term at Kingston following his conviction on a manslaughter charge at Welland in 1920.

According to Chief Jarvis of Bowmanville, Savino gave the police the information in 1920 which led to the arrest of the compatriot, who was first charged with murder, the crime being committed in Thorold. The murder charge was later reduced to that of manslaughter, and following his sentence, Savino's countryman said, according to Chief Jarvis, in speaking of Savino:

"I will get you when I get out of here." The prisoner was recently released on parol and it is a coincidence that with his release Savino's troubles have begun. Last Saturday, he claims, he was forced to hand over $200 to six Italians who visited his store and it was then that he got orders to leave Oshawa.

To-day Savino is closing up his two local fruit stores.

Edict of French Bishop Forbids Communion to Immodestly Dressed.

PARIS, Aug. 21. — The length of the sleeves of a woman's dress which is suitable wear for the observance of church services has been laid down by the Bishop of Clermont-Ferrand in a notice which he has asked the priest of his diocese to bring before their flocks.

Wearers of dresses wanting in modesty, the circular states — with the explanation that decency forbids low cut necks and sleeves that do not reach below the elbow—should be asked to leave the church, and if they present themselves thus attired at the Holy Communion, the priest should pass them by. Their own priest later should give them "a paternal warning" on the subject.

GYPSY PRIEST IN MOHAMMEDAN RITES

Memorial Services for Members Killed in War at Big Convention.

KONIUVITSA, Bulgaria, August 21. — The gipsy tribes throughout Bulgaria held their annual convention here the other day. To the question: "What is the religion of the gipsies," they replied by holding memorial services for their soldiers fallen during the wars according to the Mohammedan rite, under the ministrations of Dervish Afud Baba, a gipsy priest, who came from Constantinople for the purpose.

There was a swarm of trousered women and girls, dressed in bright colors, and the men wore embroidered woollen clothes made of homespun. Most of the gipsies are tinsmiths, blacksmiths or horse dealers. One of the tribal ceremonies carried out was the taking of the oath of fealty by the numerous apprentices, who kissed their master's hand in token of obedience.

Another feature of the ceremonies was the holding of a tribal feast, which began with a traditional observance. The chief held up a loaf of bread before his person and asked the tribesmen: "Can you see me?" "Yes, a little," the tribesmen responded. "Well, here's hoping that next year the loaf will be so large that you will not be able to see me at all," the chief answered.

The main entertainment after the feast was dancing by the girls and women, each dancing separately, to the beat of tambourines by the men.

MEIGHEN SOUNDS NOTE OF GLOOM

Workmen Banished, Homes Boarded Up and Factories Closed Are Fruits of King's Government.

STRATFORD, Aug. 21. —(Canadian Press).— Workmen banished, homes boarded up, factories closed, stagnation in business and despair in hearts of our artisrians. These are the fruits of policy of Mr King's government," said Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in addressing a crowd of more than 4,000 at a big Conservative picnic in Queen's Park here yesterday. He dealt largely with the record of the King government chief characteristic of which he said, was 'duplicity. He charged that changes in tariff had closed more than 2,000 factories and had banished over 300,000 Canadian to the United States and phophesied that the coming winter would witness hardships untold which the government would be powerless to deal without revoking all its pledges Associated with Mr. Meighen on the platform as speakers were Hon. Hugh Guthrie, of Guelph and Hon. John Smart, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. Representative of practically every riding in the western Ontario Conservative Association were in attendance.

ONLY TWO VOTERS IN ONE PRECINCT

Man and Wife Hold the Balance of Power Between Them.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 21. — (United Press.)— General election will be a familiar affair in the White Bluffs precinct in Grant County, Wash.

Out in the wilds of western Washington, Terry Chambers and his wife Rose are the only two registered voters in the precinct.

This situation was reported by Chambers in a letter to Charles A. Foster, superintendent of elections.

This situation was reported by Chambers in a letter to Charles A. Foster, superintendent of elections.

Under the election laws, a board must consist of an inspector, two judges and one clerk, making it necessary for the voters in White Bluffs to "double up" to comply with the provisions.

They must open the polls at 8 a. m. and maintain them until 8 p.m. according to law—although voting in all probability will be concluded with the breakfast dishes.

The registration officer will receive 5 cents for entering each name on the polls book, and a like amount for certifying them to the secretary of state — a total of 20 cents.

Members of the election board are allowed $3 a day for their work. Officials here would not delve into the law to determine whether the two voters could "double" on the pay for the four officials.

HOME BANK CASE.

Double Liability Claim on Shareholders Now Amounts To $450,000.

TORONTO, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Money received by the liquidators of the Home Bank of Canada in settlement of the double liability claim on the shareholders now amounts to $450,000.

This is fully up to expectations.

Mr. Weldon, speaking for the liquidators of the bank, said that they had delayed presenting the double liability claim as long as possible, but it is nearly a year overdue now, and the pressure of the depositors and creditors makes it imperative that action should be taken.

BOY SCOUT PATRONS FORM ASSOCIATION

Peterborough Should Have Ten or Twelve Troops, Secretary Says.

Preparations for forming a Boy Scout Association in Peterborough were made last night at a meeting called by Mayor J. J. Turner, when interested business men of the city met in the committee room in the civic building. Mayor Turner was chairman.

Among others, the speakers were G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Hartley, and Rev. Father Costello

Mayor Turner remarked that the provincial secretary of the Boy Scout Association believed there should be ten or twelve troops of Boy Scouts in Peterborough instead of only two now in existence.

The officers elected last night were:

President, Mayor Turner.

First vice-president, F. Roy.

Second vice-president, Rev. Father Costello.

Secretary, Mr. Johns.

Representatives to the Provincial Council, Messrs Roper and McLeish

District Commissioner, W. H. Tyrer.

FLIERS GOT AWAY.

Start Made on 825 Mile Leg of Round the World Journey.

RAYKJVIK, Iceland, Aug. 21. — (United Press). — Lieut. Lowell Smith and Eric Nelson, the American air globe trotters got away at 7.10 o'clock this morning and with clear weather favoring them, disappeared into the south-west headed for Fredericksdal, Greenland, 825 miles away. The Americans were accompanied by Lieut Locatelli, the Italian round the world flyer.

A survey of the United States army world flight situation to-day indicates that if there are many more delays the oil fuel shortage of the warships guarding the air expedition's route may become serious. No navy oil tankers are believed near enough to relieve the situation and there is about an average of 60,000 gallons aboard each destroyer, although the cruiser Milwaukie has some surplus.

The cruiser Richmond was able to proceed back to Reykjavik only at a 12 knot speed because of lack of oil. It would take several days for a tanker from Halifax to relieve the shortage. The destroyers must reserve 30,000 gallons each to reach Halifax.

As each day passes now the uncertainty of good flying weather increases. In the meantime the food supplies on the destroyers are getting low and the ships are down to sea stores.

NEWS OF BAILIEBORO.

Trail Rangers Camping at Rice Lake For Two Weeks.

BAILIEBORO,, Aug. 21. — Mr. Wm. Pacy, of Shelbourn, has recently visited friends in South Monaghan.

Messrs. Thos. Allen and Clifford McKay, of Lindsay, visited friends here on Sunday.

The Trail Rangers of the Methodist church, Millbrook, are camping for a couple of weeks at Barnard's Landing, Rice Lake. Messrs. Chas. Garside and F. N. Alcorn are in charge of the boys' camp.

At the evening service at the Baptist church on Sunday last, the Methodist choir were present and rendered several splendid selections during the service.

Mrs. John Jewison has returned to her home in Toronto, after spending a fortnight's vacation with her daughter, Mrs. H. Barnard.

Mrs. Craig and children of Peterborough, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thompson for a short vacation.

FOUND BODY OF LEVI PAYNE

Went Fishing Tuesday Afternoon and Thought To Have Been Seized With a Fainting Spell.

WARSAW, August 21.—Floating in the Indian River about one mile south of Warsaw, the body of Levi Payne, missing since Tuesday afternoon was found this morning, near Mahoney's Landing. The canoe from which he was fishing was found last evening about midnight at Burn's Bridge, about one mile down the river from where the body was first discovered.

In the canoe were two lines, fishing tackle, bait, paddle and the pipe of the missing man. The canoe had run up on shore, believed by searchers to have fastened itself to the bank by its own weight.

Being subject to heart trouble, which frequently caused the deceased to have weak spells, the conclusion arrived at, is that being seized with a fainting spell he toppled into river from his boat.

On Tuesday afternoon, he left the village and went to the home of Mr. George Forsyth. About five o'clock in the afternoon, he set out in a canoe by himself, to try for a fish.

Before leaving, he was cautioned by Mr. Forsyth and when asked "Was he not afraid to venture out alone, in view of his heart trouble," he stated it was alright and that he had no fear.

He had engaged to work for a man on Wednesday and not turning up, the man came to the village, where the late Mr. Payne resided alone. Finding him away from his home, by telephoning it was learned that he had set out in a canoe the day before.

It was not until then, which was about 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening that friends in the village became alarmed. In a few minutes a searching party of 25 was mustered, and they searched until midnight, finding the empty canoe near Burns' Bridge. No further clues were found last night.

This morning, a large searching party set out, searching the river and the woods. County Constable Clements thinking that possibly Mr Payne had started for home and fell from exhaustion, as a result of a heart attack, directed the woods to be thoroughly searched. The finding of the body in the river, later in the forenoon, solved the mystery.

The late Mr. Payne was about 60 years of age and lived in the village alone. He was a widower and had no children.

For many years, he, in partnership with Mr. Thos. Clements, conducted a general store in Warsaw, carrying on business for himself after the partnership was dissolved. For several years he was assessor and tax collector for the township of Dummer. Laterly he had retired, living by himself in the village.

In religion he was a methodist and a member of the Masonic and Orange Orders.

As one of the oldest residents of the village, he was for many years prominent in the life of the community. He was well known and highly respected. Through his business dealings he gained a wide acquaintance and was known as a man of integrity and sterling worth.

The quick response of his fellow citizens to come to his rescue indicated the manner in which he was esteemed by those who knew him.

WILL VISIT IN WEST.

VICTORIA, B.C., August 21 (Canadian Press). — Word was received here yesterday that Premier Mackenzie King would reach Victoria late in September on his speaking tour.

ALDERMAN'S DEFY ISSUED TO COUNCIL

Will Bring Down Charges Against Police Before Caucus.

IN SUPERIOR COURT.

MONTREAL, August 21.—"It is solely in order to protect myself from action in damages that I have refused and continue to refrain from giving publicity to the charges which I possess against the police," Ald. Dubrueil stated at City Hall this morning in again affirming that he would under no circumstances comply with the Council's demand that he produce evidence in support of his request for a Royal Commission of inquiry into Montreal police administration.

However, the alderman stated, he would be willing to compromise to a certain extent. While still refusing to make his declarations public, as asked by Ald. Brodeur, chairman of the Executive Committe he would not be averse to bringing down some of the signed and attested charges and presenting them strictly in confidence before a private caucus of the Council before the next regular meeting to be held some time in September.

The motion demanding a Royal Commission shall be presented to the Council at all events, the representative said. Edward's stated denying a report which appeared in a morning paper to the effect that he would abandon his appeal to the city adinmistration.

However it was explained, should the Council reject his motion, then he was prepared to present motion in Superior Court, signed by fifty reliable citizens, with surety, asking that justice of that tribunal be named to enquire into police conditions This would not be a Royal Commission, however, as first intended but a court investigation, as was the Fortin investigation. For a Royal Commission demand must be made directly through the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council which also names the tribunal.

Mutual Challenge.

Further, Ald. Dubreuil met Ald. Savard's demand for his resignation by issuing a counter-challenge. Ald. Dubreuil said he was willing to resign his aldermanic seat in St. Edward ward, providing Ald. Savard also resigned in St. Denis. Then both would contest St. Edward's to prove whether or not the citizens of that ward, at least, wanted police matters cleared up. Ald Savard this morning returned the compliment, and ofered to fight it out in his own ward.

Ald. Dubreuil stated that he had lined up several aldermen to support his motion when it comes up for discussion next month.

Thus the venue of the whole matter may be transferred from the City Hall to the Court House in the event that the aldermen should fail to support the demand for an investigation, and a judicial inquiry may be invoked in lieu of a Royal Commission to investigate the police charges. An aldermanic contest may also evolve out of the complications resulting from charges made during the bandit trial.

MARS COMING CLOSER.

Silent Planet Will Whirl Past Earth on August 22nd.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Silent Mars will whirl by us on August 22, this is the opinion of Professor Samuel G. Barton, astronomer of the University of Pennsylvania. "I do not thing that Mars will utter a word as he spins by us on the twenty-second even though the red planet will be nearer earth than he has been for hundreds of years on that date smiled Barton when questioned upon the liklelihood of communication with the planet. Nor do I think that any radical advance will be made in the observation of the planet. Conditions equally as good for observation were had in 1900. At best observations of planet are extremely indistinct and astronomers difers in reports of what they see.

Radio Prospects.

Suppose Mars has a sign language when then.

Thats the answer of New York radio broadcasters to the request of Professor David Todd that all radio signalling be stopped for a five minute interval each hour between 11.50 p. m. August 21st and 11.50 p. m., August 23rd. Professor Todd hopes to catch a stray message which the Martians may be sending earthward.

Radio officals here regard the irdea as grotesque, but are willing to experiment if the government desires. They ask meantime what wave length would Mars be broadcasting on—and who knows but that Mars may have a wave length of its own making.

"How in the name of all neutrodynes does anybody expect to tune in on Mars, 34,600,000 miles away? one official asked. "Anybody who has tried to tune in with Detroit, Kansas City or Los Angeles knews just how much chance there is of catching a Martian message."

BUMPER WHEAT CROP.

Manitoba's Yield Is Expected to Pass That of 1915.

WINNIPEG, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Wheat yields of 25 bushels to the acre are reported from the Miami and Manitou districts of Manitoba, where cutting has been started.

Farmers from these districts in Winnipeg yesterday say the yield will surpass that of 1915.

W. F. Callander, chief statistician of the United States Department of Agriculture, who has made a 400-mile tour of Manitoba stated yesterday that Manitoba wheat should average 20 bushels to the acre.

Tuesday night's hail storm did heavy damage in restricted areas.

WAS PETERBORO MAN.

Robert Lee Passed Away Following a Brief Illness in Toronto.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—Robert J. Lee, of 122 Briar Hill Avenue, who died at Wellesley hospital Monday following a brief illness, was laid at rest yesterday afternoon at Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Mr. Lee was born in Peterboro', Ontario, in 1851, and was in business there for a number of years. He went to Parry Sound in 1892 with the Parry Sound Lumber Company, and subsequently moved to Toronto in 1903. For the past twelve years he has been connected with the T. Eaton Company, Limited. While in Peterboro' he was actively connected with the militia, being captain of No. 1 Company of the 57th Battalion. He also took an active part in athletics, being a player of the Peterboro' lacrosse team.

He was a member of the A. F. and A. M., being a past master of the lodge in Parry Sound.

His funeral which took place yesterday afternoon, was largely attended. The pallbearers were Messrs. Phibbs, Linderbury, Kirk, Cornfield, Reid and Stevenson, managers of the T. Eaton Company, Limited. Many beautiful floral tributes bore testimony of the esteem with which the late Mr. Lee was regarded. He is survived by a widow and two sons—Gordon, of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, and Harold, of the Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited. The eldest son, Norman, who was manager of the Bank of Ottawa, Kenora, lost his life in 1916 in an attempt to save the life of a young lady who was drowning.

The deceased was married to Nellie Stutt, of Peterboro', and arrangements had been made to celebrate the forty-ninth anniversary of the wedding on Saturday, the twenty-third of August. While in Peterboro' Mr. Lee was associated with the firm of Lee and Thompson, bookstore.

GERMANS HOLIDAY IN CHEAP PLACES

Big Tax on Tourists Removed by German Government Starts Exodus.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—No sooner had the German government rescinded the order by which German citizens who desire to leave the country on pleasure trips must pay a tax of 500 gold marks, than the tourist bureaus were again overrun with prospective travellers. Denmark, Norway and Sweden are the countries now preferred, while in spring Italy was the mecca of the Germans. Even Finland has developed into a "most favored nation."

Germans who do not travel northward usually select Austria, Czechoslovakia and especially the Tyrol for their holiday. The Tyrol is so crowded with tourists that telegraphic inquiries for accommodations almost invariably bring a negative reply.

The rescinding of the 500-mark clause has had a wholesome effect upon prices in German bathing and summer resorts. The proprietors, now that they see their countrymen hurrying to cheaper countries, have suddenly become very humble, and one sees many advertisements of rooms and lodging in attractive resorts at virtually pre-war prices.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

"THE TOWN SCANDAL" ANOTHER CLEVER COMEDY FEATURE AT THE ROYAL.

When Frederick Arnold Kummer wrote "The Chicken That Came Home to Roost," he must have had it in mind for a motion picture story. It was moulded naturally into a comedy-drama with an unusual punch.

The Universal screen version of the story, now showing at the Royal under the title, "The Town Scandal," offers an entertainment that is humorous and appealing. The sense of humor of the author is sustained in the film play by the director, King Baggot. Gladys Walton has the leading role, that of a small town girl who made good in the chorus of a Broadway musical revue, and plays the part with ease and grace. Her dancing skill is well displayed.

The story is about a Purity League that rules a small town and dictated everything from the policy of the Commercial Club to the rules for pleasure, but which finally was forced to fold its wings by the chorus girl it tried to spurn.

Others in the cast include Edward Hearne, William Welsh, Willian Franey, Edward McWade, Charles Hill Mailes, Anna Hernandez, Virginia Boardman, Ross Gore, Nadine Beresford, Louise Reming Barnes and Margaret Morris.

SPECIAL COMEDY FOR KIDDIES AT ROYAL.

Buddy Messenger, the boy star, in his newest comedy of school day life, entitled "Please, Teacher," will have a special appeal to the children. It will be shown the balance of this week.

CANDY MATINEES AT ROYAL.

A bag of candy will be given to each child attending the matinees Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The programme is arranged with special comedies and novelties to please the children as well as adults.

AT THE CAPITOL.

ZANE GREY STORY FIRST TO BE DONE IN NATURAL COLOURS

"Wanderer of the Wasteland," New Paramount Picture, Due Here To-day

The first motion picture to be done entirely in natural colors is the Zane Grey Paramount production, "Wanderer of the Wasteland," opening at the Capitol, to-day, which was produced in the original locale described in the book, the deserts of Arizona, by Irvin Willat, Jack Holt, Kathlyn Williams, Noah Beery and Billy Dove are featured in the principal roles.

According to Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production of Paramuont, "Wanderer of the Wasteland" is Zane Grey's favorite story and the most popular of all the books he has given to the American public.

"In this picture we have used the famous Technicolor process — the same process which proved such a sensational success in the Biblical prologue of Cecil B. DeMille's superproduction, "The Ten Commandments." To achieve the best results we went to considerable expense and trouble so that the coloring of the picture might be as near perfection as it is possible to attain. A special camera staff organized by the Technicolor Company was sent from Boston. This staff took with it into the desert all of the intricate paraphernalia necessary for the photographing of color pictures, the entire production company spending several weeks in camp, as practically all of the picture was photographed in the desert.

"Not only because of the color photography but also because of the dramatic story, which Zane Grey has written, we expect "Wanderer of the Wasteland" to prove one of the outstanding pictures of the year."

"Wanderer of the Wasteland," which will be shown to-day Friday, and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre, is a story of the great American Sahara, when men braved unbelievable hardships in their hunt for gold a hunt, which brought thousands into the desert—a hunt, from which mere handfuls returned successful; many never did return at all. The mere fact that this Zane Grey, novel sold over a million copies, is evidence enough of the popularity of the story But when you see the picture, done entirely in natural colors at that, you'll say you never saw anything like it before in your life and be telling the truth.

Playing in support of the featured players is an unusually strong cast, which includes, among others James Mason, Richard R. Neill, James Gordon William Carroll and Willard Cooley.

HAROLD LLOYD COMEDY TO MAKE CAPITOL PATRONS LAUGH

Harold Lloyd in "Get out and Get Under" will provide the laughs for Capitol audiences, to-day, Friday and Saturday, along with Zane Grey's story "The Wanderer of the Wasteland," the first film ever photographed entirely in natural colors.

AT THE REGENT.

SET FOR "THE FOOL'S AWAKENING" BUILT IN RECORD TIME BY METRO.

Studio Force Completes Huge Interior In 26 Hours. Other News.

Speed, a malady to which carpenters, painters and plasterers are supposed to be immune, was displayed in large quantities by a force of these men at the Metro studio when they constructed a huge interior setting covering all of one of the large enclosed stages in 26 hours. This work under ordinary good working conditions would extend over a week's time and might last two weeks.

The setting included a library, entrance hall, stairway, den and dining room done in old English for "The Fool's Awakening," the Metro version of William J. Locke's novel, "The Tale of Triona," directed by Harold Shaw which is being shown today, Friday and Saturday at the Regent theatre.

Despite the haste with which the work was done no detail was slighted. The drawing of the plans and making of the blue prints took half a day. That night the mill began turning out the material and at six o'clock the following morning the first nail was driven. Just as many workmen as could find elbow room on the stage were put to work. There were three shifts and at six o'clock the next morning construction painting and papering has been completed.

The dressers and electricians were ready to do their part and in two hours draperies had been hung, carpets laid and furniture put in place. The electricians had placed the overhead side lights and spot lights. At eight o'clock Mr. Shaw and his players took possession.

The adaptation and continuity of "The Fool's Awakening" were done by Tom J. Hopkins. Allan Siegler was photographer and J. J. Hughes art director.

BABY BOY ARRIVES.

Princess Mary Gives Birth to a Buxom Boy at Yorkshire, England.

YORKSHIRE, England, August 21 (Canadian Press). — A buxom boy, her second boy, was born to Princess Mary, daughter of King George and Queen Mary of Britain and wife of Viscount Lascelles.

Goldsborough Hall, the home of the Lascelles, was a scene of great activity during the early morning hours, and at 10.20 a.m. the young ster arrived.

Both the child and Princess Mary according to the attending physicians, are doing well.

SOCIETY PLANS A FLOWER SHOW FOR SEPTEMBER

First Exhibition in Many Years Will Be Held in the Armouries.

CHILDREN'S CLASS.

Twenty-six Classes For All Amateurs—Flowers and Plants.

Mr. R. W. Cormack, president of Horticultural Society, has advised The Examiner that the society will stage a flower show on Thursday and Friday evenings, 18th and 19th September, provided the use of the Armouries can be obtained.

Mr. H. J. Moore and Mr. Marshall of Toronto, who have kindly consented to act as judges for the show, after going around the city judging the annual lawn and garden competition, stated that they could see no reason why Peterborough could not have a flower show equal to any in the Province.

Nearly all municipalities where a horticultural society exists hold an annual flower show.

The decision to hold the show on the above dates was made to enable the school children who secured seeds from the society in the early summer to exhibit their products at the same time. Nearly eight hundred pupils procured seeds from the society, and it is hoped that a great number of them will exhibit.

The buttons in the possession of the children will be used as a pass to the flower show.

In addition to nine classes of children's exhibits, flowers and vegetables, there will be twenty-six classes for all amateurs, including flowers and house plants.

The co-operation of the local florists will also be requested in making displays.

Attractions of various kinds will also be made, amongst which will be a children's parade in fancy costumes representing flowers, fruits and vegetables. Suitable prizes will be given.

The success of the coming show will determine whether the society should include an annual flower show in its list of activities.

DROWNED WHILE FISHING.

J. Z. Gross, of Harrisburg, Pa., Met Death Near North Bay.

NORTH BAY, August 21 (Canadian Press). — The body of J. Z. Gross, a prominent citizen of Harrisburg, Pa., was found in the Big French River near Little Chaudiere Falls on Wednesday afternoon, and landed at Sturgeon Falls last night for shipment to his home city.

Gross was a member of the Solid Comfort Camp, and was fishing from a skiff when he met his death.

Doctors who examined the body stated that death was not due to drowning, but to heart trouble, and expressed the belief that the unusual excitement caused by hooking a big fish while standing up might have brought on a stroke, and the body had fallen overboard.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

Three Drowned When Rowboat Capsized With Crew.

SEVERN FALLS, August 21 (Canadian Press). — While attempting to escape in a rowboat from a burning motor boat near here last night, Percy Beatty, of Severn Bridge, Gerald Garrity, of Waubaushene, and Arthur Seels, of Waubaushene, all between twenty and thirty years of age, were drowned when the craft capsized.

Miss Ethel Fontaine, of Toronto, who was also a passenger in the motor boat, was saved by the heroism of Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, of Severn Falls, who had put out to the rescue.

The three men who lost their lives were employees of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission at Big Chute Power Plant near here. They left Chute after supper to come to Severn Falls to spend the evening, and picked up Miss Fontaine at a cottage on the Severn River, where she was staying.

Everything went well until within a quarter of a mile of their destination, the boat took fire.

The flames, in spite of all their efforts, crept rapidly towards the gasoline tank, and an explosion seemed inevitable.

The cries of the motorboat passengers for help were heard by Mrs. Wilkinson at her home on the east bank of the Severn River. She immediately secured a rowboat and put off to the rescue.

By that time the flames had practically enveloped the motorboat, and the four occupants were compelled to jump and swim for the approaching rowboat.

The struggling quartette as they tried to get into the craft, upset it, and Mrs. Wilkinson herself was thrown into the water.

She is a strong swimmer, however, and managed to grasp Miss Fontaine and get her to the shore alive.

The three men sank and their bodies were found this morning.

It is thought that Beatty, who was a strong swimmer, might have reached shore had he not stopped to help Miss Fontaine and Mrs. Wilkinson.

Miss Fontaine was unconscious when she reached the shore, but was revived by artificial respiration.

It is believed she will recover. Mrs. Wilkinson is quite well after her heroic experience.

PETERBORO'S FIRE LOSS LOW

Comparison Shows That This City Is Lower Than Others Its Size.

FIGURES FOR 1923.

Loss by fire in Peterborough last year amounted to $159,982.19 a per capital loss of $7.38. In the first seven months of this year the per capita fire loss was only $1.16, the total being $25,169.58.

These figures are interesting in view of the statement made last week by President J. J. O'Kelly of Ottawa, president of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters to the effect that the fire fighting apparatus in Peterborough is "hopelessly in adequate".

Compared with the records in other cities these figures show that Peterborough is remarkably low in the loss per head through fire. Penetanguishene, for instance, with a population of 4,037 had a per capita fire losst last year of $85.10, just $78.72 more for evrey man, woman and child than in Peterborough.

In the following tabulation of the fire loss per head for 1923 the population figures are taken from Heaton's Annual with the exception of Peterborough's which were obtained from the city hall to-day.

	Population	Per Capita Loss
Oshawa	11,040	.72
Belleville	12,345	2.41
Peterboro	21,661	7.38
Peterboro Jan. 1st to July. 31 1924		1.16
Brantford	29,440	8.91
Galt	13,216	14.16
Welland	8,654	19.07
Fort William	19,253	20.76
Kingston	21,753	21.30
Midland	7,016	45.50
Oakville	3,298	39.72
Almonte	2,426	60.00
Penetanguishene	4,037	85.10

May Add Equipment.

Aldermen Stocker and McIntyre are at present in Buffalo investigating the merits of a triple combination pumper, which it is proposed to add to the city apparatus.

LOCAL BOY LEADS CHESS TOURNAMENT

Regarded as a Strong Contender For the Championship.

Maurice Fox, a student in the main test department of the Canadian General Electric Co. here, is taking part in a chess tournament between Toronto and Hamilton. The tournament is being held alternately at the two cities and at present Mr. Fox is leading.

According to the latest reports, because of his ability shown in the early stages of the tournament, he is regarded as a strong contendor for the championship.

WAS COMMITTED.

Oshawa Man Charged With Causing Death of a Fellow Employee.

OSHAWA, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Alvin Sarles, arrested on a charge of doing grievous bodily harm to one Burton Clifford, following an investigation by Attorney General, appeared in police court here to-day and was committed for trial Nov. 1. The case arose out of the death of Clifford at Oshawa General Hospital a few hours after Alvin Sarles had placed a hose, carrying 90 to 100 pounds of compressed air against the body of Clifford, causing him to be "blown up" as the deceased termed the nature of his injuries before he died.

FUNERAL FRIDAY.

The funeral of Mrs. E. Chatten will be held on Friday, the 23rd inst., from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. F. G. Found, 610 Bethune St., at 3.30 p.m., to the Little Lake cemetery.

Her husband (J. H. Chatten), predeceased her ten years ago. There remains to mourn her loss three sons and one daughter, Thomas, Henry and William of Twining, Alta., Mrs. F. G. Found, 610 Bethune street, Peterboro; also eleven grandchildren and nine great grand children.

Mrs. E. Chatten was the daughter of Joseph and Bessie Spencley. She was one of a large family, being born in the county of Peterboro, on the same street not a block from where she passed away. She was 79 years old at her death, and saw the place grow from a dense forest to the present city. She also saw the first train coming into the G.T.R. station. The spot then was nothing..but a cedar swamp.

She was always an active worker until a few months before her death. The last 14 weeks of her life she was an invalid, being confined to her bed during her illness, and was cared for night and day, having the best of care, being looked after by her daughter, Mrs. F. G. Found, and when the end came she passed peacefully away. In religion she was a Salvation Army member, of the local corps, for 37 years.

CANADA'S AGRICULTURE.

Dominion Will Soon Be the Food Supplier For the World.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—With Canada lies a solution of a problem of the world's future food supply declared Sir Henry Rew, an authoritiy on the world food problems who is now making a survey of the agricultural conditions in western Canada to the Canadian Press last evening "fundamentally" he said the problems here are essentially same as problems which face farmers in Britain but it requires but few days travel in Canada to bring home the fact that the Dominions problem is really a complex one which varies considerably with transportation facilities.

CHICAGO BOYS NOT VERY SLY

If They Had Shoved Body Well Into Culvert It Would Not Have Been Found.

DEVLISH ACT.

CHICAGO, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Failure to hide sufficiently the body of Robert Franks was the breaking point in the plot of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, according to the States analysis of crime given to-day by Joseph Savage, Assistant States Attorney.

In impassioned denunciations of the accused, Mr. Savage declared that if Leopold had forced the body well into the culvert instead of pushing it with his foot, it would not have been found.

Accused had drawn so fine, he said, that had the father of Franks followed the directions given him in the letter and gone in a cab to the drug store, he would have been sent scurrying to the railroad depot, there to board a train a few minutes later.

"It was a coldly intellectual plan devilish in its debations," said Mr. Savage.

BRINGING OUT NEW ENGLISH SETTLERS

Canada Will Select 3,000 Families Next Year To Settle in the Dominion.

OTTAWA, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Hon. James A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance and Minister of Immigration and Colonisation in London, England, yesterday signed, on behalf of Canada, an agreement with the British Government for the settlement of people from the Mother Country on Canadian land.

The text of the pact was received yesterday afternoon by W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration and Colonisation, and a summary of that agreement indicates a long step forward in the arrangements between Canada and Great Britain for the populating of Canadian land with British people.

By the agreement, the British Government is at liberty to settle on Canadian land 6,000 families, those families to be selected by the Canadian authorities before they leave their home land.

The British Government will supply each famile with about $1,500, this to be given on a 25-year payment basis.

Canada's part in the pact is to select and place these people on land and in helpful, not paternal manner, take care of them until they become properly established in their new homes, which will not be confined to any part or district of Canada, but from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast.

This agreement will become operative on 25th March of next year, when the movement of British settlers under the new plan will commence.

It is expected that 3,000 families will be placed next year and the same nunmber in the succeeding year.

It means in addition to the people themselves, bringing into this country what is virtually capital to the amount of $4,500,000 in each of the two years.

PUBLICITY WON OUT.

Man Claims Car His Sweetheart Won With Ticket He Bought.

SUDBURY, August 21 (Canadian Press). — Publicity won another battle last night. Following the publication of a story yesterday, Arthur Morin, the man who for seven days has been claiming an automobile won in a drawing by his sweetheart, Juliette Leblanc, because he had paid for the ticket, phoned his lawyer that he was ready to talk terms.

The contending parties were hurriedly summoned, and an amicable agreement reached.

Arthur and Juliette split fifty-fifty, each receiving $300.

This has all along been refused by Arthur, who, however, had to pay counsel the fee of 40 per cent., while Juliette, unrepresented, had bided her time to see what effect publicity would have.

The young couple left the lawyers' office together.

MASON OUT ON BAIL.

Father, Mother and Brother Provided $10,000 Bail Needed.

TORONTO, August 21 (Canadian Press). — After a conference in the office of the Provincial Treasurer last night between the Attorney-General, the Provincial Treasurer, and the Deputy Commission of the Provincial Police, I. C. Mason, relative by marriage to Charles Matthews, Jr., former Deputy-Treasurer, was released from custody as a material witness.

His bail was fixed at $10,000.

Bondsmen were his father, his mother, and his brother, who, it was said, pledged property valued to this amount that Mason would appear when he was required as a witness.

A NEW FORTUNE IS PONZI'S PLAN QUITTING JAIL

Will Have to Work Fast, Says Former Financial Wizard, to Pay Debts.

NOT FREE OF COURT

Says No One Has Been Imprisoned for Big Oil Scandals.

(By Harold Matson.)

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Expect new things of Charles Ponzi.

The little Italian, at present enjoying a breathing spell between one prison term and the possibility of another, has no intention of retiring into obscurity—nor does he expect to go behind the bars again.

"I have to make money," he told me when I talked with him in Plymouth county jail just prior to his release. "I have to make a lot of money. A man with debts and a family can't get along on a clerk's salary. And I certainly cannot afford to spend any more time in prison cells."

A plea something of this sort will be made in Ponzi's behalf before the courts that will hear 10 indictments against the man, indictments that could not be satisfied until the federal government had done with him.

Will Pay Debts.

"Let me out and I'll pay my debts," is Ponzi's idea. However, he didn't make it clear that he meant to pay back all the money lost through his get-rich-quick scheme, nor that he hopes to open all the banks that were closed on his account. He does, nevertheless, expect to accomplish some degree of restitution to his victims, those countless small investors, most of whom were fellow Italians, for he asks the question: "How can I get square with the world if I am kept in jail?"

How he expects to accumulate another fortune is his own secret, but he smiles that he hasn't been in jail four years without thinking about something! No doubt the scheme will be within the law. Ponzi has had enough of prison life.

The jailer had said that Ponzi wouldn't talk to a newspaperman. However, he consented to bring Ponzi into the sheriff's office if the prisoner cared to come. Ponzi cared. And Ponzi talked.

His short little body has taken on some 30 or 40 pounds during his confinement, and his brown skin, freshened by the sun (for Ponzi, who has been made a trusty, was allowed to walk the field within the walls), gives him the appearance of a hardy, well-fed man. He went into prison a sick man.

"It's been a sort of sanitarium in effect," Ponzi joined.

"Look out for your watch and chain," an official cautioned us in passing.

Ponzi laughed. It is well to laugh at an official's joke. It is easy to laugh when one's term is nearly up.

"I've been the librarian here," he volunteered. "I have had a great chance to do some reading. Mostly I have been planning for my future—you know, I have to work pretty fast when I get out for I'm no spring chicken.

"And I have been studying my case a lot—watching politics, too, for a change in politics might have an effect on my case. You know, if politics had been a little different in Washington during my trial there might have been a different story. Daugherty wasn't any too popular even then. Somebody had to go to jail."

The man was excitedly interested in anything that pertained to his case, yet he seemed to be casual about his jail experience. It was a matter-of-fact affair that he should have landed in jail. Justice, morals? There was no talk of these. He was merely playing a big game, and the game went wrong—"somebody had to go to jail."

The Oil Scandal.

"I was particularly interested in the oil scandal," he continued. "I read it all—but I haven't read yet about anybody going to jail. Strange, how some people go to jail and some people stay out of jail."

Prison life at Plymouth, close to the spot where the Pilgrims landed, was surprisingly tolerable, Ponzi discovered.

"Of course, it hasn't been fun but it could have been worse."

The man's eyes lit up at mention of his wife.

"Hasn't she been a thoroughbred? Waiting for me, working for my freedom all this time?"

Ponzi laughed at the suggestion that a tidy bit of his ill-got money is waiting for him, cached these five years. He seemed unworried at the possibility that some unforgiving investor might seek a personal brand of revenge when he is finally freed.

"No. My troubles are all in how to make new money—not with the old."

The jailer led his prisoner away, commenting:

"He probably will make money again— while you continue taking notes and while I lock up cells for years to come."

HOPES TO RECOUP LOST MILLIONS

CHARLES PONZI.

FLOCK OF "DEBS" ON WALES' SHIP

Cunard Office Besieged By Parents Anxious to Get Daughters Aboard.

500 NAMES ON LIST

LONDON, Aug. 22. —Fifty-one unchaperoned girls will be aboard the Berengaria when she sails from Southampton with the Prince of Wales Saturday.

Seventy-two other debutantes, accompanied by their parents, will also be aboard, making a record number of marriageable girls to be carried in one trip by the Cunard liner.

This fact alone is sufficient to give an idea of all Europe's mad desire to be fellow travelers with the Prince even though the over-worked clerks in the Cunard office in London solemnly declare they cannot guarantee eager seekers for accommodation so much as a glimpse of England's future king throughout the voyage.

Duchess on Liner

One of the latest purchasers of passage on the Berengaria — for which a thousand dollars has become a gladly paid price—is the Duchess of Oporto, who is journeying to New York "for a brief stay".

Until late last night the West End branch of the Cunard offices was beseiged by parents of wide-eyed debutante daughters, all trying their best to impress the ticket vendors of the absolute necessity of their making the homeward trip aboard the Beregaria. The waiting list now includes more than 500 names.

Going by Boat Train

In pursuance of his democratic programme the Prince has countermanded the orders to travel to Southampton by motor, insisting on going by the boat train from Waterloo station Saturday morning.

Three sections of the boat train are announced, the Prince and his suite of ten being on the first section but to-night the railway officials are planning a fourth section to accommodate the hundreds who are clamoring for a chance to bid the Prince godspeed from the Southampton quay.

AUTO KILLED TWO

Driver at Victoria, B. C., Charged With Manslaughter.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 22.—Charged with responsibility for the deaths of D. C. Ballantyne and A. D. McLachlan, who were run down by an automobile and killed while walking on the highway near here Wednesday night, Dr. E. W. Boak of this city appeared in police court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter and was released on $10,000 bail pending preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

TWO AMERICAN PLANES ARRIVE

Lieutenants Smith and Nelson Made Long Hop of 825 Miles Thursday.

LANDED TOGETHER

HALIFAX, N.S. Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Radio advices here at nine forty-five last night announced the safe arrival at Greenland of the two American world encircling airmen, Lieutenants Smith and Nelson, ending their 825 mile hop from Icelanrd. The Italian flier, Lieutenant Locatelli, was not mentioned. The time of arrival was given as 18.10 presumably Greenwich time, the two machines landing almost together.

United States fliers have negotiated hazardous hops from Iceland to Greenland, arriving at Frederiksdal, their goal, near Cape Farewell. Lieut. Smith landed more than one hour ahead of Lieut. Nelson. No word has been received as to landing of Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator, who left Iceland with the Americans.

Read Admiral Magruder has ordered United States cruisers Richmond and Raleigh and Destroyer Barry to make search east of Cape Farewell Greenland, for Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator who accompanied the United States round the world fliers. Search will be made by planes carried by cruisers for scouting purposes and will be continued indefinitely.

BULGARIANS PRAISED

Soldiers of Bulgarian Army Praised for Construction Work.

DRAGALEVTSI, Bulgaria, Aug. 22.—Soldiers of the Bulgarian army have been used in building a highway up Mount Vitosha. The work includes fountains and shelters along the road. In addressing the men on the opening of the new route General Lazaroff their commander, said:

"Soldiers, you have contributed something of value to your country. By your effort you have enabled your countrymen to enjoy better one of the beauty spots of Bulgaria. On your return to your homes your fellow villagers will hold you in high esteem as workers of peace, although you wear the uniforms of war. Let your labor serve as a precedent in our volunteer army. The work of that army is a labor of construction instead of destruction."

Sugar Advances 45c Per Hundred Pounds In Week

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—Prices of refined sugar took another up swing Thursday of 10 cents per 100 lbs., making a total of 45 cents per 100 lbs. within the past seven days. Price of No. 1 granulated sugar is now $8.35 per 100 lbs.

A WARNING

SCIENTISTS ON WESTERN VISIT ARE IMPRESSED

Came to Canada 40 Years Ago to Teach; Now Here to Learn.

ADVISE EMPLOYERS

Emphasize Human Side of Industry and Proper Treatment of Workers.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 22—(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Does the West do the right thing by the men who harvest its wheat?

This was the question asked by Sir William Ashley of the University of Birmingham, a noted economist who addressed a luncheon tendered to visiting members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at the Agricultural College yesterday.

"If I had to employ harvesters, I would be greatly disturbed by the annual newspaper stories reporting suffering and want on the part of the men who have been working on the farms," Sir William said. "This practice of turning away men and forgetting them, once they have served the farmer's purpose, is a shocking state of affairs. The industrial workmen of the world are organized to oppose this sort of thing, and they are growing into a force which will have to be reckoned with," he warned.

"In her hydro-electric plants, Canada weilds mighty power," declared th economist. "What use is she going to make of it in terms of human lives?

What of Workmen.

"When people get the spirit of true democracy in their bones, they should develop a senes of pride which will not tolerate certain conditions in their community, but when I walk through a typical Canadian manufacturing plant, I ask myself to what extent do the workmen share in your advantage?

"What privileges are you prepared to extend to these men?" Sir William queried.

"See to it that this God-given advantage if mighty power is utilized to the fullest and best advantage so that all may benefit from the gift.

Now Come To Learn.

"When the British Association first came to Canada 40 years ago, it came for the purpose of teaching,' said Major-General Sir David Bruce president." Now we realize that we are here to learn.'

Scientists should play a more active part in public affairs, according to Premier John Bracken, who welcomed the visitors on behalf of the Province. "They are accustomed to dealing with facts and to viewing them with unbiased judgment, and their aid is needed," he said.

Three problems of vital importance of Western Canada, were proferred to the scientists for solution by Premier Brecken .

"Economists must see to it that we may continue to produce wheat profitably 2,000 miles from the sea and 5,000 miles from a market," he said. "Chemists must make good the depletion of prairie soils which occurs each time the wheat crop is moved: and so sociologists goes the task of looking after the temporary force of 30,000 workers brought here for a brief period each year to handle the harvest."

Must Face Facts.

While urging the scientists to participate more fully in every day events, the Premier pointed out that the converse reaction is already taking place. "Westerners are turning themselves into scientists in fighting the depression of recent years," he stated. "They are learning the facts must be faced, and they are facing them honestly."

Laboratories of the Manitoba Agricultural College and the experimental station proved a revelation to the scientists. Botanists and agriculturists made up special parties to work over the properties yesterday afternoon.

The remander of the visitors toured the city in motor cars and they were afterwards entertained at tea at the Royal Alexandra Hotel. The specials trains left last night for Saskatoon, where scientific sessions will be held at the university.

School Girl Escaped Ardent Lover With Gun

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 22.—Shirley Wyatt, pretty 16 year old Mount Brydges school girl lies at her home in a highly nervous state while her lover of but eight weeks is under arrest following a quarrel between the two on Wednesday night when Clayton Nash, 18 years old boy friend, is said to have brandished a .22 calibre rifle saying at the same time: "Now or never" when Miss Wyatt objected to his attentions as they sat in a car on a darkened country road a few miles from the village of Mount Brydges.

Jumping from the car as the rifle was pointed in her direction and according to the girl, was discharged, she made her way to a dense wood. Nash followed in close pursuit but eventually lost track of the girl who reached her home in the village almost on the verge of collapse.

CABINET MEETS AFTER HOLIDAY

Attended State Dinner to Vice-Admiral Field and Staff.

P. C. LARKIN PRESENT

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.— (Canadian Press.)— The capital awoke from the holiday doldrums Thursday. The cabinet held its first council in a fortnight. The first important social function since prorogation took the form of a state dinner attended by all official Ottawa to mark the arrival of Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field and his staff. Hon. P. C. Larkin, High Commissioner in London, arrived on his annual business visit.

The Cabinet occupied itself with the mass of routine business which has accumulated since its last meeting. "We were building bridges all afternoon," said Hon. George P. Graham, who presided in the absence of Premier King. The Prime Minister was occupied with social duties throughout the day.

Appointments To-day ?

Cabinet sits all day Friday. It is expected that by-election campaigns and the Premier's tour of the west will compel the postponement of further councils until well on in the fall. It seems likely, therefore, that the numerous appointments necessary to fill vacancies on the judiciary and elsewhere will have to be made to-day. Many guesses are being made as to who will get these appointments, but nothing definite is known as yet.

Larkin to Attend.

Imperial relations and trade conditions in Europe, as well as immigration will be discussed to-day when Hon. P. C. Larkin attends the Cabinet council. Perhaps the most delicate question to be considered is the exact status of a London Conference proposed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald for this fall, which would define the conditions on which future Imperial Conferences would be held. Canada has accepted on the understanding that this would not be an Imperial Conference proper but a sort of preliminary ways and means committee to discuss the scope of future Imperial Conferences. On this question. Mr. Larkin's advice will undoubtedly be sought.

STYLES OF OLD

Women Have Gone Back to the Thirteenth Century.

LONDON, Aug. 22—Women have gone back to the thirteenth century for their styles, according to W. Hughes Jones, the historian, in a lecture here.

"At least the best dressed women have," he said. "The thirteenth century was remarkable for its simplicity and gracefulness. There was not much money and materials were expensive. Hence they were cut simply and economically; the woman of today has more means but she has learned the secret of good taste and her clothes greatly resemble those of the thirteenth century."

The crinoline skirt, the lecturer declared, would have been impossible in the thirteenth but it was not out of place "in the spacious days of Queen Elizabeth." It was an extravagant style and was evolved in an extravagant period, when people were getting rich and were willing to splurge. The crinoline skirt was a monstrosity but it was in keeping with the vanity of Queen Elizabeth. "She was probably the vainest woman who ever lived," said the lecturer. "She had 800 dresses."

BEREFT FATHER GAZED AT BOYS WITHOUT MALICE

Jacob Franks Seated Opposite Leopold and Loeb for the First Time.

NO ANGER SHOWN

Marshall Closed Argument—"Continuous Chant for Death Penalty."

CHICAGO, August 22. — Thomas Marshall, Assistant State's Attorney, closed the first argument for the State in the case of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks. His last words like his first, when he appeared for the State yesterday, were a demand for the death penalty.

The case for the State has been a continuous chant for the death penalty.

The dingy old courtroom was crowded. More people tried to gain admittance than at any time since the trial started.

Falter at Father's Gaze.

Jacob Franks, the father of the slain child, was there to hear the demand that the murderers be hanged. He was seated face to face with the slayers for the first time.

Always heretofore he had a seat where he did not meet the gaze of Leopold and Loeb. But now he looked right at them, and they dropped their eyes. The father studied the countenances of the slayers with a puzzled look but there was no anger or malice in his eyes—only sorrow.

Young Leopold was nervous — very nervious. Loeb was calmer, but the terrific indictment of the prosecutor had its effect upon him, too He literally wilted. Leopold asked a bailiff for pencil and paper. They were given to him, and during the afternoon he greatly busied himself making notes of what the prosecutor said.

Said Marshall in his concluding sentences:

"Nowhere has so cowardly a crime been found as in the killing of Robt. Franks.

"Nowhere will you find a case more cunningly planned more dastardly, than this case at the bar. And the books are full of murder cases.

Depravity Accentuated.

"I challenge the defense to show in any of these volumes any case which even approaches in atrocity and fiendish depravity the case before this court.

"It remains for the court to fix the punishment of these vile culprits. Death alone is fitting. Any lesser penalty would make a mockery of the law itself."

After Marshall had concluded his argument Joseph P. Savage, another of the State prosecutors, began.

The arguments should be out of the way this week.

Darrow is expected to speak more than a day and the State's attorney will require at least a day to place his argument before Judge John R. Caverly.

Whether Leopold and Loeb are to go to the penitentiary or to die on the gallows may be decided by Judge Caverly next week. If he takes the matter under advisement it is not expected to be for a greater length of time than three or four days.

Mr. Marshall did not spare the defendants in his argument. It was a straightforward demand upon Judge Caverly to pronounce the death penalty, and he presented facts to show the court that nothing but death by hanging would expiate the crime. He reviewed all the major crimes in the history of Chicago to point out that none was so atrocious as the slaying of little Robert Frank.

He exclaimed:

"Whether Richard A. Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., consider themselves supermen or not, whether they lived in dream world and had a different theory of life than most other persons makes no difference to the law. These two defendants committed a brutal and hideous murder and they should hang."

Marshall recalled the crime of David Anderson, the 19 year old lad who killed Policeman Michael Callahan of Chicago, in a holdup not long ago.

Anderson's youth did not save save him from sentence of death, Marshall pointed out. Nineteen though he was Anderson was convicted and sentenced to hang and the Supreme Court sustained the sentence.

"Mr. Marshall, you know that sentence was commuted to life because he was only 19, don't you?" Attorney Benjamin Bachrach interrupted.

"I'm not discussing that phase of it," Marshall retorted. "What other agencies do is beyond us. This is a court."

Responsibility with Court.

The defense offered another suggestion, but Marshall shook it off.

"Anderson was sentenced by the court to the death penalty," he said, "and that sentence was affirmed by

Slain By McCoy

Mrs. Theresa Mors (Moers), for whose murder in Los Angeles, Cal., Norman Selby, "Kid McCoy," is held.

M'COY'S SISTER RETURNED GEMS

Said Brother Gave Them to Her Shortly After Slaying of Mrs. Mors.

ROBBERY MOTIVE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21. — A small fortune in jewels stripped from the body of Mrs. Theresa Mors was turned over to the police Wednesday.

The gems, worth between $6,000 and $20,000 were given to the police by attorneys for Mrs. Fred Thomas, Kid McCoy's sister. They consisted of a platinum wrist watch, studded with diamonds and sapphires and having attached a clasp of many diamonds; a ring with a single black pearl of large size, and a breast ornament in the form of a bird, covered with canary-colored and white diamonds.

Mrs. Thomas, in her first statements in connection with the case six days ago, admitted that McCoy gave her some articles of jewelry when he visited her at 2 a.m. on Aug. 13 and made a halting confession that he had shot Mrs. Mors. But for the last two days her attorneys had denied that any such articles had been given her.

"This is enough to make a complete case against McCoy," said District Attorney Keyes. "It supplies the motive of robbery. All that we now have to clean up are some details."

H. W. Omelveny of Los Angeles, has been retained in behalf of Mrs. Mors's mother, Mrs. Joseph Weinstein, of Arvene, L.I., in the matter of Mrs. Mors's life insurance policities, which aggregate $80,000.

Saw Another Man.

Another complication in the mystery of Mrs. Mors's death was furnished to-day by the story told by Dagmar Dalgren, eighth wife of McCoy, who divorced him in 1920. In recent years she has been a professional dancer, entertainer and actress in amusement places along the Pacific Coast.

Miss Dalgren asserted that last Wednesday at 1 a.m., a "heavy-set man with a straw hat" ran out of the apartment where Mrs. Mors had been living. Miss Dalgreen, who has repeatedly asserted her desire to help McCoy, explained that she had taken up a postion in the street opposite the McCoy-Mors apartment in the Nottingham building, in order to spy on the couple and prove to McCoy that his latest love was not true to him.

"Last Tuesday night, Aug. 12, I saw the Kid and a woman whom I know to have been Mrs. Mors, drive up in an automobile," she said. "I went over and stood in the driveway of the Nottingham. Later I saw the lights go out, and saw 'The Kid' come out of the apartment. Shortly afterwards a heavy-set man went in. Soon there was a bitter dispute, and I heard the woman cry out for aid. Then there was a shot, and the heavy-set man ran out."

Miss Dalgren said she did not tell the police this story before because she thought it would prejudice McCoy's defense founded on his explanation that Mrs. Mors committed suicide.

The police scoffed at her story. They said that when she first came to them and tried to visit McCoy in the city jail, last Friday, her story was that she had been seeking her ex-husband for some weeks to get some money from him.

Mrs. Iva Martin, apartment house neighbor of Mrs. Mors, also said that she saw a heavy-set man leave the Mors apartment a few minutes after a shot was fired and identified this man as Albert A. Mors, divorced husband of the dead woman, heir to her esttae and beneficiary of her life insurance.

CITY COUNCIL WILL WELCOME PREMIER KING

Reception Committee Decides to Honor Visiting Government Leader Next Week.

OUTSIDE POLITICS

Event is Considered Not a Party Interest, But a Civic Affair worth Honoring.

Three members of the Legal and Reception Committee and Mayor Turner last night disposed of a small slate of business, the principal item in which was a consideration of the part the city council will take in the visit on August 28 of Canada's Premier.

Mayor Turner expressed the opinion that the city should be represented in the welcome to Premier Mackenize King. Aside from politics, he said, it is a long time since a premier of Canada came to Peterborough, and civic cognizance should be taken of this occasion. Arrangements will be made for members of the City Council to join in the procession and day's activities.

Alderman Crowe: "Mr. Gordon has done a lot for Peterborough and his efforts should be supported whole heartedly by the city. He can count on us to assist in any way we can to the fullest extent."

Mayor Turner's motion was seconded by Alderman Phelan, and Alderman Maher the only other member of the City Council present, expressed himself as heartily in accord with the plan to honor the Premier.

Alderman Maher remarked that no financial call is being made on the city in connection with the event and any other way in which entertainment of the Premier can be furthered should be fully seized.

Water in Cellar

John Yacko claimed $200 for damage to groceries in his cellar by water that forced its way under the sidewalk. Mr. Yacks claimed he drew the attention of the city engineer's department to the condition before the damage was sustained but no repairs were made.

A report will be received from City Engineer R. H. Parsons.

RESULTS AT RANGES

Western Canada Well Represented Among D.C.R.A. Winners.

CONNAUGHT RANGES, OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Western Canada was conspicuously represented in yesterday's honor list in the shooting there, when the D.C.R.A. silver medal emblematic of the winning of the first stage of the Governor-General's match, went to a Saskatchewan man Private E. Shillingford, of the Assiniboia Rifles, Fleming, Sask., who made 102 points out of a possible 110. This is the second year this medal has gone West. Last year, Pte. B. W. Beaumont, Vancouver, won it with 100 points. This year Beaumont with the same score as last year takes fourth place. A Vancouver tyro, Sgt. H. E. F. Clarke takes second place with 101 and Q.M.S. C. A. Wood, Halifax, with the same score takes third place.

Sgt. Maj. B. Kiddie, of Military District No. 10, Toronto, won the Grand Aggregate for the highest aggregate of points during the week's shooting. While not having made any conspicuous wins. Sgt. Maj. Kiddie led the meet with 465 points by his consistent shooting.

To Toronto goes the honor of having established a record for team honors. The 48th Highlanders' team which came from Toronto, numbering 15 men including three tyros, established the record for the D.R.A. by having its complete team in the second stage of the Governor-General's match to-day. To do this every man had to secure 92 points upwards out of a possible 110 points.

Won High Honour

Capt. Andrew Stuart B.O.A., M.C. Victoria Rifles, Montreal, won Governor General's prize match highest honor in Canadian markmanship here this morning with score of 198 points out of a possible 205. He wins Dominion of Canada Rifle Association gold medal and $200, Major C. W. Gibson Royal Hamilton Regiment, Hamilton, with score of 196 points won second prize of $150 and company quarter master sergeant A. E. Ashe, Canadian Scottish Regiment Victoria, B.C., with 195 points won third prize of $100.

At conclusion of match historic ceremony of chairing winner of governor marksmen carried him around camp and deposited him in front of administration building where Sir Alex. Bertram, president D. R. A. presented prizes

HERRIOT WILL WIN FIGHT FOR RATIFCATION

Swings Into Second Day Of Discussion in the Chamber To-day.

VOTED 320 TO 209.

Discussion on the Lauzanne Treaty Will Follow the Debate.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—(United Press) Premier Herriot with strengthened conviction that he would win his fight for ratification of the pact of London, swung into the second day of his discussion in the Chamber today and responded to many interrelations of the Dawes Reparation accords.

After a dramatic apeal on Thursday, the Chamber voted 320 to 209 against adjournment of the debate which was taken as assuring that Herriot would be able to muster a majority for passage of the motion to ratify yesterday's vote in the Chambers, Foreign Committee for examination.

The propositoin declared that the pact of London modified the Versailles treaty.

When the debate resumed to-day Herriot replied to the communist rleader, M. Cahin, regarding the letter of the Prime Minister MacDonald in which earlier evacuation of the Rhur was urged. Herriot said hre knew of the letter before reaching London but that publication was delayed owing to no papers being issued on Sunday.

He said, the letter purely confirmed the principle of the British opposition to the occupation of the Rhur but that in no way changed the Franco-British accords.

Cachin declared that the move showed the rivalry between the French and capatalists, that the situation was unchanged now. He explained that France would not get reparations before 1925 and that little would remain after expenses of the occupation had been paid.

He criticized England's "Colonial fleet."

Herriot interposed by pointing out the fourteenth new British unit had been scrapped and that the Washington armament conference, the chairman decided to discuss the treaty of Lausanne as soon as the debate on the pact of London had been completed.

The morning newspapers say that the government opposition realizes that yesterday's vote on the adjourn ment motion was an accurate forecast on the vote at the conclusion of debate on the pact of London. This is expressed the Nouvelle, organ of the left said, "Herriot declaration (in the Chamber) is a sledge hammer blow against Poincarism, we are on the right road.

DRUDGE.

Rural woman still is a drudge, mourns a scientist of Smithsonian Institution. She will continue so, to considerable extent until the country is placed on an electrical basis.

Electricity is destined to be the Great Emancipator of human slavery. Coal will be burned at the mines, generating power to be sent over high-tension wires. Or by radio. Possibly some farm boy, impressed by his mother's drudgery, will find the radio way that will be cheap and universal.

VISITING CRUISER.

Mayor of Kitchener Will Pass Through Peterborough On Extended Water Trip.

Kitchener's first magistrate,, Mayor Breithaupt, will shortly pass through Peterborough.

Mr. Leon Fraser, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, received a communication from Mayor Breithaupt, advising him of his intention to visit Peterborough on his cruise through the Trent waters on his trip from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay.

Mayor Breithaupt is a leather manufacturer with a plant at Hastings.

HANDED DOWN.

Lord Linlithgow, whose platform ability is known on Deeside, can talk straight to the working-man, who likes him for it. Once he was heckled by a pitman, who called out: "Yes, that's all very well, but where did you get your bloomin' land from?" "Where I got my bloomn' face from from my father," was the retort of the Marqus, and he and the heckler joined in the laughter of the crowd.

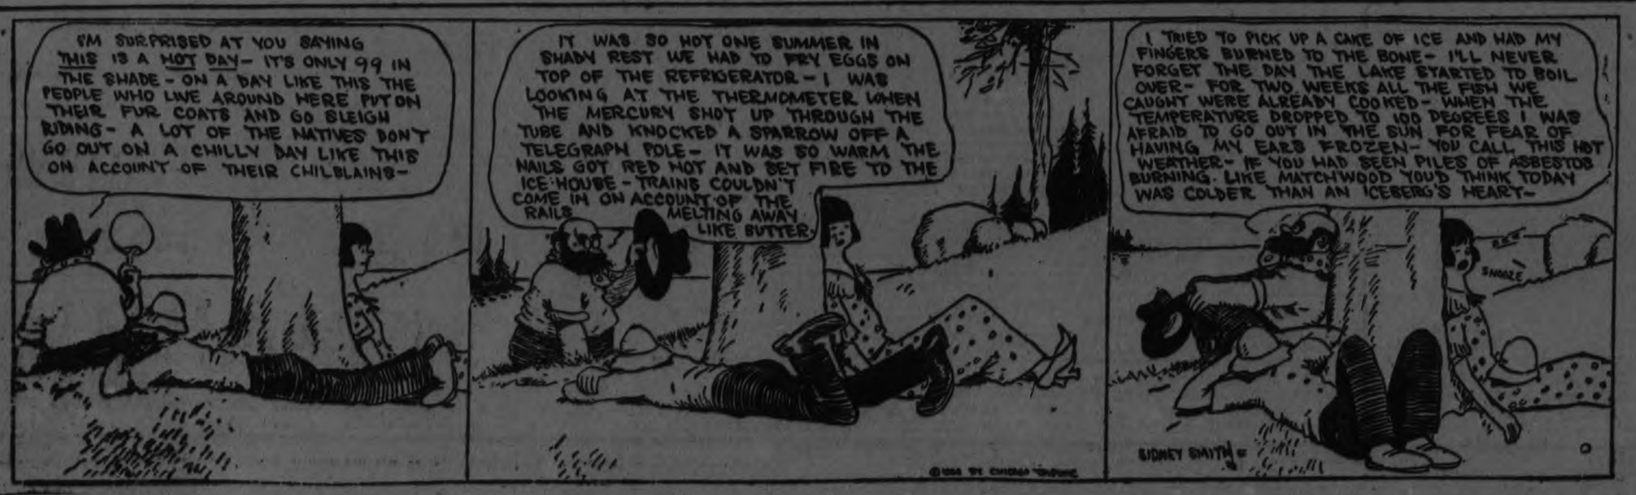
THE GUMPS—HOT DOG!



INMATES DRINK IN THEIR CELLS

Says Trusties Leave Jail to Attend Liquor Parties.

YORK, Aug. 22.—Winston F. Johnson, who said he was a newspaperman of New York and Philadelphia, released today from the York County Jail, where he had been imprisoned on an auto theft charge, gave a sensational story about inside life there.

According to Johnson drinking and gambling were common in the jail. He says it "is generally known that Warden Samuel M. Shue allows certain trusties to visit a poolroom at Pine and Chestnut streets and take part in drinking bouts after regular prisoners are locked up. Just imagine what effect it would have if it became generally known that these men had to be carried back to jail in a drunken condition. The fact is the present warden is afraid of a certain number of men serving time. He is a good fellow but pitifully weak. The warden stood by and saw an innocent man knocked down by a stool-pigeon and no investigation made of the affair."

Johnson intimates that Warden Shue called aside Wise, one of the men who escaped last night, and told him if he did not keep his mouth shut it meant his (Shue's) job. Johnson charges the warden and Night Guard Sterner with being guilty of taking part in the drinking and gambling. He says that every night liquor is received through a back window and that some of the keepers are included in the nightly parties.

Johnson was released from jail today when it was proved he was not connected with the theft of the automobile in which he was riding. His interview follows immediately after the jail delivery of last night, in which four escaped and were recaptured after a few hours' liberty. Only a few days ago the jail had an official whitewashing. Shue says the four took advantage of a new and inexperienced man, not yet familiar with the environments. Shue does not censure Guard Senft, who, he says, violated a rule that there must always be two guards with prisoners being taken from tier to tier.

The County Commissioners promise an investigation of the jail, which recently was commended by Dr. Ellen Potter, of the State Welfare Department.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Increase of $54,308 Is Shown Over Last Week's Total.

Bank clearings for the week ending to-day show a slight increase over last week, the corresponding week a month ago, and the corresponding week a year ago.

This week's clearings reached the high total of $764,719, which is an increase of $54,308 over last week, and an increase of $105,122 over the same week in July.

This is one of the largest collections in a long time. Last week the clearing total given out by the Peterborough Clearing House was $710,411, while for the third week in July the total was $659,597.

For the corresponding week one year ago the total was $717,661.

PROHIBITIONISTS ASK FOR SUPPORT

Support of Women is Sought in Next Coming Election.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 22.—Plans for a nation-wide campaign on behalf of his candidacy for President on the National Prohibition ticket are seriously hampered by a lack of funds, Herman P. Faris of Clinton, Mo., has declared here. "We'll never have to worry about being investigated for having a slush fund" he chuckled, "for we haven't got one. If we had one dollar for every hundred the big parties have, we'd win this election."

Mr. Faris, a 65-year-old banker and Sunday School superintendent, believes in the cause of Prohibition and in the ultimate success of the Prohibition party.

Radio is going to play a prominent part in this year's presidential campaign, Mr. Faris said, and he hopes to utilize its possibilties frequently in his own campaign. By way of firing the openng gun in his battle for a Prohiibtion victory, he radiocast an address from a large station here.

Mr. Faris is at the service of his party and is ready to speak any time, anywhere, he said. The actual plans for his campaign are in charge of Dr. B. E. Prugh, national chairman, at Harrisburg, Pa. Central branch headquarters of the party is in Chicago in charge of John P. Coffin of Johnstown, Fla. Western headquartres in Los Angeles is in charge of John C. Bell vice-chairman of the national committee.

"One thing is certain,' 'Mr. Faris said. "We've been electing the issues for 50 years and other fellows have been electing the officers. It ought to be our turn to elect the officers.

"If we can get only one-half of the good people in both old parties, who are sick and tired of the proven corruption which has besmirched both major parties, to tell Uncle Sam at the ballot box their real hearts' desires, we'll be elected by a tremendous majority.

"If the good women will recognize the fact that it was through our party they gained their suffrage rights and will pay their debt to the only party that ever did faithfully stand for them, we'll be elected without the need of a single 'male-man' vote."

Mr. Fairs asserted the Prohibition ticket would be placed on the official ballots in nearly half of the states, among them Pennsylvania, Illinois and California, and that he thought it would find a place in many more states. "In 1920" he continued, "a great many of our people thought our work was done. But government is only 'one percent law and 99 percent enforcement' and you can't expect the Prohibition laws to be enforced by unsympathetic officials now in office."

Mr. Faris said he was proud of the fact that a woman, Miss Marie C. Brehm of Long Beach, California, is the party's candidate for vice-president. Miss Brehm, he declared, is "the peer of any candidate now in the field, even though she doesn't smoke a pipe upside down or wear a skull cap. When she presides over the senate as its president the world will sit up and take notice."

69 AND 23!

Never Too Old or Too Young For Mr. Cupid

"I think they're foolish, but I wish them happiness," said the mother of Edward Cochran, 23,, of Cincinnati, when she learned her son had married Mrs. Mary Maginnes, 69, of Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. Cochran met her daughter-in-law, who is 17 years her senior, following the wedding ceremony at Detroit. Cochran met his bride while living at one of the hotels in California.

TWO BODIES FOUND

Identified as Members of Rowboat Fatality at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21. — Two bodies of men found on the shore of one of the islands opposite Bouchervilles yesterday were later identified as those of Hector Deslauriers, 18, and A. Cuerrier, 27, both of this city and members of the party of six persons who were drowned in the rowboat fatality of last Sunday.

With the discovery of these bodies there remains only one of the victims of accident not yet found This is Leo Boyer, the body of whose wife was found at Repentigny Sunday. Gerturde Leduc and Berthe Papointe, two other victims were found on Monday and Wednesday respecttively.

the Supreme Court. If we have governors who interfere with the courts that is the executive branch of the government and not the judicial. If the courts do their duty, their whole responsibility is ended.

"Let the judciary assume and accept full responsibility for its acts."

Attorney's Manner.

"When Leopold, Jr, put his views into action and committed murder he went beyond the pale or rightful philosophy and it is for the overt act itself that he is to be punished," declared Mr. Marshall.

"I have shown, Your Honor, that within the law those defendants are responsible, that their beliefs may not be urged at a mitigation of the offence, and that the judgment must be based upon the turpitude of the crime."

Mr. Savage was dramatic as he told of the manner in which the defendants had planned and executed the kidnapping and the murder.

"My God, Judge," he shouted, "you would not strike a dog four times on the head without giving him some chance! Bobby was weak, weighed only 80 lbs, and was 14 years old. But like every man and every other boy he would have fought if he had seen the blows coming.

"So he was struck from behind, four cowardly blows with a carefully taped cold chisel, and then one or the other of these fields dragged him into the back of the automobile and gouged out his life."

MARMORA BOYS WERE RESCUED

Thomas Warren and Ralph Campion Upset from Boat.

STILL SEIZED

MARMORA, August 22. — A very timely rescue from drowning was effected here on Wednesday afternoon. Thomas Warren and Ralph Campion put out on the river in a boat which very soon capsized, causing the immersion of both.

Mr. Gordon Gray, who was fishing near the scene, brought the lads to safety.

Seized a Still.

Provincial Constable McCoy of Bancroft, together with Constable Hugh Gillen ,seized a still on Tuesday, which they discovered on the premises of Hugh Farrell, a farmer, who lives five miles north of Marmora. A man named Robins is said to be implicated in the affair.

The stork has been kept busy in this town recently. Within twenty-four hours the population of Marmora was increased by three, children being born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McCoy, and Mr. and Mrs. Hector Auger.

Rain Prevented Game.

To the keen disappointment of both teams and their supporters, the game between Roseneath and Deloro could not be played at the latter place on Wednesday, the incessant showers interfering.

Hot dogs were served to the dancers at Marble Cliff Pavilion on Wednesday evening. This may have been the reason why the event was such a howling success.

Miss Margaret Gaffney is spending her holiday at Stirling with her friend, Miss Nellie Tulloch.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Callery are on a trip to Windsor.

Mr. Arthur Hart and family started their holidays on Tuesday.

Mr. John McCroden, of Belleville, has accepted a positron with the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co.

Mr. Jas. Wallace, Sr., is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Edward Jones left Deloro on Wednesday for Weyburn, Sask.

Mr. Stanis Bertrand is erecting a new house west of his residence.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Crawford, of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. H. Crawford, of Toronto, and Mrs. Crawford, of Toronto, are guests of Dr. H. Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gray, of Belleville, are visitors at Mr. John Bateman's.

RECEIVES ONE YEAR.

Two Girls Who Accompanied the Accused Were Detained.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 21.—The joy ride in a stolen car taken by Wilfrid Cournyea and two girls to Bridgeburg, Ont., ended before Magistrate Casement in Tweed yesterday.

He was bent on having a good time on $24, his cash on hand, and "made up his mind to take a car" on Saturday night and take his two girl friends to the States. All went well. Picking out a car belonging to a resident of Thomasburg, he got the girls, and went to the home of one of them to get her suitcase.

They started out for their trip and got as far as the boundary when they fell into the hands of the provincial police and were brought back here. Magistrate Casement, after hearing the evidence, sentenced Cournyea to one year in Guelph Reformatory. The girls were allowed their freedom on suspended sentence. They were taken in charge by the Children's Aid Society and will so remain until their term of probation is ended.

CANADIANS RECEIVED

PARIS, Aug. 2.—(Cahadian Press Cable).—President Doumergue yesterday received Senators Raoul Dandurand and H. A. Belcourt of Canada. They were accompanied by Philippe Roy, Canadian Commissioner-General in Paris.

CARGO OF DYNAMITE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 22. — No smoking will be allowed on the freighter Cochrane, when she sails from Sorel to Newfounland to-morrow, as she will be carrying 164 tons of dynamite, to be used in the construction of the Armstrong Whitworth plant at Cornerbrook, Nfld. Difficulty was experienced in signing on a crew. The vessel will carry a red flag at day and a red light at night.

TANLAC MEETS TEST FOR OVER THREE YEARS

"The more I know about Tanlac the more I feel like praising it," says Mrs. Samuel Shelly, 56 Wood street, Toronto, Ont., Canada. "I always take Tanlac when I begin to feel run-down and it has met my health needs for the past three years.

"For years before I learned of Tanlac I was in such an awful run-down condition that at times I would get so weak and nervous I couldn't do my house work. I was down to almost a skeleton and still losing weight all the time. Headaches nearly drove me mad and I had a sickly, sallow complexion.

"Tanlac has increased my weight 14 pounds, and has given me a wonderful appetite.e My nerves are steady, I sleep well and have health and strength that makes life a pleasure."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

JUMPING AT CONCLUSIONS

Three Hundred Years Ago, When Forks Were Introduced, Life Was Rough and Its Romance a Myth.

Sinclair Lewis, author of "Main Street" and "Babbit," has picked on the woods of Northern Saskatchewan for his summer holidaying place this year, but before coming to this part of the world he spent several months in England. While there he told the London Observer that in his opinion a great deal of mischief is done by globe-trotters who try to find out national characteristics on short acquaintances and persist in giving their impressions of places and people on only a few days' knowledge

"The visitor to France, say, spends an evening in a night restaurant in Montmartre and goes home to say that all Frenchmen are immoral. In the same way a new arrival in England shares a railway compartment with some fat profiteer and declares he has met a typical Englishman. There is no typical Englishman, or typical American or typical anything. As a matter of fact, the conventional figure of Uncle Sam is today much more like an Englishman than an American, if you shave off his goatee, and in the same way John Bull minus his whiskers might pass as easily for an American business man as for an English squire. And anyhow that is only appearance, something superficial.

"When an American gets to know Englishmen, he finds at bottom they are very like Americans. I have found in England a number of Englishmen I like tremendously, and a large number of men with whom I cannot get on at all. But also I don't like every American I meet. And Englishmen who have lived for some length of time in the United States and have not just spent a week in New York, tell me that for them also there are Americans they like, and Americans they dislike, just as there are both kinds among their own countrymen. So it is for the Frenchman in Spain, the Russian in Italy, and so one—for everyone who goes to a country where the superficial differences are not insuperable, as they are, for instance, in America between white and negro, though even there it is sometimes found that between the races the differences really are only superficial, too.

"International understanding and amity are being hindered by these people, who spread their half-baked knowledge of other countries. It may seem an exaggeration, but I can assure you that there are Americans who spend one day in London somehow keep out of Regent street, and who go back home to say: 'In England there are only old buildings. No new buildings are ever put up.' And there are Englishmen who land in New York and seem to be disappointed that there are no Red Indians in full warpaint on Broadway.

"So many people, too, seem to form pre-conceived ideas about the countries they visit before they ever start travelling. In fact, my own countrymen are not among the last to blame. They come to England and they expect to be thrilled because there is a conventional idea that if you look at a Cathedral or if you walk through the National Gallery you become more cultured than you were before and therefore are better than you were before. But it's a wet day and they have had a poor luncheon and the cathedral disappoints them, or they are over-tired and the National Gallery bores them because they try to look at all the pictures instead of just at a few. And they go home and say that England and culture are bunk.

"The fact is that the vast majority of people are quite incapable of getting the emotions they are led to expect they will get from travel and they are wrong to seek them."

RIBBED SILKS.

Ribbed silks are very much liked for fall gowns because they may be made so as to trim themselves.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

That Peterborough is to have a flower show this year is a matter for which citizens should thank the Horticultural Society. The training of the young in the culture and love of flowers, the highest and simplest form of Nature's expression of beauty, is something of importance to everyone.

A view of Peterborough from Armour Hill shows a city lost in foliage, and a trip around the streets reveals thousands of flowers of all kinds and shades. From the galaxy of bloom there should be no difficulty in gathering the material for a flower exhibition equal to that of any city in Ontario.

It is now some years since Peterborough had a flower show, and the renewed activity is indicative of a revival of interest in a study that elevates the mind of everyone who engages in it and brightens the city by its results.

President R. W. Cormack of the Horticultural Society has announced nine classes of children's exhibits and twenty-six classes for all amateurs. These should admit nearly every citizen, for the remark made by any visitor to the city is that every house seems to have its quota of flowers, either in window boxes or in a garden. Prizes for children's fancy costumes in which the children will represent flowers, fruits and vegetables will add interest to the event.

Of all the civic enterprises brought to the attention of the citizens in late years there is none that has warranted more sympathy or greater co-operation than the Flower Show. There is still a month in which exhibits may be prepared.

PETERBOROUGH'S FIRE LOSS.

The fact that Peterborough's fire loss for 1923 was only $7.38 per capita when other cities in Ontario with similar populations have losses as high as $21.30, is a matter for civic pride and commendation of the Fire Department. The first seven months of this year makes an even better showing, with a gross loss of $25,169.58, or $1.16 per capita.

Peterborough's Fire Department under any administration has never been found wanting in the call to duty. Latterly, with the laying of stress on fire prevention, Chief Gimblett has bent his energies more and more to education along this line, with good results. Where at first he was met on his tours of inspection with antagonism, he is now welcomed, it being recognized that he is not seeking things of which he can complain, but points that can be improved to add to the safety of the individual and his property.

While adverse criticism has been made on the number of calls answered by the city Fire Department, it being said at the recent convention that a criterion of fire fighting efficiency is the firemen's freedom from alarms, it is noteworthy that in Peterborough the majority of the calls last year were to fire that could not have been prevented by inspections carried out on the present extent in any city. Of the 427 alarms answered by the department, 246 were caused by chimney fires, five by hot ashes and four were incendiary. These are not matters that can be cured or prevented by inspection, the examining of the stovepipes in every one of the 8,000 houses in Peterborough being obviously impracticable. Such outbreaks can only be averted by the citizens themselves, enlightened by the Fire Department.

The cleaning of stove-pipes periodically is a duty devolving upon individual citizens, a duty imposed not only by the necessity for care of their own property, but by the need for preservation of the property of their neighbors.

AN EASY LIFE FOR ALL.

An Englishman visits Henry Ford's plant in Detroit, walks out dazed and says: "If autos can be produced so swiftly and in such great quantities, why can't the world handle all its production the same way, making more than enough for everybody?"

No reason at all why the world couldn't.

In fact, the American part of the world is headed in that direction already.

Ford has become a fetish. By no means is he the only efficient manufacturer. The productive organizations of Standard Oil and U. S. Steel is equally efficient. The main difference is that Ford, by reason of the nature of his product, can concentrate so many of the processes of manufacture under one roof. In most other industries, the processes of production and assembly into completed products are more or less scattered.

Would the world want to Fordize all its commercial and industrial activities, making the system of economics function like a gigantic clock?

Would the results be worth the price? There is a borderline where efficiency becomes monotonous in its sameness.

In salesmanship, for instance, competition may seem like a waste of effort. Certainly, there is much duplication. But competition between rival salesmen makes their work interesting by the elements of sport—the pleasure of striving to obtain what others are after. Selling would be mighty monotonous if the salesman were just an order-taker for a producing organization that completely monopolized its field.

Maybe the world is destined to become Fordized. Maybe the world's wheat requirement will in future generations be estimated scientifically and a definite number of men assigned to grow it. Maybe the number of required safety pins or fountain pens or baby carriages will be calculated, and no one allowed to manufacture these commodities in excess of a definite number, nor lag behind needs.

Such a system would do away with over-production. It would eliminate shortages. It would cut-and-dry prices.

If you want such a world, you can have it. As far as we're concerned, one of the chief charms of life is its uncertainty. Problems are bothersome, even uncomfortable. But solving them makes life interesting.

IT KEEPS YOU MOVING.

Wear shoes that are a bit tight to keep from becoming slovenly. Fraulein Puttkamer makes this suggestion, writing in a Berlin newspaper. She deals with a great psychological truth—even more than that, a psychic law, one of the strange and invisible forces that animate us.

You have, for instance, observed that a person is laziest when he is most comfortable. Note how difficult it is to rout Willie from a soft bed in the morning. An easier job if the mattress is hard.

The most energetic man begins to feel lazy as soon as he, pausing for a rest, sinks into soft cushions.

Comforts and luxuries make people lazy, contented, satisfied with what they have. Discomforts and the pinch of necessity are what make a man hustle.

Comfort and luxury are the goals of most people. When they reach their goal, they usually are ready to quit—just as a hungry man wants to stagnate after a good meal.

There wouldn't be any progress if we had life too soft.

The discomforts of sitting on stones and logs led man to invent upholstering. The labor of walking long distances, along with his sense of curiosity, induced him to tame the horse to carry him—and later invent buggy, train, bicycle, auto and airplane.

The quest for comfort—escape from expenditure of energy—seems to be the common goal. You observe this if you study the advertising pages and ponder the great number of cases where "an easier way" is the incentive to purchase.

The whole system is a colossal joke, for the comforts and luxuries we gain just about balance the discomforts of toiling for them. That is the tendency of humanity at large. There are isolated cases—people born rich or who become rich with ease. But these exceptions seem to be the bait to keep the average person hustling.

We have more cushions than our great-grandparents, figuratively speaking. But life is just as difficult for us as it was for them, though in a different way. Our davenport is more comfortable than grandpa's horsehair settee, but he didn't have the discomfort of hanging to a street car strap on his way to it after work.

THE FARMERS' TOUR.

Auto trips through United States farming districts, such as one which left Windsor, today, under the auspices of the Essex County Development Association, are of wide educational value to those who take part in them.

The Canadian farmer is just about as up-to-date as any in the world in most respects. But, while he holds his own in knowledge and application of farming methods, there is no doubt that he may gain a keen, specialized insight into agricultural conditions peculiar to his own district by learning what he can about the solution of problems that beset his fellow soil-tillers in the United States, which is an older agricultural country than Canada. Often their problems are his.

Farm development methods are basically similar the world over. But at the same time wide differences exist in their application. In his search to find the most economical, most efficient, and less expensive ways of producing crops that will pay for their sowing and bring, in addition, a substantial financial return, the Ontario farmer, whether he lives in Essex or Northern Ontario, must be continually on the lookout. For that reason a tour such as this can't help but be beneficial.

Justus Miller, Essex agricultural representative, is in charge of the arrangements, and is personally heading the agrarian pilgrimage.—Border Cities Star.

"NO MORE LAUGHTER."

The end of laughter is near, if we can believe the statement of Dr. Charles G. Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York University. According to this learned gentleman, laughter is induced by incongruity, inequality and criticism, which will disappear when future generations have listened to the voice of science. Then there will be no need for laughter, he says. The professor is probably right in naming the fundamental reason for it, but his deductions . . . .?

We suspect Dr. Shaw of a generous supply of that sense called humor. We also have slight misgivings that he is, perhaps, trespassing on the hitherto exclusive domain of his famous namesake, G. B. S., who makes incongruous statements in order to enjoy being misunderstood. (Apologies to the inimitable G. B. S.) If the learned professor from New York will consent to repeat his statements more vehemently after each criticism from other quarters, he will, in time, become as famous as his namesake. The more scientific and dignified he is about it, the more enjoyment it will create for others. Then he will be entitled to rest on his laurels and enjoy the mirth and laughter that his efforts have produced.

"No more laughter." The idea is ingenious enough to provoke it; the philosophy explaining it away induces it; the joy of living creates it. As for science, it can never be a formidable foe of laughter. It is itself so incongruous, at times so screamingly funny in the very midst of its undoubted dignity, that it alone guarantees the perpetuation of laughter even from those best fitted to be serious.

Whether life is explained or unexplained, it will continue to have its two sides, which, like the author and the producer, to quote G. B. S., "are co-equal and eternal." Variety may be its spice, but it is in the keen wit thereof, in the innocently funny, the cleverly ludicrous or the harmlessly mirth provoking. When it withholds from us a sense of humor, then indeed we are bankrupt, at least in health and in soul. We may be sure that there are three things that will go on for ever, even if we eliminate wine, women and song. Those three things are Life, Love and Laughter. Dr. Shaw will claim his share.—Kingston Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A THOUGHT

THE MAN WHO COUNTS.

It is not the critic who counts, nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat; who strives valiantly; who errs and may fail again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming, but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who does know the great enthusiasm, the great devotion; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at the best, knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.—Theodore Roosevelt.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—The receipts this morning were only 13 cars, 60 cattle, 53 calves, 474 hogs and 286 sheep and lambs. Most of this morning's business was in butchers cows and small numbers of stockers which were being bunched into loads.

The U.F.O. had a number of baby beeves this morning, which sold well at prices from $6 to $10.50 a cwt. The same firm also sold one choice heavy steer at $8 and a 900-lb. butcher of extra quality at the same money. Any other butchers sold today were common to poor mediums which brought $4 to $5 a cwt. Butchers cows sold steady at $4.50 for good and $3 a cwt. for common. All today's bulls were bologonas, which brough $2.50 and $2.75 a cwt.

Top calves were 13 cents in Buffalo on Wednesday, and the market here closes firm with some tops at 10 cents a pound, and good mediums up to 8½ cents. Common calves are 6 cents.

The few lambs in brought steady prices. One select bunch of ewes sold at 13¾ cents, and the run of others at 13½ cts. Bucks were 11½ a pound.

There is no change in the hog market. Packers are bidding $10.50 a cwt. f.o.b. and do not expect the market to get above this price.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.— Arrivals: 1,377 cattle; 187 calves; 1,018 hogs and 150 sheep and lambs.

Trading on the cattle market opened generally in line with yesterday's close. Good killing steers were selling fully steady but butcher cows appeared a trifle easier.

The hog market continued steady with thick smooths selling from $9.75 to $9.85.

The lamb market declined badly from the first of the week. Good lambs only brought $8.50 to $9.50 with yearlings around $7.00 and sheep from $3.00 to $5.50.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—Trade in cash oats was easier locally with prices down 1-2 a cent per bushel. An easier feeling is reported in the flour market but with no price change as yet for spring wheat grades. Prices however, have declined forty cents a barrel in winter wheat grades. The millfeed market is unchanged. Trade in rolled oats is quiet. Trade on spot for baled hay is steady. Strenght developed in the egg market for fresh seconds which advanced two cents per dozen. There is nothing new in the butter situation. The tone of the cheesre market is steady. Old crop beans are rapidly becoming exhausted and the new crop is expected next week. Prices are $3 a bushel for one-pound pickers.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 21. — Widespread hot weather, highly beneficial for the corn crop, led to active general selling of corn to-day, and brought about a sharp break both in the corn market and in oats. The wheat market, too sympathized. Corn finished 3 1-4 to 4 5-8 net lower. December 1.11 3-8 to 1.11 5-8, with oats 1 58 to 2 1-2c down. The Barn Raising

IN the typical old-time Canadian barn-raising the organized strength of the whole community combined to help a neighbor, and each neighbor's aid was available to all the others and cheerfully returned by them whenever need arose.

Mutual Life Insurance is a modern expression of the spirit of neighborly helpfulness applied to protecting women and children and providing for old age.

Mutual Insurance is prompted by the spirit of mutual helpfulness. All net profits are paid back to the policyholders. Let our agent explain Mutual profit participation. Write to-day for our booklet, "Life Insurance at Cost".

WOMEN VOTERS FOLLOW MEN.

NUREMBERG, Germany, August 22. — German women vote exactly as their menfolks do, is the result of statistical investigations of the last Reichstag's vote in the Nuremberg electoral district.

When 34.9 per cent. of the male constituency voted for the Socialist ticket, the percentage of women casting their vote for that party was 33.8 per cent. If .5 per cent. of men went with the Stresemann party, there were exactly .4 per cent. of females doing the same.

What is a Tube Worth?

YOU wouldn't pay the price of a casing for a tube. Yet many motorists risk a costly casing to save a few cents on the price of a tube. For a poor tube, by causing under-inflation, may easily ruin the casing.

Poor tubes allow air to seep through imperceptibly. Tubes made from one thickness of rubber will always have this fault, because it is impossible to detect flaws in thick rubber.

But Goodyear Tubes are laminated—built up, layer on layer, of pure, tissue-thin rubber, each layer thin enough to be properly inspected for sand or other foreign material. The valve-patch is vulcanized into the tube, not stuck on. The whole is made as near permanent air-tightness as is possible.

So, for the good of your casings, we urge you to buy Goodyear Tubes. They will add to your tire mileage. And as tubes they will give you unusually long and satisfactory service.

WORD PICTURES OF AN ENGLISH OLD TIME CITY

F. M. DelaFosse, Well-Known as Librarian Here, Tells Impressions.

FAMOUS MEN

Admiral Parry, the Painter Gainsborough, Major Andre and Others Lived There.

F. M. DelaFosse, librarian of the Peterborough Public Library, now holidaying in England, sends a most interesting account of the ancient city of Bath and the neighbouring Wells and Glastonbury. In a postscript Mr. DelaFosse draws attention to a book on the Library shelves entitled: "Highways and Byways of Somersetshire", which he recommends as being an interesting and informative treatise on the district.

"It is hard to realize that a bare fortnight ago I was on my way to England, and it seems almost as hard to realize that now I truly am breathing its glorious air, and revisiting once more scenes familiar to my childhood. To a man returning, after so long an absence, many things must necessarily appear strange. The shops seem so small, the restaurants so diminutive, the lanes and streets so narrow and tortuous. The houses seem to run to chimney pots, and present almost a fantastic appearance to a stranger. Winding in and out amongst the valleys and hills one is continually passing through villages where the eye confronts rows upon rows of these erections, standing like silent guardians of the streets they overlook. I have counted as many as six and even eight set in a row along the roof of one house. We see nothing like it in Canada, as our system of central heating does away, to a large extent, with open fireplaces. But one could no more persuade the English people that central heating saves draughts as well as fuel than that an odd morning without the luxury of a cold bath might not altogether endanger one's health. But the English people seem to love draughts, and their fondness for fresh air is carried to a length that to a Canadian or an American would seem extreme. Every window in the room in which I am sitting is wide open, and renders concentration on the task of writing very difficult. It is hard to think cheerfully with cold tremors running down one's spine.

"I am writing in a house from whose window I can see many residences of interest. Only a few doors away is the house where Admiral Perry, the famous Arctic explorer, once lived, and two or three houses removed from it lived Gainsborough, the famous painter. Twenty yards away are the Assembly Rooms, famed in days gone by as the haunt of fashion. There the beaux of the Georgian era strutted, in all the glory of wigs and gay habiliment, and the belles, in wondrous apparel and hideous headgear, simpered and smiled behind their fans. Only six doors' distant from where I am staying once lived Major Andre, whose sad story will be forever linked with that of the American Revolution.

"Wherever one walks in this historic city items of interest present themselves, and the ghosts of past worthies seem to haunt its avenues and crescents. Sir Isaac Pitman, inventor of shorthand, lived in the Royal Crescent hard by, and Beckford, author of Vathek, lived in Lansdowne Crescent, on a lofty eminence overlooking the city.

Beau Nash, once the dictator of fashion when Bath was the Mecca of the beau monde, and its waters were amongst the most renowned in Europe, passed the heyday of his existence here. The house in which he lived is situated in a gloomy by-street close to the theatre.
